It is not very difficult to find reasons why flirts do not marry. Sensible men admire in a woman something besides a pretty face and engaging manners. They love intellect, common sense and heart, qualifications which the flirt does not possess. The true woman allows her affections full play, and is not ashamed of them. She will not lead a man to believe she cares for him when she does no such thing; she will not flirt with him just for the sake of flirting.

She has a truer conception of what is right, and possesses a good deal more common sense. She has derived her education from something else than three-volume novels and the society of empty-pated fops. She can be thoroughly merry, but she knows how to be merry without being idiotic. She may attract less attention in a drawing-room than the flirt does, because she is less noisy and obtrusive; but, for all that, she will get married sooner, and make her husband a better and truer wife.

A true woman does not care for the spooney young man. She dislikes his foppishness, the vapid compliments he pays her, and his effeminacy. He quickly finds this out, and leaves her in peace. Thus, if he ultimately gets married, it is a flirt, and the "happy pair" lead the jolliest cat and dog life imaginable.

Smart Young Men.

At almost every step in life we meet with young men from whom we anticipate wonderful things, but of whom, after careful inquiry, we never hear a word. The effervescence of youth and passion, and the fresh gloss of intellect and imagination, endow them with a false brilliancy, which makes fools of themselves and other people. Like certain chintzes, calicos and ginghams, they show finely on their first newness, but cannot stand the sun and the water, and assume a very sober aspect after washing-day.

Alarmed.

Two travelers having been assigned to the same room in a crowded hotel, one of them, before retiring, knelt down to pray, and confessed a long catalogue of sins. On rising from his knees he saw his fellow traveler, valise in hand, going out of the door, and exclaimed, "What's the matter? What's up?" "Nothing," was the reply, "only I'm not going to risk my baggage with such a scamp as you confess yourself to be."

A Truth.

The world cannot advance much in cultivation till people learn to devote fewer hours in the day, fewer days in the week, fewer weeks in the year, and fewer years in their lives, to the mere art of money getting.

Irritating to Steamer Passengers.

After rolling all night in your berth at sea, to have a steward ask you in the morning if you will have a fresh roll for breakfast.

The best thing to give your enemy is forgiveness; to your opponent, tolerance; to a friend, your heart; to your father, deference; to your mother, conduct that will make her proud of her son; to God, obedience.

Enjoy the blessings of this day if God sends them, and the evils bear patiently and sweetly, for this day only is ours. We are dead to yesterday, and are not born to the morrow.

Josh Billings says that a large policy of life insurance doesn't exactly make a man's corpse smile at his widow, but it helps amazingly to get another fellow to do it for him.

A New York poodle was so rash as to lick the cheek of a lady of improved complexion, and in a few minutes was no more. Young gentlemen will please take notice.

How pleasant is a lovely thing out of season—a rose-bud in Winter, for instance, or a kiss in church when the deacon's eyes are closed in prayer! Stolen apples don't begin with it.

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. New Orleans Sinking.

The N. O. Picayune, says: For some thirty or forty days past the batture in front of the Bazaar Market and Red Stores, has been sinking, until now, just below the red stores, it is seven feet below the ordinary level and the settlement varies from three to seven feet. The length of batture which has thus sunk is about seven hundred and fifty feet, and the width about one hundred and twenty, and there is no telling when it will stop. The city surveyor has made borings to investigate the strata, with a view to the construction of a work that will prevent any further sinking, but has not been able to find any strata sufficiently firm to guarantee the permanence of any work. At a depth of fifty feet nothing more stable was found than sand, with a slight mixture of clay, and just now the Surveyor is in a quandary as to what is best to be done. At intervals in the past the batture in this vicinity has sunk in the same way, but not to such an extent, the greatest sinkage, we believe, heretofore not exceeding five feet. The present sink is not in the water, but inside of the wharves, etc., on the space over which the roads of the Pontchartrain and Chatanooga Railroad Companies pass. These companies have been compelled to fill up as the ground gave way, and will probably have to keep filling up for some time to come.

Energy.

The great difference between men—between the feeble and the powerful—the great and insignificant, is energy, invincible determination—a purpose once fixed upon, and then death or victory. That quality will compass anything that is possible in life, and no talent, no circumstances, no opportunities—will make a man without it,

If you want to keep a dead man, put him in whisky. If you want to kill a live man, put whisky in him.

Adversity is the trial of principle, Without it, a man hardly knows whether he is honest or not.

Painting is getting to be the fashionable lady's accomplishment.

Who Don't Know

That to achieve the greatest desideratum in business "patronage" a person must be liberal in his outlay, by purchasing the best material, employing the best workmen, and seeing that his patrons are attentively and courteously waited on, and in a style compatible with the dignity of the establishment he pretends to manage. Such is the golden rule practiced at EAST'S Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, as is verified by the bon ton seen there daily, who are likewise to be seen at the Opera and all distinguished resorts of the city. x

Nearly all Great Men

Use tobacco in some form, and fine cut is most sought for because of its exquisite flavor. Veteran chewers say that the tobacco which contains the most happy combination of flavors is the "Sunny Side" brand, it being cut from pure Kentucky leaf. •

Philosophy of Marriage.

Unhappy marriage is the quintessence of human bondage. It wounds daily our fondest and sweetest impulses; it stifles and buries our holiest and dearest affections, and writes over the tomb thereof, "No hope." It imbitters its victim with the thought that lost forever to his or her life is the glory of a great love; closed forever to him or her the portal of a happy home, that fountain of freshness and delight, at which the soul must needs drink to gather strength for the heat and burden of the outside battle.

"It's a desp'rt thing," said old Joe Smykers; a desp'rt thing. That 'ere young couple who've been billin' and cooin', and makin' eyes at one another for a month, have now gone to the minister, and got a permit to see if they can't keep it up for a lifetime!"

Marriage is like a silk purse, most agreeable to bear when there is plenty of money in it.

Marriage is like a mouse-trap: Once get into it, and you are caught, without the least prospect of recovering your liberty.

Marriage is like a "rose tree in full bearing." How attractive are its flowers! But the bright leaves fall after a season, and the thorns alone remain.

Marriage, among fools, is like a boiled cals's head without the accompaniment of brains.

Marriage is like a roast leg of mutton on Sunday—served up cold on Monday—ditto with pickles on Tuesday—and hashed up cold on Wednesday.

How Scott Drank Sherry.

Sir Walter Scott was temperate in his habits. Even when playing the host, he would adroitly substitute the appearance for the reality of drinking. The decanter before him might appear to contain Sherry, but Macbeth, his ponderous butler, had filled it with toast water.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

To-night the favorite character vocalist, Charles Vivian, who, after appearing before the public nightly for months in the same line of entertainment, is a greater favorite than ever, will take his benefit. We may state on this occasion it is probable that he may be prevailed upon to sing "Ten Thousand Miles Away." Billy Emerson, Charley Howard, Sheridan and Mack, and all the noble band of sable harmonists who are known as Emerson's Minstrels, will appear in a rich and varied programme. If there is standing room after eight o'clock we shall think the public have gone back on their favorite.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The play of "The Magnolia" is produced in a style which does credit to the management. The scene of the steam boat with upper and lower decks and panorama of the Mississippi river is particularly effective. This play must soon be withdrawn to make way for other attractions. We are informed by the management that engagements have been perfected with two very popular Eastern stars, who will make their appearance next week. To-morrow "The Magnolia" will be played at the matinee and again in the evening.

California Theatre.

Now the election is over, we hope the public of San Francisco will give themselves up to the softening influences of music and the drama, and to the enjoyment of the excellent entertainment provided for them at the California Theatre. Those who omit seeing Mrs. D. P. Bowers in Lady Audly do wrong, as not even in Elizabeth is she afforded an equal opportunity for the display of all her art. 'Lady Audley's Secret" will be played again this evening, and at the matinee to-morrow.

Bella Union Theatre.

Miss Ella Weaner is so firmly established in the public favor that they will never be willing to part with her; Aline Le Favre is the most dashing of actresses and the most popular; Johnny Manning is great in aerial feats; The Reynolds Brothers cannot be equalled in their specialties; J. H. Larkin is very amusing in his acts; Minnie Corbyn and Sister sing pleasing ballads, and the new and original drama of "The Game of Life" is a great sensation.

Theatre Comique.

The fun at this popular place of amusement is never allowed to flag for a moment from the time the curtain rises until it falls, which is not until 12 o'clock. Little Maggie Knight's lightning changes draw thunders of applause every night. The ever-popular Charley Rhoades, who has just returned from China, is under engagement.

Oxford Theatre.

The rush to see the new burlesque of "Ready" continues unabated. Charley Vincent, Amelia Dean, Lizzie Worrell, Lew Parker, Edwin Parks and the strong Oxford company, assist in the reproduction of "Ready."

Woodward's Gardens.

In addition to the thousands of things to be seen in the Museum, Art Gallery, Conservatories and Menagerie attached to this popular resort, the Fiji Cannibals go through their war dances, songs and drill, which they intersperse with hideous yells and gestures, every afternoon. Skating every day.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chailiu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

The Skating Rink.

The fascinating Carrie Moore gives an exhibition every evening at the Occidental Skating Rink, opposite the Mechanics' Fair Pavilion.

Benefit of Charles Vivian.

This very popular character vocalist to whom the public owe so much amusement, will take his benefit this evening. His friends are legion and the house will be crowded.

Victory Perches Upon Our

Banners!—Verily the result of the election reminds one of the success of CASSIN'S XXX WINE GRAPE ROOT BITTERS, in this; that the best is bound to win. Defeated Candidates will use them, as they are sure to raise the depressed spirits.

The California Stock.

Very pleasant entertainments are given by the California Theatre stock company without the assistance of stars. The fact is, the stock are good. Another fact is that the fine old stock ale to be found at the FIGARO SALOON, opposite the stage entrance, where the RED LIGHT burns, is admirable, and is much appreciated by those who step out between the acts and are posted as to the best place to go for a drink. HERMANN keeps the best whisky, brandy and liquors of all kinds, and all who visit the FIGARO SALOON once go there again.

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium.

A Sensation in Hats

The new Fall and Winter styles are fast arriving at "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. One in particular has already been adopted as the fashion. It is a fine low-crowned felt hat, with a curl to the brim, and is called "The Grand Duke." Those who wish to be in the fashion must go to "THE" Hat Store, long famed for having the latest styles and for its moderate prices. x

THE SOUTH AFRICAN DIAMOND FIELDS.

Large Settlement at Du Tait's Pan—Large Diamonds and Plenty of them—A Pennsylvanian Finds One Worth $75,000—Americans in the Mines.

(Special Correspondence of the N. Y. World.)

DU TAIT PAN, SOUTH AFRICAN DIAMOND FIELDS, June 15th.—Du Tait's Pan, situated twenty miles south of Pniel, is turning out to be the largest and richest camp in the diamond district of South Africa. At Klip Drift and Pniel the Postmasters have a list of 7,200 names of persons who have requested that their letters should be sent to Du Tait's. These letters represent at least 15,000 white persons and 5,000 colored, making a population of 20,000 men, women and children working at Du Tait' Pan and adjoining farms, De Been's and Bulfontien. Diamonds are being turned out every day of from 1 1 16 to 20 carats in weight, and once a week one of over 50 and up to 100 carats in weight is turned out. Last Friday three diamonds, each weighing over 20 carats, were turned out at De Been's from three adjoining claims.

A NEST OF DIAMONDS.

A man named Neniemer has taken out forty diamonds, weighing 150 carats, from his claim. The hole that he has worked out is only about six feet wide and fifteen feet long and an average of ten feet deep, finding diamonds all the way down, the largest a twenty-three carat gem. Rowstorne, my last year's partner at Pniel, purchased the adjoining claim for £110, and turned out an eight carat gem the next day. I have started three companies working at Bulfontien and Du Tait's Pan, and last week they found nine diamonds. Two of the parties I have started walked up from Cape Town—600 miles. They have found two diamonds so far. Two other Americans, who have the adjoining claims, have taken out an eight and seven and a quarter carat diamond in two weeks; being defective, they were worth only £100 ($500), but that will do for a month's work, and only one-tenth of the claim worked out.

A 56 1-8 CARAT STONE WORTH $75, 000.

America beat them all last week. Mr. J. B. Hopkins, from Lockport, Pa., came to South Africa two months ago, and last Monday, the wind blowing so hard, causing thick clouds of dust so that no one could remain in their claims. Hopkins meandered out from the camp and over the plain, and observing some garnets shining on the ground about a mile and a half from camp, he dropped on his knee and elbow, and picking them up commenced to scrape for more, when a bright point came to view. Scraping under this out popped a magnificent 55½ carat diamond, octahedron, flawless and speckless, of that peculiar straw color that is so fashionable in England, and worth in the United States at least $75,000. When it made its appearance Hopkins was paralyzed for a moment, and the diamond could have been taken from him without his having the power to prevent it. H. and I are partners now, and on the 4th of September we leave for America, via Cape Town and England, with over $100,000 worth of beautiful rough diamonds of all colors, shapes and sizes. Stopping at Paris, we shall have a magnificent casket made in which to show the diamonds off to the greatest advantage. Besides this, we are having about twenty fine pictures painted of scenes and places at the South African diamond fields.

AMERICANS ON THE FIELD.

There are about twenty Americans on the field at present; their Post Office is Klip Drift, South African Diamond Field, the Postmaster of which place is generally directed where to send their letters in case they are not at Klip Drift. The names that I can remember are as follows: Isaac Sonnenburg, who has a store at Jacobsdal and Du Tait's, and who, bye the bye, has invited all Americans on the fields to his residence on the Fourth of July to have a gay and festive time, including a square meal and champagne. J. H. Riley, Washington correspondent of the Alta California, has just left for home, being one of the partners in the company who found the eight and seven and a half carat diamonds. He also obtained the appointment of Consul General for the Orange Free State of South Africa, at Washington city. The others are Dr. Blake and wife, Wm. C. Mills, F. B. Rickers, J. B. Hopkins, J. L. Babe, C. C. Campbell, who has just brought me in a five-eight carat diamond, just found; Mr. Lindley, Charles Timmis, Major Bedee, Mr. Smith, Mr. King, Wm. Burns, Mr. Walker, Mr. Parrish, Mr. Marshall, Dr. Winn, Mr. Raymond, Mr. Sinclair, Mr. Baker—the three latter are near here with a steam engine and a sugar dyer, to be used in diamond sifting. As wood is exceedingly scarce and dear ($20 a cord) they will not do much with their engine, I am afraid.

FARMS—WELLS—PROSPECTS.

The farms have all been opened at 10s. 6d. a claim per month for mining; the Orange Free State Government takes 5s. of this tax and the proprietors of the farms the balance. Wells are being sunk at different places throughout the camp, but have not struck water. In the "Pan" water was struck, but it was very salty. The dam is getting very low, and water is now being hauled from a fountain five miles off. I am pushing my water-pipe scheme, and will soon be able to supply the miners with water to mine with. These mines will most undoubtedly last for years, and there is working room for at least 100,000 people. It is becoming the general impression among geologists who are here that this whole plain, 200 miles along by 100 in width, is the true matrix of the diamond.

THE TOWN OF DU TAIT'S PAN.

A town has been laid out at Du Tait's Pan, and around the public or market-square numerous wooden and iron stores, hotels, billiards and whisky saloons and bowling alleys are being built. Saturday afternoon is devoted to auctions, of which there is half a dozen going at once. Everything from a needle to a Yankee baby (or cradle) can be purchased at the places at very low prices. Provisions are cheap, and are auctioned off every morning by the market master in the square. California long handled shovels are in demand, and can't be obtained; they would sell readily at from $10 to $15 each. There is a colonial duty on them; I do not know the amount, but I think 11 per cent. The weather is splendid, rather cold at nights and morn, but mild at noon. More anon.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

FOUR 100-YEAR OLDS.

How People Live Who Attain That Ripe Old Age.

A correspondent of the New York World gives the following synopsis of a paper on "Centenarian Longevity," read by Sir Duncan Gibb, Bart., of London, at the Forty first Annual Meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science at Edinburgh:

His observations had reference to the physical condition of centenarians which helped to show how they were enabled to reach such a great age; and were derived from a comparison in four genuine examples he had himself seen. These he hoped to complete to six in a few days by a visit to two others near by. Of the four, two were males, each 103 years of age; and two females, aged 101 and 102; the last of the four was still alive. Regarding their age there was no doubt, for he had been as careful on that point as any believer in the nonsensical assertion of Sir George Cornwell Lewis, that no one ever reached a hundred years. The author found in all four the functions of breathing and circulation performed with complete and perfect integrity, there being an absence even of those changes usually seen as the result of ordinary old age. The chest was well formed and of fairly good capacity; the cartilages of the ribs were not ossified; the voice was good, clear, sonorous, and powerful, though a little cracked and tremulous in two; its power depending upon the capacity of the chest and integrity of the lungs. The heart—the organ of circulation—was quite healthy, and free from the chief sources of trouble in old persons, namely, fat or its compounds. This circumstance, although it did not prevent moderate calcification of the blood-vessels, yet was a conservator of all the tissues of the body, and especially prevented the occurrence of those changes which tend to shorten life. There was an absence of the athermatous changes commonly observed in old people. This explained the appearance of the countenance in all, and imparted a sort of silvery expression with apparently great toughness of the skin, which the author deemed an essential peculiarity in persons over ninety. All the special senses were unimpaired except hearing. The eyes were clear in all, the sight excellent, all could read ordinary type without spectacles; there was no arc or ring round the clear part of the eye as observed in most people. The sense of smell was good, none smoked, used snuff, nor chewed tobacco. The hearing was somewhat impaired in three; in one of the males it was so acute that he could hear the slightest sound. The mental faculties were active in all, the memory good. The general health was capital in all, appetite and digestion good, the latter indeed uncommonly strong; all possessed the good sound teeth they had masticated with when young. From this it was readily understood their digestive powers were capital. Taking, then, the condition of mind and body presented by the four undoubted centenarians, it may be said that in all there was an absence of those changes usually observed in persons approaching the allotted period of three score and ten. These changes have reference chiefly to the condition of the blood-vessels and other tissues, which are so seldom found absent. Suffice it to say, that complete composure throughout life has had much to do with the condition of body permitting the attainment of such great longevity; there was no hereditary condition also to interfere with nature's laws under such circumstances. Climate does not seem to interfere with longevity, for centenarians are said to be numerous in Russia. To reach that age, not only must the constitution be naturally a good and healthy one, but all the great functions of life must be performed without any impediment; If the special senses are coordinately good, they assist in keeping up the condition favorable to longevity. But there is one change antagonistic to extreme longevity, and it is the most important one—namely the predominance of the athermatous element which leads to those changes, in the blood-vessels especially, which close at the natural period. Simplicity of regimen, and avoidance of those elements of food which, in their assimilation, help to bring on those changes, may ward it off altogether, although the author was not able to make out whether the centenarians he spoke of had been in any way particular on this point. In conclusion, he said he believed all centenarians appear, and were thankful when it pleased God to remove them from the world.

There is Nothing

Which attracts public attention more than a genteel gait in either sex, to acquire which it is necessary that children's shoes should be made to fit well, which may be accomplished by going to KAST'S Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, where our scions of respectability are daily to be seen emerging with their purchases. x

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table.

"TOO DEEP FOR THAT."

"Yes," said Farmer Brown,
Bringing his hard fist down
On the old oak table:
"They say that men can talk,
From Paris to New York,
Through the sunken cable.

"'Tis perfectly absurd,
For to hear a single word
No man is able,
And it's clear enough to me
That this wide-spread mystery
Is a foolish fable.

"The news we get from Rome
Is all made up at home,
'Tis my conviction;
And that, you see, will account
For the terrible amount
Of contradiction.

"Yes," said Farmer Brown,
Bringing his hard fist down
On the old oak table;
"My wife and I have tried
The experiment; we tied
A good stout bit of cable.

"To the fence just over there,
And the rocker of this chair;
And we couldn't do it.
Though we screamed ourselves as hoarse
As three toads; but of course
Not one word went through it.

"Don't talk to me, I pray,
Of fresh news every day
Through sunken cables,
Sea yarns are always tough,
And I have heard enough
Of such old fables!"

BEYOND.

I said, "The world is so dark, so dark,
There is never a gleam for me;
The sun is gone out of my life and love."
And I cried, "Ah, woe is me!
Must ever my lot on life's shady side be,
And no warmth from love's sunlight e'er fall upon me?"

I made my moan with an aching heart,
Looking down to the depths of woe,
And the shadows gathered and held me close,
Wherever my feet would go,
Till I cried in despair, and a voice made reply:
"Look up from this earth to the beam in the sky."

I looked; and, behold! a tiny beam
Of sunshine, golden and bright,
Shone out of the clouds with a tender grace,
Like a gleam of heavenly light;
And it fell on my heart, and the gloom passed away,
Like the shadows of light from the opening day.

While I gazed with ever fresh delight,
Lo! it spread the heavens o'er,
Filling my soul with its radiance bright,
And I sang, "I shall sorrow no more;
For whatever my lot, I can bear it, while I
Can look up from this earth to the beam in the sky."

A Monstrous Woman.

At the forty-first annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, recently held in Edinburgh, Sir Duncan Gibb contributed "A note on the Fat Woman now Exhibiting in London." As a rule, he said, enormously fat women were rare compared with men, Caroline Heenan, now exhibiting in London, is 22 years old, and weighs 40 stone or 560 lbs.; she is 7 feet around the body, 3 feet 6 inches across the shoulders, and 26 inches around the arm. Differing from most fat people, though the limbs are very large, they are not exclusively composed of fat, a large proportion being due to muscular developement, which is confirmed by her history and actual inspection. The chest and abdomen are of course enormous, but not from simple obesity. Her growth and enlargement have been progressive from infancy, and withal she has been able to sustain great muscular exercise that would have fatigued ordinary persons, which is opposed to the view of pure adipose enlargement. At 9 months she weighed seventy pounds, at 9 years she was eleven stone, and at 14 years twenty-four stone. She is handsome and pleasing, face not fat or greasy, is highly intelligent, and not in any way drowsy. She will in all probability progressively increase as she gets older, and may become the largest and heaviest female who has yet been seen.

From the Ball-Room to the Grave

[From the Memphis Avalanche.]

From a gentleman who arrived in this city last evening, an Avalanche representative was informed of the particulars of the suicide of Miss Ella Daly, daughter of Colonel Fred Daly, of Torrent's Station, Mississippi. The young lady was but seventeen years old, and has just graduated from the Grenada High School. Only a few evenings since a ball was given by her parents in honor of her debut in society. It was remarked by all that she was the gayest of the gay, and seemed to enter thoroughly into the enjoyment of the occasion. Night before last she retired at her usual hour, seemingly in the best of spirits. The next morning, when, not appearing at breakfast, her mother went up to her bedchamber, she was horrified upon discovering that her daughter had committed suicide by taking a quantity of laudanum. A short note addressed to her mother was found upon the bureau, stating that tired of life she had chosen this way to end her existence. No cause beyond this was assigned for the rash act, and none is known. The affair has cast a deep gloom over the entire community, in which she was well known and highly respected.

Throw Out Your Chest!

A man should stand up like a man, throw out his chest and throw his shoulders back, thus giving room for the free action of the lungs. The Champion and Pivot-action Braces sold by O. H. Burr, sole agent for the Pacific Coast, 618 Market street, will be found to afford efficient aid in accomplishing this. They are superior to all others, and cost no more.

Beautiful is the finish developed by the use of DICKEY'S celebrated CREME DE LIS, a pure transparent complexion being imparted. No poison enters its composition.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

The Industrial Exhibition.

On the way home after visiting the Fair at the Pavilion, many will stop in to rest at the famous Bivalve Oyster and Chop House, 628 Market street, near the corner of Kearny street, where they can find fresh Eastern transplanted oysters served up in every style. This house is noted for having the finest private rooms upstairs of any in the city. Large rooms en suite for supper and wedding parties. Here can be found the finest wines, including Roederer, Krug, Private Cuvee, and all the best brands. The Bivalve is open nearly all night. This is the place to get your oysters after the Fair.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

COSMOPOLITAN HOTEL.

CHANGE OF PROPRIETORSHIP
C. H. PEARSON,
LATE OF THE RUSS HOUSE,
HAVING BOUGHT THE INTEREST of Messrs. Tubbs & Patten, of the Cosmopolitan Hotel, has secured a lease for a term of years of this well-known Hotel. All previous reputation assured is being kept in first-class style, while in order to keep pace with the times he intends to make many important reductions in the scale of charges. His intention is to make it a family and business house, while its close connection with the traveling public warrants him in expecting a large amount of country, Pacific Coast and Eastern patronage. The prices range from two to three dollars a day for ordinary accommodation. Board by the week or month by contract. The table will be kept on the usual liberal scale, and many improvements introduced. The spacious reading room is the finest of any kind in the city, while the furniture and fittings generally are superior to those of any hotel in San Francisco. The house will be thoroughly overhauled. MR. PEARSON assumed proprietorship August 1st. The Elevator attached to the house is used as usual

A California Circus.

A Denver correspondent describes a visit made there to Lee's Circus; now traveling Eastward somewhere in Western Missiouri under the title of the "Atlantic and Pacific Circus," in the following glowing terms. The female acrobats spoken of are the Romelli Sisters, formerly performing at Maguire's Opera House. Polly Lee is a genine California girl, having been trained and brought up to the business from early childhood by her father, and we believe born in this State. Almost everyone in California knows the Lee Family as circus performers.

"Saturday night, for a "lark" we all went to the circus. It was a California circus, in inception and developement, and like most things belonging to that great country, it is stupendous. I am sure I never saw such magnificent performances, equestrian and acrobatic, and I have always had a Dickensy weakness for the ring—for the sawdust, and the tinsel, and the hoops, and the hurdles—for the piebald horses, and the riders, so bold and dashing, yet so serenely grave—and the clown with his ancient jokes, and the ring master, with his eternal tramp, and his whip, of infinite crackiness. In London, I sought Astley's before Covent Garden.

"By far the most accomplished performers that night were women, in especial two blondes, who did the most daring and astonishing things on the trapeze, and on the tapis, as acrobats, and, oh heavens! as tumblers! It was something to see that women could be so courageous, so skillful, and so strong—could attain such steadiness of nerve and firmness of muscle, and still retain, with all their tremendous physical exertions, the beauty and grace of their forms and all the fullness and soft curves of youth! I had unmixed delight in the wonderful riding, skill, and daring, quiet confidence and matchless physical strength of a young California girl called Polly Lee. She managed with the utmost ease and grace, four horses, having four younger brothers and sisters swarming all over her. She supports, in more ways than one, the whole family.

"But the sight of sights was the crowd of spectators—between two and three thousand people, of all classes and races—rougher, freer, noisier than any pleasure-seeing crowd I had ever before gazed upon, yet good-humored and merry, and sufficiently orderly for jollity. When, in the early part of the evening, there came up a sudden thunder shower, and the rain beating in on the upper tier of benches drove hundreds down to the circle just outside the ring, though there was a wild scene for a time, and some confusion, there was no attrife, no accident of any kind. After the performance the fun was most uproarious over the drawing of prizes—fifty in number, almost worthless. I held all the evening a delusive bit of paper in my hand, received at the door, and representing alternately, to my fond fancy a valuable watch and 'a fine calf.' But my star was not in the ascendant in this strange sky. The watch went ticking off in the pocket of a modest young miner, who made good time out of the ring before a whirlwind of yells. The calf alone remained. It was veal or woe for me. Some ten minutes of mingled hope and fear, and I saw a Denverite lead the prize off in triumph, 'amid the shouting multitude.' I don't believe that lottery was managed fairly."

A NATIONAL THEATRE.

The establishment of a National Theatre in England is being seriously agitated by men of wealth and taste who view with grief the decadence of the drama. The National Theatre being supported by wealthy men and a subsidy from the Government, would be independent of the support of the general public, and the management would not be forced to give the people what suited them, but would present entertainments which would elevate their taste and which they would in time learn to appreciate. It would be the ambition of all actors to appear at the National Theatre and submit to the verdict of the critical audience assembled there. Every actor of sterling merit would be secured at the National Theatre, dramatic literature would be encouraged, and the palmy days of the Drama be revived. Not long ago we jestingly proposed that the Supervisors of San Francisco should establish Italian Opera on a firm basis in this city by granting a subsidy for that purpose, as is done in some cities in Europe; but this would be going a little farther, perhaps, than Tim McCarty and the other City Fathers would care about. The scheme of a National Theatre for England seems a good one; but it is only fair, while cordially sympathising with those who are doing their best to bring it about, that we should give some of the objections to it as stated by an expert in theatrical management.

At the last anniversary dinner of the Royal General Theatrical Fund, Mr. Buckstone, in responding to the toast of the evening, spoke about the complaints sometimes made about the decline of the drama, and said that the remedy generally suggested was a National Theatre, with a subsidy from government, and managed by two or three or more fault-finding or, disappointed authors. I can imagine (he said) such a theatre—I can imagine the daily confusion in such an establishment; the orders issued and countermanded, the things to be done which could not be done, with the many advisers and meddlers from among those who have interested themselves in procuring the required subsidy, the numerous recommendations by such parties of various performers, male and female—particularly female; in short, what with advisers and danglers it could only be a theatre with a crowd of amateur managers, while the consequent disasters in such an imaginary dramatic paradise would require to be described by the famous graphic writer of "The Battle of Dorking." Mr. Buckstone added that melancholy as the state of the drama was said to be at this moment, he recently counted twenty-four theatres open in London, and all apparently flourishing.

It is quite true that there are theatres enough open in London and that they are well patronized, the only question is whether by the establishment of a National Theatre, the character of the entertainment given at a majority of these theatres would not be raised, whether the public would not by its means be educated up to enjoy better acting and better plays, and the whole tone of the drama be elevated. The National Theatre need not be, would not probably be, in the hands of amateur managers, but would form a haven of rest for some weatherbeaten bankrupt manager, even, perchance, for Mr. Buckstone himself.

There is Nothing

Which attracts public attention more than a genteel gait in either sex, to acquire which it is necessary that children's shoes should be made to fit well, which may be accomplished by going to KAST'S Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, where our scions of respectability are daily to be seen emerging with their purchases. x

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table. *

Who Don't Know

That to achieve the greatest desideratum in business "patronage" a person must be liberal in his outlay, by purchasing the best material, employing the best workmen, and seeing that his patrons are attentively and courteously waited on, and in a style compatible with the dignity of the establishment he pretends to manage. Such is the golden rule practiced at KAST'S Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, as is verified by the ton seen there daily, who are likewise to be seen at the Opera and all distinguished resorts of the city. x

P. Liesenfeld,

First Premium Billiard Manufactory, 535 and 537 Sacramento st., keeps a full assortment of billiard tables, balls, cues, and all articles connected with the trade. First Premium awarded at the late Industrial Fair. x

The California Stock.

Very pleasant entertainments are given by the California Theatre stock company without the assistance of stars. The fact is, the stock are good. Another fact is that the fine old stock ale to be found at the FIGARO SALOON, opposite the stage entrance, where the RED LIGHT burns, is admirable, and is much appreciated by those who step out between the acts and are posted as to the best place to go for a drink. HERMANN keeps the best whisky, brandy and liquors of all kinds, and all who visit the FIGARO SALOON once go there again. *

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium. *

A Sensation in Hats

The new Fall and Winter styles are fast arriving at "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. One in particular has already been adopted as the fashion; it is a fine low-crowned felt hat, with a curved brim, and is called "The Grand Duke." Those who wish to be in the fashion must go to "THE" Hat Store, long famed for having the latest styles and for its moderate prices. x

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—Mrs. Bowers's impersonation of Lady Audley has delighthed all who have witnessed. "Lady Audley's Secret" will be performed at the matinee, and this evening. However great Mrs. Bowers may be in other characters it is certain she appears in none to greater advantage than in Lady Audley and all should avail themselves of this opportunity to see her in a part in which she confessedly stands unrivalled. On Monday and Tuesday evening Mrs. Bowers will appear as "Elizabeth, Queen of England," on Wednesday, as Julia in "The Hunchback;" on Thursday as Lady Teazle in "The School for Scandal and on Friday and Saturday in "Mary Stuart," which will also be played at the matinee. The new play of "Amy Robsart is in active preparation.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—"The Magnolia" will be played at the matinee to-day, and this evening for the last time. All who have seen this play have been well pleased, and are loud in their praises of the acting of Miss Sallie Hinckley as Cora, Mr. G. B. Waldron as Mad Bill, and of the company generally. Those who have not visited the Metropolitan Theatre since the formation of the new company have no idea how excellent an entertainment is given there.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—The Alhambra was packed as tightly as a box of sardines last night when C. Vivian the popular vocalist took his benefit. He was encored again and again, was presented with a beautiful wreath, and in a neat little speech thanked the audience. His last song "Strolling through the Fair," has proved an immense hit, and everyone is going to hear it. Billy Emerson is fresh and original as ever; Charley Howard presents his inimitable representations of negro character; and Sheridan and Mack are unrivalled in their line of business. A great bill will be performed at the matinee to-day and in the evening.

BELLA UNION.—Great attractions are offered at this most popular theatre to-night. In addition to Bella Wesner in new character songs; Aline Le Favre in "The Game of Life," which has proved quite a hit; the Reynolds Brothers in double song and dance; Johnny Manning on the flying trapeze and the talented and versatile company in a rich and varied programme, the management announce the engagement and first appearance of Mr. Edward Stanley, tenor singer, pathetic balladist, etc., and Miss Ethel Stanley, ballad singer, mimic and soubrette actress from the English theatres. On Wednesday evening the popular Reynolds Brothers will take a benefit and the many whom they have amused night after night will doubtless rally on this occasion and give them a bumper.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—Little Miss Maggie Knight is still the bright particular star; Johnny Tuers a host in himself, appears nightly; the trio clog dance is received with thunders of applause and the immense company perform a rich and varied programme of songs dances and acts. Charley Rhosdes, who is rapidly recoverin: from his indisposition, will soon make his reappearance in San Francisco at the Theatre Comique as bright and lively as ever.

THE OXFORD.—"Ready" is ready money to the energetic management of this popular place of amusement. It is preceded by an attractive melange of songs, dances, Ethiopian farces, charactr acts and tableaux, by a company of popular male and female performers. To obtain a seat to-night it will be necessary to go early.

ART ASSOCIATION RECEPTION.—The second reception of the San Francisco Art Association was held last night at Pacific Hall, and a large and fashionable assemblage enjoyed themselves in looking at the latest works of our local artists, listening to the sweet strains of an admirable orchestra under the able leadership of A. Stockmeyer and singing by a quartet of the Twelve, in discussing art prospects and also a fine collation. We must defer noticing the pictures until Monday and content ourselves with saying that the whole affair was a most pleasant one, and fraught with humanizing influences.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS AND MUSEUM.—In addition to the thousands of things to be seen in the Museum, Art Gallery, Conservatories and Menagerie attached to this popular resort, the Fiji Cannibals go through their war dances, songs and drill, which they intersperse with hideous yells and gestures, every afternoon. Skating every day. On Sunday Prof. Lovett will give an exhibition on the one-wheeled skate and Wetterman's band give a concert.

TURN VEREIN HALL.—On Monday, Miss Carrie E Martin formerly a member of the Fanny Morgan Phelps Troupe who is about to proceed East, will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit at Turn Verein Hall. The evening's entertainment wi l consist of the comedietta of "Somebody Else," an interlude of songs, dances, recitations etc , and a social dance.

HUMBOLDT PARK, OAKLAND.—There will be great doings at Humboldt Park on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, on the occasion of the Turner-band Picnic, under the management of M. Gruet Buislay. There will be gymnastic exercises, sack races, a skating match for prizes, a balloon ascension, a ball and other amusements. The price of admission is only 25 cents.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Hundreds will drive out to this famous hostelry to-morrow, and enjoy a dinner with appetites sharpened by the sea breeze. Captain Foster's chef is famous, the wines are excellent. Dine at the Cliff House to-morrow and you will dine well.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

SUNDAY EXCURSION.—There is not within miles of this city a more delightful spot than the groves of San Rafael. The steamer Contra Costa will leave the wharf on Davis street, near Vallejo, to-morrow at 10½ A.M., on an excursion.

CHAMPION SKATER.—Callie Curtis, the champion skater, has arrived from Chicago. He brings with him his patent roller skate and the diamond medals awarded him by the American Skating Congress.

"PIGEON, THE TORMENT."—This new and original play by Howard P. Taylor, of this city, will be produced on Monday evening at the Metropoli an Theatre with that charming actress, Mrs F. M. Bates in the leading character. The play is of the "Facchon" style, and Mrs. Bates' part one well suited to her style.

BILLIARDS.—To-night a billiard match for the Championship of the Pacific Coast and the silver cue will be played by Jno. B. F. McCleery, the champion, and Jno. H. Mott, Jr., at Mozart Hall, and will doubtless attract a large attendance of lovers of the noble game.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

PORTLAND, OR.—Stephen Massett gave an entertainment of readings, recitations, imitations, music, songs and ballads, at Oro Fino Theatre on the 29th ult., and delighted a large and fashionable audience.....We find the following theatrical items in the Oregonian:

An exchange announces that a neighboring town has just been victimized by those 'twa wee dogs," the Vienxtemp Brothers. Rather rough, that.

The Boise Statesman announces that the Pixley Sisters were tendered a benefit there on the 19th inst., and are on their way to Portland.

VALLEJO.—Vallejo rejoices in a musical prodigy of whom the Chronicle discourses as follows:

A young lady of Vallejo, between fourteen and fifteen years of age, Miss Ada Pettit, possesses surpassing talent as a violinist, and her admiring friends believe with practice and cultivation, she will yet rival Camilla Urso. She has received instructions for only about a year, and her execution is so remarkable that, at the earnest entreaties of friends, Mr. William Emmons, her teacher, will give the public an opportunity to listen to the sweet strains she has power to evoke from her violin, on the evening of September 15th.

DAYTON, NEV.—The Blind Troupe gave an entertainment on the 5th and 6th.

CORINNE, U. T.—Mr. and Mrs. Pearson and Prof Taylor gave a concert at the Opera House on the 30th and were tendered a complimentary benefit on the following evening. These professionals are traveling under the title of the California Trio.

CARSON, NEV.—Thomas & Co's Mammoth Stereopticon Panorama of Europe and scenes in the Franco-Prussian War was advertised to be exhibited at the theatre last night and to-night.

OAKLAND.—Professor Haselmayer gave a performance at Brayton Hall on Thursday evening.

CASTROVILLE.—Zamloch, the Austrian magician, who has been performing in Santa Cruz county, gave an exhibition at Langdon's Hall on the 2d.

SILVER CITY, NEV.—Thomas & Co's Panorama of the War at Miner's Union Hall on the 5th.

VIRGINIA CITY, NEV.—Thomas & Co's Panorama exhibited at Piper's Opera House on Saturday, Sunday and Monday. On Thursday and Friday evenings the Pioneer Blind Troupe gave concerts.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

A strenuous effort, which will probably be successful, is making to have Union-square Theatre N. Y., completed in time for opening in the first week in October. Among a large and talented company engaged is Miss Pauline Markham.

Mr. Henderson, the manager of the Lydia Thompson Troupe, has returned to New York. During his stay in England, Mr. Henderson paid up all his debts. His creditors are loud in their praises of his integrity and honorable dealing.

Seven magagers attended the opening night at Wallack's. Out of these seven, four had already contracted for the services of this troupe for a limited period on what are called certainties.

The Fifth-avenue Theatre is to open with a comedy by Mr. Daly called "Divorce." It is said to abound in points of strong local interest woven into an excessively graceful drama.

At Niblo's Mr. J. Emmet has undoubtedly entered upon a prosperous run with "Fritz." The houses are crowded nightly. Following the engagement of Mr. Emmet, Mr. Sothern will appear as Lord Dundreary in Tom Taylor's comedy of "Our American Cousin."

Lotta is now playing to only medium houses at Booth's

"Blue Beard" is running finely at Wallack's.

Miss Ada Harland has played her drama called "Lois," at Wood's Museum. Miss Lucille Western commenced an engagement on the 4th.

The Bandmanns are playing at the Grand Opera House.

The Globe, a variety theatre on Broadway, is quite a success. A local sensation drama entitled "Life of a New York Policeman" is in preparation.

Kelly & Leon are doing well at Lina Edwin's Theatre. Charles Storms sings "The Marseillaise" and "The Watch on the Rhine." Kelly & Leon do the "Cat Duet," a London comicality which would take well in San Francisco.

San Francisco Minstrels doing their usual business.

Tony Pastor's opens on the 11th.

Newcomb & Arlington's Minstrels were to open their Twenty-eighth-street Opera House on the 4th, with Walter Bray and Charles Day's new sensation for the first night.

Johnny Thompson, the Lively Fraud, is playing the country towns in New York State with the assistance of Jem Mace who appears in "On Hand" with him.

At Music Hall, New Haven, the Lingards were to appear on the 8th in "Elfie."

Oliver Doud Byron is meeting with immense success at Fifth-avenue Opera House, Pittsburg, with his piece, "Across the Continent." As Mr. Byron dutifully sends papers with notices from each place where he performs to FIGARO, we fancy he is traveling across the continent with some idea of eventually playing to the critical public of San Francisco. He has gained golden opinions in every city in which he has appeared. Chanfrau was playing at the opera house and Tony Pastor at the Academy of Music, Pittsburg, on the 31st.

The Boston Sun says: "Mrs. Lander drew only slight houses during her recent California engagement. Let her try Boston." Yes, but let her not try it too much.

"Katy Did" draws good houses at the Boston. Our California Diamond is shining brilliantly and must soon return to show us how much progress she has made in her profession.

The Davenport, Iowa, printers seized a circus and menagerie the other day for not paying its bills, and now each editor is the happy owner of a Swiveonphalus, or Giasticutus, or a Hippopotamiemise, or an Alaskan Sea Lion. When subscribers rage and a man comes in and wants to know 'who wrote that article," the editor unchains his menagerie and the insulted fellow has a sudden call to see a man elsewhere.

Leffingwell has filled his time for the coming season.

Geo. W. Thompson has gone to St. Louis to take charge of Deagle's Varieties.

Johnny Allen is making arrangements with Col. T. Allston Brown to come to California and play "Schneider."

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Florence have arrived from Europe and are now stopping at the Fifth-avenue Theatre. They will shortly open at the Grand Opera House.

Joe Jefferson opened at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, on the 4th, for one week.

The New York Atlas speaking of the performance of "Fritz" at Niblo's, says: "The Katrina of Miss Rose Evans is rather heroic and high stilted for a German peasant. Her acting, nevertheless, is highly relished—by the critical ones who sit nearest the ceiling."

At the Olympic Theatre the 481st exhibition of "Humpty Dumpty" will be given at the Olympic on the night of the forthcoming reopening.

LETTER FROM AUSTRALIA.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

MELBOURNE, July 25th, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—Since my last communication dullness has held supreme sway in the theatrical world. Trade is bad, money is scarce, and the weather has been so very inclement as to deter the patrons of the opera and drama from visiting our town amusements. All these causes have had a most depressing effect upon all the treasuries of all our places of amusement.

THE THEATRE ROYAL,

under the new management of George Coppin, has been tolerably successful. His first novelty was Boucicault's new drama of "Elfie," originally written for your American favorite, Lotta, but refused by her on account of the excessive price demanded by the author. The drama, which to my mind seems to be an elaborated version of "Jonathan Bradford," was produced by Mr. Coppin in a style that gave universal satisfaction. The scenery by Messrs. Henning and Holmes was really magnificent; the machinery most complete, and the cast of characters satisfactory. The best played part in the drama was without doubt the Jos Chirrup of Mr. G. R. Ireland; his assumption of the blind sailor was a complete success. J. B. Howe essayed the part of Bob Evans, Mr. Rogers was Dr. Hardcastle, Mr. J. Milnes the miser Filey, Shafto Robertson (who came from England with special instructions as to the production of the play) was Sedley Deepcar. This gentleman, who is brother to the late T. W. Robertson, author of "Caste," etc., gave a very gentlemanly and satisfactory rendition of the polite villain. Miss Eloise Juno was eminently satisfactory as Elfie; Miss Julia Edouin as Miss Aircastle was excellent, and last but not least, J. R. Greville as Sadlove the showman was the life and soul of the play. After its rejection by Lotta, the author, in sending out the drama to Coppin, stated in a letter to him:

You may announce that I send out this Drama for the pleasure of producing a work of mine in Australasia previous to its representation in London I hope they will find it one of my best efforts to please them. Let them accept it, in my case, as a very grateful acknowledgment of the popularity you tell me I enjoy amongst them; they have me nothing to wish for, but to deserve it.—Yours very truly.

"Elfie" however has not been a success, and was withdrawn last Friday to give place to the dramatic season, which commenced on the following evening, when Mrs. George Darrell (late Mrs. Robert Heir) reappeared after an absence from Melbourne of several month. "Macbeth" inaugurated the season of legitimate drama, in which Mrs. Darrell appeared as Lady Macbeth; Mr. J. B. Howe as the Thane of Cawdor, and Mr. Shafto Robertson as Banquo. The representation of this tragedy was not by any means satisfactory, either as to acting or scenery. Last evening (Monday, 24th) Morton Tavares, announced as "the West Indian tragedian," made his first appearance in Australia at our Theatre Royal, in "Richelieu," and though giving a tolerably correct reading of the part of the wily Cardinal, was as a whole greatly inferior to any artiste who had previously played the part in this city. J. B. Howe played Adrien de Mauprat in a style that stirred the house to enthusiasm, and completely eclipsed the new star. "Othello" is underlined for to-morrow night, with Tavares as Iago. If he does not make a hit in that—stated to be his crack part—he may be safely written down a complete failure. The company at the Royal now includes the names of Tavares, Howe, Robertson, Sefton, Ireland, Greville (stage manager), Rogers, Warde, Roberts, Gladstane, Milne, Leston, Mrs. Darrell, Mrs. Woolridge, Mrs. Bryer (Mrs. Chas. Edouin), Miss Julia Milne and Miss Eloise Juno. Mr. Coppin, following in the steps of Miss Litton, of the Court Theatre, London, has entirely abolished the free list, except as regards the press. He gives his reasons in a published circular:

In consequence of the absurd number of applications I receive for free admission to the Theatre Royal, I beg to inform the "dead-heads" of Melbourne that the order system will be discontinued for the future. "Live and let live" is a wholesome motto, and as I do not intend to ask my printer, draper, timber merchant, or any other tradesman with whom I deal to place me upon their free list, I have resolved to apply the same rule to the business by which I live. I am extremely grateful to those gentlemen that kindly offered to distribute orders for me, and must respectfully decline their services, as I prefer vacant boxes to the fulfilment of such a one-sided arrangement. I hope to make the entertainments sufficiently attractive to command the very moderate charge to all parts of the theatre, and have resolved to abandon an artificial system that bestowed upon 'dead-heads" a monopoy of the best seats in the dress-circle to the prejudice of those that paid for their admission.

GRAND OPERA.

While all admire the great energy and speculative talent displayed by W. S. Lyster in his endeavors to procure for Melbourne a continual succession of lyric talent, this enterprising gentleman cannot be congratulated on the engagement of the Cagli and Pompei Opera Troupe, now occupying the stage of the Opera House. They began their season on the 17th of May with a published repertory of forty-four operas, of which they produced fourteen, all of which had been sung before in this city. In their comic operas they have never been equalled, but in their serious operas they do not excel former companies. They have begun their second season, for which I do not prognosticate any great success. I rather fancy Mr Lyster is "fall" of them. I know he is greatly disappointed in them, and smarts under an idea of having been to a certain extent "sold." The company (but not under Lyster's management) will commence a season in Sydney early in September.

WESTON'S OPERA HOUSE

is now occupied by the talented Gregory Troupe, with H. R. Harwood as manager. They have been doing an excellent business, which in these dull times can safely be attributed to the active management of Harwood, whose prestige as late principal manager of the Theatre Royal is highly held in the estimation of the amusement-seekers of Melbourne.

THE PROVINCES.

The Sandhurst Theatre is nightly filled with good-paying audiences to witness the performances of Lyster's English Opera Troupe.

The Ballarat Theatre is carried on by a commonwealth, but as the town is very dull, business is only so-so.

MRS. MARY GLADSTANE

is still in South Australia, where her performances at the Theatre Royal, Adelaide, have caused considerable excitement. As Marie Stuart and Queen Elizabeth the press is singularly unanimous in awarding her a well-deserved position in the highest walks of dramatic art.

THEATRICAL EXODUS.

By the next mail steamer to the East we shall lose a large number of our show people. First, G. B. Lewis has formed a dramatic company for Calcutta, consisting of J. B. Howe, Shafto Robertson, Tom Lewis, Charles Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Appleton, Mr. and Mrs. T. Andrews, Miss Jenny Nye, Miss Julia Edouin, Mrs. G. B. Lewis (Rose Edouin), and Mr. Fenton. Mr. Harwood and the Gregory Troupe, and Mr. John Smith (late of Lyster & Smith), with Mr. Robert Heller and his sister Haidee Heller.

LETTER FROM CHICAGO.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

CHICAGO, September 1st, 1871

DEAR FIGARO.—The opening of the regular dramatic season is the order of the day at present. All of our places of amusement are now opened except Crosby's Opera House, which has not yet completed its renovating and painting etc. The weather is at present very cool, in fact, so chilly that many dare not venture out thinking that they might catch cold; but nevertheless our managers are kept pretty busy.

WOOD'S MUSEUM.

Runs "Cast Upon the World" with Mr. Mortimer as the leading hero, and Miss Isadore Freeman as the heroine.

CROSBY'S OPERA HOUSE

will be thrown open to the public on October 1st, with the Parepa Rosa Opera Troupe for its attraction.

M'VICKER'S THEATRE

was opened on last Tuesday evening, to a crowded house, many were unable to obtain seats, on the occasion "Extremes" with a full cast was produced, McVicker as Mark Maloney.

For the benefit of your many dramatic readers, I will give the names of the full company at this place. The company is divided in two distinct companies, and pieces will be repeated two nights, and played by the different companies on their respective nights.

Joseph Wheelock,	L. L. Sharp,
W. B. Powers,	J. A. Stephens,
Milton Rainford,	Sam'l Myers,

F. Mosely,	Lizzie Andrews.

DEARBORN THEATRE.

The Minstrels are the only attraction. Houses are poor at present on account of the great attractions elsewhere.

HOOLEY'S OPERA HOUSE

is now in full blast, with a full and powerful dramatic company, with Frank Aiken as manager. The company of this place is as follows:

J. H. Fitzpatrick,	W. B. Raymond,
Frank Lawlor,	Charles Stanley,
M. C. Daly,	Mrs. M. O. Daly,
J. C. Padgett,	Augusta Dargon,
J. C. Morrison,	Fanny Bort,
S. L. Knapp,	Lizzie Herbert,
Jervis Vincent,	Annie Campion,
George Archer,	Isabel Remick,

C. L. Jones,	Nellie Clinton,
C. M. Reynolds,	Annie Rogers,
S. T. Wilson,	Miss Mills,

Frank E. Aiken.

Prof. Cornu is the leader of the orchestra. The "Hunchback" was produced for the opening night, Monday, August 28th. "Two Thorns" is underlined for next week.

THE OLYMPIC THEATRE

Manager Mitchell is now in his glory. He has succeeded in bringing to this city some of the best attractions ever offered to the Chicago public. Otto Burbank, California's favorite, put in his appearance this week, and was greeted with great applause by the delighted patrons of this house. Viola Clayton, Josephine Wally, Bowman, Harris and others are strong cards.

WILL.

LETTER FROM SACRAMENO.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

SACRAMENTO September 8th, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—The Metropolitan Theatre, thoroughly renovated, cleaned and otherwise placed in good order, will open for the regular dramatic season under the management of Joseph Proctor, on Monday the 18th inst. The company for the coming season will comprise some of the best talent in the State, strengthened by the addition of some Eastern people who rank high in the dramatic firmament. In consequence of the non-arrival of one or two people engaged by Mr. Proctor in the East, I am as yet unable to give the readers of FIGARO a full list of the company for the coming season, but hope to to do in my next letter. No pains or expense will be spared by the management to make the season one of great success, both in a professional and pecuniary sense, and from the well-known ability and energy of Mr. Proctor, this assurance may be fully relied on. Prior to their appearance in this city, the Metropolitan company will perform in Stockton.

The Royal Yedda Troupe of Japanese performers, including the wonderful Gangero, the Boy spider and the Belle Otokasu, are to appear at the Metropolitan Theatre for a season of three nights commencing to-morrow.

Great preparations are being made for the coming State Fair, which will eclipse all previous exhibitions of the State Agricultural Society. A large number of entertainments will be here at that time, including the celebrated Emerson Minstrels, who will appear with their full company including Emerson, Howard, Vivian, and Sheridan and Mack.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Victory Perches Upon Our

Banners!—Verily the result of the election reminds one of the success of CASSIN'S XXX WINE GRAPE ROOT BITTERS, in this; that the best is bound to win. Defeated Candidates will use them, as they are sure to raise the depressed spirits.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all he Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ab to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to ceed. This fact accounts for the large ness done by Winant & Co., the famous men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 street, two doors below Kearny, between California and Alhambra Theatres. Their oysters seem fatter than anywhere else think Winant fattens them somehow or —and are more artistically served up. one goes there to eat new laid eggs from nant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charles Hasoke, formerly of the Antelope and Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort everyone.

The Industrial Exhibition

On the way home after visiting the Fa the Pavilion, many will stop in to rest at famous Bivalve Oyster and Chop House, Market street, near the corner of Kearny st where they can find fresh Eastern transplan oysters served up in every style. This hou noted for having the finest private rooms stairs of any in the city. Large rooms on for supper and wedding parties. Here can found the finest wines, including Roed Krug, Private Cuvee, and all the best bra The Bivalve is open nearly all night. Th the place to get your oysters after the Fair.

The Elixir of Youth.

For which the sages and philosophers of searched in vain, has been discovered at last and brought within the reach of all. Nature provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. hurry up before it is too late, and every take a plate of their delicious oysters, on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, loped, or in any style your fancy may dictate and your youth and beauty will never fade, remain glorious forever.

J. H. PEARSON,
LATE OF THE RUSS HOUSE,
HAVING BOUGHT THE INTEREST of Messrs. Tabbs & Patten, of the Cosmopolitan Hotel, has secured a lease for a term of years of this well-known Hotel. Its previous reputation assures its being kept in a first-class style, while in order to keep pace with the times he intends to make many important reductions in the scale of charges. His intention is to make it a family and business house, while his entire connection with the traveling public warrants him in expecting a large amount of country, Pacific Coast and Eastern patronage. The prices will range from two to three dollars a day for ordinary accommodation. Board by the week or month on liberal contract. The table will be kept on the most liberal scale, and many improvements introduced. The spacious reading room is the finest of the kind in the city, while the furniture and fittings throughout are superior to those of any hotel in San Francisco. The house will be thoroughly overhauled. MR. PEARSON assumed proprietorship August 1st. The Elevator attached to the house will be used as usual

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which save San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M

Mutual Esteem.

California appreciated Mrs. Cady Stanton and she appreciated California and its people She wrote from San Francisco :

Surveying from day to day the endless chain of railroads and telegraph wires, with their mighty bridges, tunnels, and snow sheds, the mines of wealth developed, the cities and towns that dot the entire continent and remembering that all this is the work of man—I am ready to forgive his presumption in manifesting himself in all our constitution. I tell you, sub rosa, the white male has something to be proud of, and my only consolation is that we are his mother, and but for us he could have done none of these big things. California is indeed the garden of our country.

A Live Paper.

The New York Herald employs a reporter to follow up President Grant. The reporter saw the President the other day, and among other thrilling incidents he recorded the following :

Here the President took leisure enough to strike fire from one of the numerous matches in his little box, but the breeze from the sea blowing through the sitting-room and out into the piazza where we were standing, put it out.

A Pleasant Visitor.

The quiet breakfast of a family in Lowell, Massachusetts, was rudely interrupted a few mornings ago by the laundress, who bolted into the room with the exclamation, "An' sure, Missis, I thought I'd come and tell yez that I could'nt wash for ye this mornin', as me boy is sick with the small-pox and black as me old man's hat." She was allowed to depart without further apology or explanation.

Very Oleagenous.

The Pittsburg Leader has a paragraph headed, "Another Oil Fire. An Oil Lady at Oil City nearly burned to death." The "oil lady" was probably mother of Coal Oil Tommy.

Ominous.

A fence in town bears the following inscription : "Use Dr. ——'s Cough Bitters," and following it in still larger letters is the appropriate warning, "Seek first the Kingdom of God."

Lost.

By the City of San Francisco a Ring. Supposed to have been dropped at the polls last Wednesday. Its return is not desired.

Also, a large assortment of Watch Chains, Jewelry, Cameos, Diamonds, Topaz, Amethyst, Coral, Turquoise, Onyx, Pearl and Etruscan Sets, etc., all of which will be sold at the very lowest prices. •

A Fair Proposition.

We are authorized to say that Pipifax Bitters will be given free of charge to those suffering from dyspepsia, biliousness, indigestion, inaction of the liver and loss of appetite, to convince them that they can find permanent relief by drinking that valuable tonic. Go and try it at Shaeffer, Walter & Co's, 302 Battery st. •

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spoilt, send them to the What Cheer Laundry. •

Everbody Buys Them.

What? The hundred various compounds prepared only from Steuart's refined sugar, by Canty & Wagner, 107 Montgomery street. Their candies have been famed for their delicious flavors for years, and the firm does an immense trade, both in the jobbing and retail line. •

French System of Voting.

It seems that we might copy the French system of voting in some of our cities, and thereby get rid of the monstrous frauds constantly exercised. Their system is the best in use. Every man of the age of twenty-one years is a voter; there is no property or educational qualification. Universal suffrage is absolute. Only a crime can disfranchise. About a fortnight before any election there is a general registration by officials specially appointed for the purpose, and every voter, after being properly registered, is furnished with a certificate. On election day he carries this certificate to the polls, which are held at the mairies, or at other public buildings. He first presents himself before an examiner, who inspects his certificate, checks off his name on the list, tears a corner from the certificate, and returns it to him. He then goes to the ballot-box, hands the torn certificate to the judge as a voucher that he has properly passed the inspection, and deposits his voting ticket in the urn. The voucher is stuck on a file, and cannot be used a second time. It serves as a tally to the number of votes cast, and prevents repeating. The formality of voting is a little more complicated than with us, but provision is made for this defect by a greater number of voting places, and the security against frauds amply repays any increase of labor and expense.

Be Gentle.

We beseech the public to deal gently with the gallant warriors of Gov. Haight's staff, so soon to be reduced to mere civilians. The Alta shows an unkind spirit when she says :

The gorgeous list of Colonels and Lieutenant-Colonels belonging to the staff of "California's favorite son," have a surplus of silver-mounted saddles and spurs, and shewy uniforms, that will be of no use to them now, and they could probably be bought cheap, or perhaps they will be raffled off.

This is too much like the exultant Helen in "The Hunchback": "Master Clifford, plain Master Clifford." Does the Alta forget that a whilom member of her staff who is now Colonel Albert S. Evans, by Haight's fall becomes "Mister Evans, plain Mister Evans?" Oh! let these sucking colonels be weaned gently—by degrees be accustomed to the loss of their titles, that the shock may be softened to them.

Very Unkind.

At the populous manufacturing town of S——, there was an inhabitant who held a good position as a fishmonger, and being very partial to theatricals, was very kind, and gave great assistance to the manager of the Theatre Royal: being anxious to make his debut, it was at last arranged that he should play Polonious for the manager's benefit: that gentlemen himself playing Hamlet. The house was crammed, and the play proceeded until it came to the lines,—"Do you know me my lord? Excellently well! you are a fishmonger!" When the maternal parent of Polonius (being in front, and thinking the lines were a personal insult to her son,) rose and said, "Well, sir, if he is a fishmonger, he has been very kind to you, and you have no right to expose him in public."

A Sure Cure.

The Pittsburgh Leader, in answer to a young lady correspondent called "Bertha," says :

If a gentleman declares he is desperately in love with you, and you sympathize with him, the only cure we know of is—matrimony.

Yes, matrimony is a sure cure for love in many cases.

A Feast.

The Chronicle supplies its readers with all the in-delicacies of the season.

Throw Out Your Chest!

A man should stand up like a man, throw out his chest and throw his shoulders back, thus giving room for the free action of the lungs. The Champion and Pivot-action Braces sold by C. H. Burr, sole agent for the Pacific Coast, 818 Market street, will be found to afford efficient aid in accomplishing this. They are superior to all others, and cost no more. •

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has withdrawn from the firm of Guerin & Kelly, and has resumed business on his own account at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush. All ladies visiting the Mechanics' Fair should not fail to inspect the splendid display of Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes made by P. KELLY, Prize Bootmaker, corner of Bush and Kearny streets. •

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 536 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUG & SCHMIDT, Successors to P. J. Reilly, Agents. x

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles, finest quality, and at the lowest prices. x

To the Unfortuate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure. •

The Radical Rheumatic

Eradicator—the only known remedy. Frank H. Lashier, proprietor, No. 206 Fourth street San Francisco. •

A California Start.

The New York correspondent of the Boston Courier, writing about the pictures in the National Academy of Design, has the following about an artist who gained his start in life in California :

A Scene in Venice, by David A. Neale, has an interest apart from itself, in the fact that the artist, a young American, was a few years ago a poor New England boy with a taste for art and a great longing to become an artist. He began by drawing cards, painting sleds for other boys, and work of that character. Being prudent and saving, he laid up money enough to go to California, where he earned a thousand dollars in one year by painting the panels of stages. He then, in 1862, went to Munich, where he studied in the art-school and improved rapidly. He married the daughter of a professor in the royal glass-painting establishment and has become quite Germanized in culture and feeling. His pictures are very popular in this country, where several of them have been disposed of at large prices.

San Francisco Ahead.

The New York Mercury speaking of the performance of the Lydia Thompson Troupe says :

In the "If Ever I Cease to Love" ditties, which Beckett and Lydia Thompson sing to Fatima, new lines are constanly added. The last good thing among them, sung by Lydia was a hit at the President's readiness to receive presents. It runs :

"If ever I cease to love,
If I ever cease to love;
May Grant return the lot
Of presents that he's got,
If ever I cease to love."

Ella Wesner has been singing that "last good thing" for the past six weeks at the Bella Union Theatre.

Religious Fruits.

A young lady, giving her religious experience, said that she once wore jewelry and took great pride in it, but becoming convinced that the practice was sinful she sold her jewelry to her younger sister and bought a lottery ticket.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

S. P. R. R. News Agency.

James Miller supplies the reading wants of the passengers on the Southern Pacific Railroad with the latest San Francisco papers, and Eastern Illustrated ones, and magazines, at San Francisco prices. He also supplies FIGARO to the passengers on the upward bound trains, at San Francisco rates—free of charge. •

Reduced Prices.

New York Dry Goods Store.

813 Stockton street, between Clay and Sacramento, receives new goods daily from New York auctions very cheap. Remember the number. •

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

Nearly all Great Men

Use tobacco in some form, and fine cut is most sought for because of its exquisite flavor. Veteran chewers say that the tobacco which contains the most happy combination of flavors is the "Sunny Side" brand, it being cut from pure Kentucky leaf. •

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit. •

Artificial Limbs,

Dr. Bly's Patent. Menzo Spring, manufacturer, S.W. cor. Second and Jessie sts. •

The Attraction at the Fair.

Of all the desirable articles exhibited at the Fair—and there are legions—the best thing we have seen is the Patent Rotary Novelty Table Waiter, exhibited by Haynes & Lawton. It does its work silently, effectively, and is besides a handsome table ornament. We advise ladies to inspect it. Every family should have one. •

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

To-night Mrs. D. P. Bowers will appear in her wonderful impersonation of Queen Elizabeth The play has been so recently produced at the California Theatre that it is fresh in the recollection of all theatre-goers and all will avail themselves of this opportunity to compare Mrs. Bowers' rendition of the leading role with that of Mrs. Lander. John McCullough will appear in the character of Robert, Earl of Essex, in which he made such a brilliant success when this play was presented before and the other characters are well distributed.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night a new and original play in five acts by H. P. Taylor, entitled "Pigeon, the Torment" will be produced with new and appropriate scenery, and the popular actress Mrs. F. M. Bates in the title role. The play is modeled on 'Fanchon," J. M. Hardie, J. H. Vinson, John Woodard, Miss Fanny Young, Miss Susie Soole, and seven other young ladies are comprised in the cast.

Alhambra Theatre.

This theatre is to San Francisco what the San Francisco Minstrel Hall is to New York and like it is thronged with the fashion of the city. An immense audience was present last night and the performance went off capitally. To-night an entirely new bill will be presented. Among the many popular features we may mention Billy Emerson's Telegraph song, in which he will give the audience news from all parts of the world; the favorite finale of "Bells, Bells, Bells;" new song by Vivian, including "Strolling Through the Fair: A popular ballad by Master Eugenia; "The Cigar Box Brigade," by the inimitable Charley Howard, G. H. Foster, Robinson and Bidaux; Billy Emerson in songs and dances; Sheridan and Mack in Dutch specialties. The evening's entertainment will conclude with Charley Howard's characteristic plantation scene of "Old Eph's Dream at Home," in which he will be supported by Billy Emerson and all the members of the company.

Bella Union Theatre.

Mr. Edgar Stanley and Miss Ethel Stanley, who made their first appearance at the Bella Union Theatre on Saturday night, made a most favorable impression and are sure to become popular favorites. They are both cultivated artistes and sing ballads in excellent style. Miss Ethel Stanley has a sweet, sympathetic voice which she manages with great skill. Ella Wesner's popularity is undiminished and all will regret that her engagement must soon close. "The Game of Life" is very popular; Aline Le Favre gains much applause in the character of Anne; Minnie Fillmore gives efficient support as Fannie, and J. H. Larkin does a clever bit of character acting as the Yankee Constable. Reynolds Brothers will have a benefit Wednesday evening next.

Theatre Comique.

The performance at this place of amusement is so lively and diversified that it is no wonder that the house is crowded. Little Maggie is the most popular of juveniles; the trio of clog dancers are very clever; Johnny Toers is immense and the large corps of lady performers are a great attraction.

Oxford Theatre.

"Ready," tableaux, songs, dances and acts by the large company of male and female minstrels make up an entertainment which pleases all. The scene representing the Vernal Fall, Yosemite, causes much laughter.

Woodward's Gardens.

During the last week over twenty thousand people visited these beautiful gardens and witnessed the strange performances of the Fiji Cannibals and the wonderful feats of the Iron Boy. The same attractions continue during the present week

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

The Skating Rink.

The fascinating Carrie Moore gives an exhibition every evening at the Occidental Skating Rink, opposite the Mechanics' Fair Pavilion.

Humboldt Park, Oakland.

There will be great doings at Humboldt Park on Monday and Tuesday, on the occasion of the Turner-bund Picnic, under the management of M. Gruet Buislay. There will be gymnastic exercises, sack races, a skating match for prizes, a balloon ascension, a ball and other amusements. The price of admission is only 25 cents.

Turn Verein Hall.

This evening, Carrie E. Martin formerly a member of the Fanny Morgan Phelps Troupe who is about to proceed East, will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit at Turn Verein Hall. The evening's entertainment will consist of the comedietta of "Somebody Else," an interlude of songs, dances, recitations, etc., and a social dance.

Off for Australia.

The steamer City of Melbourne which leaves tomorrow for Australia, takes to the colonies the Agatha States Opera Troupe and Miss Alicia Mandeville, also Professor Haselmayer, all of whom we recommend to the favorable consideration of the Australasians.

AN IMPROMPTU DUEL.

Nerve of a Kentuckian Unexpectedly Attacked.

On the evening of the Kentucky State election a tragedy took place in Paris, Bourbon county, Noah S. Alexander, a young man well known in the town, being killed by George M. Hibler. The former was the son of Charlton Alexander, Cashier of the Paris branch of the Northern Bank of Kentucky, a gentleman of great wealth and everywhere esteemed. He is a cousin of the well known stock-raiser and turfman, R. A. Alexander, of Woodford county, lately deceased. Mr. Hibler is also reputably connected, and is at present Clerk of the Circuit Court. At the judicial examination into the homicide, Hibler was discharged from custody, it being considered that he did the killing in self defence. Alexander had been the hero of several bloody affrays, and was regarded as a dangerous man. Hibler made the following statement of the affray to a reporter who called to see him:

It was between ten and eleven o'clock in the evening. I had been over in town looking up a friend, whose family was stopping at my house. Passing the hotel (Bourbon House) I was accosted by Mr. Grehan and Prof. Loventhal, who were attending the State Teachers' Association then in session in this place. They were occupying chairs on the sidewalk, close to the street, and at their invitation I seated myself and entered into conversation with them. While thus engaged, Mr. Alexander, whom I had not previously noticed, came out of the door of the hotel from the bar-room. He approached where I was sitting, took hold of the back of my chair, and told me somewhat peremptorily, as I thought, to move in. I replied that there was plenty of room for him to pass, I occupied but a small part of the sidewalk, and could not have moved had I been disposed to do so, without inconvencing the gentleman with whom I was conversing. He again ordered me to move in, and attempted to push the chair around. I told him to desist if he didn't want a difficulty. He said, "Can't you take a joke?" I replied that I could; but that I was then in no humor for joking. He then exclaimed, "By G—, Mr. Hibler, step your steps!" and began to back from me, placing his hand to his hip. I arose instantly and said, "If that's your game, I'm your man." We fired nearly simultaneously, he a little the quicker. We were about ten feet apart. I hit him in the right shoulder, and do not think he was able to use that arm afterward. As I was standing in the light which came through the hotel door, I moved toward the wall of the building to get into the shade, and fired the second time. The smoke was so dense I could not see him fairly, and I missed, the ball striking two or three hundred feet up the street, as I was afterward told. I moved still further in and up the pavement and dropped on my knees to obtain sight of him under the smoke as it lifted, and to bring him between me and the gaslight on the opposite side of the street. I got chance for a deliberate aim at a couple of rods distance, and shot him squarely in the breast, which was the fatal wound. I then rose and fired a fourth time, striking him in the thigh. This exhausted my shots.

The Lady Godiva Shame.

While the respectable portion of our British cousins hold up their hands in holy horror at the improprieties with which Paris has flooded the London stages, they quietly tolerate a far more indecent exhibition in broad daylight. We allude to the famous Lady Godiva procession at Coventry, where as the yearly anniversary comes around, a young woman rides through the town in the nearest approach allowable to the nudity of the wife of Earl Leobric. It is a national shame that the English Parliament allows the possession of lands to be held by such a shameless tenure.

That there is no difficulty in obtaining young women to represent the character is shown by the fact that this year there were two rival aspirants for the honor. An English paper says: "So equitable are our laws, and so gloriously impartial as to the abstract morality or immorality of any claim which may come before them on its purely technical merit, that the Court of Common Pleas has been occupied in deciding the compensation due the Lady Godiva for not allowing her to ride through Coventry. A speculator had engaged a person, not too careful of appearance, to act the Saxon heroine in the fresco manner stated. By some misunderstanding or other another woman was subsequently engaged and sent through the business. The first Godiva claimed damages for the broken contract, and the jury found for her—damages, fifteen pounds, eighteen shillings. Who, after this, will complain of the Puritan spirit in England?

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium. •

A Sensation in Hats.

The new Fall and Winter styles are fast arriving at "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. BISMARCK AT HOME.

How the Prince Passes His Time at Varzin.

A correspondent of the Vienna Presse gives a description of Prince Bismarck's estate at Varzin and of the Chancellor's mode of living there, from which we take the following particulars: "After a long journey through the arid and sandy plain, the beechwood on the borders of which Varzin is situated, breaks suddenly upon the view of the traveler. The village has nothing striking about it, but, after climbing a hill, we reach the court of the country seat, which Prince Bismarck has chosen for his favorite retreat. It is a simple dwelling house, neither better nor worse than those of the landed gentry of the district. No æsthetical architect has been employed to ornament it. It seems as if no one had been bold enough to attempt to rival the attractions of the Park behind the house. Kew does not surpass it in beauty, nor do Torcy and St. Germain equal it in grandeur. It was this which induced Prince Bismarck to purchase

VARZIN.

Close behind the house the undulations of the soil begin, and the park gradually merges into the woods, and forms with them one broad green ocean of foliage, which seems here and there broken into forest waves. Grand beeches, ancient oaks, pines, firs and beech-trees lend variety to the view. In the midst of them lies the estate. Its soil is neither very good nor very bad; it produces average harvests of rye, and the Baltic sand, the bane of the husbandman, only shows itself here and there. Such pieces of ground have long lain fallow. It takes six hours to drive round the estate and Chomitz, where there was formerly a glass-house with Bohemian workmen, also belongs to Varzin. The Whipper flows through a part of the domain, and forms its boundaries in other places. Its adds both to its beauty and its value, as the rapid stream, which is well stocked with trout, is used to float the timber of Pomerania to the Baltic. Prince Bismarck, I was told, only allows trees enough to be felled to let sufficient air and light into his woods. His letters to his sister shows how dearly he loves farming and hunting, the forest, and the quiet life of a country gentleman. Lother Buchar is the only official person who has accompanied him He goes through all the important papers which are forwarded from Berlin, and prepares them for the signature of the Chancellor who refused to pay the taxes in 1848, and was therefore long an exile on British soil, is exactly suited to Bismarck and Varzin. He lived for many years in Stolp, in Pomerania, and was returned by that place to the Berlin National Assembly. The brightest and the saddest memories of his life are connected with the little town. This year Varzin wears a more tranquil aspect than in 1870 The Prince and his family live a retired life, and keep all those whose curiosity brings them into the neighborhood at a distance. After breakfast the most pressing business is dispatched by the side of the fishing pond, behind the house, in the shade of the beech trees, and then the Chancellor hastens into the forest, generally on horseback, to inspect the improvements which are being made. He is noted for his kindness to the villagers. The landed gentry of the neighborhood frequently visit the family, where they always find a hearty welcome, and the relations and friends of the Prince, many of whom live in the Province, often spend several days with him. The house, though it cannot be called handsome, is spacious, and there is room enough in it for twenty or thirty guests. In the course of time Prince Bismarck will probably rebuild the house and make it into a kind of castle. In the park of Varzin there is a large heronry. The herons are the first birds to come with the spring, and the last to leave with the autumn. The males fly twice every day to the seashore in search of food; they are the sacred birds of Varzin. The woods abound in wild swine. Herds of from twenty to thirty may frequently be seen. Other game is also plentiful, and this year I hear it is to be hunted with the chassepot. Thus the times change. Hitherto Prince Bismarck has retired to Varzin for the purpose of recruiting his health, by a quiet life among the fir-woods. This year the period of rest was less indispensable than formerly. The campaign of France restored him to vigor, and made him seem fresher and stronger than before. Politics are a forbidden subject in the house, with the exception of the interesting episodes of the last war, which are often related and discussed."

LOTHAR BUCHER,

Fiji Islands Jots.

From the Fiji Times (Levuka), of August 12, we glean the following:

A horrible double-murder, attended with disgusting mutilation and cannibalism, has been committed on the Ba Coast. The victims are two gentlemen named Mr. James McIntosh and Mr. John Spiers. The perpetrators were the mountaineers of that district, who came down on Sunday, the 9th of July, and decoyed the two gentlemen, by the offer of trade, and then committed the deed. They then mutilated the bodies, cutting off the arms and legs, which they carried away, and of which they made a cannibal feast. Great indignation is felt by all the settlers, and it is determined on to punish the tribe which committed the outrage.

Tui Vanua has just returned from a lengthy cruise round Vanua Levu, the first he has made in his position as Tui. He was well received throughout, and held meetings in many places for the purpose of inaugurating the new regime.

The Lavoni natives were all collected in Levuka, native town, to the number of over 1,000 souls; and were then portioned off to different applicants for a term of five years hard labor, as a punishment for their rebellion.

The Industrial Exhibition.

On the way home after visiting the Fair at the Pavilion, many will stop in to rest at the famous Bivalve Oyster and Chop House, 640 Market street, near the corner of Kearny street, where they can find fresh Eastern transplanted oysters served up in every style. This house is noted for having the finest private rooms upstairs of any in the city. Large rooms en suite for supper and wedding parties. Here can be found the finest wines, including Roederer, Krug, Private Cuvee, and all the best brands. The Bivalve is open nearly all night. This is the place to get your oysters after the Fair. •

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever. •

Funny "Cuss."

[New York World.]

A Hungarian named Endre Tagete, of Fremont, Iowa, lately closed his variegated career by taking at one dose three bottles of Perry Davis's pain-killer in a most remarkable way. He left a manuscript account of his life, from which it appears that he was of noble birth and well educated. He was engaged in the revolution of 1848, was taken prisoner by the Austrians, and sentenced to be shot; but he escaped and went to Italy, and afterwards to Algeria, where he lost his money by gambling entered the French service and fought the Oabyls for two years, at the end of which he was captured and reduced to slavery, from which he was redeemed by a female servant of the daughter of the chief, who married and converted him to the Mahometan faith. Soon she died and he returned to Europe, wandering first through the desert, stealing a camel on which to ride, and at last reached the borders of the Mediterranean, where he took passage on an American ship to Messina. He joined the army at Naples, and for insubordination was condemned to serve four years in the galleys. Soon he escaped and fell into the hands of brigands, but as he had no money he was permitted to depart in peace. Then he went to Genoa, where a Neapolitan officer recognized him and placed him in irons preparatory to sending him back to the galleys. The captain of the vessel which was conveying our hero pitied him, struck off his irons, and allowed him to jump overboard and escape; but no sooner had he landed than a French patrol clapped him into prison, and he was reclaimed by the government at Naples. However, he pretended to be a French deserter, was not given up, and in six months was fighting at the Crimea. He served also in the Franco-Italian war, and four years afterwards was fighting in this country in the Federal army. When the war was ended he settled down on the banks of the Wapsipinicon, where he fell in love with a farmer's daughter living at Fremont; but, although at first she seemed to return his passion, she soon grew cold, and drove the poor devil to frenzy. So he bought three bottles of the pain-killer, loaded a gun, and went to the house of his beloved while her parents were at church, poured the contents of the three bottles into the muzzle of his gun, asked the girl if she would marry him, and when she refused to do so put the muzzle of the gun into his mouth and fired, killing himself instantly.

The Polynesian Labor Traffic.

The provisions of the Act of the Queensland Parliament, regulating the above traffic, now demand that a Government agent should accompany on her voyage every vessel that may depart for the South Sea Islands to recruit natives to work in the Colony. The reports of these agents have, by order of the Legislature, to be handed over to the press for publication. The agent who accompanied the Storm Bird in her last trip to the South Seas, states in his report that the natives "are not at all so desirous of returning to Queensland as has been represented." This he does not attribute to a fear of kidnapping, for such a thing he considers to be now impossible on board the Queensland vessels.

The agent of the Storm Bird says:

"What few natives come here (to Queensland) are led away by the sight of looking-glasses, knives, and tomahawks, and then with the greatest reluctance. I may observe that not one man who had been here came back with us. I will give their own words to me: 'Me no go Brisbane; me no fool; work all day and sometimes all night—white man get 1s. hour overtime, me nothing, only corn all same like horse; no, me no go; me got yam, cocoanut, taroo, fish, banana, what for me work?' And pointing to two young girls: 'Me got two fine wife;' and they looked natty, being covered with beads and tatooed from head to toe. * * * Our working hands must not fear any competition from these laborers. In eighteen months I predict the trade will die out, as these islanders are gentlemen of nature, and can live without earning their bread by the sweat of their brow."

The articles of merchandise that are said to be given to the blacks, sometimes in part, sometimes in whole payment, on the eve of their departure of Queensland, are chiefly muskets, powder and shot. The guns, manufactured at Birmingham, are of such frail materials, that if used at all, it must be at a great risk to the black fellows who let them off.

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table. •

Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish. •

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them. •

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by JAMES G. STEELE & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street. •

Every Form.

Of chronic diseases cured by chemical treatment of the blood, by Dr. Mortimore at the Morton House, Post street, near Kearny. Especially diseases of the Lungs and Throat, Ozena, Catarrh, disease of the Heart, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Epilepsy, etc. •

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of Figaro among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices. •

THE GREAT HEREAFTER.

'Tis sweet to think, while struggling
The goal of life to win,
That just beyond the shores of time
The better years begin.

When through the nameless ages
I cast my longing eyes,
Before me, like a boundless sea,
The great hereafter lies.

Along its brimming bosom
Perpetual summer smiles,
And gathers like a golden robe
Around the emerald isles.

There, in the blue, long distance,
By lulling breezes fanned,
I seem to see the flowering groves
Of old Beulah's land.

And far beyond the islands
That gem the waves serene,
The image of the cloudless shore
Of holy Heaven is seen.

Unto the Great Hereafter—
Aforetime dim and dark—
I freely now and gladly give
Of life the wandering bark.

And in the far-off Heaven,
When shadowy seas are passed,
By angels' hands its quivering sails
Shall all be furled at last.

Who Don't Know

That to achieve the greatest desideratum in business "patronage" a person must be liberal in his outlay, by purchasing the best material, employing the best workmen, and seeing that his patrons are attentively and courteously waited on, and in a style compatible with the dignity of the establishment he pretends to manage. Such is the golden rule practiced by KAST'S Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, as is verified by the bon ton seen there of those who are likewise to be seen at the Opera and distinguished resorts of the city.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Kearny street, two doors below Kearny, between California and Alhambra Theatres. These oysters seem fatter than anywhere else, and think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Every one goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

What Cheer Laundry

Is the best laundry in San Francisco.

The Orchestral Grand Piano.

Hallet, Davis & Co., makers—has arrived. It is the finest piano in the world. Visitors to the Fair should see this instrument. Other styles of these celebrated pianos can be seen at the rooms of W. G. Badger, sole agent, No. 1 some street.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

These "Materfamillas"

who really feel interested in their children's gait should call at KAST'S Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, to see the scene played in his peculiar make of children's morals and Button Gaiters, the adoption of which will certainly guarantee comfort, ease and grace.

Since the Great Reduction

In prices at Guerin & Son's Prize Boot and Shoe Store, their store has been crowded with customers. Call and see them. 327 and 329 Bush street.

Dei Gratia,

I went to the opera last night or I should have felt grieved beyond the possibility of expressing myself, as I could not have witnessed the eight wonder of this progressive age, a dire, the unexampled improvement in mechanical genius displayed in the home manufacture of the ladies' shoes purchased at F. X. Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite Alhambra Theatre.

Precisely

For the same reason that the ladies have determined to calceate for the Fair, the opposite sex, to be in juxtaposition, have determined to purchase their Patent Leather Oxford Tie Dancing Pumps at Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre.

COSMOPOLITAN HOTEL.

CHANGE OF PROPRIETORSHIP
J. H. PEARSON,
LATE OF THE RUSS HOUSE,
HAVING BOUGHT THE INTEREST of Messrs. Tubbs & Patten, of the Cosmopolitan Hotel, has secured a lease for a term of years of this well-known Hotel and previous reputation assures its being kept in first-class style, while in order to keep pace with the times he intends to make many important reductions in the scale of charges. His intention is to make it a family and business house, while no connection with the traveling public will be slighted in expecting a large amount of country, Coast and Eastern patronage. The prices will range from two to three dollars a day for ordinary accommodation. Board by the week or month by contract. The table will be kept on the most liberal scale, and many improvements introduced. The spacious reading room is the finest of the kind in the city, while the lavatories and fittings generally are superior to those of any hotel in San Francisco. The house will be thoroughly overhauled. MR. PEARSON assumed proprietorship on the 1st. The Elevator attached to the house will be used as usual

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

300 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

300 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which eave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

We Object.

We last heard of Professor Silvester at Omaha. On the first night he was announced to appear, the Omaha Alta says:

Prof. Silvester regretfully announced that his apparatus had been unavoidably delayed, and consquently he would be prevented from performing any illusions, but he would give the audience an opportunity of seeing some pistol shooting. He placed Miss Schotte in one corner of the stage, placed an apple on her head, stepped back to the opposite corner, raised his revolver (a common navy) fired, and the apple fell to the ground, being struck in the centre by the ball.

This is too bad and should be stopped. Silvester's assistant is altogether too charming to be exposed to such risks. The Professor would excuse himself perhaps, by saying that she was so accustomed to being Schotte that she didn't mind it.

The Latest Posture.

An exchange says:

The "Abyssinian stretch" has superseded the Grecian bend and the kangaroo droop among the belles of fashion. It is supposed that this will have a short run, as the "Madagascar flutter" and the "Fijian sprawl" are waiting to be adopted.

Yes, the latter will owe its origin to San Francisco, as thousands of our belles study it daily from the Fijians on exhibition at Woodward's Gardens. We will send them on to New York, when our belles have done with them.

Very Mean.

One Sunday evening recently, a Methodist preacher in Iowa advised the sisters to mortify Satan by giving their jewelry to the church on the next Sabbath evening. The result was a galvanized watch and three brass finger rings. The parson says they are a mean set of sinners.—Exchange.

We wonder whether Aaron received any bogus jewelry among the lot he collected to make the golden calf.

An Apology.

A miller had his neighbor arrested under the charge of stealing wheat from his mill, but being unable to substantiate the charge by proof, the Court adjudged that the miller should make acknowledgement to the accused. "Well," said he, "I have had you arrested for stealing my wheat. I can't prove it, and I am sorry for it."

The English Army.

The English army appears to be in a lively condition of efficiency. While in the House of Peers, Lord Sandhurst, speaking in favor of the Purchase Bill, was eloquent about the might of an army boasting 500,000 men and 400 field guns, Sir Henry Storks was explaining to the House of Commons that the peace establishment of the artillery was never computed for such marches as that from Aldershot to Bushey Park—a distance of twenty-five miles! To go that prodigious long way it was necessary for one brigade to borrow means and appliances from another! According to Lord Sandhurst himself, the army is now recruited from lads so young and feeble that anything like arduous work kills them off like flies; and Sir Henry Storks, again expounding, says it can't be helped,—it is impossible to obtain better men in "the market," and we "must take what we can get." The abolition of purchase in the army, will cost England ten million of pounds sterling—$50,000,000—and add one million a year to its expenses. While it does this, it will in no way add to the efficiency of the army. It would seem that this ten millions down which the dear people have to pay, might be better employed in equipping the army and the annual million to increasing the pay of the rank and file in order that it might not be composed of men who don't die like flies. It cannot be claimed that the English army will be any better officered when purchase is abolished for merit will have little more chance under the new state of things than it had before. Jobbery and favoritism will gain a man his rank now just as money did before. We are afraid that England in throwing away so much money for an idea has not done anything towards preparing for the Battle of Dorking.

A Model San Francisco Hotel.

Our visitors from the East are loud in their praises of San Francisco hotels and chiefly of the Cosmopolitan, which for the excellence of its accommodations and the moderation of its charges cannot be surpassed. H. H. Pearson has spent many years of his life in learning how to keep a hotel, and is now certainly a master of that difficult business.

Horrible!

An exchange thinks that since the London Spectator's imprimateur of the Bludso style of verse, all the poetasters will go at it. Isn't it horrible to contemplate the idea of the whole swarm of mesquito rhymesters drawing Bludso?

At Saratoga.

A correspondent says of Saratoga: Fashionable and white-hatted sharpers strut about with more prominence than honest folks, while wayward and wanton votaries of sin and shame make a gorgeous display of style, gold and glitter.

A Couple of Roots.

A dividend is the surplus, the result, the end of a transaction, divided among the shareholders—hence the word di-vide-ends. An apothecary originally carried his medicine about in jars; he was a pot-carrier—thence the word a-pot-he-carries.

New Music.

We have received from the publisher Chas. Vivian's last song entitled "Strolling through the Fair." The words are amusing and the music by Geo. T. Evans, is very spirited. It is for sale at all the music stores.

An Ohio young man had a girl whom he was courting, arrested for biting his lips. The fool! couldn't he bite back? We would be chawed into hash before having a girl arrested for that!

Throw Out Your Chest!

A man should stand up like a man, throw out his chest and throw his shoulders back, thus giving room for the free action of the lungs. The Champion and Pivot-action Braces sold by O. H. Burr, sole agent for the Pacific Coast, 818 Market street, will be found to afford efficient aid in accomplishing this. They are superior to all others, and cost no more. •

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has withdrawn from the firm of Guerin & Kelly, and has resumed business on his own account at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush. All ladies visiting the Mechanics' Fair should not fail to inspect the splendid display of Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes made by P. KELLY, Prize Bootmaker, corner of Bush and Kearny streets. •

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUG & SCHMIDT, Successors to P. J. Reilly, Agents. x

The Radical Rheumatic

Eradicator—the only known remedy. Frank H. Lashier, proprietor, No. 206 Fourth street

"Merit of the First Water."

One of the most amusing papers we have seen for some time is the Evening Star, the programme paper of the Pittsburg Opera House. It is modest. It says:

Knowing full well the celebrity this paper has attained, as well as the increased and vast circulation, and its yet continued increasing powers, we trespass not when we ask the public to give this paper its undivided patronage.

The editor then goes on to tell why the Star should receive the "undivided patronage" of the Pittsburg public:

The Evening Star intends within a short period to rise to vast proportions, and when we assure the public that merit of the first water has already been engaged for this paper, and capacity second to none, we, with their kind assistance, will yet meet our hopeful expectations. On the Evening Star, editorial capacity second to none in the city does now and will continue to exercise its power; and the great and unprecedented inducements offered to advertisers, when it is recollected that together with their advertisements we command brains and capacity to give to them editorial notices, they must see, as every one sees, the inducements which are now offered.

An Ex-Manager in Trouble.

James Miller, formerly manager of the Leo Hudson troupe, was sentenced in the District Court at Pioche to eighteen months in the State Prison, he having plead guilty to a charge of grand larceny in stealing a mule.—Reno Crescent.

This is pretty rough on Miller. A good many professionals whom he cheated out of their salaries when he was managing the Pacific Theatre, prophesied he would come to no good; but eighteen months' imprisonment for stealing a mule! Whew!

Great Rejoicing.

The Anaheim Gazette is jubilant, and breaks out in great rejoicing over the fact that "the entire Democratic ticket has been elected"—in Anaheim. Haight is elected Governor by a majority of 21—in Anaheim. Lewis is elected Lieutenant-Governor by a majority of 18—in Anaheim. The whole Democratic ticket is elected—in Anaheim. Let the Republicans put this in their pipes and smoke it. More! Potts is elected County Clerk in Anaheim. Who says the Democratic party is dead?

The Ballot.

Our English cousins have been discussing the beauties of the ballot system lately. To fully appreciate them, they should study it with all its latest improvements of nitrate of silver, Mare Island patent unscratchable tickets, and Sacramento State Capitol copyrighted numbered ballots. It is no use their adopting the ballot until they have sent a commission out here to see how the old thing works.

Pretty Good Luck.

A gentleman said to an old lady who had brought up a family of children near the Merrimack river, "I should think you would have lived in constant fear that some of them would have got drowned." "Oh, no," responded the old lady, "We only lost three or four that way."

Quite Right.

The Lowell Courier growls at being credited "Low. Cour."

Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

Of all the desirable articles exhibited at the Fair—and there are legions—the best thing we have seen is the Patent Rotary Novelty Table Waiter, exhibited by Haynes & Lawton. It does its work silently, effectively, and is besides a handsome table ornament. We advise ladies to inspect it. Ev-

A Startling Telegram.

"Millicent Gray," the sprightly London correspondent of the Baltimore Sunday Bulletin, has the following account of a telegraphic blunder:

A great many people complain of the defective working of the postal telegraph system, and with very good reason, as the following story now going about the town of the Earl of ——— proves: This nobleman (you will excuse me from mentioning his name) was in the House speaking on the Ballot Bill with great earnestness, when a telegram was slipped into his hand. He glanced at it, turned very pale, and as soon as possible left the House. Flinging himself into a cab he reached his mansion in double quick time, and flew up-stairs to his wife's budoir. Her ladyship's maid was engaged dressing her to go out; to turn the Abigail out of the room by the shoulder was the work of a moment, and, flinging the telegram into his wife's lap, he asked in a voice that shook with agitation, the meaning of it. The Countess looked astonished at him, and tore open the paper. At first she turned pale, then burst out laughing; and no wonder—the telegram read as follows: "I flee to-night with Mr. D———. Pray for me." The Countess explained it easily; the message she had sent was: "I tea to-night with Mrs. D———. Stay for me." The operator had changed its tenor as you see.

An Irishman who was engaged to cut ice from a pond, when handed a cross-cut saw to commence operations with, pulled out a penny, and turning to his comrade exclaimed "Now, Pat, fair play; head or tail which goes below."

A young bachelor in Jersey City was urged to marry, but he replied, "I don't see it. My father was a single man, and he always got along well enough."

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

This theatre was thronged last night, when Mrs. Bowers appeared for the second time in the character of Elizabeth. Of course this play will be presented again, but the management have made out a most attractive and varied programme for this week, which will be faithfully followed. To-night Mrs. Bowers will appear as Julia in "The Hunchback." The support of John McCullough in the pieces in which Mrs. Bowers appears, will add to the success of her engagement. His Essex last night was admirable and to-night, he will be the most acceptable Sir Thomas Clifford the San Francisco public could have.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The new domestic drama of "Pigeon, the Torment" was played again last night and gave general satisfaction. Some of the superfluous dialogue was cut out and the play was altogether presented in a very satisfactory manner. Mrs. Bates finds in Pigeon a character well suited to her and plays it in a delightfully natural manner, and Jas. M. Hardie is equally good as Asa Graham. "Pigeon, the Torment," will be played until further notice.

Alhambra Theatre.

Billy Emerson receives so many encores for his Telegraph song in the first part that he has to beg off. Vivian's new songs are very popular; the "Cigar Box Brigade," by Howard, Foster, Robinson and Bidaux, is very amusing; Charley Howard's sketch entitled "Old Eph's Dream of Home," is very good and Sheridan and Mack are unapproachable in their Dutch specialties.

Bella Union Theatre.

To-night a capital bill will be performed for the benefit of the talented and popular George and Charles Reynolds. In addition to the regular company, comprising the brilliant Ella Weaner, the fascinating Alice Le Favre, Edgar and Ethel Stanley and others, Mat Kelly has volunteered as bones for this occasion; Messrs. Howard and Russell will make their first appearance on any stage and perform a double clog dance, and Wm. E. Garing will present his Kehoe club exercise. The Reynolds Brothers are sure to have a bumper benefit.

Theatre Comique.

The bevy of beauties who nightly appear in song and dance at the Theatre Comique are very attractive; Little Maggie Knight's new character songs are nightly encored: Kelly, Scott and Mathews are great in clog dances; Johnny Tuers is here, there and everywhere in the programme; Miss Ida Fisk's songs are very popular: Miss Lotta sings sweet ballads and a great show is given.

Oxford Theatre.

The burlesque of "Ready" is received nightly with shouts of applause and laughter. Edwin Parks, Dan Lowrey, Miss Lizzie Worrell, Charley Vincent and Lew Parker all appear nightly in conjunction with the immense number of variety performers forming the Great Oxford troupe. "Ready" will be performed but three nights longer. A new drama entitled "The Spy or, the Battle of Sedan," written expressly for the Oxford, is announced as in rehearsal.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

The Skating Rink.

The fascinating Carrie Moore gives an exhibition every evening at the Occidental Skating Rink, opposite the Mechanics' Fair Pavilion

It is Not

Because you wear cheap boots and shoes that you become crippled—it is because they do not fit properly; neither does a bad-fitting boot or shoe last so long by half the time as one made by a first-class cutter, such as is found at Kast's fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre.

Ladies And Gentlemen.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

Use tobacco in some form, and fine cut is most sought for because of its exquisite flavor. Veteran chewers say that the tobacco which contains the most happy combination of flavors is the "Sunny Side" brand, it being cut from pure Kentucky leaf.

OLYMPIA, Washington Territory, August 10th, 1871.

EDITORS MIRROR,—In my last letter I made reference to the shocking transaction of the COOK MURDER, which occurred here a short time ago. Suspicion was not long in fixing on parties on whom to rest, for a while, at least, the gloomy pall of murderers. The body of Cook was rudely buried on the premises of one James Brewer, with whose "rib" Cook is said to have had a partiality not found under the doctrine of meum et tuum. Men who make clandestine visits may be benefitted by the lesson indicated by cases of this kind. As a consequence of various circumstances which pointed to Brewer's guilt, he was duly arrested and gave bonds for his appearance at the next court.

Several witnesses were examined, but the cheekiest of the females cross-questioned, was not nine years old. This half-Caucasian somewhat surprised the lawyers of Steilacoom. As a specimen of her replies I may quote the following:

Lawyer—Can you answer questions?

Witness—Answer your own questions.

Law.—How old are you?

Wit.—Old enough to take care of myself.

Law.—Do you know anything about this affair?

Wit.—None of your d—n business.

At this stage of the interview the disciple of Coke upon Littleton passed in his checks, and it is unnecessary to state that the fair witness was dismissed.

A New Orleans Wedding.

A New Orleans wedding is thus described by the Picayune: "Be quick about it, Judge," said the impatient youth, "or the old man will be here directly." "But are you both of age?' inquired the cautious magistrate. "Yes, there's no trouble on that head, but this girl is engaged to another man and he's already got out a license to marry her." The Judge pondered for a moment and then observed that he scarcely understood it." "How?" demanded the expectant Benedick; "she's of age, and has a right to whom she pleases." "That may be," replied the Judge "I am no very great lawyer, but the fact is, my young friend, I'm afraid if this marriage goes on, either this young lady or myself, I don't know which, will commit bigamy!" This was certainly a new view of the matter; and the impression the announcement occasioned was profound. The lady came near fainting, and the man turned red in the face. An embarrassing silence for a few minutes ensued, which was ended by the youth brightening up with an idea. "I say, Judge, marry us, anyway; and if the other fellow makes a fuss about it, why, confound it, he can have her." This arrangement was agreed to and the marriage proceeded, to the mutual satisfaction of all the parties.

A Startling Exclamation.

The New Orleans Bulletin publishes the following anecdote of the celebrated Dominician friar, Rocco, of Naples:

"One day he was preaching to a crowd in the market place. 'This day,' said he, 'I will see if you truly repent your sins.' Thereupon he commenced a penitential discourse that made the hair of the hard-hearted multitude stand upright; and when they were all on their knees, gnashing their teeth, beating their breasts and putting on all imaginable signs of contrition, he suddenly cried, 'Now you who truly repent of your sins hold up your hands.' There was not one present who did not immediately stretch out both arms. 'Holy Archangel Michael,' then exclaimed Rocco, 'Thou who with thy adamantine sword standest by the judgment seat of God, hew off every hand that has been raised hypocritically.' Instantly every hand dropped, and Rocco poured forth a fresh invective against the sinfulness and perversity of his audience."

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium.

A Sensation in Hats.

The new Fall and Winter styles are fast arriving at "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. One in particular has already been adopted as the fashion; it is a fine low-crowned felt hat, with a curved brim, and is called "The Grand Duke." Those who wish to be in the fashion must go to "THE" Hat Store, long famed for having the latest styles and for its moderate prices. x

A LOVE STORY.

Love Powders and Coffee—Remarkable Persecution of a Young Man.

[From the New York Star.]

Assistant District Attorney Burnett, of Queens county has been investigating for the past few days a most complicated case, and which at one time threatened to have a tragic ending. A few days since a young man, a resident of Whitestone, well and influentially connected, presented himself at the office of the District Attorney of Queens county, and stated that he was the victim of some plot, the object of which was to take his life; that he was being slowly poisoned, in fact, was at the present time laboring under the effects of a large dose of some noxious drug, which seemed to have been diffused through his entire system. The appearance of the young man did not belie his statement, for evidently some powerful agency seemed possessed of his person, for he was shattered both in mind and body. One of the prominent physicians of the village pronounced his a case of slow poison, and having advised with others, Burnett called in a detective and deputized him to take the case in hand. When questioned as to whom his suspicions connected with the supposed crime, he unhesitatingly named a young lady living at the home of his parents. The girl in question had up to the present time borne the best character, and is considered of a very retired disposition. The young man in question asserts that the drug has been administered in his coffee from time to time. At first it caused him but little inconvenience; but later it has taken more control of him, and he now fears that it will kill him. He is of opinion that the drug is a species of love powder, given him to influence his affection. He says the girl in question is in love with him, but he does not reciprocate the affection. The matter is exciting much comment in the neighborhood where the young man resides.

Bad Spelling.

At a teachers' meeting recently held in Newburg, N. Y., a list of fifty words was given out, and of the ninety-four teachers present not one succeeded in spelling every word in the list correctly. The one nearest accuracy failed on but two words, while the dunce of the Convention blundered at forty-five words out of the fifty. In the ninety-four papers examined there were 2,663 mistakes! The word "cachination" was the sorest trial of all, there being no less than fifty different spellings. One erudite pedagogue spelled "apostasy" thus—eppostecs. The list we subjoin, and it may occasion some amusement to test the young ones from it. It is: Intermittent, heresy, billous, coercion, ecstasy, clarionet, surcingle, paralyze, licorice, trafficking, suspicion, ellipsis, apostasy, deleble, mortgaging, singeing, skillfully, subpœna, allegable, ignitible, phosphorescence, jeopardice, euglition, acronautic, sibylline, cachination, vacillation, bacchanalian, fascination, crystallize, catechise, trisyllable, tyrannize, apologize, gauzing saccharine, hemorrhage, rendezvous, Fahrenheit, Galilean, Sadducee, erysipelas, hieroglyphics, apocrypha, daguerreotype, idiosyncrasy, canaille, cannibal, mignonnette, kaleidoscope.

Baby Farming in England.

Some remarkable evidence of baby farming has been given before a select Committee of the House of Commons by Dr. Lankester, one of the Coroners for Middlesex. He said that about one hundred children were annually found dead in his district, the greater portion being babies found in the streets. He calculated that the proportion of illegitimate to legitimate among these was one in three, and considering the illegitimate children in England were not more than one in ten or eleven, they had evidently less chance of life than the legitimate. Taking children above a year old, the number of illegitimate children was greatly reduced, because so many were killed off before they reached that age. He believed that infanticide was on the increase, and that the law of England with reference to child murder is too severe, and induced Judge, jury, and all concerned to let women off, thus by its severity encouraging infanticide. He should like to see a law similar to that in Bavaria, where the actual punishment was twenty years imprisonment.

The Industrial Exhibition.

On the way home after visiting the Fair at the Pavilion, many will stop in to rest at the famous Bivalve Oyster and Chop House, 640 Market street, near the corner of Kearny street, where they can find fresh Eastern transplanted oysters served up in every style. This house is noted for having the finest private rooms upstairs of any in the city. Large rooms en suite for supper and wedding parties. Here can be found the finest wines, including Roederer, Krug, Private Cuvee, and all the best brands. The Bivalve is open nearly all night. This is the place to get your oysters after the Fair.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

The Orchestral Grand Piano.

Hallet, Davis & Co., makers—has arrived. This is the finest piano in the world. Visitors at the Fair should see this instrument. Other styles of these celebrated pianos can be seen at the warerooms of W. G. Badger, sole agent, No. 7 Sansome street. 7

AUSTRALIAN AFFAIRS.

The steamer City of Melbourne brings dates from Sydney to August 21. The Sydney Herald furnishes the following:

NEW SOUTH WALES.

A consignment of salmon from San Francisco to Mr. Emerson of Sydney, is favorably spoken of.

The general prospects of the new gold field at Gulgong are encouraging.

It is reported that a new gold-bearing quartz reef has been discovered at Trunkey, three feet in width, on the Victoria Company's ground, and that a crushing from it yielded seven ounces to the ton.

The total amount expended in the construction of Government railways in New South Wales, up to the 31st of May, 1871, was £6 305,555.

A collision between the You Yangs and the Tasmania steamers occurred off Broken Bay on the 20th instant. The You Yangs was very much damaged, and has had to go into dock for repairs.

We hear that very little wheat has been sown this year in the northern districts.

VICTORIA.

The new Ministers have been re-elected. They have made several administrative changes, and have been severely handled by the Press. They claim to be judged by their administrative ability rather than by their competence to pass measures of legislation.

The revenue returns for the last quarter show an increase of £18 000 as compared with the corresponding period of last year.

The debt of Victoria amounts to £12,088,100.

The citizens of Melbourne have determined to establish a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

Two hundred and fourteen miles of the Overland Telegraph have been poled.

Sugar canes to the height of fifteen feet have been grown in the Northern Territory.

Colonel Fielding has sent proposals to the Government, on behalf of the English Emigration Company, for a grant of 260,000 acres of land in the Northern Territory, on condition of placing upon the land 5,000 settlers.

QUEENSLAND.

The Colonial Secretary has virtually declined to subsidize the temporary mail service by Mr. Hall's line to San Francisco.

A diamond of very pure water, worth £3, has been picked up by a shepherd, on the Manubar run.

Considerable excitement is prevailing throughout political parties, in view of the elections to the local Parliament.

Long Branch.

Forney's "Olivia" has been taking a look at things to be seen at Long Branch. She says: "All gatherings, whether they take place in the water, on the lawn, in the large parlors, remind the observer of a woman suffrage convention. While men are at home toiling at their self-appointed tasks, women are here spending money as though it were water. A married woman of the fashionable kind has a suite of rooms set apart for her own exclusive use. She has servants who have neither eyes nor ears. She has a carriage lined with satin as luxurious as eider down. She has a professional bather to take her into the briny fluid, who knows how to manage so that even the Atlantic shall not visit her cheek too roughly. She has usually a very young man attached to her by inviable reins, after the dramatic manner of Aunt Trotwood and Mr. Dick. This innocent creature fills the measure of her vanity when nothing better has been gathered for the slaughter. The most desperate flirtations are seething and bubbling while the husband is growing bald with hard thinking in Wall street. Why, Queen Elizabeth was denied more than half the luxuries this American princess enjoys."

IN LOVE.—A Wautoma Wisconsin lover wrote his sweetheart: "There's not a globule of blood in my heart that does not bear your photograph."

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table.

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Victory Perches Upon Our

Banners!—Verily the result of the election reminds one of the success of CASSIN'S XXX WINE GRAPE ROOT BITTERS, in this; that the best is bound to win. Defeated Candidates will use them, as they are sure to raise the depressed spirits.

Every Form.

Of chronic diseases cured by chemical treatment of the blood, by Dr. Mortimore at the Morton House, Post street, near Kearny. Especially diseases of the Lungs and Throat, Ozena, Catarrh, disease of the Heart, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Epilepsy, etc.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all he Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

Old Maids

A quaint and gallant writer some years ago, says: "I love an old maid—the singular number, as speaking of singularity in humanity. An old maid is merely an antiquarian, she is an antiquity not merely a record of the past, but the past itself; she has escaped a great deal and sympathizes not in the ordinary vicissitudes of mortality. She inhabits a kind of eternity of her own. She is Miss from the beginning of the chapter to the end. I do not like to hear them called Mistress, for sometimes the practice, for that look sometimes sounds like a resignation of despair, a voluntary extinction of hope. I do not know whether marriages are made in heaven, but some people say they are, but I am quite sure old maids are. There is something about them which is not of the earth earthly. They are spectators of the world, not adventurers nor ramblers, pedestrians, guardians; we say nothing of tattlers. They are evidently predestined to be what they are. They owe not singularity of their condition to any lack of beauty, wisdom, wit or good temper; there is no accounting for it, but on the principle of fatality. I have known many old maids, and of them all not one that has not possessed as many graces and amiable qualities as ninety and nine out of a hundred of my married acquaintance. Why, then, are they single? It is their fate!"

Stockton complains of an uncommon city of mosquitoes this year.

The cockney shipbuilders make all their helms of elms.

Pop corn fourteen feet high is a Spring allegation.

New York pays more for tobacco than Cuba.

Colds at this season should be [illegible] carefully.

Out of Arizona's ten Summers this is the hottest.

Frogs are a favorite article of food in Virginia.

Providence is to put up a $50,000 house.

Compressed cotton billiard balls are out.

Chinese keep grapes in hollow pumpkins.

Over 1,200 churches were built last year.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and means to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 327 Kearny street, two doors below Kearny, between California and Alhambra Theatres. The Eastern oysters seem fatter than anywhere else, and we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Then one goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in their beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Pacific Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

J. H. PEARSON,
LATE OF THE RUSS HOUSE,

HAVING BOUGHT THE INTEREST of Messrs. Tubbs & Patten, of the Cosmopolitan Hotel, has secured a lease for a term of years of this well known Hotel, its former reputation assuming its being kept in first-class style, while in order to keep pace with the times he intends to make many important reductions in the scale of charges. His intention is to make it a family and business house, while in connection with the traveling public we claim to be expecting a large amount of country, Pacific Coast and Eastern patronage. The prices will range from two to three dollars a day for ordinary accommodation. Board by the week or month on reasonable contract. The table will be kept on the usual liberal scale, and many improvements introduced. The spacious reading room is the finest of any kind in the city, while the furniture and fittings generally are superior to those of any hotel in San Francisco. The house will be thoroughly overhauled. MR. PEARSON assumed proprietorship on last Sat. The Elevator attached to the house is used as usual au5 1m

"FIGARO."

Published every day, except Sunday, by

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

33 Merchant St. and 535 Washington St

Below Montgomery Block.

THURSDAY.....SEPTEMBER 14, 1871

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

300 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which cave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

Bough on Beecher.

It is said that on a certain occasion Henry Ward Beecher preached a sermon on the injustice of obliging men to work on Sunday. The next day while riding down to the Fulton ferry, he entered into conversation with a car driver, and asked if he did not think some plan might be adopted to dispense with the need of running the horse cars all day Sunday. The driver, in ignorance of his interrogating friend, made a frank reply. "Yes sir, I think there might. But there's no hope of it so long as they keep that Beecher theatre open in Brooklyn. The cars have to run to accommodate them.

Congress to be Stormed.

The Golden Age says: "The present is woman's hour. Let her seize her golden opportunity. A column of fair women is getting ready to move upon Congress to storm its next Winter's session. These citizens know that they have a right to vote at the next Preidential election and they want Congress to pass an act securing them the exercise of this right, just as it passed an act securing to negroes the exercise of the same right."

A Good Endorsement.

"I love to look upon a young man. There is a hidden potency concealed within his breast which charms and pains me."

The daughter of a clergyman happening to find the above sentence at the close of a piece of manuscript, as he had left it in his study, sat down and added:

"Them's my sentiments exactly, papa—all but the pains."

It has No Rival.

Purify your blood, strengthen your system, eradicate scrofula and humors of every description, by taking "Fluid Extracts of Sarsaparilla, and Yellow Dock with Iodide of Potash." Prepared by Moody, apothecary, northeast corner of Kearny and Sutter. x

Everbody Buys Them.

What? The hundred various compounds prepared only from Stenart's refined sugar, by Canty & Wagner, 107 Montgomery street. Their candies have been famed for their delicious flavors for years, and the firm does an immense trade, both in the jobbing and retail line.

Popularity of the Alta.

The Washington Critic, in its gossip from Newport, has the following:

Sitting on the hotel piazza the other morning, watching a group of young ladies, I overheard a curly-headed little maiden who was frizzled and pannered and puffed in the height of the style, exclaim, "Oh, I like the Independent best!" A moment before I could have sworn that la Petite never looked at a newspaper, and somewhat surprised, I took the liberty of listening further. "The Tribune suits me," said her black-eyed companion. "I take the Herald," chimed in a stylish, saucy-looking girl who was petting somebody over the railing with pond lilies—a beautiful bunch, by the way, which five minutes before I had seen a gentleman carefully selecting for her from a little urchin's basket. And when, I wondered, do you girls get time to read the newspapers? "Fold them four double, of course," was the next sentence I caught, and more puzzled than before, I very impolitely walked near the group, when everything was made clear to me by the blonde little one saying, "I had rather have a newspaper any day than the best pannier that was ever made in Paris." I fell back into my seat, uncertain whether to laugh or to feel provoked with the little chatterboxes, who had strolled off to lay siege to a party of gentlemen just from the beach. Think of it, Mr. Tilton! think of it, Mr. Greeley! Did it ever occur to you what a bustle you make in fashionable circles?

This led us to make inquiries among our young lady acquaintances in this city, and and we find that the Alta is the most popular paper in San Francisco for a—pannier.

The Female Candidate.

The Sacramento Reporter is responsible for this anecdote: "Laura DeForce Gordon the female candidate for State Senator from San Joaquin county, received 101 votes at the recent election. It is asserted she would have received a much larger vote but for the energetic opposition of an old fellow at the polls who kept singing an old snatch to this effect:

Fiddle, Faddle! what's the use?
You can't make her a man;
The Great Creator fashioned her
On quite another plan."

Does the Record mean seriously to assert that it was the old snatch that prevented her being elected?

This is a Fact.

Musical Jones's doctor last week forbade him to eat pastry. Musical Jones simply responded to to his medical man by singing dolorously, "Good-by, sweet tart, Good-by."

Throw Out Your Chest!

A man should stand up like a man, throw out his chest and throw his shoulders back, thus giving room for the free action of the lungs. The Champion and Pivot-action Braces sold by C. H. Burr, sole agent for the Pacific Coast, 818 Market street, will be found to afford efficient aid in accomplishing this. They are superior to all others, and cost no more.

There is Nothing

Which attracts public attention more than a genteel gait in either sex, to acquire which it is necessary that children's shoes should be made to fit well, which may be accomplished by going to KAST'S Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, where our scions of respectability are daily to be seen emerging with their purchases. x

The Radical Rheumatic

Eradicator—the only known remedy. Frank H. Lashier, proprietor, No. 206 Fourth street San Francisco.

"H." Absent.

They tell a good many jokes about Billy Williams, who was at the old Park Theatre thirty years since. Billy was very clever in a good many characters, but was a thorough cockney, and economical of his "h" where most persons are sufficiently liberal to see it. Rather unsuspecting, he was the subject of a good many tricks by his fellow actors. Burton himself was very fond of making him a butt. On one occasion the two were at Windust's—in those days a favorite resort—with several others of the sock and buskin. Burton said to a friend, "I have a singular poem to be delivered at the annual benefit of the Dramatic Fund. I don't know whether they will do it, but I think there are two lines of it nonsense. Here they are—the last two of the verse. Read it, Billy, and see what you think of it." Billy took the MS., and with due emphasis and discretion read aloud:

"W'ile those haround him silence sit
Hand hevery hege in moisture swims
'Ands 'igbly 'arled, 'alf 'iding 'art,
'Oarsely 'e 'owls 'errific 'ymns."

The roar of laughter that followed startled Billy. He looked around but not seeing he was the subject of ridicule, repeated the last two lines reflectively. "I don't exactly understand 'em," said Billy. "Any way I don't 'oarsely. An 'owl is never 'oarse."

"No," said Burton, gravely. "An owl hoots, and can scarcely be said to be hoarse." "Oh" cried Billy, nettled, "you know what I mean. I said 'owl, not howl."

Dramatic Criticism in Pittsburg.

We must give an extract from a criticism in a Pittsburg paper on "Sam," in which Chanfrau is at present playing, to prove that the art has been cultivated there to its fullest extent:

In the first act when Sir Edward and Cropley, seated on the sofa engaged in contracting, how admirably does Billy Crocket, from his hiding place, make himself felt. Again, in the second act, what could equal the garden scene and the fountain; the admirableness of the conception of the design, and the naturelness of the execution and workmanship conspires to astonish all who behold it; how naturally does the water flow from the fountain cannot be imagined until it is seen; the steps so perfect, the green trees so natural, astonished us as well as other strangers visiting there last evening. In this act the part played by Crocket, catching the wife of Sir Edward, was well executed; his magnetic influence over Sir Edward, and the manner of executiveness was very fine.

There! We think that just a little "lays over" anything in the way of dramatic criticism in San Francisco—even the Alta.

The Immortal Squarza.

California Theatre.

Every inch of standing room in this theatre was occupied last night when the admirable comedy of "The Hunchback" was performed. Mrs. Bowers gave a magnificent piece of acting in the character of Julia, in the more impassioned scenes fairly bringing down the house; John McCullough's Sir Thomas Clifford was as everyone is aware, a most natural impersonation; Henry Edwards was excellent as Master Walter: Miss May Howard made a charmingly natural Helen, and Owen Marlowe was wonderfully good as the diffident Master Modus, playing the part with fine taste; J. C. Williamson made the small part of Fathom extremely funny, and E. Leathes found a part to suit him exactly in Lord Tinsel. To-night "The School for Scandal" will be played, with Mrs. Bowers as Lady Teazle, John McCullough as Chas. Surface, and Henry Edwards as Sir Peter Teazle, a character in which he has few equals on the American stage. Mrs. Bowers' engagement commenced unfavourably in consequence of the Fair and the election, but the crowded houses which have been the rule every evening since these excitements came to a close, have afforded an all-sufficient proof that the genius of this admirable tragedienne is as well appreciated in San Francisco as it is everywhere else.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Pigeon, the Torment," with its lively school scene, soothing love making scenes and joyous picnic will be presented again to-night. All who have seen and enjoyed "Fanchon," will certainly be pleased with "Pigeon" and should go to see it It will be played on Saturday afternoon and evening for the last times. There will be a performance given here on Sunday evening next.

Alhambra Theatre.

This beautiful little theatre was crowded again last night with the beauty and fashion of the city, all of whom enjoyed the droll sayings, comic songs and artistic dances of Billy Emerson; the neat and artistic characteristions of the popular Vivian; the sketches of negro character by C. Howard; the wonderful double acts of Sheridan and Mack; the sweet ballad singing by M. Ainsley Scott, Gustave Bidaux and George Ashton, and the beautiful music by the admirable orchestra under the direction of Geo. T. Evans.

Bella Union Theatre.

Miss Ella Wesner constantly presents some new song and all her songs are good; Aline Le Favre shines out brilliantly as the joyous, devil-may-care Anna in "The Game of Life;" Harry Thompson acts the part of Hartwell excellently well, and R. G. Marsh gives a most effective bit of acting as the villain, Jack Blackmore; Johnny Manning in the two roles of Jumping Tom and Mesrour, the Wild Man, is very good and the play draws good houses.

Theatre Comique.

The general verdict is that littttle Maggie Knight possesses more talent than Lotta, and is far more artistic than Lotta was at her age; her lightning changes are very clever; Johnny Tuers appears in songs, sets and dances; the trio clog and Harry Howard and his banjo are very popular; Nellie Leonard's sweet ballad, "Come, Birdie, Come," is much admired; Blanche's dances are applauded and a capital performance is given.

Gilad Theatre.

After to-morrow night the sensation burlesque of "Ready," which has proved such a success must be removed to make way for other novelties. Charley Vincent, Lew Parker, Cotton, Dan Lowrey, Miss Livingston, Amelia Dean, Estelle, and many others, appear nightly in a pleasing performance.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

TOO MUCH MARRIED.

A Wretch Confronted by Three Wives.

A Poughkeepsie correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal of September 2d says: The case of Louis Guiseppe Contarini, now in jail in this city on a charge of bigamy, is again attracting public attention because of its consideration by the Grand Jury now in session here. It is alleged that in 1861 the bigamist married Louisa Berdenmuller, now Louisa Eicke, of New York; in 1862 Miss Virginia Saunders, of Richmond, Virginia, who shortly after died; in 1867 Virginia Delaney, a widow woman of Boston, by whom he had one child; and about a year ago Miss Mary B. Distan of this city, who still resides here. The much-wived man came to account yesterday afternoon before the Grand Jury, where an extraordinary scene occurred. When Contarini's case was called the Grand Jury were aware of the presence in this city of

THREE OF HIS WIVES,

so they resolved to have him fully identified before them if possible. Notifying the jailer to bring him from his cell, they also selected five or six citizens from the lobby of the Court-house to appear in the Grand Jury room, and when they and Contarini arrived the latter was placed in the ranks with the citizens, and thus awaited the arrival of the wives. The first to enter was a Boston lady, who claims that she was lawfully married to Contarini, or Contri, as he then called himself in 1867, and that she

HAS A CHILD BY HIM.

She gives her name as Virginia Contri. From other sources it was ascertained that her maiden name was Jane McSheky, and that she first married a man named Delaney, who is now dead, and that when Contarini married her she kept a grocery store in Boston; one man says it was a drinking place. She was quite fashionably attired, wearing a black dress with blue basque, jaunty jockey, and wore curls. She took a seat facing the Grand Jury. The next to enter was her sister, who came on here as a companion for her. She gives her name as Mrs. Lucy M. Gore. The third to enter was Louisa Eicke, Contarini's New York wife, and the fourth, Mary B. Contarini, of this city (Miss Distan), Contarini's latest wife. When all the

WIVES WERE SEATED,

each one was asked in turn to rise and look at the men who were ranged in a row before them. The Boston lady rose first, took a quick survey, and then, walking right up to Contarini, and pointing her finger at him, said, with great emotion,

"OH, YOU VILLAIN!

"I would mark you anywhere!" Then, turning to the Grand Jury, she said: "That's the man; that's Contarini!" The foreman of the jury asked her, "Is that the man to whom you were married in Boston?" At this the Boston lady commenced to weep freely, and exclaimed with sobs, "Yes, that's the scamp that married me, and spent $10,000 of my money gambling and horse-racing!" Here she again wept bitterly, and once more said, "He took every cent I had, and in a week afterward my place of business was destroyed by fire.

CONTARINI STOOD LIKE A STATUE,

having given her only one quick, sharp glance. He said never a word while the Boston wife heaped upon him in "red hot" words her extreme contempt. Presently her sister got up and walked towards her. One of the Grand Jury, supposing the last named to be another of Contarini's wives, said to her, "Where did you marry him?" She replied, in a very indignant manner, "Oh, no; the Lord save me, I never married him." And then both of the ladies hurled such violent language at Contarini that an officer had to be called in to keep them quiet. The next to rise and come forward was the New York wife, Louisa Eicke, a young, good-natured little creature. Upon Contarini's preliminary examination, some time since, she in Court with her quick and sharp replies to counsel. As she advanced toward the prisoner her face was wrinkled with laughter, and she exclaimed laughingly, "Ah! here you are again, eh! Do you know me now?" Then, turning to the Grand Jury, she said, "This is the man Contarini; but I don't care a snap for him. I never wanted to see him again," and then walked away, still laughing, Contarini not noticing her. Her identification of the prisoner over, his last wife was called.

CREATED QUITE A SENSATION

She was formerly Mary B. Distan. She advanced, evidently with much feeling, and, recognizing the prisoner, and he her, she said, alluding to the conduct of the other woman,

"I NEVER WAS SO INSULTED IN MY LIFE."

She then took her seat. That concluded the scene, when all the females were conducted to a retiring room, where they talked together in such an excited manner as to disturb the Grand Jury and the County Court, and once more an officer had to quiet them. It is strange, with all the above facts in view, that Contarini's last wife still adheres to him faithfully, and is as

TRUE AS STEEL.

Her father is determined to give the scamp a fair hearing, and is the sole instigator of the present proceedings. He is paying for the labors of both the prosecution and the defense—a proceeding almost unheard of before. But the old man is honest and is doing all for his daughter's sake. She is so infatuated with the prisoner that she believes the whole thing is a conspiracy to ruin him, and will not believe him guilty till he admits his crime himself. He will never do that.

Every Tooth is Worth a Diamond.

[From the Herald of Health.]

Feats of strength performed with the teeth are absurd; those who indulge in them ought to be punished like that youth who, says Dr. Lemartie, broke all his front teeth, who bet he would throw over his head a chair, which he held with his teeth by the upper part of the back-board to achieve that noble feat. Another fellow, more imprudent, caused himself to be hoisted up from the ground to a window by means of a rope, which he held in his teeth. When he reached a certain height he lost his four incisors, and broke one of his legs in the fall. Some others, says the Doctor, find pleasure in grinding drinking-glasses between their teeth, and wounding their mouths grievously in the attempt. One would suppose that the life of these maniacs is a perpetual challenge to the Almighty who gave it to them. The loss of a tooth is a real misfortune, since it cannot be repaired. A tooth is worth a diamond says one of our authors. Remember these few words and try to get them in practice.

The San Francisco Health Lift, 24 Post st.

The Cobbs, or Cobb's Island.

Cobb's Island, off the coast of Virginia, is owned by a family named Cobb, and is described as follows by a correspondent of the Washington Star:

"OLD MAN COBB"

was a Cape Cod whaler in his early youth, and from the "trying out" of sharks' livers probably serves to keep green the memories of his early life, just as the retired soap-boiler found it necessary for his comfort to go down and assist his boys on "melting days." He claims to have killed more whales than any other man in America, and fixes the number that he has harpooned at over four hundred. But it seems that a considerable proportion of this large "string" were the small black whale, a large herd of which got cooped up in Barnstable Bay and were stranded in such numbers that Cobb says he could step from one to another to lance them.

OCCASIONALLY A WHALE

finds its way into Cobb's Island Bay, and if it does it is pretty sure to be captured, as when embayed the whale seems to lose all its wits, and instead of seeing the channel out it makes a blind rush straight ahead and gets stranded. Some years ago a large sperm whale was captured here and taken to Washington for exhibition by old man Cobb.

The Cobbs, father and three sons, are physically and otherwise. The "old man" Nathan F. Cobb, is, as I have said, 70 years old, but is a tough, active bunch of sinews, capable of greater physical exertion than most young men. His oldest son, Nathan, has a physique that would delight Walt Whitman or Walt Whitman's biographer, John Borroughs, standing six feet one inch "in his stockings" and developed in proportion. Blue eyed, with bronzed, heavy-bearded face, contrasting with a white, full forehead and white teeth; quiet, gentle, undemonstrative in manner, like all large, perfectly healthy, well-balanced natures, he is a perfect specimen of the Adamic man. He is a born fisher and hunter, and is such a lover of the open air that it is not easy to find him about the hotel premises; but corner him for an hour when he is at leisure to talk, and nothing can be more delightful than to draw out his curious lore about fish and birds, air and water, and all the aspects of nature, as studied for years by a devotee. Wonderful stories are told of his feats of strength, and the same of his brother Warren—a man of less height, but of powerful build. The old man says that his youngest son, Albert, is of the family—that a barrel of flour is about as much as he can manage to lift at arm's length, but that he hasn't got his muscle yet. The sort of active, open-air, semi-maritime life led here would seem to be favorable to robust development, for there are a dozen men connected with the Island as boatmen, or otherwise, scarcely inferior to the Cobbs in brawny and enormous strength—Titanic men like Frank Reynolds, Tom Dunton, and the Doughtys. Notably good-tempered and obliging are these robust "toilers of the sea," and notably fair in their charges, a fact which also should be noted in favor of Cobb's Island generally, and which strikes the visitor the more agreeably after being fleeced and victimized in the way of charges at more pretentious and less comfortable watering-places. The Cobbs superintend the various departments of their hotel business in person, and, so far, have undertaken to build it up without capital other than the labor of their own hands. The original frame building brought from Cape Cod has been added to until the cluster of hotel-buildings, cottages, etc., presents the appearance of a small village.

RATHER A REMARKABLE FAMILY,

THE ONLY WEAKLY ONE

THE FASHIONABLES

begin to invade the place, and in a year or two the ox-cart that now takes the baggage up from the wharf will be noways equal to the burden of Saratoga trunks. But the place will lose much of its primitive charm and simplicity. Already northern hotel men, with an eye to "biz," have offered $100,000 for the island, which has been refused. It was bought by old man Cobb in 1839 for $50 in cash and $150 in salt! Another season it will have various improvements, chief and most needed of which is a daily communication by steamer with Fortress Monroe, by which the tedious Cherry-stone route will be avoided.

Precious Stones in Queensland.

A precious stone has been found on the Manumbar Run, by a shepherd. It was sent to a lapidary in Sydney, and both he, and the late Geological Surveyor of South Queensland, pronounced it to be a genuine diamond of very pure water. It is in form a perfect octahedron, with curved faces, remarkably bright and sparkling.

The Industrial Exhibition.

On the way home from visiting the Fair at the Pavilion, many will stop in to rest at the famous Bivalve Oyster and Chop House, 640 Market street, near the corner of Kearny street, where they can find fresh Eastern transplanted oysters served up in every style. This house is noted for having the finest private rooms upstairs of any in the city. Large rooms en suite for supper and wedding parties. Here can be found the finest wines, including Roederer, Krug, Private Cuvee, and all the best brands. The Bivalve is open nearly all night. This is the place to get your oysters after the Fair.

The Orchestral Grand Piano.

Hallet, Davis & Co., makers—has arrived. This is the finest piano in the world. Visitors at the Fair should see this instrument. Other styles of these celebrated pianos can be seen at the ware rooms of W. G. Badger, sole agent, No. 7 Sansome street. 7

ROME WASN'T BUILT IN A DAY

BY ALICE CAREY.

The boy who does a stroke and stops,
Will ne'er a great man be;
'Tis the aggregate of single drops
That makes the sea the sea.

The mountain was not at its birth
A mountain, so to speak;
The little atoms of sand and earth
Have made its peak a peak.

Not all at once the morning streams
The gold above the gray;
'Tis thousand little yellow gleams
That makes the day the day.

Not from the snow drift May awakes
In purples, reds, and greens;
Spring's whole bright retinue it takes
To make her queen of queens.

Upon the orchard rain must fall,
And soak from branch to root;
And blossoms bloom and fade withal,
Before the fruit is fruit.

The farmer needs must sow and till,
And wait the wheaten bread,
Then cradle, thresh and go to mill,
Before the bread is bread.

Swift heel may get the early shout,
But spite of all the din,
It is the patient holding out
That makes the winner win.

Make this your motto than, at start,
'Twill help to smooth the way,
And steady up both hand and heart—
"Rome wasn't built in a day."

The Michigan Monstrosity Again.

[From the Jackson (Mich.) Citizen, Aug 30.]

Mr. Ira Gavitt, of Summit, was tried yesterday afternoon, before Judge Dyer, for assault and battery upon William Henry Forbes, the boy monstrosity that has occupied the public attention for a few weeks past. The prosecution proved, without the shadow of a doubt, that when Gavitt took this boy from the poor-house he was in no way different from other boys of his age. The testimony, in brief, was as follows:

Gavitt starved the boy until he would crawl under the table and pick up the crumbs from the floor; he has been seen to beg salt water from the cook, and, pouring it into an old piece of a frying-pan, cook the outside leaves of a cabbage, which he would eat with his fingers; he was not allowed to eat with the family, but given a mess of stuff upon this self same frying pan; he had been compelled to sleep in an old shanty, upon a pile of straw; it was proven that Gavitt was wont to chain the boy with a log chain, and that on one occasion he tied him hand and foot, bundled him into a wagon, and carried him in this manner from Spring Arbor to his home. Dr. Turner, who examined the boy, testified that the diseased state of his stomach had been brought about by starvation and misuse, in his opinion, and that he thought the case a curable one.

Mr. Welch, the turnkey at the jail, testified that since Forbes had been under his care his appetite had diminished, and that now he only ate two-thirds as much as when he came to jail. It was also proven first that the boy stole only food.

According to the evidence, Gavitt starved, beat, and otherwise misused the boy until he became diseased both in mind and body and a hideous burlesque upon mankind.

The jury were out about an hour and brought in a verdict of "guilty." Justice Dyer accordingly fined Gavitt $50 in default of the payment of which he was to go to the workhouse for 90 days. Gavitt procured the necessary money during the evening, and paid the fine. The trial occupied the entire afternoon, and the jury did not bring in a verdict until 8 o'clock. The court-room was filled to overflowing, the previous accounts of Forbes having excited unusual interest in the case.

The boy is still in jail, and is to be tried upon a charge of petit larceny.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table.

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

THE HINDOO SCEPTIC.

I think till I weary with thinking,
Said the sad-eyed Hindoo king,
And I see but shadows around me—
Illusion in everything.

How knowest thou aught of God,
Of His favor or His wrath?
Can the little fish tell what the lion thin
Or map out the eagle's path?

Can the finite the infinite search?
Did the blind discover the stars?
Is the thought that I think a thought,
Or a throb of the brain in its bars?

For ought that my eye can discern,
Your God is what you think good,
Yourself fished back from the glass,
When the light pours on it in flood.

You preach to me to be just;
And this is His realm you say,
And the good are dying of hunger,
And the bad gorge every day.

You say that He loveth mercy,
And the famine is not yet gone;
That He hateth the shedder of blood,
And He slayeth us every one.

You say that my soul shall live,
That the spirit can never die—
If He were content when I was not,
Why not when I have passed by?

You say I must have a meaning
So must dung, and its meaning is flow,
What if our souls are but nurture
For lives that are greater than ours

When the fish swims out of the water,
When the bird soars out of the blue,
Man's thought may transcend man's kn
edge,
And your God be no reflex of you.
—London Spectato

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San F cisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ab to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to ceed. This fact accounts for the large b ness done by Winant & Co., the famous o men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 K street, two doors below Kearny, between California and Alhambra Theatres. These oysters seem fatter than anywhere else think Winant fattens them somehow or o —and are more artistically served up. Ev one goes there to eat new laid eggs from nant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Cha Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort everyone.

Every Form.

CHANGE OF PROPRIETORSHIP

H. H. PEARSON,
LATE OF THE RUSS HOUSE,

HAVING BOUGHT THE INTEREST of Messrs. Tubbs & Patten, of the Cosmopolitan Hotel, has secured a lease for a term of years of this well known Hotel. Its previous reputation assures its being kept in first-class style, while in order to keep pace with the times he intends to make many important reductions in the scale of charges. His intention is to make it a family and business house, while his connection with the traveling public warrants him in expecting a large amount of country trade. The prices range from two to three dollars a day for ordinary accommodation. Board by the week or month on contract. The table will be kept on the most liberal scale, and many improvements introduced. The spacious reading room is the finest of any hotel in the city, while the furniture and fittings generally are superior to those of any hotel in San Francisco. The house will be thoroughly overhauled. MR. PEARSON assumed proprietorship on last inst. The Elevator attached to the house will be used as usual. au5 1m

Too Democratic.

Our Democratic neighbor, the Examiner, has the following:

JENKINS REDIVIVUS.—"Signor Rospigliosi, a son of Prince Rospigliosi, of Rome, one of the noblest and wealthiest families of Italy, arrived overland last evening, and is stopping at the Occidental Hotel." This is what Jenkins says, and Jenkins is posted in these matters.

Jenkins is always alive. Jenkins knows that a great many people will be interested in knowing that Prince Rosatpigliosi is at the Occidental Hotel and therefore tells them. It isn't any more un-democratic than the Examiner's telling its readers in the same issue that a number of Japanese gentlemen arrived by the China.

Commercial Travelers.

The Bulletin blames San Francisco merchants because they do not send out commercial travelers and thus build up their business as Chicago has done. We will bet that just as soon as San Francisco merchants do this the Bulletin will have another article headed "The Mercantile Drummer Nuisance," showing that no respectable merchants employ travelers, but are content to make their business known by advertising in the Bulletin or Call.

A French Criticism of English Ladies.

M. Taire, the French Ruskin, has lately returned to Paris from a visit to England, and has the following to say about English ladies:

"From five to seven in the park there is a great display of beauty, not unadorned. The faces are lovely and the dresses costly, but as a rule there is a sad want of taste. The colors are outrageously loud; there are green flounces, gold jewelry, floating gauze, mounds of hair unartistically arranged, and on the top of all this scaffolding imperceptible little hats! The hat is overladen with ornament, the hair is glued down too firmly on the temples, the mantle or jacket falls in a shapeless mass over the monstrously swelling petticoat, and the whole attire with its plain blues and yellows jars upon the eye. In broad noonday this is especially the case. The day before yesterday, for instance, at Hampton Court, among shopkeepers' wives the dresses were awfully ridiculous. The favorite color was a fierce violet, with golden girdles at the waist which would have sent an artist into fits.

"The fact is, that except among the upper classes, English women take a pleasure in making guys of themselves. Under all this heap of badly put on clothes we can guess at the existence of sound, healthy, well-formed figures—but it is mere guesswork. The features are generally classically symmetrical, but too often remind one of the sheep's face. Many are mere babies, new wax dolls with glass eyes, so utterly empty they seem of all idea. Other faces have grown red, and suggest the tints of raw beefsteak. A few go to the extreme of ugliness—stork's necks and heron's paws, with a huge battlement of protruding front teeth—the jaw of the carnivora.

"A day or two ago, near Hyde Park corner, I remained entranced with admiration at the sight of two young girls—16 and 18—in a cloud of muslin, tall, slim, active and healthy; their figures as perfect as their faces—reminding one of those astounding flowers you only see at very special flower shows—a whiteness as of the lily or the orchid. And, over and above that, a merry, innocent, happy look. In addition, crowds of young women on horseback—not riding to exhibit themselves, but to enjoy their gallop in the fresh morning air—not a grain of coquetry; their gestures are frank and open; truth and candor gleam upon you through their clear blue eyes; they shake hands with you as a man would—no gaudy nick-nacks about their dress. Sometimes their father or brother stops to have a chat; they stop and listen, and thus accustom themselves to grave ideas.' These fathers and brothers do one good to look at—expressive, determined faces, which betoken experience of life without that used-up look so common with us—less inclined than we are to smiles and the manœuvres of politeness, but yet with a something about them that leaves a kind of feeling of respect, esteem, and occasionally confidence."

A Pleasant Bed Fellow.

It is told of an old, illiterate resident of Posey county, Indiana, that sometimes when asleep he would repeat accurately long sermons that he had heard, and lectures upon scientific subjects, of which he has not the slightest conception or recollection when awake.—Ex.

The telegraph informs us that his wife beat his brains out with a flat iron last Tuesday.

Might Have Been Worse.

The following paragraph is going the rounds of the press:

A physician in Michigan took a poor boy's coat, pantaloons and vest in payment for professional services rendered.

Good enough. Some doctors would have taken his life.

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spoilt, send them to the What Cheer Laundry. •

Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

Pleasant Arrangement.

At Huntsville, Tenn., when the regular telegraph operator is absent, his little seven-year old daughter takes his place, receiving and transmitting messages with perfect accuracy.—Ex.

Of course the little dear makes mistakes sometimes; such as "Will send William's corpse to-morrow" for "William's cape," "Mary will bring the twins with her" for "Mary will bring the trees," and other slight errors; but then, what can be expected of one so young? If the people receiving telegrams through Huntsville can stand it, we can. The child must learn, and it keeps her out of mischief.

Not so far Wrong.

A clerk of an old Scotch merchant made a mistake in computing the profits of his house during the preceding year. The old Scotchman, not a little surprised at the amount, cast his eye over the figures and exclaimed, "Why, ye dom scoundrel, ye've added up the year of our Laird among the pounds!"

We dare say that clerk had been told that time was money so often that he really believed it.

Well! Well!

The Bulletin which praised Nahl's pothouse picture of "The Rape of the Sabines," painted with nice bright colors and plenty of nakedness to suit the purchaser, has the cheek to write an article on "Art Exhibitions" and lament that true art is [not encouraged in San Francisco.

The Chinese have penetrated 24 States and 7 territories.

Throw Out Your Chest!

A man should stand up like a man, throw out his chest and throw his shoulders back, thus giving room for the free action of the lungs. The Champion and Pivot-action Braces sold by C. H. Burr, sole agent for the Pacific Coast, 618 Market street, will be found to afford efficient aid in accomplishing this. They are superior to all others, and cost no more. •

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium. •

California Theatre.

"The School for Scandal" was produced last night with a splendid cast and in excellent style. Mrs. Bowers' Lady Teazle was a very fine piece of acting and all the parts were well filled. To-night the historical drama of "Mary Stuart" will be played. There will be a matinee to-morrow when the same play will constitute the entertainment. Admission to all parts of the house will be half price.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The highly successful drama of "Pigeon, the Torment" will be played to-night, at the matinee to-morrow, and to-morrow night for the last time. All should see it before it is withdrawn. On Sunday night "Under the Gaslight" will be produced with a strong cast.

Alhambra Theatre.

This cosy little theatre is crowded every night and everyone is delighted with the entertainment offered. The versatile and amusing Billy Emerson; the artistic and original Vivian; the prince of Ethiopian comedians, Charley Howard; and the incomparable Sheridan and Mack, appear nightly. Matinee to-morrow.

Bella Union Theatre.

To-night Ella Wesner will appear in her popular character songs; the talented Reynolds Brothers in songs and dances; the ever-popular Aline Le Favre as the Blonde of the Harem;" Miss Ethel Stanley and Edgar Stanley in songs and duets and the rest of the company in a varied entertainment.

Theatre Comique.

To-night the popular comedian, Harry Courtaine, will make his appearance at this house in the farce of "The Wrong Woman in the Wrong Bed." In addition to this attraction the charming Little Maggie Knight, will present her lightning changes, and the large and talented company of male and female artistes will appear in a varied programme.

Oxford Theatre.

After to-night the great sensation burlesque of "Ready," which has proved such a success must be removed to make way for other novelties. Charley Vincent, Lew Parker, Cotton, Dan Lowrey, Miss Livingston, Amelia Dean, Estelle, and many others, appear nightly in a pleasing performance.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Obadiu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

The Skating Rink.

Who Don't Know

That to achieve the greatest desideratum in business "patronage" a person must be liberal in his outlay, by purchasing the best material, employing the best workmen, and seeing that his patrons are attentively and courteously waited on, and in a style compatible with the dignity of the establishment he pretends to manage. Such is the golden rule practiced at East's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, as is verified by the bon ton seen there daily, who are likewise to be seen at the Opera and all distinguished resorts of the city. x

How an Advertisement Works.

There is a good deal of truth in the following description of the effect of an advertisement. "Constant dropping wears away a stone," and constant advertising compels success.

The first time a man looks at an advertisement, he does not see it.

The second time, he does not notice it.

The third time, he is dimly conscious of it.

The fourth time, he faintly remembers having seen something of the kind before.

The fifth time, he half reads it.

The sixth time, he turns up his nose at it.

The seventh time, he reads it through and says "Pshaw!"

The eighth time, he ejaculates "Here's that confounded thing again!"

The ninth time, he wonders "if there is anything in it."

The tenth time, he thinks it might possibly suit some one else's.

The eleventh time, he thinks he will ask his neighbor if he has tried or knows any thing about it.

The twelfth time he wonders how the advertiser can make it pay.

The thirteenth time, he rather thinks it must be a good thing.

The fourteenth time, he happens to think it is just what he has wanted for a long time.

The fifteenth, he resolves to try it as soon as he can afford it.

The sixteenth time he examines the address carefully and makes a memorandum of it.

The seventeenth time he feels tantalized to think he is hardly able to afford it.

The eighteenth time, he is painfully reminded how much he needs that particular excellent article.

The nineteenth time, he counts his money to see how much he would have left it he bought it, and

The twentieth time, he frantically rushes out in a fit of desperation, and buys.

Sea Air—Who is Benefitted by It.

Sea air oftentimes exercises most beneficial effects, where sea bathing would be equally injurious.

That a residence at the sea-side is generally healthy can not be doubted, from the fact that even during the most sultry heat of summer, the air is constantly in motion. It is moreover free from fogs and vapor, and the particles of salt with which the air is impregnated greatly tend to lend tone to the system. It is particularly beneficial in cases of disposition to consumption and scrofula, intense nervous susceptibility evinced by hysteria, and such like nervous affections, disarrangement of the bronchial organs, dyspepsia and like complaints, which are much more rare on the sea coast than in the inland parts of the country. The exhilarating influence of the sea air is proved by the fact that those who indulge in extra quantities of wine and spirits for the purpose of maintaining a comfortable condition of constitutional force for the discharge of business, are able to dispense with the same when at the sea-side, the excitement produced by fermented liquors being compensated by increased appetite, induced by the extra amount of air and exercise taken. The rosy, healthy appearance of the face after a sea sojourn is greatly attributable to particles of salt adhering to the skin and exciting to action the capillary blood vessels and cutaneous nerves. In a word, feebleness of the constitution and an impaired state of health are generally indicated by pallor and flabbiness, upon which condition the action of the salt water exercises more influence than even change of temperature, as it acts powerfully upon the muscular fiber.

A Miner's Experience.

An old miner who has experienced explosions, thus describes them: "As soon as the explosion occurs, it drives like a whirlwind, and with force enough to carry any weight before it in the direction of the nearest vent. In going it sweeps along the ceiling, tearing away props, brattices and everything else, even the pillars of coal. The unfortunate miner who may be within its influence, instinctively throws himself flat upon the ground. Before he can rise the gas has encountered the body of air moving in the opposite direction. They come together with an elastic shock, sufficient to change the direction of the gaseous tornado, and back it comes with a rush, lifting the miner and flinging him probably a distance of fifty feet against the ragged coal. Behind again there is a shock of pure air and foul, and again the gas whirls back with undiminished fury, lifting the miner once more and dashing him back from whence he originally came. Again and again this terrible battledore is repeated. Nothing can resist its impetuosity. Meanwhile the terrible afterdamp accumulates with surprising rapidity. This is composed of the black damp which hangs from the roof, and the white damp which gathers along the floor. It joins the gas at every rush, and adds power and volume to its fury. The helpless miner struggles with super-human strength to resist the buffettings of the mine fiend, but now the damp begins to seize upon his senses. The sensation is not unpleasant. He feels a slight dizziness; he becomes weak and sleepy; he staggers; his knees lose all their power and he falls."

There is Nothing

Which attracts public attention more than a genteel gait in either sex, to acquire which it is necessary that children's shoes should be made to fit well, which may be accomplished by going to East's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, where our scions of respectability are daily to be seen emerging with their purchases. x

THE "DEEP SNOW."

A Notable Illinois Event of Forty Years Ago—Interesting Reminiscences

The following graphic account of the "deep snow," an event so often referred to by the old residents of Illinois, is from an address delivered by President Sturtevant of Illinois College, before a reunion of the old settlers of Morgan, Cass and Scott counties, at Jacksonville, on the 10th ultimo:

The Constitution of your Society defines

AN OLD SETTLER.

He is one who resided here before the deep snow. The thought has occurred to me that it might be interesting to many in this audience to be informed of what we mean by the deep snow. We shall have no difficulty in making ourselves understood on that subject. In the interval between Christmas, 1830 and New Year, 1831, of course forty years ago last New Year, snow fell all over Central Illinois to the depth of fully three feet on the level. Then came a rain, with weather so cold that it froze as it fell, forming a crust of ice over this three feet of snow nearly, if not quite, strong enough to bear a man, and finally, over this crust of ice, there were a few inches of very light snow. The clouds passed away and the wind came down upon us from the northeast with extraordinary ferocity. For weeks, certainly not less than two weeks, the mercury in the thermometer tube was not, on any one morning, higher than twelve degrees below zero. The wind was a steady, fierce gale from the northwest day and night. The air was filled with flying snow, which blinded the eyes and almost stopped the breath of any one who attempted to face it. No man could, for any considerable length of time, make his way on foot against it.

THE STORY OF SUCH A WINTER

as this may be pleasant enough to hear, to one who hopes never to experience it; but the situation of the inhabitants of this country was certainly rather alarming. The people were almost wholly from regions more southern than this, and knew nothing by experience of dealing with such a depth of snow and such cold. Indeed, I had then some experience of a New England Winter, and have had some since, but I have to this day never seen any other which bore any comparison to this. Jacksonville had then about four hundred people. We were dependent chiefly, for keeping warm, on having plenty of wood, for our houses were certainly far from being warmly built; and yet our supply for the Winter was not, as is more commonly the case now, piled at our doors before the beginning of Winter. It is in the forest, and must be brought us, through the snow, and by people who were quite unaccustomed to it.

COULD IT BE DONE?

It was at first not quite apparent that it could. Our corn was in the fields, over which the covering of snow was spread, and to a great extent the wheat for our bread was in sacks in like condition. Snow paths could not be broken after the New England fashion. There a few hours of wind blows all the snow from the exposed places, and deposits it in the valleys and behind hills, where the wind cannot reach it. A little energy with ox teams and sleds will break out a road, and there is no more trouble till the next snow storm.

THERE IS NO TRUER PICTURE

than that given by Whittier in his "Snow-Bound" of the frolic of breaking the roads after a great snow storm. But nothing of that sort would have been of much use in our case. In this level country there is no end to the drifting as long as the snow lasts and the wind blows. There are no covered places in which the snow can be driven, consequently the path would fill behind a team, or any number of teams in a few minutes, so that its track could not be seen. The only way in which snow paths were finally made was by going as nearly as we could in the same place, till the snow was finally trodden hard, and rounded up like a turnpike. The snow-fall produced constant sleighing for nine weeks, and when at last warm rains and sunshine prevailed, about the first of March, in melting the snow from fields and untrodden places, the roads remained as lines of ice, which disappeared but gradually.

THE NEW ENGLANDER

has scarcely any such experience of Winter as this—certainly not unless it be quite in northern New England. We had no railroads then, nor indeed any dream of them. But our mail communication with the rest of the world was quite interrupted for several weeks continuously. We in those days had only one mail a week, and that on horseback from Springfield, and to bring that through that snow required more energy than mail boys in those days were master of.

I SAY WE HAD NO RAILWAYS

in those days. But how little good they would have done us if we had had them. I am free to confess that my memory of the deep snow produces in my mind to this day an unconquerable aversion to long journeys by railway in the Winter. Should such a Winter as that again occur in Central Illinois, our railways would be as useless to us, for five or six weeks together, as though they were buried a thousand feet in the earth. The cuts would be all filled, and they would fill again in half an hour behind any train that might dig its way through. It is a consolation that such a Winter has in the memory of man. But what has happened once may happen again. If it does we shall get a very definite idea how important our railroads are to us, and we shall be very glad that the snow is not over the telegraph wire. I cannot say, after all, that in town there was any very serious amount of suffering—we did get food and fuel and a good deal of fun and frolic out of the deep snow, though at the expense of not a few frozen ears, noses and faces. But the loss to the farmers, in stock and crops, was very considerable. Some varieties of wild game were nearly exterminated. Deer were entirely unable to protect themselves from the dogs and the huntsmen.

NEVER OCCURRED BUT ONCE

I think, then, my audience will agree with me, that the line drawn by this association to define an old settler is a very definite and palpable one.

Victory Perches Upon Our

A GERMAN ON BULLS.

How to Get a Mad Bull Out of a Furniture Shop.

The New York Sun of August 31st tells this story: "A great multitude stood around Hills & Tooker's furniture store, near West Broadway. Every one was excited and there was much talk about broken wagons, mad bull, smashed furniture and so on. A tall, stout German who carried a huge stick in his hand and who was violently gesticulating and evidently explaining the situation to the crowd was asked the trouble. 'Drouble! Drouble!' said the German; 'dere vos

EVER SO MOOCH DROUBLE;

Den der owner he come up und dakes der bull und he goes his way as naturally und as quietly as anydinks.'"

Here the speaker drew a long breath and said, "Dat's all—danks pe to Cod dat da bull he doesn't get mad."

The Industrial Exhibition.

On the way home after visiting the Fair at the Pavilion, many will stop in to rest at the famous Bivalve Oyster and Chop House, 640 Market street, near the corner of Kearny street, where they can find fresh Eastern transplanted oysters served up in every style. This house is noted for having the finest private rooms upstairs of any in the city. Large rooms en suite for supper and wedding parties. Here can be found the finest wines, including Roederer, Krug, Private Ouvee, and all the best brands. The Bivalve is open nearly all night. This is the place to get your oysters after the Fair. •

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table. •

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them. •

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 street, two doors below Kearny, between California and Alhambra Theatres. The oysters seem fatter than anywhere else think Winant fattens them somehow or —and are more artistically served up. one goes there to eat new laid eggs from nant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch beautifully fitted up little parlors, and C Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort everyone.

Lotta.

The New York Herald thus criticises Lotta's first performance:

If banjo playing, jig dancing, and a free use of slang phraseology, and an utter abandonment of all that woman is loved for by men makes actresses, then is Miss Lotta (whose lithograph hangs in every drug shop, cigar store and bar room), the greatest actress in America. In all the range of English fiction it is impossible for us to recall such a beautiful and tender one as that of Little Nell, which the great master drew with his powerful and humanity-loving pen. Yet last night it seemed a burlesque, this noble character of the beautiful young maiden who died by the English roadside: and, however good banjo playing may be in the abstract, it could not possibly redeem the fault. And then the dual character of the "Slavey" or Cockney domestic whom Swiveller loved, has never in the memory of an Englishman used such purely American slang phrases as "That's played," "Give us a rest," and "How is that for high?"

Tom Taylor on Theatres.

There are very many, of all classes, who have ceased to frequent the theatre, because they have ceased to find what they want there—comedy which will amuse without disgusting by excess or offending by indecency; tragedy which will move and elevate without repelling by imperfectness and bad taste of impersonation; drama which will stir and enthrall without descending to vulgar clap-trap, crawling realism, or the mere physical excitement now christened sensation. It is to this public that those who want to reform the English theatre must appeal. It is believed that such a public exists in London in numbers amply sufficient for the support of a theatre of moderate size, managed with business-like exactness, activity, intelligence and good taste, and worked by a fuller, better and more permanent company than is now usually thought necessary. A management appealing to such a public would naturally become the rallying-point of artists of higher aims and ambitions than the herd, would aim at gradually gathering round it the best-educated, steadiest and most accomplished actors and actresses; for from it they would be certain of treatment grateful to their feelings as artists and in accordance with their habits as ladies and gentlemen.

The engagements should be more permanent than is now the rule. There would be inducements to accept lower salaries than are asked for short and precarious service, in the shape not only of yearly contracts, but of bonuses, ultimate association in profits, and, if possible, provision for old age. The adequate filling of inferior parts should be encouraged by payments for each performance, like the French feux, and by giving all the principal members of the company their turn of distinction and display. It should be a condition of such a reformed theatre that two bills at least should be running pari passu, so as to insure a change of performance on alternate nights; and the company should be strong enough to allow of this interchange.

In short, what should be aimed at is a theatre resembling, longe intervalle though it might be, the Theatre Francaise, with a subsidy or guarantee fund from private, not public sources, to lift it during its minority above the necessity of providing from the nightly receipts for the nightly expenses; a body of actors of position and experience, looking forward to becoming partners in the prospects of the enterprise, and corresponding to the societaires of the Comedie, elected in the first instance by a council of subscribers, but subsequently by a committee, including representatives of the societaires themselves, as well as of the subscribers; and besides these, actors of less standing answering to the pensionnaires of the Comedie, engaged for fixed terms and having no interest in profits.

Salaries of Actors.

Mr. Bunn, the ex-manager of Drury Lane and Covent Garden Theatre, makes some curious revelations respecting the salaries paid to English actors and actresses. It is difficult to conceive upon what grounds their demands were regulated. For instance, in 1831, when Edmund Kean was putting into the treasury of Drury Lane a nightly average of £484, he was content to sign an agreement for three years at £8, £9, and £10 per week, and considered that the committee acted with singular liberality in canceling that article and substituting one for £20 a night; but at the termination of this agreement he stipulated for and received to the close of his career £50 per night.

In 1821-21 Charles Young had a weekly salary of £20 at Covent Garden, and in the following year he had a nightly one of the same amount at Drury Lane—a scale of remuneration according to which he was paid until his retirement from the stage.

In the very height of their popularity, such actors as Munden, Fawcett, Quick, Edwin, Irish Johnstone, had £14 a week and in 1812, Mathews—the Mathews—the most extraordinary actor that ever lived, says in a letter to Mrs. Mathews on the subject of a proposed engagement at Coventgarden. "Now, to my offer—which I think stupendous and magnificent—£17 per week."

John Kemble, for acting and managing, had a weekly salary of £36.

Miss O'Neil's salary at the beginning of her brilliant career was £15, and never exceeded £25 per week.

George Cook had £20 per week.

Mrs. Jordan's salary, in the zenith of her popularity, was £31 10s. per week.

Mr. Charles Kemble, until he became his own manager, never had more than £20 per week.

Dowton £12, and never more than £20 per week.

In 1822 Mr. Macready had 20 pounds sterling per week; in 1832, and up to 1837, he had 30 pounds sterling per week, and in 1839 he demanded and received 25 pounds sterling per night.

In 1832, Mr. Power had 20 pounds sterling per week, and some time afterwards, and until he left the country he was in the receipt of 120 pounds sterling per week.

In 1822, Mr. Farren had 16 pounds sterling per week, in 1832, 30 pounds sterling per week, and has since received 40 pounds sterling per week.

In 1822, Mr. Liston had 17 pounds sterling per week; he then sprang up to 50 and 60 per week, and finally to 20 per night.

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium. •

WHERE TO-DAY'S EDITION OF "FIGARO" GOES.—To-day's edition of FIGARO will circulate among FIFTEEN AMUSEMENT AUDIENCES, including matinees, the theatres Saturday and Sunday evenings, and City Gardens and Woodward's Gardens on Sunday afternoon. Besides this FIGARO circulates throughout the city and in all the boats and railroads. Is FIGARO a good advertising medium?

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—Immense audiences have greeted the talented Mrs. Bowers every evening of this week. On Monday and Tuesday evenings, "Elizabeth" was played, on Wednesday "The Hunchback," on Thursday "The School for Scandal," and last night the historical drama of "Mary Stuart" was presented in exceilent style. Mrs. Bowers impersonation of the unhappy Queen, was admirable throughout, and she was ably supported by John McCullough as the devoted Douglas, Mrs. Sophie Edwin as Elizabeth; Miss Minnie Walton who played Katharine Seyton in a charmingly natural manner, Mrs. Judah as Lady Douglas, and the other members of the company. "Mary Stuart" will be played at the matinee to-day and this evening for the last time. The management will present a most attractive programme of performances for next week. It is as follows: Monday "Love's Sacrifice," Tuesday "Romeo and Juliet," Wednesday "Ingomar," Thursday "Court and Stage," Friday "Elizabeth," and on Saturday "Macbeth." "Elizabeth" will be played at Saturday's matinee. There are many who can and will attend the California Theatre every night next week, and enjoy witnessing Mrs. Bowers in all these selections from her large repertoire of pieces. Mrs. Bowers attempts no character in which she does not excell, therefore, no matter which of these plays those who are not regular theatre-goers select to see her in, they cannot fail to be pleased.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—This afternoon and evening "Pigeon, the Torment" will be played for the last times. To-morrow evening the ever-popular drama "Under the Gaslight" will be revived with appropriate scenery, a strong cast, and the original grand railway sensation.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—Among the features of the splendid bill to be presented to-night are Billy Emerson's Telegraph song, received nightly with roars of laughter; Vivian' Strolling Through the Fair;" Sheridan and Mack in the "Oakland Belle and 'Frisco Swell," and in Dutch Specialties, and Charley Howard in "Old Eph's Dream of Home.' The house will be crowded, therefore an early attendance will be necessary in order to procure seats.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—A great Saturday night bill will be performed, comprising character songs by Ella Wesner, songs and dances by the Reynolds Brothers, duets by Edgar and Ethel Stanley, new acts by the Reynolds Brothers, J. H. Larkin and Tommy Bree, and the very popular drama of "The Game of Life," in which the attractive Aline Le Favre captivates the audience in the role of Anna, and Minnie Fillmore brings down the house by her audacious gags. This week is the last of the engagement of the popular Ella Wesner.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—This house was crowded last night. Harry Courtaine met with a hearty reception on making his appearance and caused much laughter in the amusing farce of "The wrong woman in the wrong bed." The same excellent bill will be played to-night.

THE OXFORD.—There is always something fresh and amusing at this cosy little cave of harmony. The male and female minstrels, comprising many pretty girls, appear in songs, dances, and tableaux; and Charley Vincent and Lew Parker in acts and in the lively and attractive afterpiece which winds up the evening's amusement. This is entitled "The Spy or, the Battle of Sedan." In it will be introduced a company of amazons; the "Marseillaise" by fifty voices and a number of stirring battle scenes. Miss Amelia Dean will appe as Louise de Pernier, the spy and captain of the amazons. On Friday evening, the favorite Ethiopian comedians, Dan Lowrey and Jimmy Cotton will take a benefit.

PETE STERLING.—This well-known dancer, who has been for the past five years with Christy's Minstrels at St. James' Hall, London, is now the sensation at the Royal Standard Theatre in a monkey piece, in which he climbs from the stage to the fifth tier of the theatre. Pete was always lively when he was in California, his chief grievance being his inability to find any orchestra that could play as fast as he could dance.

HARTZ, THE MAGICIAN'S TRICKS.—We have received a letter from Gus. Hartz, 743 Broadway, New York, informing us that he will shortly come to this city for purpose of establishing a "Branch Magical Repository" of the central establishment in Broadway, for the sale of all of Hartz' tricks and illusions. Such an establishment started in time for the Christmas holidays will certainly do a rushing business.

CITY GARDENS.—A delightful concert will be given at these pleasant gardens to-morrow by Schmidt & Schlott's famous band. The programme appears on our first page.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS AND MUSEUM.—The Fiji Cannibals whose levees have drawn thousands during the past week to witness their extraordinary dances and listen to their war songs, will make their two last appearances to-day and to-morrow.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Hundreds will drive out to this famous hostelry to-morrow, and enjoy a dinner with appetites sharpened by the sea breeze. Captain Foster's chef is famous, the wines are excellent. Dine at the Cliff House to-morrow and you will dine well.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

SUNDAY EXCURSION.—There is not within miles of this city a more delightful spot than the groves of San Rafael. The steamer Contra Costa will leave the wharf on Davis street, near Vallejo, to-morrow at 10½ A.M., on an excursion.

FROM VICTORIA.—Mrs. Bella Bird, manageress of the Victoria Theatre, arrived here by the last steamer.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SALT LAKE.—A dramatic entertainment is given every Saturday by the stock company. Last Saturday "Miriam's Crime" was performed. The regular fall and Winter season will commence on the 20th with Mrs. Lander as the star.

CARSON, NEV.—The Pioneer Blind Troupe which the Register says "furnishes about the sweetest music that ever floated over sage brush," performed at Moore & Parker's Hall on Thursday.

EMPIRE CITY, NEV.—The Pioneer Blind Troupe gave a concert on Wednesday.

RENO, NEV.—The Blind Troupe are to play here to-night.

OAKLAND.—A Promenade concert was given at the Skating Rink on Wednesday, under the auspices of the Grizzly Base ball club for the benefit of the Oakland Library. It was a success.

ALBANY, O.—By the Register we learn that Stephen Massett gave an entertainment at the Court House on Saturday last, that M'lle Jeale's Circus is at Brownsville recruiting, and last but not least the following bit of news about a San Francisco play:

Fred Lyster's new play, "Ready, or California in '71," is drawing immensely at the San Francisco theatre. The talented author has realized already $3,000 by its production, and he and his talented wife are about bringing it out at the Fifth-avenue Theatre, New York.

Stephen Massett is in Albany, as we observed before, and his portrait aporas the Register.

PORTLAND, O.—Susan B. Anthony lectured at Oro Fino Theatre on Woman Suffrage on the 8th. The Theatre Comique, Chas. Nickerson, stage manager, opened on the 7th with M'lle Lopez and pupils, Cherry Belle, Miss Lotta, (Mrs. Tony Pastor,) Miss Susie Lee, Miss Sophie Larkin, Tommy Arnold, Walter Parke, C. Morrell, Master William and Charley Nickerson. N. Hochgurtel is proprietor. The Pixley sisters have returned from their Salt Lake trip without having been to Salt Lake City. The Nathan juvenile dramatic troupe left for Victoria and Puget Sound on the 7th.

VALLEJO.—Bachelder's tableaux of a tour across the Continent, and Senor Marzera and his troupe of trained canary birds, exhibited at Eureka Hall, on Monday and Tuesday evenings.

ANAHEIM.—Don Miguel Aravalo, guitarist, gave a concert at Enterprise Hall on the 7th. He was assisted by Mrs. Paulina Van Gulpin, Prof. Carl Van Gulpin and Ll. Fischer, violinist.

OMAHA.—At the Academy of Music, Professor Silvester and Miss Schott continue to give their entertainment. Miss Schott took a benefit on the 9th. Professor de Valere was exhibiting his decapitation feat on 13th street.

GOLD HILL, NEV.—Mrs. J. A. Smith gave a musical entertainment on the 13th at Theatre Hall, consisting of songs comic and sentimental, by one hundred children. The News says it was quite a success. It was repeated on the following evening.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

New York.—The season at the Grand Opera House commenced September 2d, with Mr. and Mrs. Bandmann, Mark Smith and others, in the play of "Narcisse." On the 4th, an adaption of "Edwin Drood" entitled "Jasper" was produced. "Faust" was the succeding piece. The engagement of Mr. Bandmann will be followed by that of Mr. and Mrs. Florence, in "Eileen Oge," a romantic and powerful Irish drama, lately written by Edmund Falconer, and produced with great success in London.

Lotta is still at Booth's Theatre. The Lydia Thompson Troupe shelved "Blue Beard," and produced Offenbach's "Princess of Trebizonde" on the 11th. At the Bowery G. Swaine Buckley is doing well with "On the Track."

The Olympic, New York, was opened on the 31st ult., whith the pantomime of "Humpty Dumpty" and has been crowded ever since.

The Sporting Times, under date of September 4th, says:

The New Union Square Theatre, under the management of Robet Butler, is announced to open on the 11th. The burlesque performers of the company will be Bella Howitt, Emma Grattan, Lizzie Wilmore, and Messrs. Felix Rogers, Schweicardi, Barker, Burley, Middleton and Morgan. In addition, Annie Adams of London, serio-comic vocalist, Fred Foster, comedian, the Mathews Family, ten in number, and Johnny DeAngelis, a California comedian, will make their first appearance in this city. The ballet will be led by the celebrated Bonfanti, and by M'lles Bertha, Rosa, Dark, Lucille, Engel, Haines, Ferrand, Greenfield, Newton, Grattan, Caroline, Gabrielle, and A. Schrotter. M'lle Geraldine and George Leopold, trapezists; Madelaine Hardy, Hughey Dougherty, Lew Rattler, Jas. F. Wambold, Ashcroft and Morton, Geo. H. Coes, and the well-known Martinetti Troupe of pantomimists, eight in number, will add to the general completeness, and be aided by a fine orchestra under David Braham.

It will be seen that quite a number of California favorites are in the company.

The San Francisco Minstrels commenced their regular season on Monday evening, Aug 28th, before a large audience, who warmly greeted the old favorites of the company. The first part comprised fresh selections. Templeton sang "Come Again, Happy Days," with pleasing effect. Oberist was heard to advantage in a Tyrolean song. Charley Backus created considerable merriment in a musical version of Bret Harte's 'Heathen Chinee.'

Newcomb & Arlington's Minstrels commenced their second season at their new Opera House on Twenty-eighth street on the 4th. The company is as follows: Comedians, Wm. Arlington, Walter Bray, Harry Stanwood, M. Lewis, James Edwards, Sam Price, Lon. A. Meyers and Andy McKee: the sextet of voices, Charles Hudson, J. H. Burridge, D. S. Vernon, tenors; W. Bartlett, baritone; Harry Percy, alto, and O. P. Sweet, basso.

Bryant's Minstrels opened on the 3d. H. Kohler, the cornet player, formerly of Maguire's Opera House, is with them.

Charlotte Cushman succeeds Lotta at Booth's Theatre—then John Owens.

Wm. Creswick has been engaged to act at Booth's Theatre, during Miss Cushman's engagement.

Mr and Mrs. Harry Rich, who have recently arrived in this country from Australia, India, etc., commenced an engagement at Wood's Museum on Sept. 4th.

Rose Evans was stricken with an apoplectic fit while supporting Emmett "Firth" at Niblo's on the 31st ult.

J. K. Emmet and "Fritz, our Cousin German" move along in the even tenor of their way at Niblo's Garden, attracting good sized audiences and giving satisfaction by the performances. Rose Evans is very popular.

K. Leon's Minstrels are at Lina Edwin's Theatre.

The Fifth-avenue Theatre opened on the 5th with Augustin Daly's new play entitled "Divorce." The first act lies in New York, where the couple are given in marriage; the third, up the Hudson, where the husband is announced "to take the law into his own hands" in a way not yet indicated; the fourth act lies in Florida, where the law retaliates, and, in the Fifth, the divorced parties are again found in New York.

At Wood's Museum Miss Lucille Western supported by J. A. Herne, appeared on the 4th in "East Lynne."

Philadelphia.—The regular dramatic season of the Arch-street Theatre, will commence on the 16th with Charles Mathews as the first star.

Charles R. Thorne, Jr., is with the Davenport Star Company which commenced its Winter season in Philadelphia on the 4th.

"Amy Robsart" is running at the Walnut street Theatre to good houses. The novel of "Kenilworth" is closely adhered to in the incidents tending to illustrate Leicester's connection with Amy Robsart. Only in the closing scene is there any deviation. The author causes Richard Varney to fall into a pit of his own digging, while Leicester and Amy Robsart view each other across the chasm. Bella Pateman, Neil Warner and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walcott, took the leading characters.

On account of the advance in prices by the musical Union, the Chestnut and Arch-street Theatres have determined in opposition to the strike to employ orchestras of five or six pieces. Charles Sentz will lead at the Chestnut and Mark Hassler, at the Arch.

Boston.—Mme. Parepa-Rosa is announced to give two concerts on Sept. 21st and 22d, and a ballad matinee on the 23d.

The Sporting Times says Joe Murphy is playing in "Help" at the Boston with great success.

The Museum has produced a new comedietta from the Haymarket Theatre, London, entitled "My Uncle's Will."

The Globe commenced the season on the 4th with "Victims" and "Forty Winks." John E. Owens is playing a star engagement of five weeks. It is understood he will remain as a regular member of the company afterwards for the season, but will at times star elsewhere. The new "Coming Man" will shortly be produced, with Owens in the cast, and Colonel Alcott's new drama of "The Rose of Salem" will follow.

At the Howard Atheneum, the Zetella Troupe, Prof. Davis and his performing dogs, Gus. Williams, Eph Horn, Mulligan the Ethiopian delineator, and other attractions, together with the pantomime "Jack," James Collins and Martha Wren are in the company.

The St. James Theatre offers Mr. Leffingwell, Cool Burgess, Miss Emma Alford, Pedasto the ceiling walker, the Francisco Sisters, and a host of other variety talent.

The Ray is the name of a new dramatic paper published as the house programme of the Boston Theater.

Miscellaneous.—FIGARO's criticism of Philip Phillips, the Singing Pilgrim, and his "bow-wow-wow-wow-els melt with love" hymn, has been copied into nearly every paper in the United States. The last two we have noticed it in are the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette and the New York Atlas.

The Louisville Spectator has the following:

McKean Buchanan says he is going to Louisville, even if he plays to empty benches. This would be rather monotonous to him, for it is all he ever played to here.

Owen Fawcett will be a member of the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, next season.

Adelaide Phillips sings in Norwich, Connecticut on the 22d.

A Portland paper speaks thus of Brignoli, who has been concertizing through Maine with his wife and Ronconi:

Signor Brignoli will probably not make another tour through this State at present. He was, in some places, greeted by very small audiences, which caused him to forget his manners—if he ever had any—and act in such an offensive way that gentlemen and ladies were forced to leave the hall.

What could he have done?

Pharaza and Professor Rogers have started for California with a gift show.

M'lle Morlacchi appeared in "The French Spy" at Ford's Theatre, Baltimore, on the 11th.

Milton Nobles is playing with Chanfrau at the Pittsburg Opera House. Business is not very good there.

Wood's Theatre, Cincinnati, opened on the 4th with C. W. Couldock in "The Willow Copse."

Lew Pike & Co., opened the Theatre Comique, New Haven, on the 6th. Jenny Benson and La Petite Bensen, are among the stars engaged.

In Rochester, Charles Mathews appeared at the Opera House on the 20th ult., to a large audience; Ada Harland followed him on the 4th with "Lola."

Charles Mathews goes to Syracuse and Auburn for one week, with a select company, consisting of Charles Coons, Harry Lovell, Eugene Mallois, J. H. Beazle, Mrs. M. E. Lovell, Lizzie Hall and others, under the management of Charles R Thorne, Senr.

Oliver Doud Byron made a great success in "Across the Continent" at Pittsburg. Little Nell succeeded him with "Katy Did." Her engagement is for six nights and one matinee; she will be followed by John Collins.

Joe Jefferson opened in "Rip" at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, on the 4th.

Duprez & Benedict's Minstrels were at Detroit on the 4th.

The Hyers Sisters, colored, concertised at Nebraska City, August 26th and 28th; St. Joe, 30th and 31st, and drew well. Glad to hear it. We hope Mr. Hyer will forward to FIGARO the money due for the job printing and advertising done for their concerts in San Francisco. We like to be remembered by our absent patrons when in prosperity.

Charlotte Crampton is at Wood's Theatre, Cincinnati.

L. P. Barrett is traveling with his new play, "The Man o' Airlie." He was at Albany on the 4th.

Miss Kate Reignolds, supported by E. M. Leslie's dramatic company, performed in "A Terrible Temptation," at Lynn, Mass., Sept. 2d.

W. Horace Lingard and company were billed to play "Elfie, or the Cherry Tree Inn," at Hartford, Conn., Sept. 9th.

Marble's Comedy Company, with pretty little Katty Wilson (Mrs. Marble) as star, was billed to play at Sparta, Wis., on the 11th.

Among the actors engaged at the Olympic Theatre, St. Louis, who are well known in this city, are W. D. Shields, the Scotch actor, and Charles Pope.

Edwin Adams performed at Providence, R. I., on the 7th, 8th and 9th.

LETTER FROM SACRAMENTO.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

SACRAMENTO September 15th, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO.—The Royal Yeddo Troupe of Japanese performers, performed at the Metropolitan Theatre last Saturday, Monday and Tuesday evenings to good houses. The feats of the several members of the company far surpass any that has been heretofore witnessed, and the applause and commendations of the audiences assembled were well bestowed. The troupe were to exhibit in Stockton the remainder of this week returning here on Monday next to perform during Fair week.

The regular dramatic season of 1871-2 will commence at the Metropolitan Theatre, to-morrow—morrow—Saturday—night, under the management of Joseph Proctor. The company for the coming season is composed of the following named: Misses Isabel Smythe, Jennie Mandeville, Edwin F. Stewart, C. Edmonds, Carrie Lipsie, Mrs. Anderson; Messrs. G. B. Waldron, W. G. Cogswell, W. C Crosby, W. M. Leman, R. Fulford, C. Edmonds, R. Plympton, E. Lipsie, R. R. Livingstone, W. Lloyd, and an efficient orchestra. G. B. Waldron, will be acting manager; W. Lloyd, stage manager; and Herr Petzoldt, scenic artist. The opening bill will be Victor Hugo's drama of "The Lion of St. Marc," and the farce of "A Quiet Family." No pains or expense will be spared by Mr. Proctor to make the coming season one of success and profit.

A large number of exhibitons are to be here next week, including the Atlantic and Pacific Circus.

The Elixir of Youth.

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table.

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, memoer of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acuto or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

Every Form.

Of chronic diseases cured by chemical treatment of the blood, by Dr. Mortimore at the Morton House, Post street, near Kearny. Especially diseases of the Lungs and Throat, Ozena, Catarrh, disease of the Heart, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Epilepsy, etc.

The Newest Publications.

All readers like to receive their books, magazines and newspapers as soon as possible after publication. Loomis, at the southeast corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the post-office, is agent for all the chief American and English magazines and newspapers and delivers them to subscribers immediately on the arrival of the mail.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

S. P. R. R. News Agency.

James Miller supplies the reading wants of the passengers on the Southern Pacific Railroad with the latest San Francisco papers, and Eastern Illustrated ones, and magazines, at San Francisco prices. He also supplies FIGARO to the passengers on the upward bound trains, at San Francisco rates—free of charge.

Deposit your Money.

With the Land Mortgage Union, interest allowed from day of deposit. No entrance fee or charge for passbooks. Office 123 Post street, pen on Saturday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Do You Know

That with BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS you can cut and make any garment to fit perfectly? Send postage stamp for an illustrated catalogue. H. A. Deming, agent, office of the Howe Sewing Machine, No. 113 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post, San Francisco.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

Silver Medal.

First premium Silver Medal, awarded to Will & Finck, Cutlers, Locksmiths and Bell Hangers, 521 Kearny and 140 Montgomery street, for the best California Cutlery. For the very best pocket knives, call and see us.

Victory Perches Upon Our

Banners!—Verily the result of the election reminds one of the success of CASSIN'S XXX WINE GRAPE ROOT BITTERS, in this; that the best is bound to win. Defeated Candidates will use them, as they are sure to raise the depressed spirits.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all he Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

Nearly all Great Men

Use tobacco in some form, and fine cut is most sought for because of its exquisite flavor. Veteran chewers say that the tobacco which contains the most happy combination of flavors is the "Sunny Side" brand, it being cut from pure Kentucky leaf.

METROPOLITAN HOTEL.

CHANGE OF PROPRIETORSHIP

H. PEARSON,

LATE OF THE RUSS HOUSE,

HAVING BOUGHT THE INTEREST of Messrs. Tabbs & Patten, of the Occidental Hotel, has secured a lease for a term of years of this well known Hotel. Previous reputation assures its high class style, while in order to keep pace with the times he intends to make many important reductions in the scale of charges. His intention is to make it a family and business house, while his connection with the traveling public warrants him in expecting a large amount of country, Coast and Eastern patronage. The prices will range from two to three dollars a day for ordinary accommodation. Board by the week or month by contract. The table will be kept on the liberal scale, and many improvements introduced. The office and reading room is the finest of any hotel in the city, while the furniture and fittings throughout are superior to those of any hotel in San Francisco. The House will be thoroughly overhauled. MR. PEARSON assumed proprietorship on the 1st inst. The Elevator attached to the house will be used as usual. au5 1m

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

300 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

300 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

Art, Music and Dancing.

The Call having published among other stupid editorials, one in which it takes the California Art Association for having a dance and a supper after its exhibition of pictures at Pacific Hall, Artisticus writes a very sensible letter to the Alta from which we make the following extract:

The writer went early to that entertainment, found a large assemblage certainly representing no mean proportion of the cultivation and taste of this city; observed that the pictures were the main attraction for three hours and a half (the dancing commenced about 11:30); that the grand Bierstadt and the two smaller works, Brookes, last and best fish picture, Marple's "Yosemite," Denny's marine views, some beautiful photographs from Chantrey's designs, and a score or more of other good things were eagerly "devoured" by some six or seven hundred pair of eyes, and that the whole soiree was made enjoyable by the presence of an excellent band and some volunteer music.

The California Art Association has taken the best means to popularize art. To object to the introduction of social features in their receptions is mere snobbishness. Those who go to see the pictures can do so before the dancing commences and those who go for the dance will be improved by looking at good pictures. The last party could scarcely have been improved on.

A Big City.

One may estimate properly the magnitude of "London town" when he considers that it has a population of 54,517 in excess of the aggregate population of the eleven most populous American cities. New York, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, St. Louis, Chicago, Baltimore, Boston, Cincinnati, New Orleans, San Francisco and Buffalo have in the aggregate 3,828,595 inhabitants. London has 3,883,092.

Second-hand.

Miss Susan B. Anthony is in Oregon, trying to convert the web-footed ones to female suffrage, by delivering Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton's lectures re-vamped. Miss Anthony may steal Mrs. Stanton's ideas, but she can never get her style of delivering them. One of Mrs. Stanton's lectures delivered by Miss Anthony, is like the Old Hundred played on the bagpipes—it loses its beauty.

Theatrical Anecdote.

When Stephen Kemble was manager in Newcastle, Eng., and the houses was rather flat, no less a personage arrived in town than the Prince Annamaboo, who offered his services for a very moderate consideration, Accordingly the bills of the day announced "that between the acts of the play, Prince Annamaboo would give a lively representation of the scalping operation; he would likewise give the Indian war-hoop, in all its various tones, the tomahawk exercise and the mode of feasting at an Abyssinian banquet." The evening arrived, and many people attended to witness these princely imitations. At the end of the third act his highness walked forward, with dignified step, flourishing his tomahawk, and cut the air, exclaiming:—"Ha ha—ho ho!" Next entered a man with his face blackened and a piece of bladder fastened to his head with gum; the prince, with a large carving knife, commenced the scalping operation, which he performed in a style truly imperial, holding up the skin in token of triumph. Next came the war-whoop, which was a combination of dreadful and discordant sounds; lastly, the Abyssinian banquet, consisting of raw beefsteaks; these he made into rolls as large as his mouth would admit, and devoured them in a princely and dignified manner. Having completed his cannibal repast, he flourished his tomahawk, exclaiming "Ha, ha! ho, ho!" and made his exit. Next day, the manager, in the middle of the market place, espied the most puissant Prince of Annamaboo selling pen-knives, scissors and quills, in the character of a Jew pedler. "What!" said Kemble, "my prince, is that you? Are you not a pretty scoundrel to impose upon us in this manner!" Moses turned round, and with an arch look replied: "Prince be d—d! I vash no prince; I vash acting like you—you vash kings, princes, emperor to-night, Stephen Kemble to-morrow. I vash humpugs, you vash humpugs, and all vash humpugs."

Except the Mayor.

Foote, the comedian, traveling in the West of England, dined one day at an inn. When the cloth was removed the landlord asked him how he liked the fare? "I have dined as well as any man in England," said he. "Except the mayor," cried the landlord. "I do not except anybody whatever," said he. "But you must!" bawled the host. "I won't!" "You must!" At length the affair ended by the landlord, who was a petty magistrate, taking Foote before the mayor, who observed that it had been customary in that town for a great many years always to "except the mayor," and accordingly fined him a shilling for not conforming to this ancient custom. Upon this decision Foote paid the shilling, at the same time observing that he thought the landlord was the greatest fool in Christendom—except the mayor.

Not Bad.

The New York Leader, speaking of the late performance of Home, the spiritualist,—floating through the air and so forth—says it is not so remarkable after all, for that, long before he became a medium, Home used to float around considerably with no visible means of support.

What's in a Name?

Among the recent arrivals at New York hotel were "Mrs. Conception Agramonte de Sanchez, eleven children and two servants."

How Nice?

Modest Buffalo calls its Foundling Hospital an Anonymous Infants, while virtuous Chicago calls hers an institution for Babies Born on the European Plan.

A boy in a country school was reading the following sentence: "The lighthouse is a landmark by day and a beacon by night," and rendered it thus: "The lighthouse is a landlord by day and a deacon by night."

Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. Hug & Schmidt, Successors to P. J. Reilly, Agents. x

Sugared Beer.

Here is an extract from the police report of a late London paper:

Do the Public Prefer Adulterated Beer?—M. G. W. Groves, landlord of the Union Arms, Panton street, Haymarket, and Mr. G. W. Matthews, landlord of the Bedford Hotel, Grove road, Hackney, were respectively summoned before Sir Thomas Henry, at the instance of the Excise, charged with adulterating beer.

An excise officer proved the finding of large quantities of coarse brown sugar in the cellars, and it was admitted by one of the defendants that three pounds of sugar were used to 72 gallons, according to the rules of the trade.

The defense set up in each case was that no infringement of the law was intended, and that the public preferred the small flavor of the sugar in porter, which was quite unpalatable to some in the condition in which it arrived from the brewers.

Sir Thomas Henry ruled such a practice was illegal, and fined the defendants each £50, the full penalty being £200.

We commend this to the attention of the next Legislature. It is about time a law forbidding the adulteration of food and drink in California was passed. An analysis of some of the lager beer sold in San Francisco would reveal the use of ingredients considerably more unwholesome than sugar.

Cats' Meat.

Among the butchers who sent in bids to supply the Industrial School with meat was Emanuel Katz. Now Katz is a good butcher, a good fellow, and sells the best of meat; but his name is unfortunate. If his bid is accepted, some of the Eastern papers will say that we feed our Industrial School boys on Katz meat or cats' meat.

Abolish the Treaty.

The treaty with China must be abolished. Mr. Finley, of the California Poultry Association, has received from China several pigs which he intends to exhibit at the State Fair. An indignation meeting of California pigs has been held to protest against this outrage.

False Pretenses.

A grass widow in New York has sued for divorce, alleging marriage under false pretense as a ground for it. Shades of courtship! Does she suppose there was ever a marriage of any other sort?

Quite Right.

The newspapers are publishing as a joke the fact that a student at a college examination, being asked the meaning of the word hypothesis, said it "was something that happened to a man after death." Isn't what happens to a man after death an hypothesis?

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by James G. Steele & Co., No. 621 Montgomery street.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit. *

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium. *

A Sensation in Hats.

The new Fall and Winter styles are fast arriving at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. One in particular has already been adopted as the fashion; it is a fine low-crowned felt hat, with a curved brim, and is called "The Grand Duke." Those who wish to be in the fashion must go to "The" Hat Store, long famed for having the latest styles and for its moderate prices. x

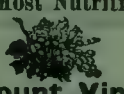
THE GREAT SPECIALIST,

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY INFORM those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in one of the most celebrated Hospitals in England, The Lock.



He has now re-opened his old Medical Institute, at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was so successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention or explain on paper.

I am aware that some of the empirics of San Francisco make a practice of stating what they cure; but to most persons my name will be quite SUFFICIENT to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

To-night the champion skater of the world Callie Curtis, will make his first appearance in California, at the Alhambra Theatre, and will appear in his comic challenge skating act supported by Billy Burt. An entirely new stage has been put in for the purpose of giving due effect to Mr. Curtis' performance. In addition to this novel attraction the inimitable Vivian will appear in his great character songs; Billy Emerson will present "The Old Clothes Dealer," assisted by G. H. Foster; Charley Howard will perform in the "Shower of Cats;" Sheridan and Mack will present their specialties entitled Dancing on the Sly, A Bunch of Roses, and a double clog dance, and the rest of the minstrels will appear in an attractive programme.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The Metropolitan Theatre was crowded in every part last night when the popular drama of "Under the Gaslight" was presented. The play was put on the stage better than on any former occasion in this city and was acted in fine style throughout. It would be hard to find a more pleasing representative of the heroine, Laura Courtland, than Mrs. F. M. Bates, who last night drew loud and frequent applause from the audience by the impassioned manner in which she delivered the many good speeches in the part. Jas. M. Hardie made a capital Snorkey; H. Colton was very good as Ray Trafford; John Woodard was perfect as Byke, acting the part of the villain so naturally that the gallery groaned at him every time he appeared on the stage; J. H. Vinson was good as Counsellor Splinter, and as the Signal Man, gave a capital bit of character acting; Geo. Hinckley made a very natural Bermudas; Miss Susie Soule was very pleasing as Pearl Courtland and Mrs. Frank Rea played the part of Old Judas with much power. Miss Fanny Young who is always good in eccentric comedy parts, caused much laughter in that of Peachblossom. An original effect was introduced in the great sensation scene of the railroad, the train is seen to cross a bridge laid over a marsh in perspective, before it rushes on the stage. The scene between Byke and Snorkey where the former binds his victim to the railway track was terribly real, and the house rang with the applause it called forth. From the large house last night and the excellence of the entertainment, we anticipate that "Under the Gaslight" will have a long and prosperous run. It will be repeated to-night.

California Theatre.

To-night Mrs. D. P. Bowers will appear as Margaret Elmore in "Love's Sacrifice," supported by John McCullough as Matthew Elmore. A new play will be presented on each evening of the present week; our theatre-goers who wish to see Mrs Bowers in all the characters which her large repertoire comprises, must remember that she will appear in the majority of them but once.

Bella Union Theatre.

The present week is the last of the engagement of the charming character vocalist, Ella Wesner, of whom our public would never have wearied. The popular play of "The Game of Life" will be played for another week after which it must be removed to make way for other novelties. The Reynolds Brothers will perform their songs and dances, and the star of all the blondes, the vivacious Aline Le Favre, will appear in the play; J. H. Larkin, who has much versatility and is untiring in his efforts to please the public, is now on the tamborine end in the first part.

Theatre Comique.

Harry Courtaine will appear to-night in the farce of "Did You Ever Send Your Wife to Oakland?" Maggie Knight will present her lightning changes; the great trio of clog dancers will appear; Lizzie Harmon, Nellie Leonard, Ida Fisk and Eva Silva will sing comic songs; Zadie Zelmar will perform on the slack wire, and a great bill which appears on our first page, will be performed.

Oxford Theatre.

To-night the new military drama of "The Spy; or, the Battle of Sedan," will be produced, with battle scenes, marches, combats, tableaux and choruses. Previous to the play a fine first part and varied interlude will be given.

Woodward's Gardens.

This delightful resort presents thousands of attractions in the menagerie, museum, art gallery skating rink, conservatories and gymnasium.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Obaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

The Skating Rink.

The fascinating Carrie Moore gives an exhibition every evening at the Occidental Skating Rink, opposite the Mechanics' Fair Pavilion.

Max Zorer.

Max Zorer, one of the oldest theatrical managers on the Pacific Coast, who has long been well known as musician, composer and manager, left for the East on Saturday.

Was Ben. Butler's Father a Pirate?—And was That Father Hanged?

[From the Springfield Republican.]

General Butler is said to allege, in excuse for some of his foulness last week, that the Republican charged him with being the son of a man who was hanged. Of course we did no such thing, but we should have been as forgetful as Butler himself, if we had omitted to state that there was an opinion that Captain Butler, of Deerfield, New Hampshire, was hanged, and this opinion is still current among the New Hampshire people. We do not assume it to be true, but it is worth mentioning, that Col. Joseph Cilley, a soldier of 1812, a Senator in Congress in 1846, and cousin of the Butlers, told an acquaintance, 10 or 20 years since, that Captain Butler was generally thought to have been hanged for piracy in the West Indies. It is well known that for several years the Gulf of Mexico and the waters of Cuba were infested with pirates, some of whom were Americans, and who were not broken up till Commodore Porter's expedition in 1813. It is among these buccaneers that tradition put General Butler's father, but upon what evidence the tradition rests we have never heard, and do not regard the matter as of much importance. Inasmuch, however, as Butler expects to be chosen Governor on the strength of having "hanged a rebel," it may be as well for him to show that there were no hangings in his own family in the first half of the century.

[From the Cincinnati Gazette.]

The Springfield Republican asserts that, according to the popular rumor, Gen. Butler's father was hanged for piracy in West Indian waters. We do not know that he was hanged at all; but the story of the Republican differs from what we believe to be the common New England tradition. As we have heard—we do not vouch for the truthfulness of the statement—the elder Butler had such a strong liking for military life that he went to South America and joined the armies of one of the anarchical Spanish-American republics. A revolution took place, and Butler's company—we think he was a Captain—were all shot by their captors. This, at all events, was very different from being executed as a pirate.

Suicide of a Lady Aged 110.

On Sunday morning last, says a Richmond paper, Mrs. Mary Michaels, aged 110 years, committed suicide by drowning herself, under the following circumstances: Mrs. Michaels lived with her son, Robert Michaels, in Dinwiddie County, Virginia, upon the old model farm, about one mile from Petersburg. She was very active for one of her age, and enjoyed fine health until a few months since, when she was confined to her bed with sickness for more than a month, during which time an old cotemporary and friend of hers died, which seemed to depress her very much. She, however, recovered her spirits, and was, to all appearances, in good health (both mentally and bodily) on Sunday morning last at eleven o'clock, when her son Robert sent her by a servant woman a piece of melon, which she ate, and then directed the servant to go into the yard and bring into the house a lot of peach chips which were in the sun drying, as there was a prospect of rain. The servant proceeded to obey her instructions, leaving Mrs. Michaels lying down, and upon returning to the room missed the old lady, but thought nothing of it, and after putting the peach chips away left the room. A few moments after leaving the room the servant went to the well to draw a bucket of water, and, finding the bucket would not sink, looked into the well to find the cause thereof, and saw something was in the well, and went immediately and informed Mr. Robert Michaels of the fact. He proceeded straightway to the well, accompanied by the servant, saying as he got to the well that he was sure it was his mother who had jumped into the well, and upon looking down in the well he recognized the dress that she had on, floating on the water. He immediately sent for two of his neighbors, and upon their arriving got one of them to go down in the well, and with the help thus afforded him succeeded in getting out the dead body of his mother. The body was at once removed to his house, where it remained until Monday afternoon, when it was it was interred.

Woo Don't Know

That to achieve the greatest desideratum in business "patronage" a person must be liberal in his outlay, by purchasing the best material, employing the best workmen, and seeing that his patrons are attentively and courteously waited on, and in a style compatible with the dignity of the establishment he pretends to manage. Such is the golden rule practiced at KAST'S Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, as is verified by the bon ton seen there daily, who are likewise to be seen at the Opera and all distinguished resorts of the city. x

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles, finest quality, and at the lowest prices. x

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has withdrawn from the firm of Guerin & Kelly, and has resumed business on his own account at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush. All ladies visiting the Mechanics' Fair should not fail to inspect the splendid display of Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes made by P. KELLY, Prize Bootmaker, corner of Bush and Kearny streets.

Throw Out Your Chest!

A man should stand up like a man, throw out his chest and throw his shoulders back, thus giving room for the free action of the lungs. The Champion and Pivot-action Braces sold by C. H. Burr, sole agent for the Pacific Coast, 818 Market street, will be found to afford efficient aid in accomplishing this. They are superior to all others, and cost no more.

Vivian's Treadmill Song.

HEAVEN IMAGINED.

BY KATE E. P. HILL.

I would sing you a song of heaven,
If my soul could chant the hymn;
I would sing of its skies, whose gorgeous dyes
Would make our own grow dim.

I would sing of its mountains, bathed in light
That never will fade away;
Of the murmuring breeze, through whispering trees
That never will know decay.

Of glorious birds, that trill strange words—
With a mystery in their flow—
Till the scented airs grow holy with prayers
That only they can know.

I would sing of its lakes, for the lilies' sakes—
The purest that God has given,
Of all the flowers which we call ours;—
How white they must be in heaven!

I would sing to you of its violet blue,
That watches the loving sky;
But droops its head when it hears the tread
Of an angel footstep nigh.

I would sing of love in that land above,
Till I could not hush the strain
Of its perfect bliss—till the joys of this
Would shrink to immortal pain.

But my soul is mute, like a tuneless lute
That has been forsaken long;
Its pulses thrill, but its voice is still,
And I cannot sing the song.

DRIFTING APART.

Broad is the sea where the vessels are sailing,
Fair are the breezes that waft them along,
Clear is the sky that above them is smiling,
Brilliant the sun that is lighting them on.
Ever the billows are playing around them,
Kissing their sides as they speed them away
O'er the wide ocean that lies all before them—
Ocean to cross ere they enter the bay.

Sometimes two vessels will sail on together,
Seeming each other to help and to cheer,
Giving assistance in trial and danger,
Passing the shoals and the rocks without fear;
Then, as they journey, a cloud gathers o'er them,
Head winds assail them, wide tossing each bark,
Splinter the masts, rend the sails and the rigging—
Waves roll between them, and they drift apart.

Oh, there are hearts sailing out on life's ocean,
Banded together by friendship and love,
Giving assistance in trial and sorrow,
Fearing no danger as onward they rove.
Then, as they journey, a storm bursts upon them,
Severs the couplings that bind heart to heart,
Lashes the sea till it foams in its madness—
Waves roll between them, and they drift apart.

You that have friends that are loving and tender,
Whom you can trust with the hopes of your soul,
Let not the trials of life bear asunder
Those who can aid on the way to the goal;
Cling to them always, in darkness, in sunshine,
And, when to Jesus in prayer goes your heart,
Ask that His blessing may ever rest on them—
Pray Him to keep you from drifting apart.

A WOMAN'S PARADISE.

Maids and Widows in Demand.

A lonely pioneer writes from La Corna (W. T.), as follows: "The climate here is before California, not having so much sgue. The Summers are not so oppressively warm as in the former State. The Winters are comparative mild, snow having fallen but on two occasions, and then only remaining on the ground for a couple of days. Owing to the abundance of rain, there is no fear of crops failing as in California, where one is never sure of a good harvest. There is plenty of good wooded Government land here for thousands of emigrants. Business in the lumber line upon the Sound gives employment with wages, rating the lowest in the mills at $35 per month and good board, up to $80. This Sound is only with respect to commercial importance to what it will be in a few years, when the Northern Pacific Railroad is completed. In fact, it is destined to have on it the largest city on the Pacific slope, owing to its many advantages. It is 700 miles nearer to China and Japan than California, and in our age time is money. I sincerely wish that many hundreds of old maids and widows who cannot get husbands at home would come out here, where they could speedily get a choice of good, honest, hardworking men, who could make them comfortable and independent. There are, I really think, five men here for one woman.

Precisely

For the same reason that the ladies have determined to calceate for the Fair, the opposite sex, to be in juxtaposition, have determined to purchase their Patent Leather Oxford Ties and Dancing Pumps at KAST'S Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre. x

It is Not

Because you wear cheap boots and shoes that you become crippled—it is because they do not fit properly; neither does a bad-fitting boot or shoe last so long by half the time as one made by a first-class cutter, such as is found at KAST'S fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre.

Nearly all Great Men

Use tobacco in some form, and fine cut is most sought for because of its exquisite flavor. Veteran chewers say that the tobacco which contains the most happy combination of flavors is the "Sunny Side" brand, it being cut from pure Kentucky leaf.

What Cheer Laundry.

321 Leidesdorff street, near Sacramento;

The Elixir of Youth,

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deary will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table.

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

Every Form.

Of chronic diseases cured by chemical treatment of the blood, by Dr. Mortimore at the Morton House, Post street, near Kearny. Especially diseases of the Lungs and Throat, Ozena, Catarrh, disease of the Heart, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Epilepsy, etc.

The Newest Publications.

All readers like to receive their books, magazines and newspapers as soon as possible after publication. Loomis, at the southeast corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the post-office, is agent for all the chief American and English magazines and newspapers and delivers them to subscribers immediately on the arrival of the mail.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

S. P. R. R. News Agency.

James Miller supplies the reading wants of the passengers on the Southern Pacific Railroad with the latest San Francisco papers, and Eastern Illustrated ones, and magazines, at San Francisco prices. He also supplies FIGARO to the passengers on the upward bound trains, at San Francisco rates—free of charge.

Deposit your Money.

With the Land Mortgage Union, interest allowed from day of deposit. No entrance fee or charge for passbooks. Office 123 Post street, open on Saturday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Do You Know

That with BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS you can cut and make any garment to fit perfectly? Send postage stamp for an illustrated catalogue. H. A. Deming, agent, office of the Howe Sewing Machine, No. 113 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post, San Francisco.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

CHANGE OF PROPRIETORSHIP

H. PEARSON,
LATE OF THE RUSS HOUSE,

HAVING BOUGHT THE INTEREST of Messrs. Tubbs & Patten, of the Cosmopolitan Hotel, has secured a lease for a term of years of this well-known Hotel. Previous reputation assures its being kept in first-class style, while in order to keep pace with the times he intends to make many important reductions in the scale of charges. His intention is to make it a family and business house, while no pains in connection with the traveling public will be spared to render a large amount of country, Pacific Coast and Eastern patronage. The prices will range from two to three dollars a day for ordinary accommodation. Board by the week or month by contract. The table will be kept on the most liberal scale, and many improvements introduced. The spacious reading room is the finest of the kind in the city, while the furniture and fittings throughout are superior to those of any hotel in San Francisco. The house will be thoroughly overhauled. MR. PEARSON assumed proprietorship on the 1st inst. The Elevator attached to the house will be used as usual. au5 1m

"FIGARO."

Published every day, except Sunday, by

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

83 Merchant St. and 535 Washington St

Below Montgomery Block.

TUESDAY .....SEPTEMBER 19, 1871

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

800 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

800 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which cave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

Ill-Mannered.

The Carson City Register says:

We hear frequent complaints of the annoying practice indulged by ignorant persons of whispering and talking aloud in the theatre and at concerts while the performance is going on. There is nothing more annoying to the audience. If a man (or a woman) knows more about music than professional musicians, or more about acting than professional actors, they ought to put themselves in the places of the performers, and not be telling the audience "what they know about music and acting," especially when the audience has paid its money to hear and see the performance, and not hear the criticisms or the braying of some conceited ass. This much, more in sorrow, than anger, on behalf of a long-suffering community.

We publish the above to show that up in Carson the people have no manners. Of course in the San Francisco theatres such an annoyance as that which the Register complains is never experienced.

Curious Coincidence.

The York World says:

No people appear to be so fond of lotteries as the Southern, and it seems to be a fact, too, that they are perfectly indifferent as to the manner in which they are conducted. At Louisville, for instance, there was a grand raffle last week. Captain Frank Harris contributed a $1,500 span of horses, and Kearsley Carter a $1,500 diamond pin. The object was charitable, and the tickets were sold largely. Wonderful freak of fortune! Captain Harris drew the Hon. Kearsley's pin, and the Hon. Kearsley drew the Captain's horses. There are some people so otherwise that they see in this coincidence some connection with a gentleman of African descent ensconced in a pile of arboreous fuel.

The "Decay of the Drama."

Is the taste for the drama declining? Some manager is always ready to say that it is. But the only proof he can offer is that some particular company, or actor, or piece in which he had an interest did not pay. We seldom know anything about the conditions of time, finance, public pre-occupation—to adopt an inelegant, but very convenient Gallicism—local management, or anything else which may have interfered with a deserved, and—under other circumstances—a probable success. The question is, whether to-day in England, in Australia, or in the United States, Shakespeare well acted and well put on the stage would not have as warm a reception from the public as at any period whatever in the history of the Drama. Let us remember that this complaint about the degeneracy of public taste and the decay of the legitimate drama is not exactly a new thing. When Horace complained that the public of Rome had sunk so far that they applauded a splendid costume rather than a great actor, he was only saying then what many people say now. Hamlet, as we all remember, mourns over the decay of public taste which compelled actors to travel through the provinces, who once were able to remain always in the capital. Some of Shakespeare's contemporaries—rivals, as they then thought themselves—regarded his success as a distant proof of the fall and decadence of the legitimate drama. Moliere has various hits at the degeneracy of the playgoers of his age; so has Sage. Quin lamented the condition of the stage in his later days, but consoled himself with the hope that some time perhaps the public would "come to church again"—that is, return to their taste for the true and legitimate school of acting. Garrick grumbled often over the fall in public sentiment since the seasons when Betterton was the idol of the town. Thirty years ago Lord Lytton made one of his heroes point a grandiloquent moral by a contrast between the public honors paid to a great tragedian who enacts "Hamlet," and the wild rapture of homage which greets an Italian mountebank. So it seems to have always been.—London Daily News.

Gammon!

Sunday's Call has a string of verses by some one who is afraid to put her name to them, for fear her husband should put a head on her. They are entitled "Unrest." This is the sort of thing:

What Visions will come in my dreamings
What fancies will teem in my brain?
What hopes, Oh God! for the future,
When freed from this maddening chain.

Cursed be the links that bind me!
Cursed be the day that gave,
A soul of passion and yearning
Then bound it like a slave—

What is the use of howling in that manner? The "maddening chain" can be snapped like a bit of thread by the Courts. We don't envy the husband of the writer of "Unrest" We don't believe he finds he is lying on a bed of roses. If the Call encourages her by publishing more verses, she'll be putting prussic acid in the old man's coffee. Of course he is a brute, doesn't sympathise with her a bit; gets jealous of her if she looks at another man, and is altogether incapable of understanding her. We don't approve of this kind of poetry at all; it is unwholesome. The Call isn't a proper place for a discontented wife to air her sorrow.

A La Crosse chap mistakingly planted anti-bilious pills for melon seeds.

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has no longer any connection with the old store on Bush street, but has resumed business on his own account at at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush street, where ladies and gentlemen can rely upon getting perfect-fitting boots and shoes, as all his former Cutters and workmen of the Ladies and Gent's Departments, have removed with him to the new store. Also the largest stock of ladies and gentlemen's first-class Boots and Shoes in the city. P. KELLY, PRIZE BOOTMAKER, 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush.

Mrs. D. P. Bowres.

The Radical Rheumatic

Eradicator—the only known remedy. Frank H. Lashier, proprietor, No. 206 Fourth street San Francisco. •

Absurd Mistatement.

Under the head of "Letters from the People," the Call publishes a communication from H. Hoag, which contained statements so absurd and false that it was an insult to its readers to give them publicity. Hoag starts out with the following statement:

We have at the present time in our city about 40,000 Chinese. Of this number 30,000 are engaged in industrial pursuits which could be filled with white laborers. The whole 40,000 live in less space and pay less rent than would be occupied and paid by 10,000 whites, and expend far less for food and clothing than 5,000 whites do.

We should have thought the Call would hesitate a little before it allowed Mr. Hoag to assert through its columns that one fourth of the total inhabitants of San Francisco were Chinese. This Mr. Hoag founds an argument on this ridiculous statement and winds up by proposing a highly original "remedy" for the evil caused by Chinese working cheaper than white laborers. This wonderful remedy, which of course no one ever thought of before, is "not to patronize Chinamen." People are too selfish to carry out this plan. Those who are loudest in their outcry against Chinese labor, will send their shirts to be washed by Chinamen, because it is cheaper and more convenient than to patronize people of their own race for the sake of a principle. What Mr. Hoag says amounts simply to nothing, and his silly letter in the Call contrasts very unfavorably with the well-written article on the Chinese question which appeared in the Chronicle of the same date.

"The Thinker and the Worker."

Governess.—"Now, May, you've got two things to look after—" May (who is eminently practical).—"All right; bandbox and carpet-bag!" Governess.—"And you've three things to take care of, Charlie. Now, what are they?" Charlie (a dreamy and absent boy).—"Three things to take care of? O! O! Yes! The world, the flesh, and the D——." Governess.—"What are you talking of, Charlie?"—Punch.

Disgraceful.

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican tells of a woman in that city who does washing for two cents "a piece," and derives an annual income therefrom of $120 a month. Last month she washed 6,956 pieces, and received $139 14.

That woman had better not come to California. She would have a head put on her pretty speedily; if she dared to wash as cheaply as a Chinaman.

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium. •

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

This theatre was crowded by a fashionable audience last night, when the champion skater of the world, Callie Curtis, made his first appearance, supported by Billy Burt. Mr. Curtis performed feats on skates never dreamed of before, but his great hit was in the comic scenes, representing the troubles of a young lady and gentleman at the skating rink. At these the audience laughed until their sides were sore, as we are sure Mr. Curtis' and Mr. Burt's must have been after their many tumbles. The rest of the bill was excellent—Emerson sending the audience into fits of laughter in his act of "The Old Clothes' Dealer;" Vivian being encored again and again for his songs; Sheridan and Mack delighting all with their wonderful character acts and inimitable double clog; Miss Fanny Gibson and Gustave Bidaux gaining much applause for their duet "I Know a Bank;" and the performance winding up with the screaming farce of "A Shower of Cats," in which Billy Emerson and Obarley Howard vied with each other in making fun.

California Theatre.

"Love's Sacrifice," though not as popular a play as many others in Mrs. Bowers's repertoire, attracted a good audience, and all enjoyed the performance much. Mrs. Bowers's acting in the trying role of Margaret Elmore was superb, and John McCullough was very good as Mathew Elmore; the rest of the support was excellent. To-night the drama of "Romeo and Juliet," with John McCullough as the gentle Romeo—a part in which he is very popular—and Mrs. Bowers as Juliet.

Metropolitan Theatre.

This theatre was crowded again last night, and the thrilling drama of "Under the Gaslight" went off with no less eclat than on the first occasion. Every actor and actress in the play received his and her due meed of applause, and the curtain was rung up again on the train scene in response to most enthusiastic plaudits. "Under the Gaslight" as produced at the Metropolitan Theatre is a sensation of the hugest kind, and will continue to attract large houses for many nights to come.

Bella Union Theatre.

This week is the last of the engagement of Ella Wesner, and the public are making the most of it by thronging the Bella Union Theatre, the best arranged variety theatre in the United States. The charming Aline Le Favre appears in the thrilling drama of "The game of Life;" Miss Ethel Stanley and Edgar Stanley sing duets sweetly; The Reynolds Brothers appear in song and dance and a varied and rich evening's amusement is given.

Oxford Theatre.

The new military drama of "The Spy; or, the Battle of Sedan," was produced at this popular house last night, and proved a great success. The amazon marches, combats, tableaux and sensational scenes all went well, and the "Marseillaise" by a large chorus was given with much spirit. Amelia Dean looked charming as the Captain of the Amazons, and kept her pretty troupe in good discipline. George Lowden, a new engagement at this house, sings character songs in very good style, and an amusing first part and interlude precede the play.

Theatre Comique.

Everyone knows there is fun at the Theatre Comique and the consequence is everyone goes there. The ever-amusing Harry Courtaine made the audience laugh heartily last night in the farce of "Did You Ever Send Your Wife to Oakland?" Maggie Knight's character songs were encored, and acts, songs and dances all went well.

Great preparations are being made for the Carnival Ball to come off at the Mechanics' Pavilion on the 28th. The list of prizes and other particulars concerning this grand affair appear on our first page.

Woodward's Gardens.

This delightful resort presents thousands of attractions in the menagerie, museum, art gallery skating rink, conservatories and gymnasium.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

The Skating Rink.

The fascinating Carrie Moore gives an exhibition every evening at the Occidental Skating Rink, opposite the Mechanics' Fair Pavilion

Magdalena Bay.

We never know the value of a thing until we have lost it. The Mexican Government have annulled their contract with the Lower California Company, and now comes a letter to the Examiner showing up the beauties of the country in more glowing terms than ever. The fact is that Lower California, though it is generally an arid desert, has spots of verdure and beauty in its limits, and these oases in the desert will yet afford homes for white men.

A LONG FAST.

A Young Woman Eats Nothing for Two Years.

"A very peculiar case," says the London Times, "which has baffled several doctors, and which in a strange manner shows how life can be prolonged without anything in the shape of ordinary nutrition, has just come to light at a place near Preston. In the fold of Eunell-lane, which closely adjoins the village of Walton-le-Dale, and which is about a mile and a half from Preston, there is a cottage wherein for three years a young woman has been lying bedridden, and for between one and two years has had nothing to eat. Her name is Ann Riding. She is thirty-three years of age, and resides with her aunt. Prior to being taken ill she was a strong, healthy young woman, never losing a day's work, and was employed as an operative at the mill of Horrocks, Miller & Co., Preston. Shortly after sickness set in she left work, was compelled to take to her bed, was medically attended, and for three years has been

GRADUALLY SINKING.

Several doctors have at times attended her, but none of them have been able to give her any substantial relief, and six months ago remedial operations were abandoned and the case left to itself, the idea of the aunt being that the "Almighty had to do with it," and that it was useless continuing to incur expense for medicines without any hope of a cure. For sixteen months the young woman has had no food at all, the only thing she could bear being a drop of water with which to moisten her lips. She is frequently asked if she will not have food, but always refuses it—she had no desire for it, and how she has for such a long period existed without anything possessing the least affinity to meat is a mystery.

SHE IS CONSCIOUS,

but very weak, gets little sleep, and cannot bear a lighted candle in the room at night-time. It is supposed that she is suffering from abdominal atrophy, but the exact nature of the case is not positively understood, and it puzzles every one who is made acquainted with it, and especially when it is recollected that for a year and four months she has not had as much meat and drink as would have been requisite to sustain an infant a single day. The relatives in charge of the young woman are humble, honest people, and make no 'show' of the case, which is hardly known in the district."

Driven to Suicide by Mosquitoes.

The mosquitoes of Burmah, says the Madras Mail, have a terrible reputation, but we never imagined that they were such formidable wretches that they could compel even a sailor to commit suicide. Yet that is the character a local paper gives them. It would appear that some years ago a sailor walking as sentry on the gangway of her Majesty's frigate Fox, while the vessel was lying at anchor on the Irrawady, was dreadfully teased and excited by the swarms of mosquitoes which kept worrying him. No amount of fighting had the least effect upon them. Finally he gave up in despair, and calling to his comrade Bob, "I say Bob," he inquired, "do you think hell is worse than this —— place" (using some dreadful expressions in reference to his tormentors.) He said he did not know, "but no doubt," quoth Bob, "it is pretty bad here, and unless we get the skin of an elephant, these burning, stinging beasts will eat us all up alive." The sufferer remarked, "Good-bye, Bob, I am going to see if it is not cooler there than it is here." With that he walked up the steps and gave one jump and away overboard he went, sinking to rise no more. The watch was roused with the cry "A man overboard." Boats were lowered, and every search made to recover the infatuated man who wanted to get away from the pestering, worrying mosquitoes and could not. He committed suicide in the frenzy produced by them. A court of inquiry was held next day, and their verdict was, "Drowned himself when mad from the stings of swarms of mosquitoes." The commodore sent on shore and bought book muslin enough in town to supply each man with a set of mosquito nets or curtains, when the misery of these poor men was brought to a happy close.

Handsome Men.

An exchange says: "One of the greatest nuisances of a hotel is a handsome man. He is an intolerable bore to all the ladies of good sense in the house. If we might be allowed a suggestion, we would advise every father who is threatened with a handsome son in the family, just to take a clothes pounder and batter his nose to a pumice. For some cause or other, nine out of ten of the handsome men you meet are conceited jackdaws. They cultivate their hair and complexion so much that they have no time to think of their brains. By the time they reach thirty, their heads and hands are equally soft."

A BILLIONAIRE'S PALACE.

Something About A. T. Stewart's New Mansion.

[New York Sun.]

The new house of Mr. Stewart, at the corner of Thirty-fourth street and Fifth avenue, is nearly ready for occupation. It is built of white marble, in composite style, covering an area of 116 by 62 feet, and is four stories high. The exterior ornamentation is elaborate and tasteful, and the effect of the structure is extremely imposing. A palace without, the magnificence of the interior is more striking still.

On the ground floor is a grand entrance hall, entered through a superb marble vestibule, a reception room, parlor, breakfast and dining rooms, picture-gallery and music room, all of spacious dimensions and elegant design.

The drawing-room is 47x24 feet, and the dining-room 32x19. The floors and walls in all the rooms are of marble, and the ceilings are decorated with beautiful frescoes.

The picture-gallery, which is seventy by twenty-eight feet, is fifty feet in height, surmounted by a dome. All the apartments are adorned with splendid mirrors, elaborately carved mantel-pieces, and furniture of costly woods of gilt, upholstered with satin of various hues. The gilded chandeliers, which are original and elegant designs, are all connected by electric wires, so that they can be lighted or extinguished in a moment. The carpets have been made to order in Europe, and correspond in beauty and cost to the other furnishings of the mansion.

The second floor is reached by a grand staircase of white marble, which was manufactured in Italy and imported in sections. On this floor are the sleeping apartments of Mr. Stewart, with suites of dressing-rooms on either side, a library, forty-seven by twenty-four feet, and a billiard room. All are fitted up with a cost and elegance of design in harmony with the lower part of the mansion. The third floor consists of bedrooms of almost equal magnificence, and the fourth is divided into numerous commodious rooms for the use of the servants of the establishment.

Delights of Saratoga.

A Saratoga letter enumerates a few of the luxuries to be enjoyed for a consideration at that delightful place: "At the table you are given rusty knives and soiled tablecloths; your beef-steak is taken from the horns of the old cow that died for you; the potatoes have been cooked for an hour or two, your fruit, if you have any, is wilted or decayed; your napkins are wet, which suggests that they have done service on other months less clean, perhaps; your waiter is impudent, and eager to be corrupted, and is not worth much without; and your bills are large. In the evening you hop and jump about in a hot room to the tune of poor music, pick up a dozen handkerchiefs for ladies who drop them on purpose; talk sweet nonsense into the ears of silly girls between the sets, or sweat yourself into feebleness in the corner, and at last go to your room, meagerly furnished and desolate, wondering where the compensation comes in for all the expense, the fatigue and the worry." Delightful experience isn't it!

San Francisco Boys.—The Louisville Courier-Journal descants thus upon a favorite amusement of the youth of this city: All the little boys of San Francisco have a passionate fondness for going to Sunday-school, because they can vary the monotony of the religious exercises by proving to the pagan Chinaman whom they meet in the streets how blessed are the influences of Christianity upon the converted mind. They go in gangs—these Sunday-school scholars—and when a Chinaman approaches they get at him and pound him to death with Bibles and library books, and then pitch pennies with their missionary money to decide which boy shall have the dead man's queue. Then they go on their way to school, and the Superintendent gives out the hymn about, "The heathen in his blindness."

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

What Cheer Laundry,

The Elixir of Youth,

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table.

Every Form.

Of chronic diseases cured by chemical treatment of the blood, by Dr. Mortimore at the Morton House, Post street, near Kearny. Especially diseases of the Lungs and Throat, Ozena, Catarrh, disease of the Heart, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Epilepsy, etc.

The Newest Publications.

All readers like to receive their books, magazines and newspapers as soon as possible after publication. Loomis, at the southeast corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the post-office, is agent for all the chief American and English magazines and newspapers and delivers them to subscribers immediately on the arrival of the mail. x

The Place.

ING BOUGHT THE INTEREST
Messrs. Tubbs & Patten, of the Ocean Hotel, has secured a lease for [illegible] years of this well-known Hotel. Its previous reputation assures its being kept in first style, while in order to keep pace with the times he intends to make many important reductions in the scale of charges. His intention is to make it a family and business house, while his connection with the traveling public warrants him in expecting a large amount of country, Coast and Eastern patronage. The prices will range from two to three dollars a day for ordinary accommodation. Board by the week or month on contract. The table will be kept on the liberal scale, and many improvements introduced. The spacious reading room is the finest of any in the city, while the furniture and fittings throughout are superior to those of any hotel in San Francisco. The house will be thoroughly overhauled. MR. PEARSON assumed proprietorship on the 1st. The Elevator attached to the house will be used as usual. au5 1m

Death of a Noted Acrobat.

We learn by the latest English papers that Signor Eurardo, the English globe performer, who was known throughout England as the "Spiral Ascensionist," having been for some years the most famous performer in that line, was recently accidentally killed in Cadiz, Spain. He was making a trapeze leap in the Bull Ring, when, missing his goal, he fell to the earth. He was picked up insensible amidst a gaping throng, and died in a few hours afterwards from the injuries he had sustained. "Signor Eurardo's" real name was Bowley; he was the son of a Sheffield chimney sweep, and doubtless received his first acrobatic training in following the profession of his father. Young Bowley was apprenticed to the Buislays—who came here about six years ago—and was taught the spiral ascension business by old man Buislay, the original performer of the feat. He ran away just as the troupe started on their South American trip, and set up in the spiral line for himself. He made a great reputation by his daring and sensational acrobatic performances in the music halls of the leading cities of England. Eurardo went to Spain about a year ago, where his dangerous feats proved great cards of attraction. He was only twenty-six years of age, though he had already realized a competency from his death-daring profession. Eurardo was the reigning favorite in his line of business, and was in the very zenith of his fame when he met his death.

An Open Letter.

The English postal cards sometimes form the basis of libel suits. A man received one from his wife's brother, in which it was written: "Your unmanly conduct to my sister is known to me. It shall be known to the world at large, if you do not reform, you coward." The receiver of the epistle sued for slander and got £30 damages.

A Good Ma ket.

A Salt Lake paper says the climate there is peculiarly trying to the hair.

This is so much better for the Unknown, who is there selling a hair restorative. Here he told people he used nothing but cold water on his head.

The Songs of the Period.

"D." in Sunday's Call laments that the poetry of our songs is deteriorating, and makes out a strong case against the songs of the period. He is especially down on "Ten Thousand Miles Away," which certainly introduces to our acquaintance one who is anything but a nice young gentleman for a small tea-party; but he might, while justly reprobating songs of this description, give the songs of the period credit for comprising in their number such compositions as "Wait for the Turn of the Tide," "Good as Gold," "Paving the Way," and many others which are healthy in their sentiment and pleasing in their melody. As to comic songs we fear but little can be said in favor of the English comic song of the period. It appears to be necessary for its popularity that it should contain nothing that appeals to the intellect, but should owe its "fun" to a conglomeration of unmeaning sounds. The public of the present day has to be treated as a big baby, "Hush a by baby, upon the tree top," is altogether too intellectual a composition for it, but it will scream with with laughter if a man with his face blacked sings to it—

> And then he jumped up the chimney,
> And Mary's little lamb,
> Which turned out to be a ram,
> Cried out, oh jiminy, criminy!

The English comic song of olden times had one disadvantage, which would prevent it's being popular with the present generation, The hearers had to listen to it attentively to appreciate its fun, it was too long before the laugh came in. It consisted of a story told in as many as twenty or even thirty verses, and the point was in the last one. This would never do for the present day. Bacchanalian songs are older than the flood and as long as people find fun in drinking, these songs will be sung. Therefore we cannot see that there is anything dreadful in "Champagne Charley." O, "D.," dost thou think because thou art virtuous that there shall be no more cakes and ale?" Boys will be boys for a good many generations to come, and "We won't go home till morning," shall be sung by generations yet unborn. We can listen with amusement to Champagne Charley, who is a good, liberal young fellow, hoping of course that when he has sown his wild oats, he will settle down into a respectable member of society. Even "A Lardy-dardy Swell" excites amusement without any feeling of contempt, when the character is well represented, for we know that "lardy-dardy swells exist," and we know also that there is an immense amount of reserved force and manhood in these same "lardy-dardy swells," which would be brought out on the field of battle and which was brought out in the Crimea. The songs of the period are not at all bad; "A Starry Night for a Ramble," is a capital song and has a good healthy sentiment—one not too hard to carry out, but which, if carried out fully by every one, would save a great deal of unhappiness: it is "Kiss, but Never Tell." "Captain Jinks" is silly enough, but there is no positive harm in him. If the stage is to be the reflex of the times, so must the songs of the period be about the people of the period. If there are more fools than there used to be, it is pity; but at least it must be confessed that all the songs of the period are not written for fools.

Diabolical.

The Washington Critic says "spiders taste like walnuts." Of course it wants to eat all the children catching spiders. It will probably next say that flies taste like peanuts.

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has no longer any connection with the old store on Bush street, but has resumed business on his own account at at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush street, where ladies and gentlemen can rely upon getting perfect-fitting boots and shoes, as all his former Cutters and workmen of the Ladies and Gent's Departments, have removed with him to the new store. Also the largest stock of ladies and gentlemen's first-class Boots and Shoes in the city. P. KELLY, PRIZE BOOTMAKER, 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

Academy of Sciences.

A regular meeting of the California Academy of Sciences was held last night, President Bulger presiding. The names of several scientific gentlemen were presented for membership.

Dr. Kuggles moved that Emperor Norton be allowed to attend the meetings of the society.

Mr. Grubbles hoped the proposition would not be entertained as "they didn't want no darned lunatics round where there was science going on."

Dr. Kuggles said the Emperor could not be called a lunatic: he had a mania, but many scientific men had manias; he was admitted to most of the shows in the city.

President Bulger called Dr. Kuggles to order for comparing the Academy of Sciences to a show.

Dr. Kuggles then dropped the subject, and proceeded to inform the society that he had discovered a new kind of canary seed, which would cause an excitement in the scientific world, as it would not only feed canaries, but also make salad oil. A friend friend of his had twenty acres planted with this seed—

President Bulger said "that was enough; the society didn't want to hear any more about Dr. Kuggles's friend and his seed speculation."

President Bulger then went on to say that he had discovered a species of living creatures that were always in hot water, and they wiggled.

Mr. Norkins said he'd seen lobsters wiggle in hot water. Anything would wiggle in hot water.

President Bulger explained that these creatures continually wiggled, and didn't cook.

Mr. Norkins supposed that they were "wet sallymanders."

Mr. Brick called for a note of censure on Dr. Walker for writing an article in the Overland Monthly, abusing Captain Hall's Arctic Expedition, and asked what the members of the Association thought of the article.

Professor Bulger said "it was all Walker."

Mr. Norkins said that the article was a good one but it did not go far enough. The fact was that the search for the North Pole, was a blind and that the expedition was started for the purpose of buying seal skins and selling whiskey to the Indians.

Nothing more of importance being brought before the meeting, it adjourned

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by James G. Steele & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium.

A Sensation in Hats.

The new Fall and Winter styles are fast arriving at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. One in particular has already been adopted as the fashion; it is a fine low-crowned felt hat, with a curved brim, and is called "The Grand Duke." Those who wish to be in the fashion must go to "The" Hat Store, long famed for having the latest styles and for its moderate prices. x

THE GREAT SPECIALIST,

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY INFORM those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in one of the most celebrated Hospitals in England, The Lock.

He has now re-opened his old Medical Institute, at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was so successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention or explain on paper.

I am aware that some of the empirics of San Francisco make a practice of stating what they cure; but to most persons my name will be quite SUFFICIENT to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

Billy Emerson, Vivian, Sheridan and Mack and Charley Howard, will all appear to-night in a varied programme, which may be seen on our first page. In addition to this an extraordinary exhibition of skating will be given by Callie Curtis, whose comic skating scene with Billy Burt, is one of the most extravagantly funny things ever seen on any stage. The Alhambra Theatre is crowded every night and to obtain a seat it is necessary to go early.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Under the Gaslight" is so well put on the stage at the Metropolitan Theatre, is so well played and is so attractive in itself, that all who see it enjoy their evening's entertainment. As the play must very soon be withdrawn to make room for other novelties, all should pay a visit to the Metropolitan Theatre while it is running.

California Theatre.

"Romeo and Juliet" was presented in excellent style last night, with Mrs. D. P. Bowers as Juliet, John McCullough as Romeo, Henry Edwards as Mercutio, Mrs. Judah as the nurse, and the other parts well filled. To-night the drama of "Ingomar" will be presented, with John McCullough as the barbarian and Mrs. D. P. Bowers as Parthenia. As a matter of course the California Theatre will be crowded, and to obtain a seat it will be necessary to secure it in advance or go early.

Bella Union Theatre.

But a few nights remain of the engagement of Ella Wesner, who will appear in some of her best character songs; the Reynolds Brothers will perform their double song and dance, "The Two Gens d'Armes," and also the capital act of "Bill Jones's Cousin;" Miss Ethel Stanley and Mr. Edgar Stanley will sing duets and ballads; a variety of entertainments will be given, and the performance will conclude with the thrilling drama of "The Game of Life," in which the ever-pleasing and vivacious Aline Le Favre brings down the house as Anna, Minnie Fillmore is very amusing as Fannie, Marsh admirable as the villain, and all the company good. To-night the beautiful artiste and charming danseuse, M'lle Gaugain, will make her first appearance at this theatre.

Theatre Comique.

To-night in addition to a rich and racy entertainment of songs, dances and amusing acts, Harry Courtaine, who is as popular as ever, will appear in the screaming farce of "Kiss Your Father." Little Maggie Knight will appear in some of her best acts, and a performance which cannot fail to please all tastes will be given.

Oxford Theatre.

The stirring military drama of "The Spy; or the Battle of Sedan," draws good houses. The Prussian Camp; the battle scenes; the Amazons; "The Marellaise;" and the combats, are all vivid and exciting.

Masquerade Skating Carnival.

Our colored citizens have long had a skating rink of their own, and on Monday evening next the New Pavilion Skating Club will hold a masquerade skating carnival at Platt's Hall. Mr. J. Campbell will give an exhibition on skates, and the Club will execute a skating quadrille. The novelty of the affair will doubtless attract a large attendance.

Carnival Ball.

Great preparations are being made for the Carnival Ball to come off at the Mechanics' Pavilion on the 28th. The list of prizes and other particulars concerning this grand affair appear on our first page.

Woodward's Gardens.

This delightful resort presents thousands of attractions in the menagerie, museum, art gallery skating rink, conservatories and gymnasium.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

The Skating Rink.

The fascinating Carrie Moore gives an exhibition every evening at the Occidental Skating Rink, opposite the Mechanics' Fair Pavilion.

Wm. E. Garing.

This gymnastic performer, who made quite a hit in the Kehoe club exercise on the occasion of the benefit of the Reynolds Brothers at the Bella Union Theatre last week, is disengaged.

The Theatrical License Cases.

The cases of Sam Totlow, of the Bella Union Theatre; Charles Vincent, Hank Dobson and Jake Wallace of the Oxford Theatre; and Joe Koster and James Miller of the Pacific Theatre, charged with having given theatrical entertainments without having paid the city and county license, came up before the Municipal Court this morning for ajudication. It being plainly proved that the offence was merely a technical one in each of these cases, the license being but a few days in arrear, Judge Lake dismissed them all. Thus by all these prosecutions for infringement of the license law by managers and proprietors of theatres the only sufferer has been one who was no way interested in breaking the law. Poor John Woodard was fined $100, because he happened to be employed as stage manager at the Pacific Theatre during the time the licence was unpaid. Another instance of the glorious uncertainty of the law!

10 to 12.—Continuation of ditto.

1 to 1½ A. M.—Just one more last dance.

1½ to 2½.—Adjournment of retiring dancers to corridor; extemporaneous waltzes—screams—giggling—leave-taking and door-slammings.

2½ to 3.—Serenade by young gentlemen who do not understand the difference between a howl and a song, and are more familiar with a hotel bar than one in music.

3 to 3½.—Collection of boots by porter.

4.—Calling of party who are to go on a fishing excursion.

4½.—Calling of passengers for the early train.

5.—Audible dropping of boots at all the doors by porter.

5½.—Departure of stage load of passengers for early train—cracking of whips—shouts to the horses—banging of trunks down stairs, &c.

6 to 6½.—General stir of servants coming down and getting things to rights for the day.

7.—First gong for breakfast.

WEIGHT OF WOMEN.

Young Ladies not so Fragile as is Supposed.

In romance we read of heroes rushing off with fainting maidens from blazing houses, or "carting" them off on their shoulders for purposes of revengeful abduction. Let any one out of training, or under six feet high and with proportionate strength, attempt to run away with a fairly well composed girl of eighteen or twenty, and give us his opinion of the prowess of the vaunted knights. A woman weighing a hundred and forty pounds weight of kicking womanhood is not to be carried at all. Even a slight girl will weigh a hundred pounds, and Randolph or Horatio will stagger under her lovely but cumbersome figure if he break out of a staccato walk. There are plenty of buxom girls who weigh up to a hundred and seventy pounds, and it is not given to every man to "hurry off" with such baggage. When the victimized Squallina faints upon the stage, the muscular baritone takes good care that the evanouissement shall be accomplished as close to the wing as possible. He knows that La Squallina weighs some by sad experience of rehearsals. Let any of our readers carry his sister (he will probably prefer his cousin) up three flights of stairs without stopping, and forward to us his sentiments on the occasion.

Man Beaten to Death by His Wife.

[N. Y. Sun, September 7.]

Lindsey Monroe and his wife, of Somerville (N. J.) have for a long time lived a wretched life, in consequence of the intemperate habits of both parties. About ten days ago Monroe was taken sick with a fever. While confined to his bed, his wife fired with rum, detemined to have revenge upon him for the beatings she had received at his hands. She went to his bedside with a club, and, after hammering him until he was senseless, dragged him out to the wood-pile, and would have dispatched him with an axe had not the neighbors interfered. Monroe rallied, and was in a fair way of recovery, but was suddenly taken worse and died on Monday afternoon. It is supposed he was poisoned and Coroner Wagoner ordered an inquest and a post mortem examination. The jury returned a verdict of death from injuries on the head given by his wife on the 27th of August.

The Stockton Lottery.

STOCKTON, September 18.—The drawing of the San Joaquin Fire Engine Lottery, announced to take place at 8 o'clock P. M. at Mozart Hall, drew together a large crowd of both sexes. It took a long time to select the proper Committee, there being apparently no head to the institution. At 9:30 the mob were quieted sufficiently to allow the drawing to take place. The following are the prizes drawn up to 10:30 P.M., above $30. It will take until until 1 A. M. to complete the list: No. 8,172 wins $30, No. 18,794 wins $30, No. 2,099 wins $100, No. 3,200 wins $50, No. 6,494 wins $100, No. 5,432 wins $5,000, No. 17,074 wins $100.

MY MOTHER'S WRINKLES.

IDA WHIPPLE BENHAM.

The angels folded them down, I know,
Tenderly down, when none could see,
With a sweet thought's weight to keep them so—
Maybe a thought of me.

A thought of me, and a throbbing thought,
Crossing the daisies' snowy sea
To the silent temples, flower fraught,
Under the cypress tree.

For often the solemn feet have trod,
Noiseless and chill, beside her hearth,
Bearing a message down from God—
Bearing a soul from earth.

In the long, still nights, when others slept,
Weeping has kept her lids apart,
Till the tender, happy pain has crept
Out of her weary heart,

Into her forehead's white, and there
The loving fingers that always wait
On grief, enfolded it, soft and fair,
Into these wrinkles straight.

The saints, who stand in a holy place,
Meekly, joyous, have felt, I know,
Over the page of an earth-born face,
The sorrowful record grow.

And, looking back to the dim earth-days,
Haply the righteous ones can see
In the grief-fraught lines the hallowed rays
Of the aureola to be.

Oh, saintly mother, I sit apart
And, reverent, every feature trace—
Reading the story of thy heart
In the wrinkles of thy face.

The angels folded them softly down
With fingers of love, when none might see,
Fold by fold with another crown
In the world of bliss for thee.

Beecher on Cats.

They are called selfish. We sorrowfully admit that cats are not generous—but we see no evidence of a grasping, avaricious selfishness. They have self-respect. They know instinctively whether they are liked or hated. They hold themselves aloof from strangers, because they have had too much experience of the world's opinion of cats. It is said that a cat will court you, rub against your knee, solicit your hand upon her head, for the mere sake of its own pleasure. As this is an exhibition never permitted in human life, it is no wonder that men are disgusted with it! But our own experience and observation teach us that cats are susceptible of attachments among themselves, toward men, and even toward animals of different species.

The fashionable way to ask a friend to have a drink is, "Have a snake."

Throw Out Your Chest!

A man should stand up like a man, throw out his chest and throw his shoulders back, thus giving room for the free action of the lungs. The Champion and Pivot-action Braces sold by C. H. Burr, sole agent for the Pacific Coast, 818 Market street, will be found to afford efficient aid in accomplishing this. They are superior to all others, and cost no more. •

It is Not

Because you wear cheap boots and shoes that you become crippled—it is because they do not fit properly; neither does a bad-fitting boot or shoe last so long by half the time as one made by a first-class cutter, such as is found at Kast's fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre. •

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish. •

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haache, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone. •

Dr. Flattery.

Dr. Flattery's wide-known celebrity and Private Hospital—opportunities, a lifetime experience in this and other countries, and now at 805 Montgomery street, San Francisco—are a guarantee when all others fail. •

Premium Photographer.

Geo. D. MOSES was awarded the First Premium—a silver medal—by the Mechanics' Institute Fair for the best photographic work, over all competitors. Rooms, 417 Montgomery street, above California. x

Nearly all Great Men

Use tobacco in some form, and fine cut is most sought for because of its exquisite flavor. Veteran chewers say that the tobacco which contains the most happy combination of flavors is the "Sunny Side" brand, it being cut from pure Kentucky leaf. •

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

The Elixir of Youth.

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever. •

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table. •

Every Form.

Of chronic diseases cured by chemical treatment of the blood, by Dr. Mortimore at the Morton House, Post street, near Kearny. Especially diseases of the Lungs and Throat, Ozena, Catarrh, disease of the Heart, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Epilepsy, etc. •

The Newest Publications.

All readers like to receive their books, magazines and newspapers as soon as possible after publication. Loomis, at the southeast corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the post-office, is agent for all the chief American and English magazines and newspapers and delivers them to subscribers immediately on the arrival of the mail. x

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them. •

S. P. R. R. News Agency.

James Miller supplies the reading wants of the passengers on the Southern Pacific Railroad with the latest San Francisco papers, and Eastern Illustrated ones, and magazines, at San Francisco prices. He also supplies FIGARO to the passengers on the upward bound trains, at San Francisco rates—free of charge. •

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which cave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

Misinterpreted.

The English papers are running the following item:

A messenger having requested a London clergyman, recently to announce that "If Dr. Leach was among the audience he was urgently wanted," the clergyman added from sympathy, "and may God have mercy on the poor patient!" The Doctor, in a rage, afterwards demanded and received an apology for what he construed into an open insult.

When a clergyman's appeal, made from the pulpit in behalf of a suffering patient is tortured by a retired and respectable army physician into a personal reflection on his want of professional skill, it is not to be wondered at that the wicked boys around town should put a wrong construction on FIGARO's hastily written items occasionally We trust, however, that the guilty parties will profit hereafter by this gentle admonition and sin no more.

A Healthy Angel.

Some weeks ago a little five-year old boy in town, after saying his evening prayers, asked: "Mother, will father go to heaven when he dies?" (His father was a man of huge frame.) "Yes, I hope he will; I do not donbt he will. Why do you ask?" "Oh, I only wanted to know," and for a time the subject seemed to have faded from the mind of the child. But it soon cropped out again. "Are you sure, mother, that father will go to heaven when he dies?" "Yes, my child, I do not doubt it; why do you ask?" The little fellow was silent for a moment, and then burst out with: "Golly, what a whopping angel he'll make!"

Speaking in a Hurry.

A gentleman was chiding his son for staying out late nights—or rather early next morning—and said: "Why, when I was of your age, my father would not allow me to go out of the house after dark." "Then you had a deuce of a father—you had," sneered the young profligate. "I had a confounded sight better'n you, you young rascal."

The sign of a Chicago restaurant—painted in the national colors—informs the passer-by where he may obtain "belloney serseg, oyster supe and sheap's tungs."

Answers to Correspondents.

KATIE.—The engagement ring should be worn on one of your fingers, the marriage ring through the nose.

PUNSTER.—Your joke about a man who cries fish, being a member of a "base bawl club," is not good enough for FIGARO.

INQUIRER.—Yes, Frank Pixley did take his mule to Paris, and eat it there.

CHRISTIAN.—Frederick Marriott is not President of the Young Men's Christian Association, neither is the News Letter a religious publication.

ANXIOUS MOTHER.—Certainly not. Mr. Woodward did not "feed babies" to the Fiji Cannibals while they were at the Gardens You had better advertise for the child.

REPUBLICAN.—Yes. Gentlemen in England take off their hats to the Queen or any other lady.

BILLY.—We cannot publish your first attempt at English composition. Send it to the Alta.

GRAMMARIAN.—It would not be right to call a bilious man a "billion."

SCHOLASTICUS.—You can scarcely claim to be a "thorough classical scholar" because you have read Pope's translation of Homer and Dryden's Virgil.

SCIENTIST.—Jack Stratman is not a member of the California Academy of Sciences We suppose he could be if he chose.

ETIQUETTE.—Your beau was wrong to accuse you of putting on airs, because you didn't put your knife in your mouth, but if you mean to marry him perhaps you had better learn to eat with your knife. It is not so dangerous as it appears.

BASHFUL.—No. There is no harm in kissing a young lady on the first day you have made her acquaintance, if she will let you.

Very Much Better.

A young lady at an evening party some time ago found it hard to use the expression "Jordan is a hard road to travel;" and, thinking it too vulgar an expression, substituted the following: "Perambulating progression in pedestrian excursion along the far-famed thoroughfare of fortune cast up by the banks of the sparkling river of Palestine is indeed attended with a heterogenous conglomeration of unforseen difficulties.

Funny Telegram.

The Marysville Appeal of the 19th, had a telegram from San Francisco, beginning thus:

The case of Dr. Chas. O'Donnell, captain of the Astrologer, and Isabella Knapp, indicted for the murder of Eugene Chauvette, was called before Judge McKinstry to-day for trial.

The Appeal's telegraphic editor ought to have known enough of current events to translate that into "Cohen the Astrologer."

Two Girls.

The difference between the Baltimore and the Philadelphia girl is that the latter is always wanting something to eat, and the former something to love. The Philadelphienne carries her young man to dinner with her, and sees that he is well foddered. The Baltimorienne carries him off for a stroll and looks into his eyes.

Is Fashion in Titusville?

The Titusville Herald, in its "Society Notes," says that the delicate shade of Nile green, so popular last season, is giving way to a new tint known as "petroleum yellow." It is a shade between Franklin crude and Cleveland benzine, and is very light.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all he Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has no longer any connection with the old store on Bush street, but has resumed business on his own account at at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush street, where ladies and gentlemen can rely upon getting perfect-fitting boots and shoes, as all his former Cutters and workmen of the Ladies and Gent's Departments, have removed with him to the new store. Also the largest stock of ladies and gentlemen's first-class Boots and Shoes in the city. P. KELLY, PRIZE BOOTMAKER, 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

The Radical Rheumatic

Eradicator—the only known remedy. Frank H. Lashier, proprietor, No. 206 Fourth street San Francisco.

Joe Jefferson's Rip Van Winkle.

We have seen many criticisms on Joe Jefferson's Rip Van Winkle, but we confess we have never met with any like the following, which we clip from our most amusing exchange, the Pittsburg Evening Star:

How admirably is nature portrayed when Rip Van Winkle has just awakened from his twenty years' sleep on the mountains—when the arm moves, then the leg, and the audience hears the creaking of his,—what wonderment comes over his countenance and motions when he sits up and looks at his old grey and long whiskers, at his hair, and when he rises to his feet with the rheumatix barring his muscles, and almost stopping the action of his arm, he reaches for his gun—when the stock of the gun falls to pieces from decay, see what agony and wonder encircles his face. See how he holds the barrel—observe how he look for his dog Snyder.

When Rip Van Winkle arrives at the town, what natural wonderment, disappointment, melancholy and at the same time mirth comes over him and permeates his feeling, his actions and better than all, his soliloque in this best, the grandest, the finest, and wonderfully moral and chaste drama that now engages the stage. "And as it is you, I won't count this, but here's health to yourself and family, and long may you live and prosper."

Philadelphia Ladies.

It is said to be a very easy matter in conversation to detect Philadelphia young ladies from all others. They invariably say "mare" (maar) for mother, "me" for my, and have a lazy, good-natured drawl. Withal they are pretty, modest and amiable—three excellent things in women.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by JAMES G. STEELE & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the MecBanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium.

A Sensation in Hats.

The new Fall and Winter styles are fast arriving at "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. One in particular has already been adopted as the fashion; it is a fine low-crowned felt hat, with a curved brim, and is called "The Grand Duke." Those who wish to be in the fashion must go to "THE" Hat Store, long famed for having the latest styles and for its moderate prices. x

THE GREAT SPECIALIST,

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY INFORM those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in one of the most celebrated Hospitals in England, The Lock.

He has now re-opened his old Medical Institute, at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was so successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention or explain on paper.

I am aware that some of the empirics of San Francisco make a practice of stating what they cure; but to most persons my name will be quite SUFFICIENT to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

"Ingomar" was beautifully played last night, Mrs. D. P. Bowers reading and acting the part of Parthenia most charmingly and John McCullough giving an impersonation of Ingomar that left nothing to be desired. To-night a very attractive entertainment will be offered in the capital play of "Court and Stage," in which Mrs. Bowers will appear as Nell Gwynne. There will be a matinee performance on Saturday at which "Elizabeth" will be played.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Under the Gaslight," with its fine scenery, thrilling railroad sensation and well developed characters; will be presented this evening and at the matinee on Saturday. Mrs. F. M. Bates is a great favorite with the public, and is ably supported by James M. Hardie and the company. "Adrienne: or, the Duel in the Mist," is underlined for Monday.

Alhambra Theatre.

Every part of the performance given at this popular theatre is lively and entertaining, and is enjoyed nightly by a large and fashionable audience. Billy Emerson's Telegraph song is a great feature in the first part: Sheridan and Mack's "Dancing on the Sly," "Little Bunch of Roses," and wonderful clog dance are received with shouts of applause; Vivian is never let off under three encores; Charley Howard is immense in the afterpiece, and Callie Curtis, the champion skater, has fairly captured the city, people thronging to see him in his wonderful performance.

Bella Union Theatre.

The bill at this theatre is a very attractive one. The attractive and graceful M'lle Gaugain gains immense applause in her fancy dances. Ella Wesner, whose engagement will close in a few nights presents her pleasing character songs; the Reynolds Brothers appear in song and dance, the Stanleys in songs and duets, and the queen of all the blondes, the joyous Le Favre, appears as Anna, in the popular play of "The Game of Life,"

Theatre Comique.

To-night, in addition to Harry Courtaine in the farce of "Kiss Your Father," Maggie Knight in character sketches, Johnny Toers in acts and song and the strong Theatre Comique company in a varied programme, the management announce the first appearance of Miss Garibaldi, the Spanish vocalist, and Miss Louise Shmmers, the pleasing ballad singer.

Oxford Theatre.

The stirring military drama of "The Spy: or the Battle of Sedan," draws good houses. The Prussian Camp; the battle scenes: the Amazons; "The Marellaise;" and the combats, are all vivid and exciting.

Callie Curtis Matinee.

There will be a crowded matinee performance on Saturday at the Alhambra Theatre, at which Callie Curtis, the champion skater, will appear in his wonderful and entertaining performance.

Woodward's Gardens.

This delightful resort presents thousands of attractions in the menagerie, museum, art gallery skating rink, conservatories and gymnasium.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

The Skating Rink.

The fascinating Carrie Moore gives an exhibition every evening at the Occidental Skating Rink, opposite the Mechanics' Fair Pavilion

Carnival Ball.

Great preparations are being made for the Carnival Ball to come off at the Mechanics' Pavilion on the 28th. The list of prizes and other particulars concerning this grand affair appear on our first page.

Masquerade Skating Carnival.

Our colored citizens have long had a skating rink of their own, and on Monday evening next the New Pavilion Skating Club will hold a masquerade skating carnival at Platt's Hall. Mr. J. Campbell will give an exhibition on skates, and the Club will execute a skating quadrille. The novelty of the affair will doubtless attract a large attendance.

Wm E. Garing.

This gymnastic performer, who made quite a hit in the Kehoe club exercise on the occasion of the benefit of the Reynolds Brothers at the Bella Union Theatre last week, is disengaged.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

Precisely

For the same reason that the ladies have determined to calceate for the Fair, the opposite sex to be in juxtaposition, have determined to purchase their Patent Leather Oxford Ties and Dancing Pumps at East's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre. x

Marshal Bazaine's Duplicity — New Facts about the Fall of Metz.

[From the N. Y. Evening Post.]

The capitulation of Metz was owing entirely to the treachery of Marshal Bazaine, who refused to make any sortie, and who yielded up the city against the wishes of the inhabitants. It is hinted he did this in hope of saving the Napoleonic dynasty, thinking that by thus giving Lorraine to the Prussians they would aid in the restoration of Napoleon III. It is believed that they acceded to this plan, but subsequently found the public feeling against the Emperor so strong that they could not carry out the scheme, but they kept Metz.

THE PRESENCE OF THE ARMY

of Bazaine, which most people have thought was for its defence, proved the ruin of Metz. The city is so strongly fortified that with proper provisioning it could have held out for years; but the immense army during its long enforced idleness before the walls—for the forces were not in the city at all—devoured all the provisions. Metz supplied Bazaine's army; and yet, after the capitulation, the Prussians found provisions in the camp, and sold them to the citizens. This was after the latter had been for days subsisting on horse flesh, doled out in limited rations.

SO GREAT WAS THE DISSATISFACTION of the authorities of Metz with the policy of Bazaine, that they went so far as to organize a revolt, and proposed the removal of the Marshal. This, speaking in a military sense, they had not the slightest right to do; but the difficulty in finding a leader who would be acceptable to the army, to take Bazaine's place prevented the consummation of the plan. Overtures made to Changarnier, who was with the army, though holding no command, were rejected. Frequent communication passed between Bazaine and the municipal authorities, and the bad feeling between them was not concealed. The Marshal, too, was well aware that he

WAS SUSPECTED OF TREASON.

He kept from the knowledge of the citizens the facts of Sedan, and the people of New York—nay, of every town and village in the United States—knew of the fall of Napoleon and the surrender of his army a week or more before the besieged inhabitants of Metz heard the startling news. Then a piece of a German newspaper was brought into the city in a straggler's boot, and from this stray fragment the all-important intelligence was gleaned. The Mayor immediately demanded information of Bazaine, who acknowledged what he could no longer conceal. The vote of decheance was known at Metz only after a long delay, and immediately after the reception of the news the National Guards tore the Imperial eagles from the public buildings. Up to this date, however, the word "imperiale" has not been removed from the doors of the different apartments in the Palais de Justice.

METZ IS TO-DAY IN HEART

a French city, though her streets are filled with Prussian troops and she is within the political boundaries of Prussia. The people are perfectly outspoken in their determination to fight again for what they deem their nationality. "There is my only son," said a mother to me, pointing to a lad of sixteen, "and I expect in a few years to see him in the army which will make us French again." "If we have to remain Prussians," said a citizen merchant, "we will leave Metz forever." Already the wealthier people have retired into France. Sixteen thousand persons have left Metz since the siege, besides the 20,000 country people who foolishly sought refuge in its walls on the approach of the Germans.

A MILLIONAIRE'S PALACE.

Something About A. T. Stewart's New Mansion.

[New York Sun.]

The new house of Mr. Stewart, at the corner of Thirty-fourth street and Fifth avenue, is nearly ready for occupation. It is built of white marble, in composite style, covering an area of 116 by 62 feet, and is four stories high. The exterior ornamentation is elaborate and tasteful, and the effect of the structure is extremely imposing. A palace without, the magnificence of the interior is more striking still.

On the ground floor is a grand entrance hall, entered through a superb marble vestibule, a reception room, parlor, breakfast and dining rooms, picture-gallery and music room, all of spacious dimensions and elegant design.

The drawing-room is 47x24 feet, and the dining-room 32x19. The floors and walls in all the rooms are of marble, and the ceilings are decorated with beautiful frescoes.

The picture-gallery, which is seventy by twenty-eight feet, is fifty feet in height, surmounted by a dome. All the apartments are adorned with splendid mirrors, elaborately carved mantel-pieces, and furniture of costly woods of gilt, upholstered with satin of various hues. The gilded chandeliers, which are original and elegant designs, are all connected by electric wires, so that they can be lighted or extinguished in a moment. The carpets have been made to order in Europe, and correspond in beauty and cost to the other furnishings of the mansion.

The second floor is reached by a grand staircase of white marble, which was manufactured in Italy and imported in sections. On this floor are the sleeping apartments of Mr. Stewart, with suites of dressing-rooms on either side, a library, forty-seven by twenty-four feet, and a billiard room. All are fitted up with a cost and elegance of design in harmony with the lower part of the mansion. The third floor consists of bedrooms of almost equal magnificence, and the fourth is divided into numerous commodious rooms for the use of the servants of the establishment.

South End of the Comstock.

The southern portion of the great Comstock lode, says the Gold Hill News of a late date, is now in an extreme high degree of favor and prosperity little dreamed of one year ago. In fact, at that time the mines south of the Yellow Jacket were looked upon as mere speculative arrangements, possessing very little of real merit, the only ore found in any of them being of low grade, not paying the the expenses of working the mines. A year ago the Crown Point Company had concluded to shut down their mine in January, as it could only be kept working by levying assessments, and the prospects ahead were decidedly gloomy. But mark the surprising change since then. The largest, finest and most valuable body of ore ever found in the Comstock has been developed in the Crown Point lower level, extending through into the Belcher to an as yet undefined distance and extent. Latterly, it is found to be of greater width and extent in the Crown Point than was expected by even the most sanguine, giving a huge breadth of rich ore all the way to the Belcher north line. How far south it goes in the Belcher is not yet ascertained beyond a hundred feet or so. The Belcher claim is 940 feet in length. The rich ore body at its lowest level is worked and being extracted by means of the Yellow Jacket shaft, but eventually the company will sink a shaft of its own further east. The Segregated Belcher claim, adjoining it on the south, is 160 feet in length, and in anticipation of also getting a portion of the deep rich deposit, that company are about commencing a new shaft east of their old work. Next south comes the Overman Company, who have already a large new shaft well commenced, 1,500 feet east of their present works, sinking after that same rich deposit or some other just as good or just as likely to exist at a similar depth. The stocks in all these mines mentioned are up in consequence of these improvements and decidedly good prospects. Even the Caledonia Company have developed some very good ore at their 400-foot level, and their future prospects in that line are much improved. The Yellow Jacket Company is very likely to strike something good at their lowest levels before long, and we hope the good developments may eventually be found to extend further north among the mines of Gold Hill. So much for the south end of the Comstock. Everybody, as well as ourself, of course, wishes all the rest of the ledge, even to its extreme north end, to come out all right.

A Big Yield.

We learn from a friend of ours, says the Insurance Review, that there have been seventy bushels of wheat to the acre raised on Twitchel Island this year. This is what we call a big yield, especially when we take into consideration the fact that there were but twenty-five pounds of seed sown on the acre, and that that was sown on harrowed, not plowed ground, and tramped in by sheep. The same lands, we are told, will cut three crops of hay in one season, or will graze three cattle per acre. If this land is a fair specimen of Sacramento river tide lands, there is certainly a good speculation to be made by reclaiming them. Two thousand acres of such land reclaimed will be worth in a few years at least $200,000. While San Joaquin Valley lands, and other rich lands that are subject to the severe droughts that so frequently visit California, are depreciating in value, these lands would rapidly advance in price.

We are of the opinion that there are no better investments to be made in California lands anywhere than in the tide and overflow lands along the Sacramento and San Joaquin Rivers. Fifty thousand acres of these lands reclaimed and put in proper condition for cultivation would yield millions of bushels of grain and thousands of tons of hay. The average cost of leveeing and draining these lands is about $5 per acre. Surely some enterprising land buyers will look after these lands.

DRIFTING APART.

Broad is the sea where the vessels are sailing,
Fair are the breezes that waft them along,
Clear is the sky that above them is smiling,
Brilliant the sun that is lighting them on.
Ever the billows are playing around them,
Ki-sing their sides as they speed them away
O'er the wide ocean that lies all before them—
Ocean to cross ere they enter the bay.

Sometimes two vessels will sail on together,
Seeming each other to help and to cheer,
Giving assistance in trial and danger,
Passing the shoals and the rocks without fear;
Then, as they journey, a cloud gathers o'er them,
Head winds assail them, wide tossing each bark,
Splinter the masts, rend the sails and the rigging—
Waves roll between them, and they drift apart.

Oh, there are hearts sailing out on life's ocean,
Banded together by friendship and love,
Giving assistance in trial and sorrow,
Fearing no danger as onward they rove.
Then, as they journey, a storm bursts upon them,
Severs the couplings that bind heart to heart,
Lashes the sea till it foams in its madness—
Waves roll between them, and they drift apart.

You that have friends that are loving and tender,
Whom you can trust with the hopes of your soul,
Let not the trials of life bear asunder
Those who can aid on the way to the goal;
Cling to them always, in darkness, in sunshine,
And, when to Jesus in prayer goes your heart,
Ask that His blessing may ever rest on them—
Pray Him to keep you from drifting apart.

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table.

Special Notice.

Indigestion is the cause of more than one-half of all diseases. In the United States it subjects one-half of the entire population to the tortures of dyspepsia. Nature has endowed the human stomach and digestive organs with a certain amount of power to perform their functions. By Nature's laws, therefore, 50 per cent. of human beings are condemned to suffer the miseries of indigestion, dizziness, nausea, sick and nervous headache, and other disorders of the liver and digestive organs. FRIDAY.....SEPTEMBER 22, 1871

PETALUMA EDITION.

FIGARO will be the house programme at the Petaluma Theatre during the Fair Week, and a large edition will be circulated on the cars, throughout the city and at the Fair Grounds. All our advertisers will have the benefit of this extra edition.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

EXTRA EDITIONS OF FIGARO.

We print to-day, 1000 FIGAROS for circulation in Petaluma, and on the cars and traveling convayances en route for that city. As FIGARO will be used as the house programme for the San Francisco Dramatic Company at the Petaluma Theatre, and its general advertiser at the Fair Grounds and elsewhere during the Fair week; an extra edition will be printed, and forward daily until the close of the Fair, on the 30th inst. All our regular advertisements will be published in these extra editions.

Nice Young Lady.

A Miss of twenty, lecturing out West on Woman suffrage, marriage, etc., gives this powerful advice to her sisters: "If you hate your husband, shake him and live alone or look upon affinity."

Calumny.

"Calumny," says Archbishop Leighton, "would soon starve and die of itself if nobody took it in and gave it lodging." "There would not," says Bishop Hall, "be so many open mouths if there were not so many open ears."

Queer Fish.

A lady who was not posted in natural history, and who had forgotten her geography, asked a friend who was going to Utah to bring her a couple of Mormons for her aquarium.

Inconvenient Collateral.

Two Terra Haute women pawned their babies at a saloon for the drinks. After a while the babies wanted "the drinks," and the bar-keeper was very glad to trade back and give odds.

A householder, in filling up his schedule under the heading, "where born," described one of his children as born in the parlor and the other up stairs.

A woman that marries a man simply because he is a good match, must not be surprised if he turns out a lucifer.

Fifty Years Ago.

Charley Howard's celebrated song. Also, Emerson's popular song, "The Old Man's Drunk Again." For sale at Cohen's, 912 Kearny street, between Jackson and Pacific.

New York Dry Goods Store.

813 Stockton street, between Clay and Sacramento, receives new goods daily from New York auctions very cheap. Remember the number.

Everybody Buys Them.

What? The hundred various compounds prepared only from Steuart's refined sugar, by Canty & Wagner, 107 Montgomery street. Their candies have been famed for their delicious flavors for years, and the firm does an immense trade, both in the jobbing and retail line.

Also, a large assortment of Watch Chains, Jewelry, Cameos, Dismonds, Topaz, Amethyst, Coral, Turquoise, Onyx, Pearl and Etruscan Sets, etc., all of which will be sold at the very lowest prices.

Russ House Carriages,

Sam Moore, proprietor. Any style of team, with all the latest improvements at reduced rates. Careful and gentlemanly drivers in all cases. Leave orders at the Russ House.

Oysters and Chowder.

Try Joe Giusti's delicious chowder and luscious oysters, at 105 California Market, entrance on Summer street. Ladies' saloon attached. Open day and night.

A Shock to Society.

"Society" in New York has received a terrible shock. The fashionable young men whose thoughts run on gloves and trousers, and the young ladies who are "much admired" at watering-place "hops" and Fifth avenue "Germans" are in despair. Such an appalling catastrophe has not occurred within their feeble memories, and the calamity is so great that they cannot take it in all at once.

There is a weekly paper published in New York city called Our Society. It is devoted exclusively to the creme de la creme of society, and therefore is printed on cream-tinted paper. Being intended for the highest circles of fashion, it is, of course, high-priced. No common people are numbered among its readers, and therefore no vulgar news is admitted to its pages. The fate of nations and the march of peoples have no interest for the readers of Our Society, and are consequently ignored. But in its broad and elegant pages one can learn that "Charley S—— sported a new tie yesterday, and looked stunning;" what the Fitz Foodles wore at the last ball; who are engaged, and of whom the trousseau has been ordered, and what the wedding dress is to be; which was the handsomest, which was the best dressed, and who were "very much admired" at the "hops" of the week. Of course such a paper had a large circulation among the class for which it was designed, because everyone hoped to find his or her name in its columns, and equally of course the editor was admitted into fashionable circles, for how else could he obtain the news of "our society?"

And now trouble has come on the fashionable editor and consternation has seized upon the fashionable readers. The perfumed and kid-gloved editor, petted and feared by the Noodles and Fitz Foodles, turns out to be a common swindler, and has been thrust into a prison cell like any other vulgar thief. He passed worthless checks for small amounts on glove dealers, cigar dealers and boarding house keepers, receiving change in addition to goods purchased. Since his incarceration the police have been "looking him up," and find that this kid-gloved exquisite, Ford C. Barksdale, has always "lived by his wits," and before commencing his career as a fashionable editor ran a twenty-five-cent humbug show with, a couple of skeletons, a wax figure and some old clothes as stock in trade. Society mourns.

Stand up!

Heaven help the man who imagines he can dodge his enemies by trying to please everybody! If such a one ever succeeded, we should be glad to hear of it—not that one should be going through the world trying to find beams to knock and thump his head against, disputing every man's opinion, fighting and elbowing and crowding all who differ with him. That, again, is another extreme. Other people have their opinion—so have you. Don't fall into the error of supposing they will respect you more for turning your coat every day too much the color of theirs. Wear your own clothes in spite of wind and weather, storm and sunshine. It costs the irresolute and vacillating ten times the trouble to wind and shuffle and twist than honest, manly independence to stand its ground.

An old lady writting to her son out West warns him to beware of billious saloons and bowel alleys.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all he Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has no longer any connection with the old store on Bush street, but has resumed business on his own account at at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush street, where ladies and gentlemen can rely upon getting perfect-fitting boots and shoes, as all his former Cutters and workmen of the Ladies and Gent's Departments, have removed with him to the new store. Also the largest stock of ladies and gentlemen's first-class Boots and Shoes in the city. P. KELLY, PRIZE BOOTMAKER, 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

Washing Returned in One Day

And we never disappoint, at the What Cheer Laundry.

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUG & SCHMIDT, Successors to P. J. Scully, Agents.

Pleasant Sunny Rooms,

En suite or single, with board and home comforts, at Mrs. Brooks's, 995 Market street.

To the Unfortuate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure.

The Radical Rheumatic

Eradicator—the only known remedy. Frank H. Lashier, proprietor, No. 206 Fourth street San Francisco.

Unjust.

The Chronicle says:

While Laura D. Fair has been daily visited in prison by scores of the strong-minded and fed with the choicest delicacies, poor Mary Jacoby, who never killed husband or lover, but was supposed to have destroyed her babe, was not honored by any of their visits or refreshments. Hurrah for Woman's Rights and Free Love!

The reason of this is very evident. The strong-minded women did not visit Mary Jacoby because she did not belong to their class. By the by, why did not the women who are not strong-minded — the Christians — shew a little kindness to the poor Indian girl. Surely that should have been in their line. "I was in prison and ye visited me."

Worn Out.

Several French journals put into the mouth of Thiers the following: "I am an umbrella on which it has been raining these forty years. What signify a few additional drops more or less?"

Under these circumstances it is about time that umbrella was put down.

Unreasonable.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton's oldest son, a youth of twenty-six, is one of the prominent members of the Louisiana Legislature. —Ex.

And yet she complains of not being represented in the Legislative assemblies.

A gent going home befuddled blamed it upon his diagonal suit.

Who pays the highest price for a home? The woman who marries for one.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

First Premium

At the late Mechanics' Fair for military suits and boys' clothing, awarded to S. Figel, No. 3 Montgomery street, manufacturer of all kinds of men and boy's clothing at the lowest rate.

The Carpet and Furniture

Emporium of JOHN C. BELL is on Market street, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel. Mistakes are made every day.

What is Glucolein?

A preparation of Cod Liver Oil, without any disagreeable taste; the most efficacious remedy for all pulmonary complaints. Prepared and sold by JAMES G. STEELE & Co., No. 521 Montgomery street.

Well Established.

A thoroughly good article which has stood the test of time, is never allowed to fall into disuse; every year the sale of Cassin's XXX Wild Grape Bitters increases, and thousands can bear testimony to their merit.

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night the very popular sensation drama of "Under the Gaslight," which has given much pleasure to many large audiences this week, will be repeated. It will be played at the matinee to-morrow and to-morrow evening for the last time. 'Adrienne; or, the Duel in the Mist," is underlined for Monday.

California Theatre.

The beautiful play of "Court and Stage" attracted a large audience last night and was splendidly played throughout. Mrs. Bowers gave a capital representation of the dashing, good-hearted Nell Gwynne; John McCullough was excellent as the Duke of Richmond, and Henry Edwards as the merry monarch, Charles II, left nothing to be desired. J. C. Williamson, who elaborates every character—be it small or large—with the greatest pains, was very amusing as Samuel Pepys; Miss May Howard played Francis Stewart with admirable feeling, and all the parts were well filled. To-night "Queen Elizabeth" will be played and this drama will be presented at the matinee to-morrow for the last time.

Alhambra Theatre.

Crowded every night. This has been the case for many nights past, and is not to be wondered at considering the excellence and variety of the entertainment offered. Billy Emerson, O. Vivian the inimitable Charley Howard, Sheridan and Mack, M. Ainsley Scott, and others appear in a wonderfully varied bill consisting of minstrelsy, acts, character songs and lightning changes. The star of the evening for the present, however, is Callie Curtis, who astonishes everyone by his wonderful feats of skating, and causes roars of laughter in his comic act with Billy Burt. There will be a matinee to-morrow at which Callie Curtis will appear. A full performance will be given,

Bella Union Theatre.

Ella Wesner whose engagement is nearly at an end, will to-night sing some of her most popular character songs, the graceful and fascinating M'lle Gaugain will appear in a fancy dance; the ever-pleasing Aline Le Favre will appear in The Game of Life; R. G. Marsh will give his powerful representation of the villain, Jack Blackmore; the Reynolds Brothers will appear in songs and dances; J. H. Larkin in Dutch peculiarities, and the rest of the company in a good bill.

Theatre Comique.

Harry Courtaine in one of his best farces, "Kiss Your Father;" Maggie Knight in character songs and dances; Johnny Tuers in screaming negro acts; Lizzie Harmon in pleasing ballads; Blanche in a highland fling; Maggie Murphy in ballads; Durand in rattlesnake jig; Nellie Leonard in sweet songs; Ida Fisk in the farce and a number of other popular performers will appear.

Oxford Theatre.

To-night Dan Lowrey and James Cotton, both great favorites with the patrons of the Oxford, will take their benefit. A great bill will be presented on this occasion and the following volunteers will appear: Mack and Harris in song and dance; Billy Mase in silver shoe clog dance; R. J. Kelly in champion jig, and Marie Garibaldi in ballads. The performance will conclude with the "Spy; or, the Battle of Sedan." To-morrow night Miss Molly La Forrest will make her first appearance in California, and Miss Clara Hall, the favorite comedienne, will appear.

Woodward's Gardens.

This delightful resort presents thousands of attractions in the menagerie, museum, art gallery skating rink, conservatories and gymnasium.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chailiu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

The Skating Rink.

The fascinating Carrie Moore gives an exhibition every evening at the Occidental Skating Rink, opposite the Mechanics' Fair Pavilion.

Callie Curtis Matinee.

There will be a grand matinee performance on Saturday at the Alhambra Theatre, at which Callie Curtis, the champion skater, will appear in his wonderful and entertaining performance.

Wm. E. Garing.

This gymnastic performer, who made quite a hit in the Kehoe club exercise on the occasion of the benefit of the Reynolds Brothers at the Bella Union Theatre last week, is disengaged.

Masquerade Skating Carnival.

Our colored citizens have long had a skating rink of their own, and on Monday evening next the New Pavilion Skating Club will hold a masquerade skating carnival at Platt's Hall. Mr. J. Campbell will give an exhibition on skates, and the Club will execute a skating quadrille. The novelty of the affair will doubtless attract a large attendance.

Carnival Ball.

Great preparations are being made for the Carnival Ball to come off at the Mechanics' Pavilion on the 28th. The list of prizes and other particulars concerning this grand affair appear on our first page.

Woo Don't Know

That to achieve the greatest desideratum in business "patronage" a person must be liberal in his outlay, by purchasing the best material, employing the best workmen, and seeing that his patrons are attentively and courteously waited on, and in a style compatible with the dignity of the establishment he pretends to manage. Such is the golden rule practiced at Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, as is verified by the bon ton seen there daily, who are likewise to be seen at the Opera and all distinguished resorts of the city. x

Terrible Effects of Drunkenness — A Lady in High Life the Victim.

From the Louisville Commercial Sept. 5.

Monday afternoon a gentleman living in an aristocratic portion of Second street set out to search for his wife who had been absent from home since Saturday. Going into the row of huts located between Walnut and Madison, and East and Floyd streets, he was filled with unutterable anguish at finding her in one of these dirty huts, occupied only by colored people, and evidently very much intoxicated. All of his efforts to induce her to return to her home and to her six children with which their marriage has been blessed were unavailing. The woman entreated to be let alone, or else be permitted to go where she never would behold his face again. She had on her person the sum of $300, which she stated would take her where she pleased.

A carriage was sent to the door and an officer, whose assistance was required, went into the house and finally persuaded her to return to the home she had not seen, and perhaps had not thought of, since Saturday. She was placed in the carriage, and, in company with the officer, went back to her family, but not without imploring to be allowed to go anywhere else. The appearance of the woman is prepossessing in every respect; above the average size, she is splendidly formed, and in affluent circumstances. What motive there is for the woman's strange and disgraceful conduct can not even be guessed. This adds yet another to the long list of crimes from drunkenness. Here is a woman of personal beauty, high position—a mother surrounded by her children—dragged down below the level of a brute, and involving in her fall husband, children and loving friends. And for what? Let who will, answer.

A Wager.

The Sacramento Reporter is responsible for the following: A day or two ago a couple of well known gentlemen of this city agreed between themselves to perpetrate a joke on a good-natured and jolly Teuton who runs a beer mill at no great distance from the intersection of Seventh and J streets, and at the same time get the beer free of charge to either. So, going into the saloon, one of them (the Judge acting as spokesman) assured the attentive and smiling bartender that he and his friend had made a bet of the drinks on a certain proposition, and they would take the drinks then and pay for them when the bet would be decided. The dispenser of good things was well satisfied and helped them to "the best in the shop," when they started for the door. "Hold on shentlemens; vat ish dat bet and ven you decide heem?" spoke up the beer man. "Oh, excuse us," chimed in the Judge; "my friend here bet me that, when the steeple on the new Grace Church falls, it will fall back on the building, and I bet him that it will fall out into Eighth street, and we only await the decision of the bet, when, you may rest assured, whoever loses will pay you." Our German friend could only attempt a sickly smile as he exclaimed: "By Got, you's tam smart, didn't you vas? You makes fools mit me a leetle dis time, but py dam you do so some times no more if you knows myself, I think, aint it? No man makes fools mit me un udder time, don't it?" It is to be hoped the gentleman will not await the settlement of that wager before settling for the beer.

—A Model Recommendation.—A newspaper published in the sage brush country contains as an advertisement a letter of recommending a certain brand of whisky in the following terms: "I find that my men will do more work and enjoy better health by using your whisky than any other kind I have ever had on my ranch. Forward to me at once another ten gallons."

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table.

MY MOTHER'S WRINKLES.

IDA WHIPPLE BENHAM.

The angels folded them down, I know,
Tenderly down, when none could see,
With a sweet thought's weight to keep them so—
Maybe a thought of me.

A thought of me, and a throbbing thought,
Crossing the daisies' snowy sea
To the silent temples, flower fraught,
Under the cypress tree.

For often the solemn feet have trod,
Noiseless and chill, beside her hearth,
Bearing a message down from God—
Bearing a soul from earth.

In the long, still nights, when others slept,
Weeping has kept her lids apart,
Till the tender, happy pain has crept
Out of her weary heart,

Into her forehead's white, and there
The loving fingers that always wait
On grief, enfolded it, soft and fair,
Into these wrinkles straight.

The saints, who stand in a holy place,
Meekly, joyous, have felt, I know,
Over the page of an earth-born face,
The sorrowful record grow.

And, looking back to the dim earth-days,
Haply the righteous ones can see
In the grief-fraught lines the hallowed rays
Of the aureola to be.

O, saintly mother, I sit apart
And, reverent, every feature trace—
Reading the story of thy heart
In the wrinkles of thy face.

The angels folded them softly down
With fingers of love, when none might see,
Fold by fold with another crown
In the world of bliss for thee.

Delights of Saratoga.

A Saratoga letter enumerates a few of the luxuries to be enjoyed for a consideration at that delightful place: "At the table you are given rusty knives and soiled tablecloths; your beef-steak is taken from the horns of the old cow that died for you; the potatoes have been cooked for an hour or two, your fruit, if you have any, is wilted or decayed; your napkins are wet, which suggests that they have done service on other mouths less clean, perhaps; your waiter is impudent, and eager to be corrupted, and is not worth much without; and your bills are large. In the evening you hop and jump about in a hot room to the tune of poor music, pick up a dozen handkerchiefs for ladies who drop them on purpose; talk sweet nonsense into the ears of silly girls between the sets, or sweat yourself into feebleness in the corner, and at last go to your room, meagerly furnished and desolate, wondering where the compensation comes in for all the expense, the fatigue and the worry." Delightful experience isn't it!

Lines for any Purpose.—A celebrated French poet once advertised that he would supply "Lines on any occasion." A fisherman sought him shortly after, and wanted a line strong enough to catch a porpoise.

The Newest Publications.

All readers like to receive their books, magazines and newspapers as soon as possible after publication. Loomis, at the southeast corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the post-office, is agent for all the chief American and English magazines and newspapers and delivers them to subscribers immediately on the arrival of the mail. x

Dr. Barlow J. Smith

Gives Free Lectures (to Gentlemen only) every Friday evening, commencing at 8, at his Hygeian Hall, 637 California st., and examines patients phrenologically as to health, gratis.

It has No Rival.

Purify your blood, strengthen your system, eradicate scrofula and humors of every description, by taking "Fluid Extracts of Sarsaparilla, and Yellow Dock with Iodide of Potash." Prepared by Moody, apothecary, northeast corner of Kearny and Sutter. x

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles, finest quality, and at the lowest prices. x

Nearly all Great Men

Use tobacco in some form, and fine cut is most sought for because of its exquisite flavor. Veteran chewers say that the tobacco which contains the most happy combination of flavors is the "Sunny Side" brand, it being cut from pure Kentucky leaf.

Since the Great Reduction

In prices at Guerin & Son's Prize Boot and Shoe Store, their store has been crowded with customers. Call and see them. 327 and 329 Bush street. x

Throw Out Your Chest!

A man should stand up like a man, throw out his chest and throw his shoulders back, thus giving room for the free action of the lungs. The Champion and Pivot-action Braces sold by C. H. Burr, sole agent for the Pacific Coast, 518 Market street, will be found to afford efficient aid in accomplishing this. They are superior to all others, and cost no more.

Reduced Prices.

Guerin & Son, prize boot and shoe makers, 327 and 329 Bush street. Must sell $35,000 worth of boots and shoes within 60 days. Call and examine our stock. x

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

Premium Photographer.

Geo. D. Morse was awarded the First Premium—a silver medal—by the Mechanics' Institute Fair for the best photographic work, over all competitors. Rooms, 417 Montgomery street, above California. x

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

New Furnishing Goods,

Cheap, at the What Cheer Laundry.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

S. P. R. R. News Agency.

James Miller supplies the reading wants of the passengers on the Southern Pacific Railroad with the latest San Francisco papers, and Eastern Illustrated ones, and magazines, at San Francisco prices. He also supplies Figaro to the passengers on the upward bound trains, at San Francisco rates—free of charge.

Victory Perches Upon Our

Banners!—Verily the result of the election reminds one of the success of CASSIN'S XXX WINE GRAPE ROOT BITTERS, in this; that the best is bound to win. Defeated Candidates will use them, as they are sure to raise the depressed spirits.

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER

THE GREAT SPECIALIST,

Would most respectfully inform those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in one of the most celebrated Hospitals in England, The Lock. He has now re-opened his old Medical Institute, at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was so successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention or explain on paper.

I am aware that some of the empirics of San Francisco make a practice of stating what they cure; but to most persons my name will be quite sufficient to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

LETTER FROM TOLEDO.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

TOLEDO, (OHIO), September 14th, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO.—Dramatic news is at present very quiet. At White's Hall we have for the 14th, 15th and 16th, Prof. Fahn's Tyrolean Alpine Concert Troupe.

Fielding's Opera House is still going in full blast, and doing good business; at the present they have a splendid company. On the 8th inst., Miss Maggie Fielding had a grand benefit, and was presented on that evening with a new addition to her splendid wardrobe. The names of the company are as follows: John and Maggie Fielding, in comic songs; Miss Annie Hill, Indian club performer; Miss Josie Morris in Irish Jigs, Billy Warner Dutch song and dance artiste and comedian, Johnny Keegan in the Dublin dancing master, and Frank West interlocuter and banjoist. Mr. Geo. Gele is nightly seen in his great tumbler acts.

Mr. Fielding is going to leave Toledo on the 18th with a traveling company of first-class artists, and will remain on his tour four or five weeks, and will still keep this place open under the management of his partner, Mr. Gele. M. P. W.

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 633 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table. •

The English Stage.

A London magazine thus comments: There was probably never in the annals of the stage a period when it had reached a lower depth of degradation than at present. For although there are now a few actors who in intelligence, education, and acquaintance with the manners of polite society, are infinitely superior to their predecessors of some ten years since, there never was a time when real actresses were so scarce, or when the stage was so infested by a horde of brainless, shameless women, who, encouraged and supported by the zanies and noodles of society, degrade the profession to which they pretend to belong. There has always been a certain amount of this kind of thing; Mme. Vestris, skilled manageress as she was, thought it necessary to supplement the brilliancy of Mr. Planche by the attraction of a bevy of pretty coryphees; and Mr. Pip, the theatrical manager in "Martin Chuzzlewit," was advised by his noble friend the duke to give the public "pieces with plenty of leg in them." But in former times the coryphees and the leg-showers were kept in their proper places; they were not thrust forward to wink and leer and grin at the occupants of the stalls; they were not permitted to utter rhymed balderdash in the accent of the charity school, or instead of fellowing the action of the play and the movements of their colleagues, to stand gazing with delight on the rings and bracelets glistening on their coarse hands and red arms, the natural beauties and self-evidence of which are wielding the scrubbing brush and trundling the mop. It is the British public that is responsible for all this, that brays out its delight over the asinine jokes and the vulgar parodies, that buys the photographs of the "Nellies," and "Pollies," and "Bessies," which swarm in the shop windows. The actor's doom is rightly set forth in the oft-quoted line that "Those who live to please must please to live." The laws of theatrical supply and demand are rigorously maintained on the principles laid down by Ricardo and Mill, and what the public requires it is supposed to get.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever. •

Dr. Flattery.

Dr. Flattery's wide-known celebrity and Private Hospital—opportunities, a lifetime experience in this and other countries, and now at 305 Montgomery street, San Francisco—are a guarantees when all others fail. •

Nearly all Great Men

Use tobacco in some form, and fine cut is most sought for because of its exquisite flavor. Veteran chewers say that the tobacco which contains the most happy combination of flavors is the "Sunny Side" brand, it being cut from pure Kentucky leaf. •

Also the largest stock of ladies and gentlemen's first-class Boots and Shoes in the city. P. KELLY, PRIZE BOOTMAKER, 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone. •

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—This afternoon and evening and on Sunday evening will be the last opportunities the public will have to see "Under the Gaslight" as produced at the Metropolitan, with its fine stage effects and strong cast. On Monday the sensation play of "Adrienne, or the Duel in the Mist," will be produced, doubtless with that same care and attention to its effective representation in every respect that has characterized the production of all the plays at this theatre under the new management.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—For variety, liveliness and merit, the entertainment given at the Alhambra Theatre by Billy Emerson's Minstrels surpasses any thing in the United States Billy Emerson is a host in himself; Vivian is the most popular of character vocalists; Sheridan and Mack are inimitable; Charley Howard is the most original impersonator of negro character on the stage; Fanny Gibson, M. Ainsley Scott and Gustave Bideaux are most accomplished vocalists, and Callie Curtis, the champion skater, stands alone, unrivalled in his specialties. Everyone who has ever stood on skates should go to see him in his artistic evolutions and in his wonderfully comic act, assisted by Billy Burt. The bill for the matinee to-day and this evening's performance appears on our first page.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—A very delightful series of entertainments has been given during the week by Mrs. Bowers, and the admirable company of the California Theatre. This afternoon the great play of "Elizabeth" will be performed for the last time, and this evening "Macbeth" will be presented with John McCullough as the Thane and Mrs. D. P. Bowers as Lady Macbeth. The management have arranged a most attractive programme for next week. It is as follows: Monday, "King John," Tuesday "School for Scandal," Wednesday "King John" Thursday "East Lynne." Friday, benefit of Mrs. Bowers, 'Much Ado About Nothing," Saturday matinee 'East Lynne," and in the evening "Lucretia Borgia" and a farce.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—To-night and to-morrow night are the two last of the engagement of the charming character vocalist, Miss Ella Wesner, who has become such a favourite with our public that they will be sorry to part with her. The pretty and graceful M'lle Gaugain will appear in a fancy dance in the interlude, and in a pas seul in the afterpiece. The Reynolds Brothers will appear in song and dance and in the screaming farce of the Live Indian;" Edgar and Ethel Stanley will execute songs and duets; J. H. Larkin in his specialties, and the performance will conclude with the romantic fairy extravaganza of "The Status Bride," produced under the able supervision of James Dowling, is once more stage manager of the Bella Union Theatre. "Ethlinda, the Statue Bride," will have a bewitching representative in Aline Le Favre, whose popularity with the patrons of this theatre is immense, and the other parts will be well filled by the members of the company.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—Business is rushing. Harry Courtaine in one of his best farces, "Kiss Your Father;" Maggie Knight in character songs and dances; Johnny Tuers in screaming negro acts; Lizzie Harmon in pleasing ballads; Blanche in a Highland fling; Maggie Murphy in ballads; Durand in rattlesnake jig; Nellie Leonard in sweet songs; Ida Fisk in the farce and a number of other popular performers will appear.

THE OXFORD.—The benefit of Dan Lowry and James Cotton last night was well attended and all engaged in the performance, volunteers as well as the members of the company acquitted themselves well. "The Spy, or, the battle of Sedan," is a great sensation in its way, with its battle scenes, tableaux and Amazon marches. It will form the conclusion of a fine entertainment to-night.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS AND MUSEUM.—The graceful skatist, Miss Carrie Moore, will give an exhibition of her art on skates, and on the velocipede, at the Pavilion on Sunday afternoon. The Gloria Supemba is in bloom, the Espirtu Santa is in flower; everything in and about the gardens is beautiful, and the weather at this season of the year is heavenly; therefore go out to Woodward's to-morrow and enjoy yourself.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—There is one place that all our Eastern visitors confess is the possession of San Francisco alone—the Cliff House. There is nothing like it anywhere else. To-morrow the road will be crowded with fast teams bound for Captain Foster's famous hostelry.

CARNIVAL BALL.—The grand masquerade carnival ball, under the auspices of the managers of the Eight Industrial Exhibition, will take place at the Pavilion on Thursday evening next. Ballenberg's Quadrille Band of fifty pieces will supply the music. Prizes will be awarded for the best sustained characters. The costumiers are busily engaged in preparing dresses for this occasion, and the ball will doubtless be a brilliant one.

OUR NEXT STAR—JOHNNY ALLEN.—MR. Allen, a popular young actor of the Emmet and Murphy school of protean and dialect order, is now en route to this city under engagement to the Metropolitan Theatre. Mr. Allen is said to be a natural linguist, and has plenty of fun in him. He recently played a very successful engagement at Niblo's Garden, New York, and made a hit in the character play entitled "Schneider," which was written expressly for him. If Allen succeeds here as well as elsewhere, he will make a hit.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

SUNDAY EXCURSION.—There is not within miles of this city a more delightful spot than the groves of San Rafael. The steamer Contra Costa will leave the wharf on Davis street, near Vallejo, to-morrow at 10½ A.M., on an excursion.

"AMY ROBSART."—This great historical drama, which ran for a year at Drury Lane Theatre, London, and is now meeting with great success at Eastern theatres, will be produced at the California Theatre on Monday, Oct. 1st, with new scenery, dresses and a strong cast.

"TEN THOUSAND MILES AWAY."—Charles Vivian, the popular character vocalist, at present engaged at the Alhambra Theatre, may congratulate himself on achieving a wonder. He has sung "Ten Thousand Miles Away" on one hundred and fifty consecutive nights, and it is still called for every night. This is unheard of before in San Francisco, where the public generally weary of the best play, act or song after the first week.

S. S. PURDY.—S. S. Purdy reports himself as safely arrived in New York and playing with Kelly & Leon's Minstrels. He says show business is very dull, none of the theatres making money. Lotta's engagement at Booth's, unprofitable.

SKATING CARNIVAL.—The first grand masquerade skating carnival by the New Pavilion Skating Club composed of colored citizens will take place at Platt's Hall on Monday evening.

RETURNED. — Stephen Massett (Jeemes Pipes) returned this week from a successful tour in Oregon. W. Bark, vocalist and comedian, returned from New York on Tuesday.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

PETALUMA.—The Petalumans, who have not had a theatrical entertainment for some time, will enjoy a season of six nights, commencing on Monday, September 25th, when the theatre will be opened with R. H. Cox as lessee, Pierpont Thayer as stage manager, W. R. Cranna as acting manager and Herr Schmidt as leader of orchestra. The company will consist of Miss Maggie Moore, Maadme Viola A. Pomeroy, who does lightning changes, Miss Nellie Cummings, Mrs. Harry Sinclair, Miss Louise Daley, Miss Louise Ingles, Pierpont Thayer, Harry Sinclair, W. Sims, Harry Deno, W. H. Payson, F. J. Powell, James Moore, C. E. Crawford, R. H. Cox and F. Cleaves. The opening play will be "Fanchon," with the ever-pleasing Miss Maggie Moore in the title role. After this Mme. Viola Pomeroy will appear in her lightning changes. James Moore will execute a clog dance; Miss Maggie Moore will sing and the entertainment will conclude with the comedietta of "Nilsson Abroad," with Mme. Pomeroy in the leading character.

ELKO.—The Carroll Family—E. M. Carroll and his three little sons, Edwin, Bennie and Dick, gave an entertainment at Wyman's Iron Hall on on the 16th.

PORTLAND, O.—The Theatre Comique continues open with a variety troupe.....The Oregonian of the 14th says:

The Pixley Sisters will leave for Walla Walla to-day to play a short season there, after which they will return to Oregon with a view of playing at Salem during the State Fair. The troupe consists of the sisters Annie and Minnie, and Messrs. Clinton, Ellerton and Sparks.

MARYSVILLE.—The Royal Yedo Japanese troupe, headed by the wonderful Gangero, will perform at the Theatre on Monday.

EUGENE CITY, O.—B. F. Underwood is delivering a course of lectures at the Court House, on "Free Thought."

VIRGINIA CITY.—In spite of the terrible fire, the people of Virginia City have not given up their "amusements" and turned to repentance and prayer, as the following advertisement, which appeared in the papers the day after the fire, proves:

PIPER'S OPERA HOUSE.
Friday Evening, September 22d, 1871.
FEROCIOUS ENCOUNTER Between
TWO MOUNTAIN WILD OATS
And the Champion of many a hard-contested fight, the famous
BULLDOG "HERO."
The Match is for $500 IN COIN!
Against
TEN OXEN!
In favor of the Dog.

Talk of the decay of the drama! They havn't had a bull fight or a wildcat and dog fight at Booth's Theatre yet.

SALT LAKE CITY, U. T.—The Fall and Winter season was inaugurated on Monday, 18th, by the production of "Never too late to Mend," with Messrs. Carter, Thorne, Wilton, Marden, Miss Adams, Miss Dollie Clawson and Mrs. Bowring in the principal characters. Mrs. Lander is underlined for an early appearance.

WOODLAND.—A musical entertainment is announced to take place at Central Hall on Wednesday evening of next week. Mrs. Helen Marble, Miss Pickel, Geo. L. Barker and T. L. Soper, all of San Francisco, will take part in it. J. McNiel and H. B. Stow of Sacramento will assist.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

The Sporting Times and Theatrical News says:

The country is flooded with sensational dramas, one-man pieces, written expressly for—whoever has money enough to pay for them. There is hardly a nigger or utility man upon the stage but has a piece, with which he expects to astonish the world. The makers of the plays will shortly be out of material, as about everything in the way of a trick or an effect is already incorporated in some one of the dramas.

Hughy Dougherty and Bob Hart have formed a combination and will start out in October.

Marble's Comedy Troupe has just completed a profitable season at Neillsville, Wis., the principal attraction being Bill Marble and Katy Wilson.

Miss Major Pauline Cushman, shortly starts upon a starring tour extending to the Pacific Slope.

The romantic drama of "Amy Robsart" has attracted large audiences at the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia.

At The Museum, Philadelphia, the dramatic company attracted a much better attendance than heretofore, and the first week of the fall and winter season may be said to have been successfully commenced.

"A Bold Stroke for a Husband," "Your Life's in Danger," and "The Spectre Bridegroom" comprise the programme at the re-opening of the Arch Street Theatre, Philadelphia, on the 16th inst.

Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe has written to Miss Kate Reignolds the letter subjoined: "I was delighted and surprised to see how much your adaptation had mad eof it ("Pink and White Tyranny.") All along are points that could be made so very effective, and the admixture of the playful and pathetic is so skillful. Your management of the character of Lillie is that of a master."

Philip Phillips, the "sweet singer of Israel," is engaged by a church in New Haven, Conn., to give a selection of sacred music.

Christian Suekow, a Norwegian musical celebrity, has arrived in New York city. He plays an instrument called the "Hardangert Violin." It is said to be a national instrument, having twelve strings, and is manipulated with a bow.

Joseph Jefferson has been playing "Rip Van Winkle" at the Academy, Brooklyn, to very good average business, the receipts of the first night being over $300, and having steadily increased.

A new book is announced. It is to contain a series of portraits of Edwin Booth as he dresses for several roles, drawn by Mr. Hennessy, and a biography of said Edwin by Mr. Winter, accompanied by remarks on Booth's style from the same graceful pen.

The programme presented at Fox's American Theatre was highly relished by the large audiences nightly in attendance. The new faces to be seen were Wm. P. Roy, Dutch Vocalist; the Richeda Family, in a musical melange; Alexander Zanfretta, pantomimist, and Harry Brown, comic vocalist, the latter being extensively billed as the Whistling Thief, and he created some little sensation by the novelty of his performance.

The St. Charles, New Orleans, will commence its regular in the last of October. Ben De Bar sole manager.

Gus. Phillips, better known to the readers of the Clipper as Ooty Gooft, will commence a six nights engagement at the Grand Opera House on Sept. 18th, when he will act for the first time in a new drama entitled "Ooty Gooft," playing in the title role.

Miss Matilda Heron is about to resume her profession, and will it is said, appear during the present season at the Grand Opera House in several new plays.

The Olympic continues a fine run of "Humpty Dumpty," with its new features.

Mr. Wallack's leading lady next season, in consequence of the defection of Miss Henriques, is to be Miss Mordaunt, an Englishwoman.

Offenbach is quoted as 49; Verdi as 57; and Wagner as 58.

Musical critics are advising Jenny Lind to abandon her contemplated tour on account of her failing voice, and certain injury to her fame.

Julien is organizing a concert troupe with an augmented orchestra and vocal and instrumental specialties.

Lingard Troupe were at Worcester, Mass, on the 11th,

John Collins opened at the Opera house, Pittsburg, on the 11th.

Willie Edouin says he is not married. He ought to know. (It was Herberte, the ballad singer, who was formerly one of "The Twelve," in this city, and an intimate friend of Edouin's, who was married during Willie's stay in England and not Edouin.—EDS. FIGARO.

Miss Nilsson is still a guest of Mr. Stoughton at Newport.

O. D. Byron, Bridgeport, 19th.
Little Nell at Rochester, 11th, for six nights.
Dominick Murray, Rochester, 18th.
Leffingwell, Rochester, 25th.

Miss Julia Tremayne, a lady who plays Richard, Hamlet, Richelieu, and numerous other arduous male characters, arrived 6th from London, and expects shortly to appear in New York.

The Worrell Sisters closed at Rock Island, 2d. Were at Bhinard's Hall, Cleveland, Ohio, for one week on 11th.

At Pike's Opera House, Cincinnati, (under the Ford management,) all the scenery is coated with sheet iron.

LETTER FROM SACRAMENTO.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 22, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO.—This being "Fair" week, our city is filled from all parts of the State. During my whole residence here, I have never known so many shows and entertainments to be assembled as there have been since the commencement of this week and all appear to do well.

First on the list comes the Metropolitan Theatre which opened for the regular Fall and Winter season on Saturday, the 16th inst, under the management of Joseph Proctor. The initial performance consisted of "The Lion of St. Marc," and the farce of "A Quiet Family," which served to introduce the entire strength of the company, including the new people from the East. G. B. Waldron, as Osceola, in the first named appeared to splendid advantage, and made quite a favorable impression J. W. Coggswell is a most valuable acquisition to any stock company and his rendition of the character of the Falieri, was marked by a degree of study, dress, and conception worthy of the highest praise; Leman as Raspo was very efficient, and Edmonds as Spolatro acquitted himself in excellent manner; Mrs. E. F. Stewart never performed better than she did on this occasion as Lesbia, and she was called before the curtain in company with G. B. Waldron. Miss Isabel Smythe, (Mrs. Waldron) appeared as Viola, but her rendition was only fair, and should not be judged as a sample of her abilities. The afterpiece introduced the popular Jennie Mandeville, and W. C. Crosbie, comedian, in the respective characters of Snarley and Barnaby Bibbs. Miss Mandeville created much mirth, while Mr. Crosbie brought the house down by his clever impersonation. The first performance of the new company was a grand success.

On Monday night, Massinger's splendid play of "New Way to Pay old Debts," was performed in which Waldron appeared as Sir Giles Overreach. In this play, Waldron was very much disposed to rant, and this somewhat marred his impersonation. The farce, "Love in Humble Life" which followed the play, offered Coggswell a splendid opportunity for the display of his versatile abilities, and the other characters by Edmonds and Miss Jennie Mandeville were capitally rendered. Tuesday night, "Guy Mannering" was presented with all the original music, and I very much doubt if there are many stock companies now in existence, that could produce this drama in more effective manner than Manager Proctor's did on this occasion, without the aid of additional talent in the way of chorus and orchestra, one and all of the company did well. "The Octoroon" was performed Wednesday, and last night with great success, Waldron in his original character of McCloskey, fully sustained the high reputation accorded him by the Eastern and San Francisco press, for his splendid enactment, and the other ladies and gentlemen in their respective impersonations were all perfect. To-night (Friday) the performance will consist of the farce "A Quiet Family"—a burlesque written by W. C. Crosbie, upon the opera of "Ernani" and "Love in Humble Life."

Crowded houses have been in attendance all the week, and the season opens most auspiciously.

The New York Mammoth Circus has been doing a rushing business all the week. Their tent is pitched upon the Plaza, and crowds attend every night.

Leo Hudson, Black Bess and Eva West, aided by some people whose names I have been unable to learn, hold forth at "The Circus Pavilion" at the corner of Eighth and K streets, appearing in scenes from "Mazeppa" and other equestrian acts. Eva West appears in songs and dances.

The Royal Yeddo Troupe of Japanese performers are located under canvass on Fifth street. They too have been doing a good business.

The Madagascar combination are at the corner of M. and O. streets.

There are two shows of Fiji Cannibals on exhibition.

Then we have the skeleton of the largest whale in the world. The double-headed cow. The nondescript. The happy family and goodness knows what else.

The pavilion and the race track are visited by immense crowds daily and the State Fair will long be remembered.

Precisely

For the same reason that the ladies have determined to calceate for the Fair, the opposite sex, to be in juxtaposition, have determined to purchase their Patent Leather Oxford Ties and Dancing Pumps at Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre. x

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has withdrawn from the firm of Guerin & Kelly, and has resumed business on his own account at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush. All ladies visiting the Mechanics' Fair should not fail to inspect the splendid display of Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes made by P. KELLY, Prize Bootmaker, corner of Bush and Kearny streets.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Ladies And Gentlemen.

Guerin & Son, prize boot and shoe makers are rapidly clearing out their immense stock of stylish boots and shoes, at low prices. Call to day and save your money, 327 and 329 Bush street. x

Throw Out Your Chest!

A man should stand up like a man, throw out his chest and throw his shoulders back, thus giving room for the free action of the lungs. The Champion and Pivot-action Braces sold by O. H. Burr, sole agent for the Pacific Coast, 818 Market street, will be found to afford efficient aid in accomplishing this. They are superior to all others, and cost no more.

Premium Photographer.

GEO. D. MORSE was awarded the First Premium—a silver medal—by the Mechanics' Institute Fair for the best photographic work, over all competitors. Rooms, 417 Montgomery street, above California. x

S. P. R. R. News Agency.

James Miller supplies the reading wants of the passengers on the Southern Pacific Railroad with the latest San Francisco papers, and Eastern Illustrated ones, and magazines, at San Francisco prices. He also supplies FIGARO to the passengers on the upward bound trains, at San Francisco rates—free of charge.

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER

THE GREAT SPECIALIST,

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY INFORM those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in one of the most celebrated Hospitals in England, The Lock.

He has now re-opened his old Medical Institute, at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was so successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention or explain on paper.

I am aware that some of the empirics of San Francisco make a practice of stating what they cure: but to most persons my name will be quite SUFFICIENT to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

PETALUMA EDITION.

FIGARO will be the house programme at the Petaluma Theatre during the Fair Week, and a large edition will be circulated on the cars, throughout the city and at the Fair Grounds. All our advertisers will have the benefit of this extra edition.

FIGARO ON THE C. P. RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

300 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

300 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which cave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P. M.

EXTRA EDITIONS OF FIGARO.

We print to-day, 1600 FIGAROS for circulation in Petaluma, and on the cars and traveling convayances en route for that city. As FIGARO will be used as the house programme for the San Francisco Dramatic Company at the Petaluma Theatre, and its general advertiser at the Fair Grounds and elsewhere during the Fair week; an extra edition will be printed, and forward daily until the close of the Fair, on the 30th inst. All our regular advertisements will be published in these extra editions.

The Golden City.

The Golden City made its appearance yesterday with "Gus. De Young & Co., Editors and Proprietors," at its head. Gus De Young has had abundant experience in the newspaper business here and in Chicago, and has acquired a considerable knowledge of what a weekly newspaper should be, during his travels in various parts of the United States. He has energy enough and will make the Golden City heard of far and wide. This number contains the first chapters of Wilkie Collins' new serial novel "Poor Miss Fitch," and of a story called "The Mysterious Slayer, or the Gold Fiends of the Sierra Nevadas," both illustrated with engravings; an original sketch by J. H. St. Mathew, "The World of Letters," "The Mouse-trap" by "Trem," which used to be published in the dead and gone Californian, the best literary weekly ever published in San Francisco, original here by Sam Booth, and a variety of editorial, theatrical and literary matter.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

A Raid on a Wax-Work Exhibition.

In the Thames Police Court, London, a few weeks ago, John Hall, aged 19, and John Taylor, 17, laborers, from Rosemary-lane, were brought before Mr. Paget, charged with destroying a Welsh fasting girl, with her medical attendant and nurse, fracturing the skull of a Greek slave and injuring sundry other models in a wax-work exhibition at 246 Whitechapel road.

Mr. Francis Palmer, the proprietor of the exhibition, said that his wax-work models were highly interesting, and the magistrate ought to come and see them, and he then would appreciate their beauties (a laugh). He would give the magistrate free admission at any time. Mme. Tussaud's exhibition was really not better than his. People from the West End often patronized his exhibition, and although the admission fee was small they gave him a shilling and said that to see his exhibition was worth half a dozen (loud laughter). There was a picture in his exhibition worth £5000. He had been offered £1900 for it and would not accept it. Now it so happened that roughs and blackguards who did not understand the beautiful in nature and art, would, out of mere wantonness, destroy his beautiful figures and groups. The prisoners came in last night between the lights and destroyed the Welsh fasting girl in bed and crumpled up her physician (complainant then produced fragments of the figures). The Welsh fasting girl was no more (laughter). It cost him 25s. for a hand a little while ago as a substitute for one taken away. The persons who did this ought to be sent to prison as an example and not fined. They ought indeed and no mistake (laughter).

Mrs. Palmer, the exhibitor's wife, produced the head of the Grecian daughter, who saved her father's life in prison with her own milk, and said there was a great hole in her head. Napoleon I. was served in a similar barbarous manner. The head of the Corsican conquerer was handed in with a large hole in the top of the scull.

The prisoners denied injuring the figures, and Taylor said he went into the exhibition with his hands in his pockets and came out the same way.

Mr. Paget said the man's property was entitled to protection, and he should send the prisoners to jail without the option of a fine. He sentenced Hall to 21 days and Taylor to 14 days' imprisonment and hard labor in the House of Correction.

That Affair in Oregon.

The reason why a meb tore out the office of the Gazette, published at Wallapus Flat, Oregon, and tarred and feathered the editor and caused pain and anguish to wring his brow, was this: There was a fashionable wedding in the town, at which the editor was present. After the ceremony he went to the office to write an account of the brilliant affair. Among other things he said that the "bride was accompanied to the altar by by eight bridesmaids." But the printers got the thing wrong somehow, and the next morning the paper announced that "the bride was accompanied to the altar by tight bridesmaids." This was bad enough, but the editor had prepared for the same issue an obituary notice of an estimable lady, in which he said that "the husband was hardly able to bear the demise of his wife;" but, would you believe it?—the printers actually set it up that, the husband is hardly able to wear the chemise of his wife. So the people of Wallapus "went" for that journalist, and he is now a fugitive, an outcast and a beggar.

Where Doctors Go when They Die.

Terra del Fuego has been traversed by Lieutenant Masters, R. N., who has discovered that the natives believe in devils, and that they are the departed spirits of members of the medical profession. The main object of their religious ceremony is to keep these devils at a distance from them.

This is a pleasing theory.

Eve and the Fig Leaves.

An amusing story is told of a daughter of a distinguished Southern General, who was spending the summer during the war at Silver Spring, Florida. As is well known, the ladies were compelled to resort to all sorts of expedients in order to make their gowns presentable, and many of them became very expert in the use of dyes, so that, shut out from the rest of the world as they were, their attire was always neat and lady-like.

It appears that the young lady in question had a black berage which she wished to restore to its pristine beauty, and so ordered her maid (Eve) to boil her some fig leaves, which, as is known, are excellent for restoring color to dark materials.

Having waited sometime for the decoction to be brought her, she went out upon the gallery of the hotel, and called out in a loud voice: "Eve, have you put on the fig leaves?"

A number of gentlemem seated below with difficulty suppressed a laugh, and the young lady receiving no answer, reiterated her question more loudly than before. Unable longer to restrain themselves, the gentlemen laughed long and heartily. The absurdity of her question suddenly flashed upon the young lady, and she hastily retired to her chamber to hide her blushes and confusion.

Eve and the fig leaves was a standing joke at Silver Springs all that season.

Just So.

A young gentleman paid his addresses to a young lady, by whose mother he was unfavorably received. "How hard," said he to the young lady, "to separate those whom love has united." "Very hard indeed," roplied she, with great innocence, at the same threwing her arm around his neck, "and so mother will find it."

A Satirical Turkey.

Christianburg, Va., is in ecstacies over a venerable turkey gobbler who has builded for himself a nest, and is now gravely sitting upon four apples. It is presumed that his action is intended as a grave satire upon the womens' rights business.

A North Carolina widow bit the nose off a Judge and floored the jailer with an ink stand, which adjourned the court.

A society of women has been organized in Norway, who advocate celibacy.

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night the very popular sensation drama of "Under the Gaslight," which gave much pleasure to many large audiences last week, will be repeated, and will keep the boards a few nights longer.

California Theatre.

To-night Shakespeare's play of "King John" will be produced with Mrs. Bowers as Constance, John McCullough will fill the role of King John, Henry Edwards that of Falkenbridge, James Carden, Hubert; Miss Minnie Walton, Prince Arthur; W. A. Mestayer, King Philip of France, and Mrs. C. B. Saunders will play Elinor. The other parts will be well filled. To-morrow night "The School for Scandal" will be played for the last time.

Alhambra Theatre.

A Great bill will be performed at the Alhambra Theatre to-night. In the first part, Charley Howard will by urgent desire, sing his original "Carry the News to Mary," and Billy Emerson will sing new songs on the topics of the day. In the interlude, Sheridan and Mack will appear in their brilliant specialties; Charley Howard will present his original sketch of "Uncle Jeff at Home;" Vivian will appear in an entirely new repertoire of character songs, including another original local song; Billy Emerson will present his specialties and Callie Curtis, who has made such an immense hit, will appear in his comic skating scene assisted by Billy Burt. The evening's entertainment will conclude with the screaming farce of "Turn him Out."

Bella Union.

This house was crowded on Saturday and Sunday evenings, and the performances gave general satisfaction. M'lle Gaugain's graceful and artistic dances are much admired, and the play of "The Statue Bride," with the ever-pleasing Aline Le Favre as Ethelinda has proved quite a hit. Le Favre is ably supported by Minnie Corbyn as Prince Popineaux, Harry Thompson as Count Beaupre, Johnny Manning as Baron Popolini, J. H. Larkin as Nipperkin, and other members of the company in appropriate parts. Minnie Fillmore looks radiantly pretty as Queen of the Elves; Fanny Garretson acts the part of Princess Popolino splendidly, and Maggie Brewer is excellent as the pert little Poynski. This piece will be played again to-night.

Theatre Comique.

To-night, in addition to Harry Courtaine, Miss Maggie Knight, Johnny Tuers in acts and song, and the strong Theatre Comique company in a varied programme, the management announce the appearance of Miss Garibaldi, the Spanish vocalist, and Miss Louise Sommers, the pleasing ballad singer.

Oxford Theatre.

The stirring military drama of "The Spy; or the Battle of Sedan," draws good houses. The Prussian Camp; the battle scenes; the Amazons; "The Masellaise;" and the combats, are all vivid and exciting. Miss Molly La Forest and Miss Clara Hall are the latest additions to the company.

Masquerade Skating Carnival.

Our colored citizens have long had a skating rink of their own, and this evening the New Pavilion Skating Club will hold a masquerade skating carnival at Platt's Hall. Mr. J. Campbell will give an exhibition of skates, and the Club will execute a skating quadrille. The novelty of the affair will doubtless attract a large attendance.

Carnival Ball.

Great preparations are being made for the Carnival Ball to come off at the Mechanics' Pavilion on the 28th. The list of prizes and other particulars concerning this grand affair appear on our first page.

Woodward's Gardens.

This delightful resort presents thousands of attractions in the menagerie, museum, art gallery skating rink, conservatories and gymnasium.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chailiu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Farewell Benefit.

Messrs. Cogill and Cooper, the young California song and dance men, are about to leave the State on a professional visit to the East, and will have a farewell benefit at the Alhambra Theatre next Friday evening. They have grown up among us, are recognized as good professional men, and deserve a bumper.

Miss Ella Wesner.

This very pleasing performer, who has delighted thousands with her impersonations of dashing young swells of the period and rattling songs, has closed her engagement at the Bella Union Theatre and proceeds to-morrow morning to St. Louis to commence an engagement at Deagle's Varieties on the 4th prox. Miss Wesner has made a host of friends during her stay here, all of whom will be sorry to lose her. Her style is so neat and artistic, her influence over an audience so great, and her line of business so attractive, that wherever she goes she must make a success.

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has withdrawn from the firm of Guerin & Kelly, and has resumed business on his own account at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush. All ladies visiting the Mechanics' Fair should not fail to inspect the splendid display of Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes made by P. KELLY, Prize Bootmaker, corner of Bush and Kearny streets.

A CAPE MAY STORY.

How a Woman's Loquacity Led to the Recovery of a Fortune.

[From the Philadelphia Telegraph.]

Cape May, on the 20th of August, 1869, was partially destroyed by a terrible conflagration. Among the ruined hotels was the Atlantic, and one of its guests at the time was Mr. Charles Rubicam, a Philadelphian, who had at that moment stored in his trunk $9,000 in currency, with which he intended to purchase the Diamond Beach Driving Park. The flames wrapped the ill-fated building so quickly that Mr. Rubicam failed to secure all his effects. During the excitement of the moment he removed one of his trunks which he fondly believed contained the precious bundle, but when he looked to assure himself of its safety, he was dumbfounded to discover that he had picked up the wrong trunk. It may well be imagined that the blow was almost a crushing one, and it was rendered more poignant by the fact that, at the moment when he was congratulating himself upon its security, the greedy flames (so he then thought) were devouring the little pile of precious paper. One day, many months after the calamity, and when the Atlantic had sprung up more charming from the ashes, its proprietor, Mr. McMackin, received a note from an old servant, announcing that she had heard all about the $9,000, and that she would at some future time tell all about it. This declaration surprised Mr. Rubicam when he heard of it, and with a fluttering heart he set about reclaiming a fortune that he had looked upon as lost. Detective Bartholomew and Duke, old Philadelphians, but now in the employ of Cape May city, were enlisted, and after a weary search succeeded in finding the servant that had given the welcome intelligence, and who had promised to explain "in the future." She informed the detectives that a colored waiter named R. S. Clarke, in the service of the Atlantic Hotel at the time of the conflagration, had saved the trunk from the fire, and she supposed that "that was how he came to get the money." The detectives then instituted a search, for Mr. Clarke, and found him at length in the service of the Broadhead House, at the Delaware Water Gap, where on Wednesday he was found. Clarke openly acknowledged that he received the $9,000, denying, however, that he had stolen it, or of having any intention to steal it, and, to make good his word, volunteered to return every penny of it. From his statement, it seems that after the fire he came to the city and bought the house No. 910 Lombard street. This he volunteered to turn over, and with some remaining cash, the full amount lost by Mr. Rubicam would be restored to him. To-day, it is said, the necessary papers were made out and the property transferred to Mr. Rubicam. Thus was it that Clarke lost a fortune, and Rubicam regained one, through a woman who couldn't keep a secret.

Accident on Lake Bigler.

The Carson Register gives the following account of an incident which occurred on Lake Bigler a few days since:

A party of ladies, married and single, from Carson, had been at the Lake some three weeks enjoying themselves, and at the time of the accident were on board the little side-wheel steamer Governor Blasdell, crossing the lake to Sugar Pine Point. The Register says the steamer left Pray's Bay at 8 o'clock Sunday morning and when about an hour out and near the centre of the lake, one of the young ladies started from the bow of the boat back to the cabin, a China boy with a baby in his arms, following close after her. Crossing the centre of the boat, and about fifteen inches above the deck, is the large iron shaft connecting and driving the wheels of the steamer. Inside of the boat is a cam or curved plate fixed upon the revolving shaft to hold it steady and keep it in its place. As the young lady stepped over the shaft the China boy crowded so close upon her as to cause her to catch upon one of the projections or cogs of the cam. Instantly the dress commenced winding around the shaft, and the young lady, with wonderfully quick perception and presence of mind, comprehending the danger at a glance, attempted to break loose by tearing her dress from her, but the garment was of stout material and thoroughly lined, and her efforts were in vain. A general screaming was commenced, but the engineer, who was sit at the time, thought the ladies were only "cutting up," as they had been all the morning, but a second scream brought him to his feet, and on seeing the position of the young lady, he sprang over the heads of those who were standing between himself and his engine, slapped on the break and stopped the shaft instantly—cutting off the steam a moment afterward. Meantime the young lady's dress had been wrapped around the shaft up to her waist; she had been doubled up, carried over backwards, down upon the deck, under through the 15-inch space between the shaft and floor, and up again to the top of the shaft, on which she was sitting tightly bound when the machinery was stopped. Her left hip and elbow were found to be badly bruised, her left arm somewhat lacerated, and her dress considerably torn. As soon as the young lady could be released she was taken to the cabin and properly cared for by the other ladies.

UNTO THEE.

When all the world seems nothing worth
And hope and pleasure fade and flee;
When all is doubt upon the earth;
And all is darkness on the sea,
Where should I come but unto Thee,
O, God! who keepest me?

This burning soul, so long repressed,
That longs to pour itself and weep,
And on some kind supporting breast
To sigh and sob itself to sleep—
Where should I bring, but unto Thee,
O, God! who heareth me?

These fettering bonds of toil and care,
Which make the sinking spirit faint;
This load which seems too much to bear;
This trembling gush of deep complaint—
Where should I bring, but unto Thee,
O, God! who pitiest me?

This heart that mourns His death above,
That aches with hungry emptiness,
That these poor husks of earthly love
Have failed to satisfy or bless—
Where should I bring, but unto Thee,
O, God! who lovest me?

O, Friend beyond all other friends!
O, love beyond all other love!
Thy peace into my heart descends;
My heart beats calmly as a dove's,
When all my woes I bring to Thee,
O, God! who hearest me.

—From Old and New.

"My Wife Once."

At St. Louis the other day, arrived an elegantly dressed and apparently wealthy lady from Cleveland who wished to go a short distance in the country. There being no stage at that hour, a gentleman was found who lived in the direction indicated, and was willing to favor the lady with a ride. The St. Louis Herald tells the remainder of the story: "But lo! upon being confronted with each other, they each positively declined having anything to do with each other, and the gentleman incontinently bolted. Upon being asked why this was thus, he replied: 'Thunder! I know that woman! She was my wife once, and I wouldn't ride ten miles with her for $500!' The lady subsequently hired a carriage, and on the way informed the driver that she had found out something that she had wanted to know for a long time." Further developments are awaited with interest.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

THE GREAT SPECIALIST,

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY INFORM those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in one of the most celebrated Hospitals in England, The Lock. He has now re-opened his old Medical Institute, at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was so successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention or explain on paper.

I am aware that some of the empirics of San Francisco make a practice of stating what they cure; but to most persons my name will be quite SUFFICIENT to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

PETALUMA EDITION.

FIGARO will be the house programme at the Petaluma Theatre during the Fair Week, and a large edition will be circulated on the cars, throughout the city and at the Fair Grounds. All our advertisers will have the benefit of this extra edition.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which save San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

EXTRA EDITIONS OF FIGARO.

We print to-day, 1000 FIGAROS for circulation in Petaluma, and on the cars and traveling convayances en route for that city. As FIGARO will be used as the house programme for the San Francisco Dramatic Company at the Petaluma Theatre, and its general advertiser at the Fair Grounds and elsewhere during the Fair week; an extra edition will be printed, and forward daily until the close of the Fair, on the 30th inst. All our regular advertisements will be published in these extra editions.

Rather Small.

We wonder if the Marysville Appeal does not begin to realize that it was a little mean of it to publish our squib about the success of the Democratic ticket in Anaheim as an original editorial, now it sees it copied all over the country credited to the "Marysville Appeal."

Creditable.

A Yankee paper says, in an obituary notice, that "The deceased had been for several years director of a bank, notwithstanding which he died a Christian, and universally respected."

Precisely

For the same reason that the ladies have determined to calceate for the Fair, the opposite sex, to be in juxtaposition, have determined to purchase their Patent Leather Oxford Ties and Dancing Pumps at Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre. x

Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

The Overland Monthly.

The general complaint of the last number of the Overlond Monthly, was that it was "heavy." This cannot be said of the October number which has just made its appearance. The publishers have evidently made an effort to "popularize" their magazine, and for this purpose have introduced pictures and more stories than usual. "Tropical California" by Josephine Clifford, reads like a letter from "the traveling correspondent of the Alta," and has the usual puffs of stage proprietors and drivers from the former the writer confesses to have received a pass, and from the latter civil attentions The pictures spoil the look of the magazine. That of the Mission of San Luis Obispo, will be of interest to the Eastern subscribers to the Overland, as giving a good idea of what a Spanish town in California looks like. "Railway Stations" by H. D. Jenkins, is a capitally written article. "Placer" by Mrs. James Neall, is a well written story of a Digger Indian baby adopted by white people. We fancy that "Placer" was cut in half, being too long for one number of the Overland, and that we shall have the second part in the next number, and be told how Placer became highly accomplished and very pretty, and married a U. S. Senator or something of that sort. "In the Sierras," is "teetery" verse by H. L. Foote. "On and About the Avon," by Joaquin Miller, is a charmingly written description of Shakespeare's birthplace, by one who saw everything with loving eyes. This spot has often been described before but never more pleasantly and vividly than by Joaquin Miller in the Overland. "In the Wilds of Western Mexico," by the late Andrew J. Grayson is written in a delightfully easy style and contains much information concerning the curious birds of that country. "The Stewardess' Story," by Mrs. C. A. Hubbuck is one of the best that has appeared in the Overland. It is written in good English and is interesting. Mrs. F. Y. Victor contributes "The Oregon Indians, No. I." We are glad this is No. I., as the paper is a very interesting one and written in a pleasing style. "Almost," by Josephine Wolcott, the Golden City in its review of the Overland proves so plainly to be plagiarized from Miss Adelaide Proctor's works that the less said about it the better for Josephine Wolcott." "The Language of Confucius," by Stephen Powers is a capital article which will be read with interest by every philologist in the country and must please all by the popular manner in which it is written. Somewhat too much of "Ideal Womanhood," by Mrs. Sarah B. Cooper, No. IV. appears in this number, very well-written, philosophical, instructive and tedious. "Indifferent Metallurgy," is a useful and suggestive article by Taliesin Evans, who understands his subject and treats it well. "The Mysterious Lady of Nisqually," by C. M. Crocker, is a very silly story written in abominably inartistic style. Jake Warden, described as a mere rough animal without a redeeming trait, is made to tell a romantic story of which he is the hero. Before he begins his story he talks in this style: "I hain't got no good descriptive powers or I'd tell how she looked; but I'm a first-rate judge of beauty and will pledge my faith that she was regular stunnin'." Rough hunters don't generally pledge their faith, they rather invite you to gamble on the accuracy of their statements, but as Jake gets into his story he talks like a book about "the rain sighing mournfully through the trees," "bright gleams illuminating people's faces," and all that sort of thing. The worst of the story is, that it is a preposterous yarn without any interest in it. Prentice Mulford moralizes on "The Cultivation of the Present." Prentice doesn't shine as a moralist, he's much better when he is funny. "From Year to Year," by Ina D. Coolbrith, is verse with nothing in it. Etc., and book notices complete the volume.

The Radical Rheumatic

Eradicator—the only known remedy. Frank H. Lashier, proprietor, No. 206 Fourth street

Can't be Done.

We found the following in our box yesterday:

DEAR FIGARO.—Miss Blank and I have made a wager, which we wish you to decide. I assert that Ignorant Maggots is the name of a writer for the Alta, and Miss B., on the other hand, declares that the name is Ignoble Magpie. Please FIGARO, oblige two of your lady subscribers by deciding for us. MISS IMPERTINENCE.

The name of the writer is "Unknown," so we can't decide. We are sorry that Miss Impertinence and Miss Blank have had their ire roused by the sauce of the writer to whom they refer, and have to call him bad names.

Nice Little Boy.

Good Mr. Sneake had been talking to little Calvin, in Sunday school, about the evils which result from using tobacco, and told him, when he was a little boy, how he had met a gentleman in the street with a cigar in his mouth, and had asked him to throw it away, and how the gentleman said, "My boy, you have taught me a lesson," and never smoked again. So little Calvin tried it on. He asked the first man he met to "please to throw away that nasty cigar." But he wasn't on the throw, and all he said was, "I'll learn you manners, you little fool, you," and he cuffed little Calvin's ears until his nose bled. So little Calvin thinks things have changed since Mr. Sneake was young.

Neat Dodge.

Ready-made clothing dealers in Washington appeal to the dishonesty of their customers to get rid of shopworn and old style coats. They put a fat pocketbook in the inner pocket, tell the purchaser that the coat was made for Mr. Brown, but was too tight across the back, and he returned it. The buyer feels the wallet, supposes Mr. Brown left it, says nothing, and pays two prices for the coat. He indulges in profanity when he finds that the contents of the pocketbook are scraps.

The Explaination.

"How shameful it is that you should fall asleep," said a dull preacher to a drowsy audience, "while that poor idiot is awake and attentive." "I would have been asleep, too," said the fool, "if I had not been an idiot."

The fellow who called tight boots comfortable defended his position by saying they made a man forget all his other miseries.

500 Pairs of Socks,

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table. •

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night, the thrilling drama of "Adrienne, or the Duel in the Mist," which has been for some time past in preparation, will be produced with the popular actress Mrs. F. M. Bates, in her original character of Adrienne; James M. Hardie will play Eugene de Grassac; H. Colton, Victor Savigne, Miss Fanny Young, Gianetta Scarrotta, John Woodard, Jacopo Scerrotta, J. H. Vinson Bertrand; and the other characters will be well filled. This play will be presented with the same careful attention to detail that has characterized the other plays produced by the present management of the Metropolitan Theatre.

Alhambra Theatre.

Every night this charming little theatre is crowded by the best pleased audience ever brought together. The performance last night went off splendidly. Charley Howard's "Carry the News to Mary," and Emergon's Telegraph song in the first part were much applauded; Sheridan and Mack surpassed themselves in their specialties; Miss Fanny Gibson sung a ballad in excellent style; the pleasing sketch of "Old Uncle Jeff at Home," presented Charley Howard in one of his best characters and won for him a recall, Charles Vivian sung new songs and will introduce another new one to-night; Billy Emerson made an immense hit in his new song of "The Drum Major," which was applauded until the house rang again, for an encore he gave his burlesque of "Ten Thousand Miles Away," was encored again and sang "Love Among Big Noses," was again encored and sang a most laughable version of "Put me in my Little Bed," and then could scarcely get off Callie Curtis followed in his wonderful skating performance and comic act, and this unequalled evening's entertainment concluded with the screaming farce of "Turn Him Out."

California Theatre.

The play of "King John" produced last night, attracted a large audience. Mrs. D. P. Bowers was extremely good in the character of Constance, and gained much applause. John McCullough's King John was a careful, well-studied impersonation; Henry Edwards revelled in the character of Falconbridge, delivering his manly speeches with prodigious gusto, the part could scarcely be better played. Miss Minnie Walton made a capital Prince Arthur, playing the part in a simple, natural manner which was very charming, and James Carden gained much applause for his impersonation of Hubert. The play was generally well played throughout. This evening "The School for Scandal" will be presented with a cast which it would be hard to beat on any stage in the United States.

Bella Union.

A great bill will be presented to-night for the delectation of the patrons of this most popular of theatres. After a capital first part performance, in which Geo. Reynolds and J. H. Larkin on the ends make much fun, and Edgar and Ethel Stanley, Miss Josephine, Tommy Bree and others sing sweet ballads, the Reynolds Brothers will present their new song and dance, written for them by Hugh Robinson, entitled "The Two Originals;" Johnny Manning will perform on the flying trapeze; M'lle Gaugain will execute a fancy dance; the farce of "The Live Indian" will be performed, and the evening's entertainment will conclude with the fairy extravaganza of "The Statue Bride," with the charming Aline Le Favre as Ethelinda.

Theatre Comique.

To-night, in addition to Harry Courtaine, Miss Maggie Knight, Johnny Tuers in acts and song, and the strong Theatre Comique company in a varied programme, the management announce the appearance of Miss Garibaldi, the Spanish vocalist, and Miss Louise Sommers, the pleasing ballad singer.

Oxford Theatre.

This favorite place of amusement for the million, is always crowded, and the entertainment given is a very popular one. On Wednesday evening, the talented Miss Ida St. Clair will appear in her running globe act, and Edwin Montague the famous acrobat, will appear in his feats on the trapeze. The popularity of "The Spy, or the Battle of Sedan," is undiminished, but it must be removed on Friday evening, to make way for "Jack Sheppard," with Amelia Dean as Jack, and Charley Vincent as Blueskin. A great performance will be given to-night.

Platt's Hall.

The Masquerade skating carnival last night was a great success. The colored people mustered in large numbers and there were many pretty girls. Some of the dresses were very handsome, the skating was good and dancing was kept up until a late hour this morning.

Carnival Ball.

Great preparations are being made for the Carnival Ball to come off at the Mechanics' Pavilion on the 28th. The list of prizes and other particulars concerning this grand affair appear on our first page.

Woodward's Gardens.

This delightful resort presents thousands of attractions in the menagerie, museum, art gallery skating rink, conservatories and gymnasium.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

Victory Perches Upon Our

The Scalpless Lady—A Strange Case.

Some weeks ago the newspapers published a paragraph stating that on the afternoon of the 31st of July a Miss Tyrrell, while at work in a watch factory in Elgin, Ill., got her hair entangled in the coupling of a shaft, and had a portion of her scalp torn from her head. How the hurt has almost entirely healed, the Elgin Gazette of August 26th thus tells:

THE PHYSICIAN WHO DRESSED THE HEAD

arrived at the scene of the accident twenty minutes after the occurrence, examined the scalp with a view to replacing it on the girl's head, but decided that, as it was entirely detached and had become cold, there was no chance of its growing on. He then dressed the wound, covering it with cotton batting. After the lady had been removed to her home another physician was called in, who insisted that the scalp should have been replaced immediately, and that it should be done then, six hours after the accident. His opinion prevailed, and the cotton batting was all picked off that could be removed and the scalp was replaced, being secured in its place by stitches at the angles and by strips of adhesive plaster. For five days it lay upon the head firmly, with every appearance of life and health; but on the sixth day, a spot, about the size of a twenty-five cent piece, became tender to the touch and a little soft. In about twelve hours it opened outward under the scalp to the eye, and discharged matter mixed up with cotton fibre. During the next five days it continued to discharge from different points on the right side of the head and forehead, the left side discharging but little, and from but two points. About one-third of the scalp loosened in this way, portions of it being cut away by the attending surgeon as it became loose. About 6 o'clock in the morning of the eleventh day after the accident, after sleeping soundly all night she called for a drink of water, and while the nurse was gone she raised herself up in bed, and the scalp was drawn off and found lying on the back of the neck, entirely detached except at the ear, from which it had to be detached with the scissors, and the eyebrows, which had grown firmly on. The head was found to be covered with a coating of flesh, from an eighth to a quarter of an inch thick, except in two or three places half an inch across, where was found a deposit of cotton as thick as a sheet of paper. Since then these places have filled with granulations, and the flesh has increased in thickness until now it is nearly even with the skin.

UPON EXAMINING THE SCALP

after it came off, it was found to have been attached in places on both sides of the head, and those points which had become detached by suppuration showed granulating points, looking like new flesh starting on it. The blood vessels were enlarged and contained fresh blood. The ear had partially united, and was quite sensitive—so much so that she could tell what part of it was touched. Dr. Winchester, the attending surgeon, thinks the scalp was torn off by the lady in rising from her pillow, to which it had become attached by dried matter during the night. She is now doing well and is out of danger. Her recovery is only a question of time.

THE SKIN ON HER EYES AND EYEBROWS,

having become attached, is natural, and the physician says he can warrant the entire head to be covered with a new skin. He intends to take skin from her arm and place it on her forehead and temples, so that it will be smooth and natural. Then, with a head of false hair, she will, in a few months, again walk the streets of our bluff city, apparently her former self.

A Rain Theory.

The San Joaquin Republican says: If the theory that early and heavy rains in South America and Mexico is indicative of a wet season in California, may be relied on as correct, we may expect an abundance of rain here the coming winter. Private advices from the interior of Mexico inform us that up to the 21st of August the rain-fall there had been unusually heavy, so heavy in fact that all fears of a failure of crops had disappeared. Men who have paid considerable attention to this theory are confident of its correctness, and several of our largest farmers are guided by it in putting in their crops. They say their observation has proven that when the rain-fall in Mexico (which is always some two months in advance of our rains) is light, a drought is almost certain here. One farmer in Santa Clara valley will not seed his ground unless his Mexican rain advices are satisfactory. One strong evidence of the correctness of the theory is, that a drought has prevailed in Mexico during the past two years, in consequence of which a great want of food is felt in many of the interior sections of that country. We all know that a drought has prevailed here. There has been no rain either in Mexico or California for two years. In Mexico the drought has now ceased, and an abundance of rain is falling. We may expect early rains and a wet winter in California.

A PICTURESQUE ISLAND.

What Strangers Think of Our Suburbs.

The following description of Goat Island, from the Pittsburgh Evening Chronicle, will be news to many of our citizens: The new military post on Goat Island, in the bay of San Francisco, is a delightful place it would seem from a description of the place and its surroundings given by a recent visitor. The officers' quarters are quite palatial. Beautiful gardens have been laid and the flowers are already in bloom. The barrack is supplied with water conducted through pipes from cold springs. The topography of the Island is picturesque. Quail abound in the underbrush and in the pretty nook and shady dell where the foliage is green. Goat Island is a famous dueling and picnicking ground. One of the most desperately contested duels, with "regulation pistols," ever fought in this country took place on Goat Island about a dozen years ago. The warehouses of the new post are now ready for the reception of a quarter of a million dollars worth of stores to supply the Military Department of California, which includes the Territory of Arizona.

Sinking of New Orleans.

The Picayune says: For some thirty or forty days the batture in front of the Bazar Market and Red Stores has been gradually sinking, until to-day, just below the Stores, it is seven feet below the ordinary level. The length of the batture is about seven hundred and fifty feet, and the width one hundred and twenty. The city surveyor has made borings to investigate the strata, with a view to the construction of a work that will prevent further sinking, but has not been able to find strata sufficiently firm to guarantee the permanence of any work.

At the depth of fifty feet nothing more stable was found than sand, with a very slight mixture of clay.

At intervals in the past, the batture in this neighborhood has sunk in the same way, but not to such an extent, the greatest distance heretofore not exceeding five feet.

The present depression is inside the wharves, on the space over which the roads of the Pontchartrain and Chattanooga Railroad companies pass.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

First Premium

At the late Mechanics' Fair for military suits and boys' clothing, awarded to S. Figel, No. 3 Montgomery street, manufacturer of all kinds of men and boy's clothing at the lowest rate.

The Carpet and Furniture

Emporium of JOHN C. BELL is on Market street, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel. Mistakes are made every day.

New York Dry Goods Store.

813 Stockton street, between Clay and Sacramento, receives new goods daily from New York auctions very cheap. Remember the number.

The Newest Publications.

All readers like to receive their books, magazines and newspapers as soon as possible after publication. Loomis, at the southeast corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the post-office, is agent for all the chief American and English magazines and newspapers and delivers them to subscribers immediately on the arrival of the mail. x

Dr. Barlow J. Smith

Gives Free Lectures (to Gentlemen only) every Friday evening, commencing at 8, at his Hygeian Hall, 637 California st., and examines patients phrenologically as to health, gratis.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles, finest quality, and at the lowest prices. x

Ward's Celebrated Shirts

At old stand, cor. 3d and Market. A. Levine.

Reduced Prices.

Guerin & Son, prize boot and shoe makers, 327 and 329 Bush street. Must sell $35,000 worth of boots and shoes within 60 days. Call and examine our stock. x

Throw Out Your Chest!

A man should stand up like a man, throw out his chest and throw his shoulders back, thus giving room for the free action of the lungs. The Champion and Pivot-action Braces sold by C. H. Burr, sole agent for the Pacific Coast, 818 Market street, will be found to afford efficient aid in accomplishing this. They are superior to all others, and cost no more.

Premium Photographer.

GEO. D. MORSE was awarded the First Premium—a silver medal—by the Mechanics' Institute Fair for the best photographic work, over all competitors. Rooms, 417 Montgomery street, above California. x

S. P. R. R. News Agency.

James Miller supplies the reading wants of the passengers on the Southern Pacific Railroad with the latest San Francisco papers, and Eastern Illustrated ones, and magazines, at San Francisco prices. He also supplies FIGARO to the passengers on the upward bound trains, at San Francisco rates—free of charge.

Deposit your Money.

With the Land Mortgage Union, interest allowed from day of deposit. No entrance fee or charge for passbooks. Office 123 Post street open on Saturday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock.

H. A. Callender,

Manufacturer of Hair Jewelry, No. 62 Second street, corner of Mission.

Do You Know

That with BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS you can cut and make any garment to fit perfectly? Send postage stamp for an illustrated catalogue. H. A. Deming, agent. office of the Howe Sewing Machine, No. 113 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post, San Francisco.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 519 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has withdrawn from the firm of Guerin & Kelly, and has resumed business on his own account at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush. All ladies visiting the Mechanics' Fair should not fail to inspect the splendid display of Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes made by P. KELLY, Prize Bootmaker, corner of Bush and Kearny streets.

Dr. Flattery.

Dr. Flattery's wide-known celebrity and Private Hospital—opportunities, a lifetime experience in this and other countries, and now at 305 Montgomery street, San Francisco—are a guarantee when all others fail.

TO MUSICIANS.

WE WILL OPEN IN A FEW DAYS AT 635 Clay street, bet. Montgomery and Kearny, a Depot of FOREIGN MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

SCHUBERTH & CO.,

se26 1m New York, Leipzig, and San Francisco.

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER

THE GREAT SPECIALIST,

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY INFORM those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in one of the most celebrated Hospitals in England, The Lock.

He has now re-opened his old Medical Institute, at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was so successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention or explain on paper.

I am aware that some of the empirics of San Francisco make a practice of stating what they cure; but to most persons my name will be quite SUFFICIENT to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

All our regular advertisements will be published in these extra editions.

The Thousand Dollar Polka.

"My dear, will you play your thousand dollar polka!" said a farmer to his charming daughter, six months after her return from a fashionable boarding school. The young lady's musical performances had dwindled piece by piece, to a solitary polka, and the fond parent's compensation for many years' outlay was the precious "Thousand dollar polka" and his sorry joke.

Poor Biddy Brown, to hasten things,

"Have mercy on her soul."

It is Not

Because you wear cheap boots and shoes that you become crippled—it is because they do not fit properly; neither does a bad-fitting boot or shoe last so long by half the time as one made by a first-class cutter, such as is found at Kast's fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

Nearly all Great Men

Use tobacco in some form, and fine cut is most sought for because of its exquisite flavor. Veteran chewers say that the tobacco which contains the most happy combination of flavors is the "Sunny Side" brand, it being cut from pure Kentucky leaf.

Chinese Labor in England.

The Internationalists, have, we learn by cable promised to prevent foreign workmen from being employed in England. Now comes a dispatch which informs us that Chinese labor is seriously discussed in England. We don't know what the Internationalists are going to do about the matter. One thing is certain, the English capitalists will get the cheapest labor they can without regard to anything else. They will be told through the newspapers that by introducing Chinese labor and thus turning white men out of employment, they will make the poor rates heavier and have to pay out with one hand what they take in with the other. But they will not heed it. The laborer of the present day requires better pay, demands better pay than the laborer of former days. The laborer of to-day can read, He must have money to buy newspapers; he will not be content with all work and no play; he must go to the theatres. To do this he must have more money and demands it of the capitalist. The capitalist says "I cannot see the necessity of your reading newspapers, of your going to the theatres, of your dressing in well-looking apparel. I know just what your labor is worth to me and I will pay that and no more. If that work will not bring you in sufficient to enable you to gratify your extravagant tastes don't do it. Leave it to some one who will be as your ancestors were, satisfied with mere food and raiment and a shelter for your old age in the poor house." There are very few laborers in England who receive exorbitant wages for their work, and we think that however it may be in California, where we have China, as it were, next door to us, it will be long before any manufacturer in England will be bold enough to fly in the face of public sentiment by importing Chinese laborers.

Name! Name!

The Washington Critic says:

A lady in California with a fortune of half a million, has just married a "heathen Chinee"—a poor, miserable specimen of the tribe at that.

When, where, how did this thing take place? Strange that we didn't see a notice of the marriage in the daily papers. By the by, how many ladies are there in California possessed of half a million in their own right? Will the Call please do something practical and publish a list of the wealthy unmarried ladies of San Francisco? This lady with half a million would never have been allowed to marry a heathen Chinee if it had been known that she had money. Rather than that we would have thrown ourselves into the breach and prevented this disgrace to California and the demi-millionaire happening.

Original Illustrations.

The papers all over the country have been hunting around among their wood-cuts to find "an accurate likeness of Miss Bowsley engraved expressly for this paper, from a photograph in possession of the family." In most cases they have succeeded admirably but they had a hard time with Rozenweig. In some cases the old cuts had to be altered in two or three different places, to get the likeness into "an exact portrait of this double-dyed villian."

A Hint to Husbands.

They stop runaway horses in Rochester by opening the swing bridge and letting them drop into the Erie canal.—Ex.

There's a rare chance for you, henpecked benedicts. Get your fractious wives into a runaway mood, then move to Rochester. The custom of the town will regulate the rest.

Will Get Used to It.

A Wyoming woman complains that hundreds of her sex refuse to vote in that Territory unless coaxed to do so by the good-looking men.

They'll soon get over that. Once coaxed by a good-looking man, they take to any new thing as naturally as to mother's milk.

The Radical Rheumatic

Eradicator—the only known remedy. Frank H. Lashier, proprietor, No. 206 Fourth street San Francisco.

An Unlucky Minstrel.

There is a melancholy story going the rounds of the Arizona papers, of a white captive held by the Apache Indians who so amuses them by his funny songs and comic dances that his captors will not ransom him for any quantity of rum or beads. The unfortunate prisoner is said to be a stray negro minstrel. We can easily imagine that he finds it very melancholy business to sing the old rattling songs and execute the double-shuffle before his strange auditors until he is forced to subside for want of breath; knowing full well all the while that every performance only increases his value in the eyes of his savage captors. It is enough to bring the jolliest "end man" to his other and final end in presto time. Always dancing and singing for a living must be dull work; but dancing and singing for dear life is worse than playing before a San Jose audience. What Indian torture can equal this? Members of the profession here think that the luckless minstrel must be one Sam Purdy, who relinquished a good engagement as end man at the Alhambra some months since to go traveling. He was a good minstrel and a good fellow, and we are pleased to state that Billy Emerson, Charley Howard, Ainsley Scott and his other brother professionals are making arrangements to get up a benefit for the purpose of raising a fund to release poor Purdy from his Apache captivity.

A Mistake.

Two of the escaped convicts, Chris. Blair and a tall man supposed to have been Billy Forrest, were seen at the Philadelphia Brewery on the Geiger Grade, on Wednesday night. The police are looking them up. —Carson Register.

This can't be so. Convicts who were smart enough to plan and carry out the late escapade would as soon think of going back to the State Prison as visiting a place so much frequented by the officers of the law as a brewery.

Still Another.

A Norwegian girl, who has for a long time past been living as a domestic in the family of a Sioux City Clergyman, persists in declaring that her baby was merely a freak of nature— in other words, that it has no earthly father.—Ex.

These cases of immroulate conception are becoming alsogether too numerous. We are growing incredulous.

India needs drainage more than Bibles, and health officers more than missionaries.

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The deeply interesting and thrilling drama of "Adrienne; or, the Duel in the Mist," was capitally played last night. Mrs. F. M. Bates drew immense applause in the character of Adrienne and was ably supported by J. H. Vinson as Bertrand, James M. Hardie as Eugene de Grassac, H. Colton as Victor Savignie, Fanny Young as Giannetta Scarrotta, and other members of the company. The duel was very effectively presented on the stage, and the drama was so powerfully rendered throughout that the attention of the audience was held from the rise until the fall of the curtain.

California Theatre.

A large and fashionable audience witnessed the performance of "The School for Scandal" last night, with a stronger cast than could be made at any other theatre in the United States. Mrs. Bowers played Lady Teazle admirably well; John McCullough was excellent as Charles Surface; Henry Edwards perfect as Sir Peter Teazle; Jas. Carden very good as Joseph Surface, and the other characters had of course full justice done them by such performers as Mrs. Judah, W. H. Sedley Smith, Owen Marlowe, J. C. Williamson, Mrs. C. R. Saunders, Minnie Walton, W. A. Mestayer, and others. To-night "King John" will be repeated for the last time. To-morrow Mrs. D. P. Bowers will appear in the emotional drama of "East Lynne."

Alhambra Theatre.

Every night this charming little theatre is crowded by the best pleased audience ever brought together. The performance last night went off splendidly. Charley Howard's "Carry the News to Mary," and Emerson's Telegraph song in the first part were much applauded; Sheridan and Mack surpassed themselves in their specialties; Miss Fanny Gibson sung a ballad in excellent style; the pleasing sketch of "Old Uncle Jeff at Home," presented Charley Howard in one of his best characters and won for him a recall; Charles Vivian sung new songs and will introduce another new one to-night; Billy Emerson made an immense hit in his new song of "The Drum Major," which was applauded until the house rang again, for an encore he gave his burlesque of "Ten Thousand Miles Away," was encored again and sang "Love Among Big Noses," was again encored and sang a most laughable version of "Put me in my Little Bed;" and then could scarcely get off Callie Curtis followed in his wonderful skating performance and comic act, and this unequalled evening's entertainment concluded with the screaming farce of "Turn Him Out."

Bella Union.

M'lle Gangain is the bright particular star of the dance at this theatre; the Reynolds Brothers are great in double song and dance; the lively and versatile Le Favre, shines in the extravaganza; Miss Ethel Stanley and Edgar Stanley are most pleasing ballad singers; J. H. Larkin is good in his Dutch specialties and in the afterpiece; Minnie Fillmore sings pleasing ballads; Josephine excels in song and dance; Fanny Garretson's Serenade from Schubert is nightly applauded, and the afterpiece of "The Statue Bride" causes much amusement.

Theatre Comique.

There is any amount of talent at the Theatre Comique. Harry Courtaine appears nightly in a screaming farce, Little Maggie Knight in lightning changes, Johnny Tuers in first part and interlude, Kelly, Scott and Mathews in clog dances, Lizzie Harmon in sweet ballads, Josie Abecco in her pleasing songs, Zadie Zelmar on the slack wire, and the large company in a variety of popular songs, acts and dances.

Oxford Theatre.

To-night Miss Ida St. Clair, always a favorite, will appear in her new act of the running globe, executed by no other female performer in the world; Edwin Montague, the famous acrobat and gymnast, will appear in a varied performance; Amelia Dean, Lizzie Worrell, Dan Lowrey, and many others will appear in a good first part and amusing interlude, and the very popular drama of "The Spy, or the Battle of Sedan," will conclude the entertainment.

Woodward's Gardens.

Miss Carrie Moore will repeat her exhibition on the velocipede and skates on Saturday and Sunday. Skating and an exhibition by Prof. Lovett every day. The beautiful "Espiritu Santo" (Holy Ghost Flower) and "Gloria Superba" are now in bloom.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Charley Rhoades.

An intimate friend of this well-known professional, just returned from Sacramento, informs us that Charley has for some time been confined to his bed by fever, and although he has now partially recovered, the time of his return to the stage is very uncertain.

Important Omission.

A Western paper speaks of a man as coming in contact with lightning, but omits to state which whipped—the only feature of the item in which the public are supposed to be interested.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. R., besides attending to the daily distribution of FIGARO among the passengers thereon, supplies them with the latest San Francisco dailies and all the Eastern illustrated papers and magazines, at San Francisco prices.

Victory Perches Upon Our Banners!

—Verily the result of the election reminds one of the success of CASSIN'S XXX WINE GRAPE ROOT BITTERS, in this; that the best is bound to win. Defeated Candidates will use them, as they are sure to raise the depressed spirits.

A Supposed Murdered Man Alive, and not Doing Well.

[Oregon Herald, September 20.]

Some few months ago it was announced in the Herald that a resident of this city, engaged in the cattle business, had gone to Washington county to purchase some beef cattle, but as he was absent longer then was needed, and no tidings of him could be gleaned, it was supposed that he had been murdered for his money, as he had some two thousand dollars on his person; but several hinted that he had left his family, and sought relief from its presence, either in Victoria or some city in California. There were few who thought as his wife did not mourn for him; she did not dress in black, sigh, or even intimate to her friends that some rude hand had sent him to that bourne from which not even butchers return. The general impression in the community was that he had left his family, and this was strengthened by the fact that the wife departed for San Francisco in a few days after news of his disappearance had been received. The poor wife received the sympathies of friends and acquaintances, and the husband, who would desert her and her helpless children, was asserted to be no honorable man, at least.

HIM DEAD,

BUT ALL THE GUESSING

as to what had become of the butcher, or where he had gone and with what intention he departed, are proven to be wrong by the sudden appearance of the murdered man or runaway husband, in our streets a few days ago, who explained in the Police Court the cause for his unexpected disappearance.

It seems that he received from a cattle-dealer a large sum of money to purchase good beef stock in Washington county. He went to his destination, but being seized with a covetous desire, he returned to this city without making his purchases, placed the money in his possession in the hands of a fellow-butcher, whom he took into his confidence, and departed for San Francisco on the steamer which sailed on the day of his return.

THE AGREEMENT

between the two dishonest men was that the keeper of the money should give to the wife of the other $150 to take her to San Francisco, and that he was to forward the remainder when it was demanded. The first part of the contract was fulfilled; the wife received the money and departed for San Francisco, not, as it was expected, to reside with her people, but with her husband. The second part, however, was not carried out, for the banker, adopting the theory that it was not stealing to keep that which was stolen refused to forward even a cent of the money left in his care, notwithstanding the numerous letters sent for it. Finding his letters had no effect, the party in San Francisco became exasperated, and threatened if the money was not forwarded he would return, deliver himself up, and both of them would be arrested together. These threats, however, seemed to have had no effect on the covetous soul of the possessor of the "root of all evil," he naturally presuming that the threats would not be carried out, but the sequel showed he reasoned wrongly, for on last Saturday appeared on the streets, went to the man he had wronged, explained his case, and requested the arrest of the party retaining the money. The request was complied with, and the dishonest friend was apprehended and arraigned before Judge Denny, but he was discharged, as the evidence did not warrant his detention. The arrest, however, had the effect of causing the dishonest banker to close up his business, and he has since gone into bankruptcy. All the parties concerned in this transaction have occupied a good position in the community, and transacted such a business that there was no necessity for a recourse to the dishonest means pursued to gain a few paltry dollars.

HIS VICTIM

Encounter with Rattlesnakes.

[From the Terre Haute Gazette, September 9th.]

From the Marshall Messenger we learn of a snake story which, we must confess, rather shakes our credulity and doubtless will that of our readers. Having the faith we do in the veracity of Littlefield, the editor, however, we give it place in our columns. He says that "some days since Thomas Janney, armed and equipped as the law directs, sallied forth on Parker Prairie to shoot prairie chickens. He had climbed over a fence into a field belonging to Mr. Briscoe, and was proceeding toward the middle of the field cautiously looking for chickens, when all at once he was confronted by a huge rattlesnake, who disputed his further advance on his snakeship's dominions. Mr. Janney brought his gun to bear on the monster, and in an instant there was one less live rattlesnake. The sound of the snake's rattling and the report of the gun had hardly died away before Mr. Janney heard another snake rattling with great fury, coming upon his rear. He turned around to confront his newly found enemy who had cut off his retreat. The snake was coming toward him with great speed, with tail and head erect. The other barrel of his gun was brought into requisition, and snake No. 2 was extinct. Mr. Janney and his dog thinking things a little equally and he wearing shoes concluded prudence the better part of valor, retired to the fence and awaited reinforcements. After becoming sufficiently reinforced he and his crowd returned to the battle-field and once more opened hostilities. They succeeded in bagging sixteen. Some of them from four to five feet long and three inches in diameter. Mr. J. testified to the truth of the theory that young snakes take refuge in their mother's mouths, for he succeeded in extracting a number of small ones from one of the killed snakes. A number of snakes succeeded in making their escape."

UNTO THEE

When all the world seems nothing worth
And hope and pleasure fade and flee;
When all is doubt upon the earth;
And all is darkness on the sea,
Where should I come but unto Thee,
O, God! who keepest me?

This burning soul, so long repressed,
That longs to pour itself and weep,
And on some kind supporting breast
To sigh and sob itself to sleep—
Where should I bring, but unto Thee,
O, God! who heareth me?

These fettering bonds of toil and care,
Which make the sinking spirit faint;
This load which seems too much to bear;
This trembling gush of deep complaint—
Where should I bring, but unto Thee,
O, God! who pitiest me?

This heart that mourns His death above,
That aches with hungry emptiness,
That these poor husks of earthly love
Have failed to satisfy or bless—
Where should I bring, but unto Thee,
O, God! who lovest me?

O, Friend beyond all other friends!
O, love beyond all other love!
Thy peace into my heart descends;
My heart beats calmly as a dove's,
When all my woes I bring to Thee,
O, God! who hearest me.

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

Ladies' Visiting Cards,

And every description of plain and ornamental penmanship, executed by JOHN P. DWIKE, 605 Montgomery street, at Grand Hotel.

Since the Great Reduction

In prices at Guerin & Son's Prize Boot and Shoe Store, their store has been crowded with customers. Call and see them. 327 and 329 Bush street.

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has no longer any connection with the old store on Bush street, but has resumed business on his own account at at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush street, where ladies and gentlemen can rely upon getting perfect-fitting boots and shoes, as all his former Cutters and workmen of the Ladies and Gent's Departments, have removed with him to the new store. Also the largest stock of ladies and gentlemen's first-class Boots and Shoes in the city. P. KELLY, PRIZE BOOTMAKER, 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush.

Best Quality of Dogskin

Driving gloves, at $2 per pair, at the What Cheer Laundry.

The Elixir of Youth,

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

First Premium

At the late Mechanics' Fair for military suits and boys' clothing, awarded to S. Figel, No. 3 Montgomery street, manufacturer of all kinds of men and boy's clothing at the lowest rate.

The Carpet and Furniture

Emporium of JOHN C. BELL is on Market street, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel. Mistakes are made every day.

New York Dry Goods Store,

313 Stockton street, between Clay and Sacramento, receives new goods daily from New York auctions very cheap. Remember the number.

The Newest Publications.

All readers like to receive their books, magazines and newspapers as soon as possible after publication. Loomis, at the southeast corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the post-office, is agent for all the chief American and English magazines and newspapers and delivers them to subscribers immediately on the arrival of the mail.

Dr. Barlow J. Smith

Gives Free Lectures (to Gentlemen only) every Friday evening, commencing at 8, at his Hygeian Hall, 637 California st., and examines patients phrenologically as to health, gratis.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles, finest quality, and at the lowest prices.

Ward's Celebrated Shirts

At old stand, cor. 3d and Market. A. Levine.

Reduced Prices.

Throw Out Your Chest!

A man should stand up like a man, throw out his chest and throw his shoulders back, thus giving room for the free action of the lungs. The Champion and Pivot-action Braces sold by C. H. Burr, sole agent for the Pacific Coast, 818 Market street, will be found to afford efficient aid in accomplishing this. They are superior to all others, and cost no more.

Premium Photographer.

GEO. D. MOSES was awarded the First Premium—a silver medal—by the Mechanics' Institute Fair for the best photographic work, over all competitors. Rooms, 417 Montgomery street, above California.

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER

THE GREAT SPECIALIST,

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY INFORM those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in one of the most celebrated Hospitals in England, The Lock.

He has now re-opened his old Medical Institute, at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was so successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention or explain on paper.

I am aware that some of the empirics of San Francisco make a practice of stating what they cure: but to most persons my name will be quite SUFFICIENT to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

Published every day, except Sunday, by

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

No. 2 Merchant St. and 535 Washington St

THURSDAY.....EPTEMBER 28, 1871

PETALUMA EDITION.

FIGARO will be the house programme at the Petaluma Theatre during the Fair Week, and a large edition will be circulated on the cars, throughout the city and at the Fair Grounds. All our advertisers will have the benefit of this extra edition.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

300 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

300 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

EXTRA EDITIONS OF FIGARO.

We print to-day, 1000 FIGAROS for circulation in Petaluma, and on the cars and traveling convayances en route for that city. As FIGARO will be used as the house programme for the San Francisco Dramatic Company at the Petaluma Theatre, and its general advertiser at the Fair Grounds and elsewhere during the Fair week; an extra edition will be printed, and forward daily until the close of the Fair, on the 30th inst. All our regular advertisements will be published in these extra editions.

Sound Advice.

The Walla Walla Statesman is very much alarmed lest the epidemic (small-pox) prevailing in that place should lessen the attendance at the Territorial Fair, and counsels the citizens of Washington Territory to have no fear of it, but come to the Fair anyhow. The Statesman is right; an American citizen who would not face the cholera, yellow fever, small-pox or any other contagious disease when the success of an institution so essential to the national welfare as a Territorial Fair is imperilled, does not deserve the glorious privilege of being called such.

It is Not

Because you wear cheap boots and shoes that you become crippled—it is because they do not fit properly; neither does a bad-fitting boot or shoe last so long by half the time as one made by a first-class cutter, such as is found at Kast's fashionable Shoe Store. Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre. •

Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

A Nuisance.

The following, from the Brooklyn Eagle, should be published every now and again until the evil complained of ceases:

"There is one custom in which no forbearance is shown, and that is the insane desire to get out of doors which possesses a large portion of an audience when it has received an inkling that the play is drawing to a close.

"An interested spectator, one evening, might have seen at the Park Theatre half of the audience engaged in the convulsive operation of donning overcoats, and that at least fifteen minutes before the curtain was rung down.

"The general commotion was so great that even those who were seated near the stage could not distinguish a word spoken upon it.

"This is not only impolite, but downright robbery. A man may buy a coat, tear the skirt of it off and then throw it away if he desires to, and no one will interfere, but he cannot tear off the skirt of a coat which some else has bought.

"So a man who buys a ticket for a theatrical performance may go out before the close of the play, but he has not a right to prevent others from witnessing the finish of it.

"Yes, this is what those lunatics do who manifest such a disgraceful desire to get out of doors. They prevent the rest of the audience faom getting their money's worth.

"Is it a disease, or is it only the result of an inordinate thirst for a stimulating liquor, which cannot be restrained for five minutes longer?

"Does the actor indicate the approaching close of the play, even while employing the loftiest strains of eloquence, then comes a sudden and instantaneous change over the audience. Faces that reflected the shifting changes of the drama, eyes that were lighted with emotion, suddenly change, and the utmost anxiety is depicted thereon; the house becomes black with overcoats: it looks like a microscopic prairie dog village, the heads of auditors dive so frequently after their hats. A large portion rise to their feet and make frantic efforts to reach the door, and having reached it, calmly turn about to watch other people come out.

"There is no courtesy in this, and the orderly portion of the audience should hiss it down. It is really becoming disgraceful and unbearable, for it is rarely now-a-days that the close of a drama can be witnessed with any degree of comfort."

The First English Prima Donna.

In 1656, at Rutland House, in Aldersgate Street, Sir William Davenant gave the first public performance of an English opera. This was five years prior to the patent of the Academie de Musique which licensed the first performance of French operas, and twenty-two years before the production of Thiel's "Adam and Eva," which was the first opera publicly performed in Germany. The work is called the "Siege of Rhodes," and the book of the words is extant, but not so the music, which was the composition of several masters. It is equally remarkable since quite as important, that the character of Ianthe in the opera was sustained by Mrs. Henry Colman, who was the first female that ever performed in public in this country. We owe then to Puritan times the perpetuation of our oldest national melodies, and the origination of our glee, our opera, and our pleasurable privilege of hearing female singers.

High Recommendation.

The Louisville Daily Sun indulges in the following honorable mention of a contemporary: "Capt. Will F. Bell, of the Elizabethtown News, is in the city in the interest of his estimable paper. Capt, Bell is one of the most whole-souled, circus-going editors in the State."

A Hint to Critics.

The following is from Cumberland's remarks on Leigh Hunt's "Critical Essays," in the third number of the London Review: Speak sparingly and tenderly of those who are to earn their living by their labors on the stage. I approve of their being told of faults which it would be for their interest to correct, but as I will not arraign them for defects with which nature has unalterably endowed them, I must be perfecty satisfied that correction is in their power before I move them to attempt it. As objects of our general censure they have no defence; as servants of the theatre, exhibiting themselves on a stage for our amusement, they have no fastnesses to retreat to from our attack; they are at our mercy, and discouragement partakes of persecution. Until a performer shall offend against the respect due his audience, great respect and lenity are due to his feelings. It is happy for an actor when nature has bestowed upon him an expressive countenance, but if he has it not by nature, he cannot make it such by art. Let him not hear of privations which he cannot supply; tell him only of such errors as he is able to correct.

Sensibly Honest.

A Detroit boy, who found a pocket-book full of money, was too proud to take a reward of two cents, and declined it.—Ex.

Of course. Had the loser advertised a suitable reward, the boy probably would have accepted and delivered up the lost property.

Horace Greeley, in his religious address at Akron, Ohio, spoke of the Almighty as "The author of all things," The Louisville Ledger trusts that he did not design to involve his Maker in any responsibility for that book about farming.

When the lamented Artemus Ward exhibited his wax-works in Utah, he relates that he was accosted by a venerable and vinegarish virgin, who inquired, "Can't I get in without paying?" "No, but you can pay without going in."

Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

This theatre is crowded every night by the fashion and beauty of the city, and the performance is so excellent that all are delighted; Sheridan and Mack stand unrivalled in their specialties; Emerson is the most versatile minstrel performer living; Vivian the neatest and most artistic of character vocalists, and Charley Howard without an equal in old darkey characteristications. Sheridan and Mack's champion jig in the concluding piece of "Turn Him Out" never fails to bring down the house, and the curtain falls midst thunders of applause and ringing peals of laughter.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Adrienne; or, the Duel in the Mist," with its thrilling scenes of the duel, the death of De Grassac, the snow storm, the trial and others, will be presented again this evening. Mrs. Bates is a delightfully earnest actress, and in strong emotional scenes is extremely good; James M. Hardie, J. H. Vinson, Fanny Young, John Woodard, H. Colton, Frank Rea, and Mrs. Frank Rea, are all good in their lines and can play a piece in good style. Miss Fanny Young is a great favorite in soubrette parts and gains much applause for her songs. The present week is the last of the engagement of Mrs. F. M. Bates. Johnny Allen and Miss Alice Harrison appearing on Monday in the play of "Schneider."

California Theatre.

"King John" was played last night in the same excellent style as on its production on Monday night. To-night "East Lynne" will be presented with Mrs. Bowers as Lady Isabelle and Mme. Vine. Ladies sometimes regard "a good cry" as a luxury, those with hearts of any softer material than adamant can enjoy themselves splendidly in a lacrymose manner at the California Theatre to-night Not to have seen Mrs. Bowers in "East Lynne," will be an omission that many will regret after this great emotional actress has left. To-morrow evening Mrs. D. P. Bowers will take a benefit and "Much Ado About Nothing" will be presented.

Bella Union.

Geo. Reynolds, T. Bree, J. H. Larkin, Miss Josephine, Ethel Stanley, Edgar Stanley, and many others shine in the first part. A great feature in the interlude is the daring and graceful performance of Johnny Manning on the flying trapeze. M'lle Gaugain's "La Manola" is much admired. "The Live Indian," with George Reynolds, Harry Thompson, J. H. Larkin, Marie Zoel, Tommy Bree and J. Taylor in the cast, causes much fun, and the attractive fairy extravaganza of "The Statue Bride," with Aline Le Favre as Ethelinda, concludes the varied entertainment.

Theatre Comique.

Harry Courtaine, Maggie Knight, little Josie Abecco and a score of others under the able leadership of Johnny Tuers, present an entertainment nightly at this favorite place of amusement, that gratifies all tastes. The great trio clog dance is a popular feature.

Oxford Theatre.

Miss Ida St. Clair on the running globes; Edwin Montague in acrobatic and gymnastic feats and a great company in first part and interlude precede the performance of the military drama of "The Spy; or, the Battle of Sedan," in which Miss Amelia Dean appears to great advantage as the Spy.

Woodward's Gardens.

Miss Carrie Moore will repeat her exhibition on the velocipede and skates on Saturday and Sunday. Skating and an exhibition by Prof. Lovett every day. The beautiful "Espiritu Santo" (Holy Ghost Flower) and "Gloria Superba" are now in bloom.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Arrived.

Johnny Allen arrived from New York last night under engagement to the management of the Metropolitan Theatre. He will make his first appearance on Monday in "Schneider." Miss Alice Harrison also came and will make her appearance as Lowesie in the same piece.

Ten Nights in a Bar Room.

At the Theatre Comique Friday night. Harry Courtaine as Joe Morgan, Maggie Knight as Mary, Johnny Tuers as the Wild Irishman.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Hascke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, lends to the comfort of everyone.

Letter from H. T. Helmbold.

NEW YORK, September 13th, 1871.

To the American Press:—In view of the strong expression of sympathy I have received from the Press throughout all sections of the country, indicating a willingness not only to sustain me, but tendering me the most cordial assistance in the future I am induced to issue this circular letter to my newspaper friends in answer to the hundreds of communications which I am daily receiving from them.

I FEEL CONFIDENT

that I state the fact when I say that no business man has ever been the recipient of a more unanimous testimonial of confidence in his integrity, than that which has been tendered me during the past month by those with whom I have had such extensive dealings amounting to millions during the nineteen years of my business career.

THE PRESS ALONE

are my creditors. I have no goods in my establishment which are not paid for, and every note and obligation has been met by me with promptness, notwithstanding that a systematic attempt has been made within the past three months by persons of malicious inclinations who have circulated rumors which, if they had been believed, would have been sufficient to impair, if not ruin the credit of any banking institution or other business of capital. A more complete and satisfactory refutation could not be given to the slanderous assaults than the action of the Press throughout the country, which, without exception, have on their own motion and with the most cordial manifestations of sympathy extended my contracts to suit my own convenience.

I DESIRE TO REASSURE MY FRIENDS

of the excellence of my health and the buoyancy of my spirits, and my confidence—now that I have their support—that my success in the future will exceed their most sanguine expectations; and that with the beginning of the coming year, I will be able to prove to the business men of the country that the true road to success is by liberal, judicious and continuous advertising. I may mention in this connection that my bills for advertising the Catawba Grape Pill during the last four months amounted to one hundred and thirty thousand dollars, and that this expenditure although at present comparatively unproductive, has, by judicious publicity of its virtues, and the testimonials thereto from its consumers, insured it a greater success in the future than could have been obtained in any other way.

THIS COMMUNICATION

is not intended so much for publication as to afford me the opportunity of returning my thanks to the Press, and replying at once to the thousand warm and cordial letters I have recently received from them. But if its publication can be made useful to the interests of friends by proving to the advertising community the mutual relations of interest which may exist between them—publisher, editor and advertiser—I have no objection to any publicity which you may see fit to give it. Yours truly, H. T. HEMBOLD.

Fragrant Onions.

A correspondent of the Baltimore Gazette, writing from Colorado, says of the fertility of the soil of that Territory:

I shall not stop here to tell you all I have heard of the agriculture and stock-raising of Colorado. But things are done on a big scale, I can tell you; and the immense extent of the great ranches would surprise our Maryland farmers. I know of single tracts of land here, owned by single individuals, that would cover a fourth, or a third, probably, of the entire state of Maryland, and there is no discount on the quality of the land either, as it produces thirty bushels of wheat, thirty-five of oats and barley, forty bushels of corn and one hundred of potatoes to the acre, while the grasses are rich and nutritious food for stock, which run at large, require no fodder whatever, and keep fat all the year round. Immense herds of buffaloes, with horses, deer and antelopes, have from time immemorial fed and fattened upon the natural pasture grounds of Colorado. The fruits and vegetables are very large and very good. I have seen plenty of cabbages weighing fifty to sixty pounds apiece, but I didn't eat them. In a bushel of onions each one weighed a pound and upward. I never did like either the taste or smell of onions, but, under the advice of an old settler, I pared one of these and ate a part of it out of hand as you would eat a peach or an apple, and found it quite delicious, free from any unpleasant taste or odor.

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium.

"DRUNK FOR A WEEK."

"Tom!" and the tones of the master's voice
Came sharp to the listening ear;
"Where is the woman who does this work!"
Said Tom, with a shrug, "I fear
She's had to give up. She was ghostly white
When she left the office at six last night."

"Well, scratch her name from off the books;
Get somebody in that's well,
These women are always in trouble, I think;
And, Tom—about Timothy Snell!
When he gets over that last week's spree,
And comes to his senses, send him to me.

"It's a week to-day since he's shown his face,
But he's got his oats to sow;
And I'll give him a hint on the evil of drink,
And let the whole thing go.
Tim's a good fellow—he'll steady at last;
Who wants young men to grow old too fast?"

So "drunk for a week" is a young man's joke,
And sick for a day is a sin;
The woman who faints is sent out to the dogs,
While the fellow who drinks is kept in.
And why? Oh! that is a riddle confessed;
The answer I'd give, but it's never been guessed.

Common Scold.

Pennsylvania, in the old times, before the Woman's Rights doctrine was promulgated enacted laws to restrain the too free use of woman's natural weapon, her tongue, and we see from the following report of a case tried in Philadelphia, that they are still in operation. The proceedings, however, do not specify the penalty inflicted:

"Ellen Brannan was charged with being a common scold. The prosecutor alleged that when his wife was in delicate health, Ellen Brannan 'got down on her knees and prayed that my wife might never see the face of her child!'

Mrs. Brannan denied this, and asserted that the prosecutor owed her $41. This the prosecutor denied.

Another witness complained that Mrs. Brannan called the neighbors 'out of their names,' and called them names she ought not to.

Another witness she called a thief, and he added: 'She is always at somebody; if it is not me or my wife it is somebody else.'

The Judge instructed the jury, that to convict the defendant they must be satisfied that she is a common and notorious scold, not merely quarrelling with one, two or three persons. Verdict, guilty."

"FIGARO"

Published every day, except Sunday, by

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

523 Merchant St. and 535 Washington St.

Below Montgomery Block.

FRIDAY.....SEPTEMBER 29, 1871

PETALUMA EDITION.

FIGARO will be the house programme at the Petaluma Theatre during the Fair Week, and a large edition will be circulated on the cars, throughout the city and at the Fair Grounds. All our advertisers will have the benefit of this extra edition.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

300 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

EXTRA EDITIONS OF FIGARO.

We print to-day, 1000 FIGAROS for circulation in Petaluma, and on the cars and traveling conveyances en route for that city. As FIGARO will be used as the house programme for the San Francisco Dramatic Company at the Petaluma Theatre, and its general advertiser at the Fair Grounds and elsewhere during the Fair week; an extra edition will be printed, and forward daily until the close of the Fair, on the 30th inst. All our regular advertisements will be published in these extra editions.

Unnatural and Inhuman.

The following occurs in the report of the Independent Order of Good Templars:

We may take fresh courage from the fact that the question of prohibiting by law the unnatural and inhuman liquor traffic, is attracting more attention than ever before, and is rapidly becoming a national issue:

We object to these terms. The liquor traffic is very natural and very human. If the I. O. G. T., must call names, it had better exercise more discretion in its choice of adjectives.

Horrid Boy.

A small boy being asked to define the the meaning of the word "bully," said "he didn't know exactly, but it was something to do with the Board of Education."

Nilsson slings a creditable oar.

Brown is the coming color for Fall.

Blue yacht ties are a feminine flash.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

Pre-eminently bright among the great tragediennes of the day, shines Mrs. D. P. Bowers now performing at the California Theatre. Bright shines the Red Light which marks the famous Figaro Saloon, opposite the stage entrance of the theatre. Here everyone goes between the acts to taste Hermann's old rye whisky, or enjoy one of his scientifically prepared cold punches,

Oysters and Chowder.

Try Joe Giusti's delicious chowder and luscious oysters, at 105 California Market, en trance on Summer street. Ladies' saloon attached. Open day and night,

Something like an Advertisement.

The Petaluma people far from possessing the stupidity which so often characterizes a bucolic population are a bright and go-ahead lot. They patronize their theatre and they advertise in the newspapers, two things which raise them highly in the estimation of FIGARO. We found the following in a little paper published for circulation in the city during the Marin County Fair: "Petaluma babies grow fat on milk from Hopkins' new milk wagon." All honor to the enterprising Hopkins. He bought a new milk wagon and knew that the way to make people cognizant of that fact and observe the beauties of his new vehicle was to advertise it in the public prints. Hopkins has a knowledge of the maternal nature. He appeals to Petaluma mothers who love fat babies as much as Fiji Cannibals love them, though not in the same way, and points out the connection between fat babies and Hopkins, new milk wagon. Hopkins will make his fortune.

"Remarkable Runaway."

When we saw a paragraph in the Bulletin with the above heading, and on reading further, found that we were called upon to believe that the horses attached to a Sutter street Railroad car had run away, we felt that our credulity was too much taxed. Those horses who were never known to exceed a mile an hour run away with a car! Preposterous! We knew it could not be, and were satisfied when we found that the car had run away with the horses, pushing them down a steep grade. The Bulletin suggests to prevent a recurrence of this accident and possible injury to the horses, that the track be sanded. How would it be to have a couple of kedge anchors thrown out behind? We think those horses would go well on skates. Will the company try them with Plympton's roller skates? With them they could slide down the steep grade with safety.

Wrong Credit.

Frank Leslie's Illustrated Weekly has an article on the end of the world in which it ridicules both the scientists, who assert that the heat of the sun is diminishing, and the Millerites, Dr. Cummings and others, who interpret the revelations of the Bible, and from them gather that the end is near. It closes its article with the following words, "Can we not say to both, in the words of Brutus, 'much learning hath made thee mad.'" The less Frank Leslie's has to say about the Bible after this the better. It is our opinion that it cannot say anything of the kind "in the words of Brutus," but it might say, not to both, but to either one or the other of them, in the words of Festus to St. Paul, "Thou art beside thyself; much learning doth make thee mad."

Amateur Criticism.

The Bulletin has for some time past paid no attention to the drama, letting anyone from the editor-in-chief to the office boy write the notices of the theatres. At present some "gentleman amateur" is evidently writing them, "just for the fun of the thing," it amuses him, doesn't cost the Bulletin anything and disgusts the theatre-going public.

Decency.

Massachusetts has sparod the country a great disgrace by rejecting B. Butler for Governor. There were some who would have liked to see him elected, but decency forbade his nomination.

First Snow.

It snowed at Truckee from 11 A. M., to night fall yesterday; and the telegraph announces three inches snow on the ground at Cisco.

Chronic,

The present fine weather. September dies gloriously.

Offenbach is seriously talking of coming to this country to live.

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUG & SCHMIDT, Successors to P. J. Reilly, Agents. x

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure.

The Radical Rheumatic

Eradicator—the only known remedy. Frank H. Lashier, proprietor, No. 206 Fourth street San Francisco.

Judge Sawyer's Sermon.

Judge Sawyer preached a little sermon to the members of the colored churches on Wednesday, from which we make the following extract:

You are all members of the Church—and therefore Christians. Do you think that you can maintain the principles of your religion by engaging in street brawls. Respectable white people have tried these without success.

That settles the matter. Respectable white people have tried to maintain the principles of their religion by engaging in street brawls and have failed, so it's no more use for the colored people to try that plan than it is for the members of the Board of Education to attempt to advance the cause of popular education by bullying and blackguarding one another at their weekly meetings.

That's Enough.

The St. Joseph Gazette describing an accident and its effect, says:

Not a sob escaped the mother, only a trembling body a quivering lip, and a flood of tears streaming down her sorrowful face.

If a trembling body and quivering lip escaped, what was left for the mother?

No Mercy.

Rochefort has petitioned for a commutation of his sentance of banishment to a penal settlement for life. We hope he won't get it. If he is allowed to go where he likes, he may come here, and revive the Mazeppa or the Varieties.

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table.

Vivian's Treadmill Song.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

To-night the performance will be for the benefit of the talented young California performers, Cogill and Cooper, who shortly go East to acquire new fame and do credit to their California training. Billy Emerson, Charley Howard, Sheridan and Mack and Vivian, will all appear in their specialties particularized on our first page. Callie Curtis will appear in his skating exhibition and wonderfully ludicrous camic scene, and the whole company will all present a rich and varied entertainment. Messrs. Cogill and Cooper will make their last appearance and present their new and original song and dance, "The Champion Nigger Dancers."

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night and to-morrow night are the two last of the engagement of Mrs. F. M. Bates, and the performance of "Adrienne; or, the duel in the Mist." It will be played at the matinee to-morrow. On Monday Johnny Allen appears mit "Schneider."

California Theatre.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers gave a most thrilling performance of Lady Isabel and Mme. Vine in "East Lynne" last night. The cast was a very strong one throughout. John McCullough as Archibald Carlyle left little to be desired, and the part of Sir Francis Levison has never, since Charles R. Thorne, jr., left, been so well played as it was by Owen Marlowe; Miss Minnie Walton made the most of Barbara Hare; Mrs. Saunders wonderfully amusing as Cornelia Carlyle, and E. T. Buckley was very good as Richard Hare. To-night the admirable actress who has afforded the public of San Francisco so many delightful evenings' entertainment, will take a benefit, and "Much Ado About Nothing" will be presented with a cast which it would be hard to equal on the American stage. There will be a matinee to-morrow, when "East Lynne" will be played.

Bella Union.

M'lle Gaugain in fancy dances, the Reynolds Brothers in song and dance, Ethel Stanly and Edgar Stanly in songs and duets, J. H. Larkin in Dutch peculiarities, Fanny Garretson in sweet songs, Miss Josephine in song and dance, Minnie Fillmore in favorite ballads and Johnny Manning on the flying trapeze, will all appear to-night. The performance will conclude with "The Statue Bride" with Aline Le Favre in the leading role, supported by Minnie Fillmore, Minnie Corbyn, Harry Thompson, Johnny Manning, J. H. Larkin, R. T. Taylor, Fanny Garretson, Miss Josephine, Tommy Bree and Maggie Brewer.

Carnival Ball.

The Grand Carnival Ball given by the Mechanics' Institute at the Pavilion last night was a great success, the floor being crowded with masqueraders in gay costumes, and the galleries thronged with spectators. The masqueraders were generally as stiff and prim as if they were at a prayer meeting, but this is the case with most masqueradres in this country. The prizes were distributed as follows: The first prize consisting of a set of jewelry valued at $100. was awarded to Mrs. A. McDonald, for the admirable manner in which she sustained the character of "The Pepper Pot Woman;" the second prize was awarded to Mrs. Keller. The gentleman's first prize was awarded to Mr. Leathes, for his burlesque of Wayland Smith, the coxcomb, who figures in "Kenilworth." The second gentlemen's prize was awarded to C. Gridley. The decisions were generally satisfactory. We congratulate our feiend Leathes on the appreciation his admirable conception and carrying out of of the character he assumed, met with at the hands of the committee. The seating of the spectators in the galleries was under the charge of Max H. Fay, the most accomplished and obliging of ushers, who fulfilled his duties in a manner which left no cause for complaint.

Theatre Comique.

A great bill will be presented at this place of amusement this evening. After a bright first part and amusing interlude, the popular drama of "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" will be performed with a really extraordinary cast, comprising Harry Courtaine as Joe Morgan the drunkard, "as played by him for the last fifteen years," the bill informs us; Maggie Knight as Mary, and Johnny Tuers as Dennis O'Grady. The other parts are appropriately distributed, and will be done justice to be the members of the company of the Theatre Comique.

Oxford Theatre.

Miss Ida St. Clair on the running globes, Edwin Montague in acrobatic and gymnastic feats and a great company in first part and interlude precede the performance of the military drama of "The Spy; or, the Battle of Sedan," in which Miss Amelia Dean appears to great advantage as the Spy. To-morrow night "Jack Sheppard" will be played.

Woodward's Gardens.

Miss Carrie Moore will repeat her exhibition on the velocipede and skates on Saturday and Sunday. Skating and an exhibition by Prof. Lovett every day. The beautiful "Espiritu Santo" (Holy Ghost Flower) and "Gloria Superba" are now in bloom.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chailiu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Arrived.

Johnny Allen arrived from New York last night under engagement to the management of the Metropolitan Theatre. He will make his first appearance on Monday in "Schneider." Miss Alice Harrison also came and will make her appearance as Loweesie in the same piece.

A Moral Tale—How two Honest Men Prospered.

[N. Y. Standard]

There are two Johns in the Fourth Ward. The last name of one begins with a G and the surname of the other commences with a C. They are chums. They are very sharp men, very; but as Marc Antony said in a peculiar way, they are "both honorable men." They were not long ago in a very unusual condition known as "hard up," but by industry and integrity they have achieved a little competency. Thus:

C. met G. one day in a bar-room, their usual resort. It was a temperance bar, of course. Said C.:

"Old boy, we're dreadful hard up, but I know how to make a raise, sure thing."

"No!" said G.; "honor bright? I haven't anything more to take to my uncle, and my landlord's dunning me. But, really, now?"

"Yes," replied C.; "this is the plan; I've found a man fool enough to lend me $100. The great race between "Longfellow" and "Helmbold" comes off next week at Saratoga. We'll go. There'll be the heaviest kind of odds bet on "Longfellow," of course. I'll back "Helmbold" and you'll be stakeholder. After the first bet you give me the stakes and I'll bet the whole amount; make you holder again, take them again, bet again, and so on. Then we suddenly leave and divide the pile. See?"

"Well, you are a genius, Johnny; we'll try it."

On the day of the great contest they were on the ground. The plan worked. Soon G., as stakeholder, had $5,000 in his possession. Then they thought it convenient to leave before the race come off. They went. During the race they were coming to New York at the rate of thirty miles an hour, planning to rusticate until the affair blew over. When they came out of the Hudson River Railroad depot the first news that they heard was that "Helmbold" had won! They were not astonished, perhaps—at least not more so than everybody else; They had fairly won their money! They were honest men, and need not run away. They didn't. Virtue is its own reward. Honesty is the best policy.

Joe Coburn Meets His Match.

[From the New York Sun.]

On Thursday night a Sun reporter dropped into a refreshment saloon in Sixty-fifth street and Second avenue, where he found Joe Coburn holding forth to an awe-struck audience. It seems that Mr. Coburn had intrigued on the order of Jones' Wood on that day and bet rather heavily on Fitzgerald as the winner of the "long race." Fitzgerald had about two years ago carried off the first prize at this race, but has on the last two occasions been distanced by others. This was too much for Joe, so he felt very irate at the whole race of Scots. A brawny and stalwart Scot, in full Highland costume stepped upon the scene. Him Joseph instantly seized as a most fit object on whom to vent his wrath towards the whole Scottish faction. He rudely seized Sawney by the arm, and told him that he could "lick and Scotsman on the ground." The Scotsman coolly told him there was a doubt on the subject, and ordered him to remove his hands.

"Do you know who I am?" Joe roared.

"No," bellowed the other, "nor do I care."

"I am Joe Coburn"—

Before Joe could finish the sentence he found himself face upward upon the floor. Once, twice, thrice Joe tried to recover ground, but in vain. Baffled in his great energy Joe thought it was high time to resort to some other weapons to decide the difficulty in his favor; but the cool and wiry Caledonian seemed instinctively to know Joe's intentions. Taking hold of Joe's groping dexter, he shook his head deprecatingly, and said:

"Na, na, mon; ye maunna do that. Pistols I canna mind a flea for!"

Saying which he gave Joe's hand a wrench and a squeeze. Joe started to his feet, and after a little dusting and preliminary explanation, offered to treat the whole party.

The Arizona Mines.

The Arizona Miner of September 16th says: The accounts from Bradshaw District report richer developments as the work of sinking on the Tiger lode progresses. We learn that during the week, several extra hands have been employed, and the work of opening up the lode is being pushed forward with vigor.

The Del Pasco mill in Pine Grove District, made a run of fours, on Monday last, and crushed 400 pounds of rock, which yielded $28 in gold. The absence of water necessary to continue the mill in operation is now the only drawback to the working of the Del Pasco on a large scale; but everything connected with the mill and mine is kept in readiness, so that work may be carried on in earnest and without intermission when water shall become abundant.

Six men are constantly at work on the La Plata three miles from Prescott and have now attained a depth of some ten feet below the surface. The rock taken out is of widely different character, among which are some remarkably rich specimens; at a greater depth, however, it will probably be found more generally of one character.

From the other districts come reports correspondingly good; and without entering into further particulars we can pronounce the mining prospects throughout, "bright and beautiful."

The Final Prospectors.

The Arizona Miner of September 16th says:

A report, said to be founded upon a letter received at Wickenburg, reached Prescott on Monday, to the effect that the prospectors under Governor Safford had reached the "diggings" spoken of by Mr. Miner, and there found very flattering prospects. Elsewhere in the same neighborhood it is stated that a detachment of the party washed out several ounces of gold in a few hours. We believe, however, that the story is somewhat exaggerated, as it has travelled too far to retain its original purity; but we give it to the public as it has been received by us.

Woo Don't Know

That to achieve the greatest desideratum in business "patronage" a person must be liberal in his outlay, by purchasing the best material, employing the best workmen, and seeing that his patrons are attentively and courteously waited on, and in a style compatible with the dignity of the establishment he pretends to manage. Such is the golden rule practiced at KAST's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, as is verified by the bon ton seen there daily who are likewise to be seen at the Opera and all distinguished resorts of the city. x

Throw Out Your Chest!

A man should stand up like a man, throw out his chest and throw his shoulders back, thus giving room for the free action of the lungs. The Champion and Pivot-action Braces sold by C. H. Burr, sole agent for the Pacific Coast, 818 Market street, will be found to afford efficient aid in accomplishing this. They are superior to all others, and cost no more.

"ACCEPT THE SITUATION."

If disappointment dogs your steps,
It's hard to help repining;
But small philosophy it shows
To go forever whining.
Having done all that man can do
To make or win occasion,
Come! just without too much concern,
"Accept the situation."

Whether from pleasure's jaunting car
You happen to be tilted,
Or whether by a handsome girl,
You happen to be jilted,
Don't dedicate your time and lungs
To useless objurgation,
But, picking up your limb. and—heart,
"Accept the situation."

If friends whom you, through thick and thin,
Have oftentimes befriended,
Should ink their sense of gratitude
When these good deeds are ended;
Remember there's no bitterness—
How sad the observation!
Like the rancor of once bosom friends,
"Accept the situation."

Suppose the motive for your act
Has been a brave and true one,
That's just the reason why some folks
Will coin a false and new one,
And shrug a dubious shrug, and drop
The sly insinuation—
But trusting Right and waiting Light,
"Accept the situation."

The world is full of ups and downs,
And many curious turnings,
And some big men are only clowns,
For all your weak heart-burnings;
The lowly, if it's true, is better
Than the loftiest pinchbeck station;
The True's the rock can stand a shock,
"Accept the situation."

Life's train is whirling past, old boy;
In what class do you journey?
First, second, third?—the speed's the same;
If third, first needn't spurn ye.
Ashes to ashes, dust to dust!
Behold the final station!
Not then we may, but then we must,
"Accept the situation."

The Immortal Squarza.

A Sad Family History.

The New Orleans Picayune tells the following: Shortly after the close of the war Mrs. Beach, living near Carrollton, went insane. The cause of her derangement was attributed to the loss of her husband in one of the numerous conflicts in Virginia. Notwithstanding the unsound condition of her mind, she went about her daily duties as usual, taking care of her children (she had two, a boy and a girl), and sewing for their support. It was only in conversation that her infirmity was apparent, and her utter aversion for society. Naturally weak and delicate in her organization, her overtaxed strength gave way under the arduous work she performed, and day by day her thin, pale face grew careworn, and her soft and silent footsteps drew nearer and nearer to the grave. But to all inquiries of friends about her health she would shake her head and say: "I'm well;" I can't die; who would care for my little ones?" The sad and lonely life of the woman excited compassion, but she would take no alms. She toiled early and late. But not a great while since she sent for a gentleman living a short distance from her, and when he arrived said to him, "I am going to die now; my children are provided for." In less than two days she was dead, and contemporaneous with the fact came the intelligence that by the death of an uncle her children had become heirs to a large fortune in Maryland.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—The very attractive drama of "Adrienne, or the Duel in the Mist," will be presented this afternoon and evening, and to-morrow evening for the last time. We can assure our readers who have not witnessed this play, that it affords a very pleasing evening's entertainment, and Mrs. F. M. Bates' Adrienne is a most excellent piece of acting.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—This house was thronged last night when the young California artists, Cogill and Cooper, took their benefit. The audience were delighted with the entertainment and encored everything again and again. At the matinee to-day and to-night, Vivian will appear in new selections from his repertoire; Billy Emerson will sing his Telegraph song, his Dutch version of "Ten Thousand Miles," and his new song "The Drum Major;" Charley Howard will appear in his unrivalled old darkey characteristicus, and sing "The Days When I Was Young;" Sheridan and Mack will present their best specialties, and their unapproachable double clog dance, and Callie Curtis, the phenomenon on skates, will appear in his wonderful acts.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—A large and fashionable audience assembled last night, when "Much Ado About Nothing" was played, and Mrs. D. P. Bowers took her benefit. The laughter and applause of the audience during this piece proved that there is no lack of appreciation of Shakespeare when Shakspeare's plays are well performed. Will it be believed? The audience laughed as heartily at the sharp sayings of Beatrice, personated by Mrs. Bowers, as they would at nonsense rhymes sung by a modern burlesque actress! It was refreshing. John McCullough made a capital Benedick; Henry Edwards was excellent as Don Pedro; James Carden played Claudio well; Miss Minnie Walton looked pretty and interesting as the wronged Hero; J. C. Williamson made a very amusing Dogberry, but he should have made himself a little older—watchmen were appointed for their age and respectability. Dogberry asks, "Dost thou not suspect my years?" Mr. Williamson takes so much pains to make up correctly for every part he assumes that it is worth while mentioning this. To-night "Macbeth," which proved such a great success on its first representation, will, by very general request be repeated with Mrs. Bowers as Lady Macbeth and John McCullough as the Thane. At the matinee, "East Lynne" will be played.

MAGUIRE'S OPERA HOUSE.—To-morrow evening a French dramatic performance will be given for the benefit of M. Adrien, who has deserved well of the public by the worthy manner in which he filled his part in many an opera during the Smeeohia and Lea Silly seasons. The programme is a very attractive one, consisting of the operetta of "Le Retour Impreu," with Mme. Nathalie as Penelope and M. Bonnet as Ulysses; a pas soul by Marie Gaugain, a recitation by M. Bonnet, the operetta entitled "La Saint-Yvon," and the comedietta of "C'est l'Amour, l'Amour," in which Mme. Reiter, Mme. Nathalie, M. Adrien, M. Bonnet, M. Channaron and M. Achille appear.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—To-night after a full first part and lively interlude, in which the Reynolds Brothers, Ethel and Edgar Stanley, Marie Gaugain, J. H. Larkin and many others will appear in James Dowling's new and original local sensation, entitled "Woman's Rights, or the Girls of the Period," will be presented for the first time, with the ever-charming Aline Le Favre as Mrs. Horace Brownjohn. In the course of the piece a thrilling melodramatic scene, a con bat, a burlesque dance, songs, choruses, and a furious can-can are introduced.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—"Ten Nights in a Bar-room" was produced here last night very successfully. Harry Courtaine personated Joe Morgan, the drunkard, and gave a vivid delineation of a man with the shakes on him. Little Maggie Knight was excellent as Mary, his daughter, and gave to the part a pathos and feeling quite remarkable in one so young. The characters of Mrs. Morgan by Lizzie Harmon, Slade, the barkeeper, by Johnny Kelly, and Baddy, a chronic drunk, were well sustained. The piece appeals to the sensibilities, inculcates a good moral, is well put on the stage and deserves a run.

THE OXFORD.—There is so much variety in the performance given at this place of amusement that it is no wonder it is crowded nightly. Miss Ida St. Clair on the running globes, Edwin Montague in acrobatic and gymnastic feats and a great company in first part and interlude precede the performance of the military drama of "The Spy; or, the Battle of Sedan," in which Miss Amelia Dean appears to great advantage as the Spy. "Jack Sheppard; or, Highway Life" will be produced on Monday.

ANOTHER OPERA SEASON.—Carl Formes, the famous basso, is coming here with his opera troupe, which consists of the following artists: Madame Lichtamai and M'lle Moemer, prima donnas; Herr Habelman and Herr Bornhart, tenors; William Formes, baritone; and the world renowned Carl Formes, in the basso roles. The troupe are expected here about the end of the next month. They will appear in a few concerts first, and give a season of opera afterwards, consisting of the operas of the "Huguenots," "Figaro's Marriage," "Robert il Diavolo," "Don Juan," "Magic Flute," "Martha" and "Merry Wives of Windsor."

"AMY ROBSART."—On Monday, Andrew J. Haliday's romantic drama founded on Scott's novel of "Kenilworth" will be produced in magnificent style at the California Theatre. New scenery has been painted, new dresses have been made, and every attention will be paid to historical accuracy. This play had an uninterrupted run of one year when produced at Drury Lane Theatre, London. It was presented for the first time in America on the 28th ult., at the Walnut-street Theatre, Philadelphia, with Mrs. Charles Walcot in the title role. At the California Theatre Mrs. D. P. Bowers will play the heroine, and will receive efficient support from John McCullough, Henry Edwards and the rest of the company.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—The lovely moonlight nights we are enjoying at present were made for a drive to the Cliff House. Capt. Foster, the genial host, is never caught napping. A moonlight drive and a supper at the Cliff House is the acme of enjoyment.

"SCHNEIDER, OR DOT HOUSE VON DER RHINE."—On Monday, Johnny Allen will make his first appearance in Ca ifornia, at the Metropolitan Theatre as Schnieder in the sensational drama of the same name, written expressly for him by James McCloskey. This piece had a most successful run in New York, and we hear great things of Mr. Allen's talent, as a character actor, dancer and vocalist. New scenery has been painted for the play, and it has had thorough rehearsal. Miss Alice Harrison who is spoken of as a pretty and pleasing actress, will appear in the character of Loweezie, and the other parts will appropriately distributed among the members of the Metropolitan company.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS AND MUSEUM.—The beautiful flower, Espirtu Santa, is now in bloom and attracts much attention. It is as curious as the Fiji Cannibals and ever so much prettier. This is only one out of thousands of objects of interest to be seen here. There will be skating this afternoon and to-morrow, both Professor Lovett and Miss Carrie Moore will give exhibitions.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Parepa-Rosa's season commenced on the 25th, at the Academy of Music.

Possibly Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mathews will appear at Wallack's Theatre.

Otto Burbank is back again at the Alhambra, Philadelphia, which is now doing a good business.

Charles Mathews appeared at the Chestnut-street Theatre, Philadelphia, on the 10th, in "Married for Money" and "Cool as a Cucumber."....At the Walnut, "Amy Robsart" had a run of three weeks, ending on the 16th; it will probably be revived some time during the season. Brougham's play of "Minnie's Luck" succeeded "Amy Robsart."....The Academy of Music is in the hands of the carpenters and decorators.

The Union Square Theatre was opened on the 11th to a crowded house. The entertainment commenced with a burlesque entitled "Ulysses, or the Return of S. G.," with Felix Rogers as Ulysses and Misses Lizzie Wilmore, E. Grattan and Belle Howitt in the other characters. M'lle Bonfanti and a fine ballet troupe appear in the closing scene. Miss Annie Adams, a serio-comic vocalist, next appeared and made a success. After this Hughey made a stump speech, Fred Foster sang comic songs, and then came the Mathews Family, eight in number, from London. Their entertainment consisted of songs, dances and acrobatic feats. J. F. Wambold played a banjo solo, and was succeeded by Ashcroft and Morton in song and dance. M'lle Geraldine and George Leopold performed on the high trapeze, and the entertainment concluded with the pantomime of "Pat-a-cake Baker's Man, or the Adventures of Paul and Virginia," by the old California favorites, the Martinettis; Paul Julien, Alfred and M'lle Desire all appeared, and the pantomime was a success. Robert W. Butler, the manager, has made a good beginning, and has bright prospects ahead.

The New York reporter of the Boston Sporting Times and Theatrical News, writing under date of the 18th, says:

Bandmann's engagement at the Grand Opera House has been a complete failure. Originally engaged for eight weeks, he has been bought off by the management, that another Teutonic actor may take the boards to-night in the person of Gus Phillippe, known as Oofty Gooft, who will appear in a drama of the same name by Edwin F. DeNyse, of the Brooklyn Eagle. Mme. Ponosi, Ione Burke and J. B. Studley have been especially engaged, and new scenery has been prepared. As Mr. Phillippe is a member of no less than thirty-three clubs and political organizations in this city, including the diamond-badged "Americus," the theatre will be crowded every night of his engagement, which is limited to a single week. Artists and carpenters are busily engaged in preparing Falconer's latest Irish drama, in which W. J. Florence is expected to appear.

The San Faancisco Minstrels have been doing only a moderate business. Bobby Newcombe has produced a new song and dance written by himself entitled "Pretty Little Minnie," and the performance concludes with another of his productions—an extravaganza called "Two B'hoys: or, Men of the Period."

At the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, the comedy entitled "Divorce" has continued the attraction of the past week, as it will be likely to for some weeks to come.

The engagement of the Lydia Thompson Troupe at Wallack's Theatre, N. Y., terminated on the 23d, and the theatre remained closed until the 27th, when the regular fall and winter season commenced.

At Niblo's Garden, 'Carl the Blind Fiddler" written for J. K. Emmett by Charles Gaylor, was produced on the 18th. The World says of it:

Mr Charles Gayler has contributed a three-act drama to the stage with the title of "Carl the Fiddler," which in order to distinguish it from the preceding works of the same dramatist we are compelled to call new. It is however, not a new play, but an old mistake. Its motive is weak and old; its scenes are trivial, commonplace, and old; its characters are flimsy, fussy, and old; its sentiment is gruelish and old, and it is illustrated by old scenery and enlivened by old music. Further than this Mr. Gayler, woo has copyrighted Mr. Emmet, has given him a lachrymose and dreary sentimental role. Whereas Mr. Emmet is a modest comedian of the romantic school of champion clog dancers. He flies heavy in the empyrean of Mr. Gayler's serious poesy, and unlike those "footless birds of Paradise" mentioned by Southey he prefers to waddle on the dry land of prose. The plot of "Carl the Fiddler" is this: A young Dutchman loses his infant sister Hilda, and after long wanderings as a troubadour finds her surrounded with wealth and reclaims her. The situations are equally novel; and occur when he loses and when he finds her. It is a reminiscence of the strawberry mark business freshened with a guitar and Mr. Emmet who does not appear to his full in it, managed, however, to eclipse his dramatist by a few artful touches in the first and last act. He is a graceful, handsome young actor, and his no ne with the child in the first act is a pretty picture, albeit there is no acting in it. The play has brought together a number of the most inexcusably bad actresses or amateurs at Niblo's Garden that we ever saw congregated. Where all the support is so uniformly wretched it would be invidious, as the reviewers say, to particularize.

At the Olympic, "Humpty Dumpty," having much intrinsic merit as a pantomime, and much admirable acting, wears well. Little Jennie Yeamans is a great pet with the audience.

Tony Pastor's Opera-house reopened, as may be supposed, to a crowded house on the 11th

At the Boston Theatre, "Alfie" ran two weeks. On Monday, the 25th, the Lydia Thompson troupe commenced an engagement. At the Globe Mr. Owens is playing Caleb Plummer in "Dot." The Howard Athenæum is giving a fine entertainment and doing a rushing business. Among the attractions are Blandowski's Fe[illegible] Drum Corps, Harrigan and Hart, in new songs, Gus Williams in Dutch specialties, and the burlesque of "Blue Beard," Villa & Miner's burlesque troupe are at St. James' Theatre. Parepa Rosa gave concerts at Music Hall on the evenings of the 19th and 21st, and the afternoon of the following Saturday. Billy Sheppard, the Ethiopian comedian, has been sick, and is to have a benefit at the Boston Theatre, when one of the variety entertainments for which this theatre has become famous, will be given. Since Johnny Thompson, the Lively Fraud, performed there, the Boston Theatre has been going down, and we shall not be surprised to see a dog-fight advertised to come off there soon.

At Booth's Theatre, Lotta closed an unprofitable engagement, and Miss Charlotte Cushman the tragedienne, supported by Wm. Creswick, made her appearance in the role of Queen Catharine in "Henry VIII," on the 25th. This is her first appearance in ten years in New York.

The Parepa-Rosa English opera season will commence at the Academy of Music on the 3d prox. Mr. Tom Karl, the English tenor, will make his debut. The opening opera will be "The Daughter of the Regiment."

At Wood's Museum, Miss Lucille Western, supported by James A. Herne, is playing "Leah, the Forsaken."

Dan Bryant's Minstrels are not doing much.

Kelly & Leon's are doing a fair business at Lina Edwin's Theatre. S. S. Purdy made his first appearance since his return from California, on the 13th.

The Clipper says:

The "Vienna Lady Orchestra" is the title applied to a company of musicians, some twenty in number, who commences a series of performances at Steinway Hall on Monday evening, Sept. 11th. All of the performers of this organization are young ladies, said to be still in their teens, who have a comely appearance, some of them even possessing beauty. They have evidently received a good musical education, and possess considerable skill in performing upon their various instruments; still their performances were not satisfactory, neither can the organization be termed an orchestra, lacking as it did the following instruments: clarionet, cornet, trombone and French horns. The performance of standard overtures, with all the brass instruments omitted, had about as cheerful an effect upon the audience as would the performance of the tragedy of "Hamlet" with the chief character left out. They were assisted by Miss Anna Eisy, said to be only twelve years old, announced as a soprano, but whose voice is evidently a contralto. She is not without merit, but the selections on the first night were in bad taste, and since then she does not appear to have achieved the success that was anticipated.

So it seems that there is no "brass" in the orchestra though much in the preliminary announcements, and the "blowing" was nearly all done before the ladies made their first appearance.

Interesting to the Ladies.

There will be great excitement among the fair sex on Monday, for on that day J. W. Davidson & Co., of the White House, intend to open their new cloaks and other goods from Paris, among which are, they informs us, dresses sent direct by Worth the famous man milliner.

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium.

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has no longer any connection with the old store on Bush street, but has resumed business on his own account at at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush street, where ladies and gentlemen can rely upon getting perfect-fitting boots and shoes, as all his former Cutters and workmen of the Ladies and Gent's Departments, have removed with him to the new store. Also the largest stock of ladies and gentlemen's first-class Boots and Shoes in the city. P. KELLY, PRIZE BOOTMAKER, 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush.

Best Quality of Dogskin

Driving gloves, at $2 per pair, at the What Cheer Laundry.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

First Premium

At the late Mechanics' Fair for military suits and boys' clothing, awarded to S. Pigel, No. 3 Montgomery street, manufacturer of all kinds of men and boy's clothing at the lowest rate.

The Carpet and Furniture

Emporium of JOHN C. BELL is on Market street, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel. Mistakes are made every day.

New York Dry Goods Store.

813 Stockton street, between Clay and Sacramento, receives new goods daily from New York auctions very cheap. Remember the number.

The Newest Publications.

All readers like to receive their books, magazines and newspapers as soon as possible after publication. Loomis, at the southeast corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the post-office, is agent for all the chief American and English magazines and newspapers and delivers them to subscribers immediately on the arrival of the mail.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles, finest quality, and at the lowest prices.

Precisely

For the same reason that the ladies have determined to calceate for the Fair, the opposite sex, to be in juxtaposition, have determined to purchase their Patent Leather Oxford Ties and Dancing Pumps at Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre.

Since the Great Reduction

In prices at Guerin & Son's Prize Boot and Shoe Store, their store has been crowded with customers. Call and see them. 327 and 329 Bush street.

Throw Out Your Chest!

A man should stand up like a man, throw out his chest and throw his shoulders back, thus giving room for the free action of the lungs. The Champion and Pivot-action Braces sold by C. H. Burr, sole agent for the Pacific Coast, 818 Market street, will be found to afford efficient aid in accomplishing this. They are superior to all others, and cost no more.

The Silver Medal

For the best California Plated Wares was awarded to HAYNES & LAWTON by the Mechanics Fair of 1871.

Grand Dressmaking Emporium.

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER

THE GREAT SPECIALIST,

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY INFORM those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in one of the most celebrated Hospitals in England, The Lock. He has now re-opened his old Medical Institute, at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was so successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention or explain on paper.

I am aware that some of the empirics of San Francisco make a practice of stating what they cure; but to most persons my name will be quite SUFFICIENT to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

LETTER FROM PETALUMA.

PETALUMA September 29th, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO.—This the Fair week, has been an unusually busy one for Petalumian's, every Hotel and place where accommodations could be had is crowded to excess; "the Fair" notwithstanding the unfruitfulness of the season past, will compare favorably in exhibits, and attendance with those of other years. Manager R. H. Cox's San Francisco Dramatic Company have been playing to good houses at the Petaluma Theatre, the company is an unusually good one for a traveling troupe, and during the week the recepient of much praise from both the Press and public. It consists of Miss Maggie Moore, Mr. Pierpont Thayer, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sinclair, Mr. George Marsh, Willlie Simms, Frank Cleaves, Miss Viola A. Pomeroy, a lady of remarkable lingual and vocal attainments and possessed, perhaps of one of the finest operatic wardrobe of any lady on the Pacific Coast, and Miss Nellie Cummings. The season began on Monday Sept. 23d, with "Fanchon the Cricket," the cast as follows: Fanchon Miss Maggie Moore, Landry Pierpont Thayer, Didier Willie Simms, Father Barbeaud Harry Sinclair, Mother Fadet Mrs. Harry Sinclair, Madelon Miss Nellie Cummings. The lightning changes of Miss A. Pomeroy and a vocal and terpsichorean divertisement by Miss Maggie and Jimmie Moore emli vened the interlude. The whole concluded with the farce of "Nilsson Abroad." Miss Pomeroy sustaining in an able manner the title role. The plays presented during the week, were "Flowers of the Forest," "Daughter of the Regiment," "Cinderella," and "Green Bushes." which in every instance were ably placed on the stage under the supervision of Mr. Pierpont Thayer. Miss Maggie Moore in her portrayal of Fanchon will compare favorably with many of the delineators of the Cricket, her acting throughout the week was equally good, and occasioned many flattering encomiums. Miss Nellie Cummings and Mrs. Harry Sinclair acquittted themselves admirably on Tuesday evening last, the former in the role of Starlight Bess, the latter in that of Lemuel. Of the gentlemen comprising the troupe, Mr. Sinclair, Mr. Thayer, Mr. George Marsh, Willie Simms and Frank Cleaves would be most acceptable addition to any company. On Saturday a grand half-price matinee will be given and in the evening "Uncle Tom's Cabin" with a powerful cast, will be produced, terminating the present season.

Carrie Moore, the champion skatist, fizzled out—not her exactly, but the management—for really the performance of Miss Carrie is well worthy of patronage. The Madagascar Combination, Batcheldor's Panorama of "Across the Continent," together with other attractions, compose the programme for the sight-seers for the Fair season.

As a general thing the places of exhibition have been well patronized and will have no cause to complain. In haste yours. W. R. F.

Walter Montgomery.

We have refrained from giving space to the mere gossip and speculation which this actor's untimely death has given rise to and have preferred waiting until we could present the readers of FIGARO with reliable information contributed to the London journals by those who knew him: The real name of the lamented actor was Richard Thomlinson. He was the tenth son of Mr. William and Mrs. Charlotte Thomlinson, descendents of an old Norfolk family, and was born August 25th, 1827, at Gowanus, Long Island. U. S. Going to London at a very early age he was eventually employed at the shawl manufactory of Messrs. Warwick, of Cheapside, and in that firm rose to a position of some importance. His love for the drama, however, induced him to venture upon the stage, and stimulated by the approbation and encouragement of Mr. John Lee (formerly private secretary to Edmund Kean), Mr. Montgomery—to call him by the name which is most familiar to the public—essayed Othello at the Royalty (then called the Soho Theatre). He then belonged to an amateur dramatic club, called the Western Society, of which Mrs. Howard Paul, Henry Edwards (now at the California Theatre), and J. Crauford Wilson, were members. His success led to an introduction to Mr. Chute, of the Bath Theatre, where Mr. Montgomery became a regular member of the company, the name by which he has become known being his mother's maiden name. Performing with considerable success at many provincial theatres—chief of which may be named those of Bristol, Bath, Norwich, Yarmouth, and Birmingham—Mr. Montgomery also opened a new theatre at Nottingham, where he became a great favorite. At Manchester, also, his chief representations were exceedingly well received, and his lamented end will cause sincere regret. After a provincial career of the most promising character, Mr. Montgomery went to London, and performed Othello at the Princess' Theatre, also Romeo to the Juliet of M'lle Stella Colas. He also appeared at the Drury Lane and Haymarket.

His lengthened tour in Australia was most successful, and greatly increased his reputation, while the late performances at the Gaiety Theatre, of which he was for a period manager, will be fresh in the recollection of our readers. His marriage with Miss Laleah Burpee Bigelow, which took place on the Wednesday preceding his untimely end, was only made public with the announcement of his death, the sad particulars of which have been already narrated,

The London Era of September 10th throws discredit on the statement that Mr. Montgomery was unhappy in his marriage:

Some romantic incidents were connected with his marriage which rather increase than diminish our belief that the marriage was one of affection on both sides. Miss Bigelow, having met with Mr. Montgomery when performing in Boston (on his return from Australia) became devotedly attached to him, but her parents refused to sanction their union, having a more wealthy alliance in prospect. But when Mr. Montgomery came to England the lady soon followed him with an intention of proceeding to Italy to cultivate a very beautiful voice which she possessed, but both of them meeting, the "old love" was as warm as ever, and she became his wife on Wednesday, August 30th, only two days prior to his lamentable death. It was Mrs. Montgomery who made two appearances at the Gaiety Theatre as Pauline in "The Lady of Lyons." It was her intention to have repeated this to her husband's Claude Melnotte at Rochdale on Monday last, and arrangements were made for them to sail for America on the 7th.

The same paper, after enumerating the names of those shining lights of the drama who followed Walter Montgomery's remains, thus describes the scene at the grave:

Painful as the proceedings had been hitherto, the scene at the grave became absolutely heartrending. We have never heard the solemn ritual for the dead given more impressively, and the deep silence, broken only by occasional sobs, with which the assembled crowd listened to it, added to the awful grandeur of the suggestive words. Towards the close of the service Mrs. Montgomery, with expressions of intense anguish, fell upon her knees at the edge of the grave, and dropped despairingly upon the coffin the wreath of orange blossoms which, not a week before, had been the symbol of her happy bridal. Then the unhappy lady could restrain herself no longer, and made frantic appeals to her friends to be allowed to remain still longer beside the grave, it was with considerable difficulty she could be persuaded to leave it, and when she did at length do so, her distress was pitiable to witness. It was a scene that could never be forgotten by those who witnessed it, and the tears and sympathetic expressions that were heard on every side will, we sincerely hope, when time has subdued the memory of this great sorrow, be some consolation to the bereaved lady.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

Mr. Montgomery's Hamlet.

Of all the performances of Shakespeare's masterpiece which have been offered to a California audience, perhaps none have caused more comment or been more thoroughly appreciated than the Hamlet of Walter Montgomery. At the present time, when his many friends and admirers in the city, are mourning his untimely taking off, a criticism of his masterly performance, so just and yet so courteously given as the one we clip from the Pall Mall Budget we trust may not prove uninteresting. The Budget says:

Mr. Montgomery, of course, appears as Hamlet, and is in many respects well qualified to present a theatrical rendering of the character. He is a practised actor, of sufficiently picturesque presence, skilful in elocution, and well studied in the text. His performance is marked by extreme carefulness and an evident anxiety to overlook no detail that may contribute to the general completeness of his portraiture. But his acting is unequal. In the earliest scenes, owing possibly to nervousness or to the fatigues attending upon his duties as director, he was singularly ineffective.

He is fond of investing his speeches with a colloquial air, but his voice though powerful and musical, is produced with some effort, and seems to lack pliability and the necessary alertness of tone for the satisfactory delivery of dialogue. In the studied declamation of the part he is far more successful, and he is able to abandon himself very thoroughly to the passion of the more prominent situations. His performance suffers, however, from his aptness at contriving and elaborating new "business," as it is called. The great scene with Ophelia—which contained much to commend on the score of its force and genuine pathos—was greatly injured in effect by his frequent withdrawals to peep behind the arras and make sure that he was watched by the King and Polonius. There is, of course nothing in the text to justify this innovation. In the same way the pains taken to inform the audience that Hamlet's insanity is but simulated are not defensible. Mr. Montgomery will find his acting tell more surely upon the spectators of this impertinences are suppressed, and if he corrects his inclination to pause unduly and to prepare too laboriously his points. Many of these seemed to miss fire, so to speak, from the time occupied in taking aim. The passage beginning, "I have heard that guilty creatures sitting at a play," etc., should not be delivered with the surprised air of sudden discovery, for in the previous scene with the players Hamlet has already arranged for the performance of "the murder of Gonzago," and the insertion of an additional speech expressly to test the guilt of Claudius. As a matter of costume, it may be noted that Mr. Montgomery follows John Kemble's example, and wears the Danish order of the Elephant, although it has been shown that this order was not instituted until the fifteenth century, and could not therefore have been assumed by Hamlet, who is supposed to have existed some time before the Norman Conquest, at a period when Denmark was connected with England. Mr. Montgomery's exertions won great applause from the audience, and must be accounted altogether of a creditable kind, the great difficulties of the task being duly considered. More of princeliness and a finer element of philosophy would certainly enhance the representations: but there are poetic creations that can only be embodied and realized; and between the Hamlet of the student and the Hamlet of the stage a certain discrepancy must always exist. The actor's impersonation was vigorous and by no means unintelligent, and appeared thoroughly to satisfy the expectation of his patrons.

Hearty Suppers.

It requires about five hours for the stomach to work on an ordinary meal and pass it out of itself, when it falls into a state of repose. Hence, if a man eats three times a day his stomach must work fifteen hours out of the twenty four. But the multitude of mechanics who are wildly clamorous for only eight hours a day, do not hesitate to impose on their stomachs fifteen hours a day work, nearly double.

After a night's rest we wake up with a certain amount of bodily vigor, which is faithfully portioned out to every set of muscles, each its rightful share, the stomach among others. When the external body gets weary after a long day's work the stomach bears its share of the fatigue; but if, when the body is weary with the day's toil, we put it to bed, giving the stomach meanwhile a five hours' task, which must be performed, we impose upon the very best friend we have, the one that gives us the largest amount of earthly enjoyments; and if this overtaxing continues it must as certainly wear out prematurely as the body itself will if it is overworked every day.

And if persons eat between meals, then the stomach has no rest from breakfast in the morning, until one, two, three, or four o'clock the next day; hence it is that so many persons have dyspepsia; the stomach is worked so much and so constantly, that it becomes too weak to work at all. It is to be hoped that every intelligent parent will press these things on the attention of children as a matter of conscience, because dyspepsia like consumption, has its foundations laid in a large majority of cases during the teens of life.

Gambling in Europe.

Hamburg, Baden-Baden, Weisbaden and other places in Europe, famous for their gambling tables, are all to lose their chief attraction after this year, and Monaco will be the only place on the continent where gambling will be allowed. Of course, gambling will go on in spite of this prohibition, and the "tiger" will be more ravenous when he is chained up out of sight than he is now when any attempt at unfair play would be instantly discovered. Gambling is prohibited in San Francisco, but the beast lurks in many jungles on prominent streets. People will gamble in spite of the law. The God-fearing Emperor William, and the machievellian Bismarck, are said to be inveterate gamblers. The sprightly London correspondent of the Baltimore Sunday Bulletin, "Millicent Gray," says the story goes that this worthy pair whenever they meet gamble for awful amounts of cash, and that even on arriving at Gastion, where Bismarck paid his first visit to the Emperor, and the coffee and petit outres were brought in, a heavy bet was laid as to whose bits of sugar should first attract a fly out of the myriads that buzzed around the room."

Who Don't Know

That to achieve the greatest desideratum in business "patronage" a person must be liberal in his outlay, by purchasing the best material, employing the best workmen, and seeing that his patrons are attentively and courteously waited on, and in a style compatible with the dignity of the establishment he pretends to manage. Such is the golden rule practiced at Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, as is verified by the bon ton seen there daily who are likewise to be seen at the Opera and all distinguished resorts of the city. x

New Furnishing Goods,

Cheap, at the What Cheer Laundry.

It is Not

Because you wear cheap boots and shoes that you become crippled—it is because they do not fit properly; neither does a bad-fitting boot or shoe last so long by half the time as one made by a first-class cutter, such as is found at Kast's fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre. •

The Coming Opera Season in New York.

The New York Herald says of the coming season of Italian Opera at the Academy of Music:

For the first time in many years the obstacles in the path of Italian opera in this city have been removed, and both the directors of the Academy and the entire musical public are prepared to give it a fair trial. On the management and the company engaged to support M'lle Nilsson depends a great deal. The company has some strong features in an artistic point of view and also some that admit of discussion. The contralto, Miss Cary, is a thorough artist in every sense of the word, and the tenor, Capoul, comes from Europe with such flattering testimonials that we may safely concede a success to him in advance. The baritone and bass, Barre and Jamait, are entirely unknown to the American public, and they must depend solely on their artistic attainments to prove their right to occupy such important position in an Italian opera company. The prima donna engaged to support M'lle Nilsson in such roles as Philine in "Mignon," and the Queen in "Hamlet," is a M'lle Leon Duval, who possesses one of the very lightest of French soprano voices. It would be well for the management, if it becomes necessary, to effect some arrangement with a prima donna of recognized ability to sing in such parts as those above mentioned. Brignoli, of the silver voice, has been retained for the season.

The most encouraging promises are made concerning the chorus and orchestra, which has hitherto been a disgrace to art. The manager announces that a strong detatchment in both departments has been secured from Covent Garden and Her Majesty's. If so, and despite the elasticity of managerial statements, we will give this announcement credence the prospects of a brilliant season are encouraging. We may remark here that the chorus and orchestra of the Parepa-Rosa troupe have also been largely reinforced by London artists.

It is too late before the opening of either season of opera at the Academy to offer a few words of advice to the management. By dealing fairly and liberally with the public and striving honestly to present an ensemble perfect in every detail, the management will receive such patronage as will astonish the oldest habitues of the opera house and opera will have a chance at last of becoming a permanent institution in the metropolis. Then the resident vocal and instumental talent can always be made available for opera. Madame Parepe-Rosa opens at the Academy of Music, on October 2d, for a season of 9 subscription nights, six extra nights and three matinees. A few performances will be, probably, given in Italian and German with the tenor Wachtel, who is now performing at the Stadt Theatre.

M'lle Nilsson commences a season of twenty nights at the Academy on October 23d. With two such formidable opera troupes and Dolby's singers from London, the Vienna lady orchestra and Mrs. Moulton in concert, no one can complain of not having an abundance of musical attractions.

Judge Sawyer's Sermon.

Judge Sawyer preached a little sermon to the members of the colored churches on Wednesday, from which we make the following extract:

You are all members of the Church—and therefore Christians. Do you think that you can maintain the principles of your religion by engaging in street brawls. Respectable white people have tried these without success.

That settles the matter. Respectable white people have tried to maintain the principles of their religion by engaging in street brawls and have failed, so it's no more use for the colored people to try that plan than it is for the members of the Board of Education to attempt to advance the cause of popular education by bullying and blackguarding one another at their weekly meetings.

Perfectly Correct.

The Baltimore Sunday Bulletin, an exchange which we always open with the expectation of finding something good in it, and are seldom disappointed, it has the following in the last issue that has come to hand:

The two brightest and liveliest programmes in the world are the San Francisco FIGARO and the New York Prompter.

That's Enough.

The St. Joseph Gazette describing an accident and its effect, says:

Not a sob escaped the mother, only a trembling body a quivering lip, and a flood of tears streaming down her sorrowful face.

If a trembling body and quivering lip escaped, what was left for the mother?

No Mercy.

Rochefort has petitioned for a commutation of his sentance of banishment to a penal settlement for life. We hope he won't get it. If he is allowed to go where he likes, he may come here, and revive the Mazeppa or the Varieties.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone. •

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night one of the most popular character actors of the day will make his first appearance in San Francisco. There is no fear but that the public which flocked to see Emmet in "Fritz" and crowded the Metropolitan when Joe Murphy played "Help." will rush to see Johnny Allen in "Schneider." From what we have read of this actor in the Eastern papers, we are prepared to see him create a greater sensat on than either of his predecessors in a similar line of business. "Schneider, dot House von der Rhine," will be produced to-night with new scenery and effects and with a strong cast. Mr. Allen has brought with him to perform Lowesie, Miss Alice Harrison, whom report speaks of as an attractive, versatile and talented young actress. A number of songs, dances and duets will be performed by Johnny Allen and Miss Alice Harrison in the course of the piece, and the former will give imitations of celebrated opera singers and ballet dancers. There is said to be abundance of sensation in this piece, and the attention of the audience is never allowed to flag. With such attractions, the Metropolitan Theatre should be crowded from pit to dome to-night.

California Theatre.

"Macbeth" was played in capital style on Saturday night. This evening Andrew J. Halliday's romantic drama entitled "Amy Robsart" will be produced, with new scenery by Porter, gorgeous insignia banners and decorations by Mr. Gossman, and mechanical effects by Messrs. Torrence and Stackhouse. Mrs. D. P. Bowers will appear in the character of Amy Robsart, and the other members of the company are cast as follows: John McCullough as Robert, Earl of Essex; Mrs. Sophie Edwin as Queen Elizabeth, Miss Johnson as the Duchess of Rutland, Miss J. Thompson as Lady Paget, Mrs. Buckley as Janet Foster, E. Leathes as Earl of Sussex, E. I. Buckley as Sir Walter Raleigh, James Carden as Richard Varney, Owen Marlowe as Tressilian, H. Edwards as Michael Lambourne, J. C. Williamson as Wayland Smith, Miss Walton as Flibbertibibbet, W. A. Mestayer as Giles Gosling, E. N. Thayer as Tony Foster, and A. H. Stewart as Lord Shrewsbury.

Alhambra Theatre.

This pretty little theatre is night'y thronged by the beauty and fashion of San Francisco. For variety and excellence, the entertainment given can scarcely be equalled. A great bill has been prepared for this week, Billy Emerson will give his Telegraph song, which has proved an immense hit, his last sensation the Drum Major, and appear in the screaming farce of "Turn Him Out;" Vivian will sing new character songs, including his latest original composition, "I'm Colonel Fitz Smythe of the Governor's Staff," which fairly brought down the house on Saturday night; Charley Howard, the most wonderful old nig ever seen on any stage, will appear in his original Southern scene of "Old Uncle Jeff at Home; the unrivalled Sheridan and Mack will perform their great barn-door jig and present some of the best character acting ever witnessed, and in addition to these attractions, the management announce the first appearance of La Fostelle as "The Maid of the Mist."

Theatre Comique.

A really excellent entertainment is given at this place of amusement. W. Walters who made his first appearance last night, is an accomplished performer on the cornet, and gained great applause for his execution of De Berriot's 7, which was arranged expressly for Levy, and is a most difficult composition. Miss Maggie Knight appeared in songs and dances, and a variety of entertainments were given. The great feature of the present bill, is the play of "Ten Nights in a Barroom," in which Harry Courtaine does some very good acting as Joe Morgan the Drunkard; little Maggie Knight plays the part of Mary with admirable feeling and expression; Lizzie Harmon performs the character of Mrs. Morgan in a quiet and effective manner; and Johnny Tuers as Dennis O'Grady and the other members of the company in appropriate characters, perform their parts well. The house is so crowded at 11 o'clock, that those who wish to obtain seats, must go early.

Bella Union.

A splendid bill was presented on Saturday night and last night. After a fine first part and varied interlude, in which the fascinating M'lle Gaugain danced "La Manola;" the new local piece entitled "Woman's Rights" written by James Dowling, was produced. It is brim full of fun, and made a prodigious hit. Alice Le Farve was here, there and everywhere as the darling Mrs. Brownjohn; Johnny Manning won immense applause, both by his admirable make up, and clever acting in the character of John James Simson; Mat Kelly, who made his re-appearance at this theatre after an absence of five weeks, was good as Horace Brownjohn; Minnie Fillmore acted the part of Hon. Agustis Fitzfoodle splendidly "by jove;" Ethel Stanley played Mrs. F. McLaughlin in a manner which proved her to be as good an actress as she is a vocalist; Minnie Corbyn was very amusing as Mrs. J. J. Simpson, and Marie Zoel who is a clever little actress, who always does her best, played Mrs. Fitzfoodle very pleasingly; Geo. Reynolde was immense as Sam Johnson, and drew shouts of laughter and applause by his song and dance. J. H. Larkin did a wonderfully natural bit of character acting as Mr. Jenkins, completely mistifying the audience. Altogether the play was a decided success. It will be played again to-night.

Oxford Theatre.

Another novelty will be presented at this go-ahead institution this evening. "Jack Sheppard, or Highway Life," will be produced with Amelia Dean as Jack, Charles Vincent as Blueskin, Harry Morton as Sir Rowland, J. Cotton as Darrell and Parks as Wild. The play will be preceded by a capital entertainment by the female minstrels, and Edward Montague and Ida St. Clair on the trapeze and running globes.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Maguire's Opera House.

Our French citizens don't give much encouragement to those who provide for their amusement. A very good programme was presented last night on the occasion of M. Adrien's benefit, but the audience was not large. M'lle Gaugain was rapturously applauded and smothered in boquets at the termination of her dance, a repetition of which was called for, but not given. M'lle Gaugain having to go at once to the Bella Union to fulfill her regular engagement.

LETTER FROM SACRAMENTO.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 29, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—The State Fair of 1871 having become one of the things of the past, Sacramento has resumed its orderly and peaceful condition. "The sounds of revelry by night"—which emanated principally from innumerable gambling and drinking saloons improvised for the occasion—are no longer heard. "The Greatest Living Wonders," "The Cannibals," and other small sideshows have departed, and our citizens now enjoy a season of rest and quiet.

Proctor's dramatic company at the Metropolitan Theatre have been doing a good business. The house was crowded from pit to dome on Friday and Saturday nights. On Friday night a new burlesque by W. C. Crosbie (the talented comedian of the company) on "Ernani" was produced. It is a praiseworthy production, abounding in good puns jokes, songs and dances, all of which were rendered in a highly commendable manner by the several members of the company. Crosbie as Iago made an immense hit, and the introduction of Vivian's famous "Ten Thousand Miles Away" was received with great applause. Miss Jennie Mandeville made quite a success as Ernani; Miss Isabel Smythe proved herself proficient and versatile in the character of Elvira, while Coggswell and De Silva did exceedingly well. The burlesque was repeated Saturday night, together with the musical drama of 'Guy Mannering."

Monday night "After Dark" was presented, and was repeated on Tuesday. Walter Leman as old Tom played with great energy and effect; Waldron as Chumley was very good; Coggswell, Crosbie, Miss Smythe ann W. A. Anderson sustained their characters commendably.

Wednesday night the beautiful Irish drama of "Kathleen Mavourneen" was performed, and Miss Isabel Smythe achieved a marked success by her fine impersonation of the heroine, imparting force and pathos quite unexpected, and with such effect that many of the audience in the fourth act were moved to tears. Her brogue was good, and in no instance was it overdone. Waldron as Kavanagh and Crosbie as Terence were very successful. The same piece, together with "Turn Him Out," constituted the entertainment on Thursday night.

To-night (Friday) the performance will consist of the comedy of "Sweethearts and Wives" and the burlesque of "Ernani."

Mrs. F. M. Bates has been engaged by Manager Proctor for a season of six nights, and will make her first appearance in this city on Monday, the 2d prox., in the dual character of Lady Isabel and Mme. Vine, in "East Lynne."

Woodward's Gardens.

Carrie Moore, the graceful skatist, closed her exhibition yesterday at the Gardens with a remarkable pirouette of many evolutions, after which the fair Carrie made a graceful courtesy of wonderful dip, and retired amid much applause. The attendance was good.

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has withdrawn from the firm of Guerin & Kelly, and has resumed business on his own account at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush. All ladies visiting the Mechanics' Fair should not fail to inspect the splendid display of Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes made by P. KELLY, Prize Bootmaker, corner of Bush and Kearny streets.

Interesting to the Ladies.

There will be great excitement among the fair sex on Monday, for on that day J. W. Davidson & Co., of the White House, intend to open their new cloaks and other goods from Paris, among which are, they informs us, dresses sent direct by Worth the famous man milliner.

Silver Medal.

First premium Silver Medal, awarded to Will & Finck, Cutlers, Locksmiths and Bell Hangers, 621 Kearny and 140 Montgomery street, for the best California Cutlery. For the very best pocket knives, call and see us.

Since the Great Reduction

In prices at Guerin & Son's Prize Boot and Shoe Store, their store has been crowded with customers. Call and see them. 327 and 329 Bush street.

The Silver Medal

For the best California Plated Wares was awarded to HAYNES & LAWTON by the Mechanics Fair of 1871.

Grand Dressmaking Emporium.

All kinds of suits and cloaks made after the latest styles. 604 Washington street.

Do You Know

That with BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS you can cut and make any garment to fit perfectly? Send postage stamp for an illustrated catalogue. H. A. Deming, agent, office of the Howe Sewing Machine, No. 113 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post, San Francisco.

Ward's Celebrated Shirts

At old stand, cor. 3d and Market. A. Levine.

Ladies' Visiting Cards,

And every description of writing, executed by JOHN P. DWYER, fashionable card writer, 605 Montgomery street, or at Grand Hotel.

S. P. R. R. News Agency.

He also supplies FIGARO to the passengers on the upward bound trains, at San Francisco rates—free of charge.

Deposit your Money.

With the Land Mortgage Union, interest allowed from day of deposit. No entrance fee or charge for passbooks. Office 123 Post street, open on Saturday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock.

H. A. Callender,

Manufacturer of Hair Jewelry, No. 62 Second street, corner of Mission.

Dr. Doherty

Has devoted his study more particularly to chronic and specific practice, and as such is now the most successful of any Physician in San Francisco. Office 619 Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, a few door below What Cheer House.

Human and Imitation Hair.

Cheap and fine jewelry and fancy goods, at one-half the price charged elsewhere, at A. B. FAMPSON & Co's. New York Store, 102 Second street.

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium.

Throw Out Your Chest!

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has no longer any connection with the old store on Bush street, but has resumed business on his own account at at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush street, where ladies and gentlemen can rely upon getting perfect-fitting boots and shoes, as all his former Cutters and workmen of the Ladies and Gent's Departments, have removed with him to the new store. Also the largest stock of ladies and gentlemen's first-class Boots and Shoes in the city. P. KELLY, PRIZE BOOTMAKER, 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush.

Best Quality of Dogskin

Driving gloves, at $2 per pair, at the What Cheer Laundry.

The Elixir of Youth.

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

First Premium

At the late Mechanics' Fair for military suits and boys' clothing, awarded to S. Figel, No. 3 Montgomery street, manufacturer of all kinds of men and boy's clothing at the lowest rate.

The Carpet and Furniture

Emporium of JOHN C. BELL is on Market street, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel. Mistakes are made every day.

New York Dry Goods Store.

613 Stockton street, between Clay and Sacramento, receives new goods daily from New York auctions very cheap. Remember the number.

The Newest Publications.

All readers like to receive their books, magazines and newspapers as soon as possible after publication. Loomis, at the southeast corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the post-office, is agent for all the chief American and English magazines and newspapers and delivers them to subscribers immediately on the arrival of the mail.

Precisely

For the same reason that the ladies have determined to calceate for the Fair, the opposite sex, to be in juxtaposition, have determined to purchase their Patent Leather Oxford Ties and Dancing Pumps at Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles, finest quality, and at the lowest prices.

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER

THE GREAT SPECIALIST,

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY INFORM those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in one of the most celebrated Hospitals in England, The Lock.

He has now re-opened his old Medical Institute, at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was so successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention or explain on paper.

I am aware that some of the empirics of San Francisco make a practice of stating what they cure; but to most persons my name will be quite SUFFICIENT to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Last night "Schneider, or dot House von der Rhine," was produced, and Johnny Allen made his bow to the California public. All who were pleased with J. K. Emmet will be delighted with Johnny Allen in his triple role of old Jake Schneider, Mrs. Schneider his wife, and young Schneider, all of which are presented with equal skill. The third act is the act of the play, as in it Mr. Allen introduces all his celebrated specialties of song and dance. The play is of the same character as "Fritz" and "Help;" each act ends with a highly sensational scene. The first is the rescue of a drowning child and escape over a broken bridge, the second the saving of the same child from death by the same means in a well, and the last the rescue of one of the characters just as a trip-hammer is descending to crush him. The most laughable scene in the play is in the last act where Jake Schneider is installed as barkeeper and pitches any number of non-paying customers through a window. This made the audience fairly scream with delight, and secured Johnny Allen's popularity. Miss Alice Harrison when she appeared on the stage in the character of Lowesa and did some mild sentimental talk, looked tame and uninteresting, but at the first notes of the music for her song and dance she was transformed into the brightest little being imaginable; her eyes flashed with fun and she was the personification of life and merriment. Delicious little trills came from her throat, and she warbled like a bird. Miss Harrison is the pet of the public; she is arch, pert and pretty, and has the funniest little tricks imaginable. All engaged in the representation of "Schneider" did their best to insure its success. Mr. James M. Hardie, who is a really good actor, and never slights a part did, some capital melodramatic acting in the character of Dick Fairchild, which in other less capable hand would have been laughable instead of impressive; Miss Lulu Wilson, a very clever little actress, danseuse and vocalist, played the part of Little Lowesa extremely well and gained great applause. Miss Sallie Hinckley did all that could be done with the character of Mary Cranshaw; John Woodard, who excells in character parts and makes a character out of any part, did some good acting in that of Robert Thornton; Harry Colton played Tom Cranshaw with good effect, and Geo. Hinckley performed the part of Brittles in an easy natural manner. Johnny Allen and Miss Alice Harrison will delight the public again to-night with a rich programme of eccentric songs, dances and imitations. All who saw Emmett, will be curious to see his great rival Johnny Allen, and the Metropolitan Theatre will be crowded.

California Theatre.

The first representation of "Amy Robsart," a dramatization of Sir Walter Scott's novel of "Kenilworth," by Andrew J. Halladay, attracted a large audience last night. The piece was put on the stage in magnificent style, some of the scenes being especially worthy of admiration, among them Kenilworth Castle and Mervyn's Tower. The Court scene was a most gorgeous spectacle, the beauty of the costumes, banners and insignia causing much admiration. Mrs. Bowers gave an excellent impersonation of the much-wronged Amy Robsart and quite gained the sympathy of the audience for the discarded wife. Mrs. Sophie Edwin is becoming famous for her impersonation of Queen Elizabath and assumed this character last night with great ability; John McCullough as the Earl of Leicester was excellent, and gained many a hearty round of applause. Carden was very good as Varney, bringing out the points of the character with much skill; Owen Marlowe, who is a thorough actor, gave an admirable representation of Tressillian, his make-up being particularly good. J. C. Williamson revelled in the character of Wayland Smith, and did it full justice; Miss Minnie Walton made a sprightly Flibberigibbet, and the characters were generally well performed. There were some waits caused by the ponderous nature of the scenes to be set and shifted, which made play drag a little last night but this evening it will doubtless move rapidly and smoothly. The management have spared no expense in the production of this romantic drama and will reap their reward in the liberal patronage of the public.

Bella Union.

M'lle Gangain, the charming danseuse, appears nightly; the Reynolds Brothers present some of their best songs and dances; Johnny Manning appears on the flying trapeze; Ethel Stanley and Fanny Garretson sing a pleasing duet, and there are many other performances too numerous to mention. The evening's entertainment concludes with the very successful local play of "Woman's Rights" with the versatile and indefatigable Aline Le Favre as Mrs. Brownjohn and the Demon Wildboy. This play has been received with immense applause and laughter every night of its performance. Minnie Fillmore makes quite a character of Fitzfoodle, and her "fact by jove" has been picked up by the boys for a byword.

Theatre Comique.

The moral drama of "Ten Nights in a Bar-room" was presented again last night to a large and appreciative audience. Harry Courtaine having thought fit to give the part of Joe Morgan, the Drunkard, a little further rehearsal, the character was admirably assumed by R. G. Marsh, who played it with much feeling and effect. With the other numerous attractions this play with R. G. Marsh, the charming little Maggie Knight and Johnny Tuers in the cast, will crowd the house for many nights to come.

Oxford Theatre.

After a first part of popular ballads, choruses and funny jokes, and interlude in which the feats of Edwin Montagus on the trapeze and Ida St. Clair on the running globe were much admired; the play of "Jack Sheppard" cut down and adapted to the Oxford stage, was produced. Though last night the faults attendant on a first representation were visible, the play was well received and gave general satisfaction. Amalia Dean made a nobby Jack; Vincent was capital as Blueskin, and Parks was good as the villainous Wild. It will be repeated to-night.

"Eileen Ogee."

The right to produce Edmund Falconer's new play of "Eileen Ogee," has been purchased by the management of the California Theatre for $2,000 and it will shortly be presented.

Alhambra Theatre.

Every part of the entertainment given at this place of amusement is excellent. In the first part Billy Emerson's "Telegraph song" and Charles Howard's "Boatman's song" are popular features. In the interlude Charles Vivian sings his new song "I'm Colonel Fitz Smythe of the Governor's staff," which is received nightly with shouts of laughter and applause. (The Alta says this is "a little rough on somebody or other." There isn't anyone of the name of Fitz Smythe on the Governor's Staff is there?) Charley Howard the greatest impersonator of old darkies in the world appears in "Uncle Jeff;" Fostelle as "The Maid of the Mist," Sheridan and Mack in "The Merry old Couple," "Playing Hookey," and "The Little Fraud;" Billy Emerson in "The Drum Major," and in "Turn Him Out" with Charley Howard, Sheridan, Mack and the rest of the company.

Professor Fowler, the Phrenologist.

Professor Fowler will shortly arrive in this city, and will deliver seven lectures in phrenology. His agent Mr. Thomas Kean arrived on Sunday, for the purpose of engaging a hall and making preliminary arrangements.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Omalilu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

General Sam. Houston—Curious Facts in his Personal History.

Of late many newspapers have adverted to the strange relations of General Sam Houston to his first wife. The writer of the following is a cousin of this wife. She writes as follows:

MEMPHIS, September 6, 1871.

EDITORS OF THE APPEAL:—I have seen several pieces in your paper lately, purporting to tell why General Houston and wife separated early. As Mrs. Houston and myself were not only intimate friends, but relatives, I think I can tell why they separated so early, with as much truth as any one else. In the Appeal, several days ago, there was an extract from the Galveston Bee, stating that they lived together only three days. This is not true. They lived together three months. I am pretty certain in stating, also, that she had another sweetheart in the neighborhood. It is true Eliza Houston and William T. were always particular friends, but she nor any one else would not have thought of marrying a man in the last stages of consumption, for at the time my acquaintance commenced with Mrs. Houston, this young man was in Cuba, seeking to prolong his life; and that Mr. and Mrs. Allen were ambitious people and forced her to marry General Houston, is all a mistake. Two more unambitious people never lived. To be sure, the match was considered good, and they told their daughter so, but there was no force used, and no strong persuasion. General Houston, as his wife told me, was a maniac on the subject of female virtue, and did not believe a pure woman lived. He upbraided her the first night he married, and every day afterward as long as he lived with her, acting now the fond husband and in ten minutes a furious maniac, the victim of ungovernable jealousy.

Mrs Houston knew there was no happiness in store for her, and determined to separate. She lived a life of complete seclusion for a year or two—a picture of perfect woe. She afterwards professed religion and was at times quite cheerful, but the look of sadness never, as long as I knew her, left her face, which was of a sweet, gentle and winning expression. She was not pretty, but dignified, graceful and queenly in her appearance. She never uttered a harsh or reproachful word of the General—seemed only to pity him. They both married afterward; be a woman of deep piety, and such was her influence over him that he too, before a member of the church and died a good man M. B. H.

German Watering Places—The Effects of the War.

An English paper says: Homburg is full and the tables are doing a handsome business, but the Terrace lacks the brilliancy of former years. It is soberly cheerful; it is in the highest degree respectable; it is, so to speak, the home of the virtuous—a sort of matrimonial forcing-house, but it is not so amusing a lounge as it was in the days when Paris populated it with cocottes and cocodettes, clad in the rainbow, ready with the mot pour rire, and prodigal of everybody's money. Not a sylph from the Bois, not a "Bebe" nor a "jockey" is to be found within the precincts of the Kursaal or its pretty grounds; the German ladies are quiet even to dowdiness in the adornment of their robust charms; and even our lionesses appear to be cowed into comparative tameness by the atmosphere of homeliness and economy that surrounds them. Neutral colors and robes montantes are the order of the day—none of your bright tints and square-cut bodices that catch the eye and appeal to the imagination. Throughout that part of Germany which I have just traversed the chignon has disappeared from the face of the land, or rather from the heads of the female inhabitants. Two years ago every dame and damsel, from the Frau Professorin to the pretty Gretchen in the bonnet shop, wore a hydrocephaleous lump; now they have returned to the good old German fashion of plaiting the hair into braids and coiling it up at the back of the head.

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium.

Throw Out Your Chest!

A man should stand up like a man, throw out his chest and throw his shoulders back, thus giving room for the free action of the lungs. The Champion and Pivot-action Braces sold by C. H. Burr, sole agent for the Pacific Coast, 818 Market street, will be found to afford efficient aid in accomplishing this. They are superior to all others, and cost no more.

The Elixir of Youth.

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles, finest quality, and at the lowest prices. x

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER

THE GREAT SPECIALIST,

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY INFORM those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in one of the most celebrated Hospitals in England, The Lock. He has now re-opened his old Medical Institute, at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was so successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention or explain on paper.

I am aware that some of the empirics of San Francisco make a practice of stating what they cure; but to most persons my name will be quite SUFFICIENT to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

PETALUMA EDITION.

FIGARO will be the house programme at the Petaluma Theatre during the Fair Week, and a large edition will be circulated on the cars, throughout the city and at the Fair Grounds. All our advertisers will have the benefit of this extra edition.

FIGARO ON THE C. P. RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P. M.

Really Pretty.

This is the sort of thing the poor Vallejo people have to read in the Recorder:

The mass of condemned slum extracted from a Sacramento sheet cess pool and placed in the local chair amid the filth of a hovel in which that scavenger sheet down in the hollow is printed, is shaking his carrion paws at us and a party of colored ladies and gentleman—who are so far as his superiors that they would not soil their shoes by wiping them upon his filthy carcas—because he did not get an invitation to the party on Thursday evening. Ain't you ashamed of yourself!

We should think the editor of the Recorder was a little ashamed when he saw how that stuff looked in print. "Carrion paws" is a particularly pretty expression.

"Dorgs."

Cleveland newsboys catch dogs and get 75 cents apiece for them of the pound-master Some of the more depraved boys steal dogs from the pound and sell them over again.—[Ex.

Yes, and those that are slaughtered are sold by the pound—in sausages.

There is Nothing

Which attracts public attention more than a genteel gait in either sex, to acquire which it is necessary that children's shoes should be made to fit well, which may be accomplished by going to KAST'S Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, where our scions of respectability are daily to be seen emerging with their purchases. x

Russ House Carriages,

Sam Moore, proprietor. Any style of team, with all the latest improvements at reduced rates. Careful and gentlemanly drivers in all cases. Leave orders at the Russ House. x

To the Unfortuate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure. *

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has withdrawn from the firm of Guerin & Kelly, and has resumed business on his own account at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush. All ladies visiting the Mechanics' Fair should not fail to inspect the splendid display of Ladies' and Gents' Boots and Shoes made by P. KELLY, Prize Bootmaker, corner of Bush and Kearny streets. *

Interesting to the Ladies.

There will be great excitement among the fair sex on Monday, for on that day J. W. Davidson & Co., of the White House, intend to open their new cloaks and other goods from Paris, among which are, they informs us, dresses sent direct by Worth the famous man milliner.

The Radical Rheumatic

Eradicator—the only known remedy. Frank H. Lashier, proprietor, No. 206 Fourth street San Francisco. *

Everbody Buys Them.

What? The hundred various compounds prepared only from Steuart's refined sugar, by Canty & Wagner, 107 Montgomery street. Their candies have been famed for their delicious flavors for years, and the firm does an immense trade, both in the jobbing and retail line. *

Cruelty to Hogs.

Messrs. Rider & Hanlon, of Chicago, were arrested on the 16th ult. at the instigation of the Illinois Humane Society for undue cruelty in slaughtering hogs. It was charged that they were hoisted out of the wagon by means of a hook placed in the lower jaws. Mr. Clark said that the hook didn't hurt the hog at all: that he could see, sometimes the hog squealed a little, but not much.

Mr. C. Beck, a witness for the defense, testified that he was a butcher; had been one for twenty years; had killed hogs to some extent; had seen hogs killed at Rider & Hanlon's: "it is better for de hog what he be hoist of de chaw as of de leg; such a hog as was grippled couldn't got up no oder way; when dey got de hog up dey shofe him along by de ears shoost so careful what dey can." The Court decided that the use of the hook was cruel and fined the prisoners $50 each. In future the hog will be "shofe along by de ears shoost so careful what dey can."

A Good Crop.

The Connersville (Ind.) Times tells of an old rail splitter in that county who put a quietus upon a young man who chaffed him about his bald head, in these words: "Young man, when my head gets as soft as yours, I can raise hair to sell."

Perhaps this may give a hint as to the cause of the "Unknewn's" exuberant head of hair.

A Classical Scholar.

A Connecticut Democrat sent his son to New York to complete his education. After a short time the son wrote to his father that he was studying "Horace." On learning this the paternal parent replied: "Come home; I don't want Greeley to make a Republican of my son."

Paying Up.

The other day the papers published the intelligence that Harry Meiggs had paid his washerwoman. Now we hear that he has paid an Oaklander, from whom he borrowed money. He'll pay up by degrees and be "Honest Harry Meiggs" once more.

Strikes.

There are "strikes" all over England. These strikes are not so profitable as those we hear of sometimes in our new territories. The laboring men don't "strike it very rich" in England.

Breaking Jail.

Carson is not the only city that cannot keep its prisoners. All the prisoners in the jail at Salem, N. J., broke jail a few weeks ago and escaped.

It is said that the wind blows with such force in Colerado, that when a man loses his hat he has to telegraph to the next station for some one to stop it.

Oysters and Chowder.

Try Joe Giusti's delicious chowder and luscious oysters, at 105 California Market, en trance on Summer street. Ladies' saloon attached. Open day and night. *

Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

Best Lever Suspenders,

At $1 per pair—25 per cent. cheaper than elsewhere—at the What Cheer Laundry. x

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone. *

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

Fifty Years Ago.

Charley Howard's celebrated song. Also, Emerson's popular song, "The Old Man's Drunk Again." For sale at Cohen's, 912 Kearny street, between Jackson and Pacific. *

What Cheer Laundry.

Search the Scriptures.

The Cashier of the First National Bank of St. Paul, Minn., had occasion a few weeks ago to notify the Cashier of a Bank in the southern part of the State that his account was overdrawn. For answer he received the following telegram:

BANK OF ——, June 13, 1871.
Cashier First National Bank, St. Paul:
See Matthew, xviii chapter, 29th verse.
Yours, ——, Cashier.

To which the following was promptly telegraphed back in reply:

FIRST NATIONAL BANK ST. PAUL, June 13.
Cashier —— Bank:
Examine Matthew, v, 25.
Yours, ——. Cashier.

There are so many people that hardly ever pen their Bible that we publish the above hoping that they may be led by curiosity, if no better motive, to search the Scriptures.

Out of Place.

The Chicago Sun, of Sept. 24th, has nearly the whole of its first page—five long columns—devoted to a report of a swine show. There is scarcely anything but hogs and swine to be seen except a paragraph about Yom Kippur, and its celebration by the Jews. Does the Sun think that two sticks full of matter about Yom Kippur will enable its Jewish subscribers to swallow five columns about swine.

Eyes.

A grey eye
Is still and sly;
A roguish
Is the brown;
The eye of blue
Is ever true;
But in the blyck eye's
Sparkling spell,
Mystery
And mischief dwell.

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table. *

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. HUG & SCHMIDT, Successors to P. J. Reilly, Agents. x

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

300 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

Perfectly Wrong.

The Evening Termini says that the Queen of England's "abdication now in favor of the Prince would be very apt to produce a labor revolution." The chief cause of the dissatisfaction of the people of London with royalty, is that the Queen saves money instead of spending it and making trade lively in that city, The Prince would spend money freely enough and the disaffected ones would be satisfied. It is London, not England that complains of the Queen's taking the money she receives from the people to keep up the pageantry of the Court and putting it in her pocket. They want something for their money; they are not content with a Queen "of shreds and patches." There isn't any love for "republican simplicity" in John Bull; he loves a lord as dearly as ever. Odger and a following of pot-house politicians in London may get up demonstrations, but the people of England at large would in the festivities attendant on the coronation of Edward VII. forget all their Republican notions.

A Mistake.

A Virginia editor lent a copy of Defoe's "History of the Devil" to a friend, who borrowed it under the delusion that it was a biography of Ben Butler.—Ex.

A terrible mistake. The Devil is a gentleman. B. B. is not.

Change It.

The first Japanese scholar who ever went into an American school started off at the Lewis school in Boston, Monday. His name is Shinpatchii.—Ex.

That Jap should Americanize his name into "Shinplaster."

A Slight Difference.

Some of the lotteries which were advertised to be "drawn" on or before a certain date should have advertised to be "with-drawn."

Mr. Greeley asks will the coming women pull teeth?

It is Not

Because you wear cheap boots and shoes that you become crippled—it is because they do not fit properly; neither does a bad-fitting boot or shoe last so long by half the time as one made by a first-class cutter, such as is found at Kent's fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre.

Scandal in St. Stephen.

The St. Croix Courier, published at St. Stephen, N. B., goes for the scalp of Rev. John Home of the Presbyterian Church in the following manner:

A person calling himself "the Reverend" John Home is still preaching in the Presbyterian Church of this place on Sundays, and devoting his spare time on week days to slandering his benefactors.

It publishes the following notice in another column:

A person calling himself "the Reverend" John Home is not in our employment, and all persons are hereby cautioned against paying him any moneys or holding any intercourse with him on our account. We do not deem it necessary to caution our friends and the public against receiving any slanders of which the said Home is the author, as for reasons very generally understood no sensible person will believe them.

This all comes of the parson not sticking to his business. It is very undignified of a clergyman to spend the time he ought to bestow on visiting the sick and other works of mercy to drumming up advertisements and collecting money for a secular newspaper.

Kindly Notices.

Those country papers are so good-natured that everyone ought to subscribe for them. One issue of the Carson Register has a notice of the return of Col. Abe Curry, "who looks as though his trip had done him good;" of Farmer Treadway, "whose smiling countenance looks brighter than ever since his visit to the Sacramento Fair;" of Billy Wilson; of ex-Governor Blaisdell, "who is looking as fresh as the breezes from Pogonip," and of E. B. Pixley, "the accomplished telegraph operator." How pleasant it must be to live in a small country town where one is thought something of, and the newspapers take notice of one's comings and goings!

Ah, those Compositors!

No one but a writer can appreciate the pain printers are capable of inflicting on authors and editors by their blunders in setting up manuscript. We wonder how Bowman, who writes a good plain hand, felt when he is made in his "World of Letters" in the Golden City to talk of Hawthorne's "Mosses Turn an Old Mouse." Of course Bowman wrote "Mosses From an Old Manse." He is accustomed to having his "friends" turned into "fiends," "angels" into "angles," but still he cannot feel contented and submissive.

A Tame Humming Bird.

Mr. Donaldson, of Cincinnati, has so thoroughly domesticated a humming bird that upon going into his garden it will immediately alight upon his hand and sip the sugar water in it, no matter how many persons may be standing around him at the time.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

Fifty Years Ago.

Kissing a Pretty Woman on the Pacific Rail.

"Do you see that pretty woman!" asked the naturalist of the Baptist deacon, pointing to a well-dressed, modest-appearing lady who was eating with the other passengers, at one of the feeding stations.

"Yes, what of her?"

"Oh, nothing, only I'll bet you a new hat that I'll go in and kiss her."

"That's nothing. Anybody can kiss a woman."

"Yes, but I never saw her before. I'll agree if she makes any fuss about it to pay for the hat."

"Don't you know her, honest?"

"Upon my word!"

"Never, so help me!"

"It's a bet!"

"Agreed! Now watch me!"

The naturalist walked deliberately up to the lady, put his face down to hers, and then kissed her squarely on the cheek. To the infinite surprise of the Baptist deacon she did not hit him with the water pitcher, or holler "murder" or "rape." She simply glanced up at him, blushed a little, and went on with her eating.

Is the naturalist among women what Barey is among horses? was the mental inquiry of the Baptist deacon, in connection with the probable price in coin of a 7½ hat in San Francisco.

Primitive.

A few days ago a young gentleman and lady from the rural districts visited Somerset, Pa., to get married. The young couple entered town on this festive occasion astride of one horse. They dismounted, had their horse fed, partook of a sumptuous repast consisting of crackers, were then united in the holy bonds of matrimony by a Justice of the Peace, when they again mounted their steed and wended their way to their mountain home amid the cheers of the population.

I throw a kiss across the sea,
I drink the wind as drinking wine,
And dream they all are blown from thee:
I catch the whisper'd kiss of thine.
Shall I return with lifted face,
Or head held down as in disgrace,
To hold thy two brown hands in mine?

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The beautiful drama of "Amy Robsart" with Mrs. D. P. Bowers in the title role, will be presented this evening and until further notice. John McCullough's impersonation of the Earl of Leicester is the general theme of admiration, and all the characters have justice done them by the talented members of the company. Porter has gained new laurels by the beautiful scenery he has painted for this play, and all connected with the theatre are deserving of praise for the manner in which they have performed their respective duties in placing this play on the stage in such superb style. It will be repeated this evening and until further notice.

Alhambra Theatre.

The entertainment given nightly at this most popular place of amusement is hard to beat. It delights the ladies; where the ladies go the gentlemen must go, therefore the house is crowded nightly. Billy Emerson has made a great hit in his song of "The Drum Major;" Vivian's last original song "I'm Colonel Fitz Smythe of the Governor's Staff," bids fair to rival the popularity of "Captain Jinks;" Charley Howard is great in "Uncle Jeff;" Sheridan and Mack's new selections from their repertoire are excellent; Fostelle's graceful dance is much admired, and "Turn Him Out" winds up a capital evening's entertainment.

Metropolitan Theatre.

This house was even more crowded last night than on the opening night of Johnny Allen and "Schneider," and the performance went off in the most lively manner When our public take a fancy to an actor or actress they are enthusiastic—witness the case of Alice Kingsbury. Just at present they are making a pet of charming little Alice Harrison, who has captivated all hearts by her sweet voice, talent and pretty ways. Johnny Allen, Alice Harrison, and the Schneider family will all appear again to-night.

Bella Union.

The beautiful M'lle Gangair, the popular and versatile Aline Le Favre, the talented Reynolds Brothers, Johnny Manning, Edgar and Ethel Stanley, J. H. Larkin and many others appear in a varied entertainment. The new play of "Woman's Rights" has proved an immense hit.

Theatre Comique.

R. G. Marsh, Maggie Knight and Johnny Tuers, all perform their parts to perfection in the play of "Ten Nights in a Barroom," and Lizzie Harmon plays the wife of Joe Morgan with much feeling. W. Walters, the cornet player, is nightly encored, and the whole performance is of the most pleasing description.

Oxford Theatre.

"Jack Sheppard," with Amelia Dean as Jack, Charley Vincent as Blueskin, E. Parke as Wild, H. Morton as Sir Roland, J. Cotton as Darrell, and C. Courtney as Mendez the Jew, is a great attraction at this house. To-night the pleasing ballad-ist, Miss Eva Silva, will make her first appearance.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Cnailiu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

LETTER FROM TOLEDO.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

TOLEDO (Ohio), September 25th, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—A large number of exhibitions have been in town during the past week. Prof. Fahu's Great Concert Troupe gave two entertainments on the 14th and 15th.

At Fielding's Opera House we have the old San Francisco favorite, Kathleen O'Neil, queen of Irish song. Kate looks much better than she did when eighteen months ago playing at the Bella Union Theatre. An entire new company appear to-night: Miss Kathleen O'Neil in "Kitty from Cork," Miss Lottie Hamilton in songs, M'lle Celestine in fancy dances, Miss Dolly Sherman in Medley; also, first appearance of the great Cincinnatus, the king of song and dance, Prof. Mabbott, baritone vocalist, cornet soloist, and comedian (also an old Californian). Sam Cole in song and dance, Billy Warner with his big wooden shoes and Dutch song and dance. This makes one of the best companies ever here.

L. B. Lent's Circus is billed to play here on Friday, Sept. 29th. Adam Forepaugh's Circus is also billed for the 30th.

Mr. Mick Littin, proprietor of the Atlantic Garden, has been building a new addition to it, and will open it with a first-class German troupe in two weeks.

M. P. W.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

HOW SOON WE ARE FORGOTTEN.

Oh, how soon we are forgotten,
When we rest beneath the sod
And our feet no longer wander
O'er the paths we oft have trod;
When the form that was so cherished
With a love both pure and deep
Lies within the earth's dark bosom,
In its long, last, quiet sleep.

For a few brief days it may be—
Had we home and kindred dear,
When they meet around the hearthstone,
There will be a lack of cheer;
As a vacant seat will tell them
Of affection's broken ties:
And their thoughts perchance will wander,
Where the dreamless sleeper lies.

But should a stern fate deprive us
Of a bright and cheerful home,
And in weariness of spirit,
O'er life's rugged way we roam,
When the golden bowl is broken,
And the lone one finds a rest;
'Twill excite no dread commotion
In one palpitating breast.

Yet 'tis well that thus it should be,
In life's brief revolving years;
Else this world of budding beauties
Would become a vale of tears;
When the soul attuned to sadness,
And by sorrow overcast,
Would enshroud the brightest future
With sad memories of the past.

An Anecdote of Everett.

In the speech at the Amherst semi-centennial commencement, Professor Park said: "I have recalled this afternoon a scene which occurred thirty-six years ago, on the day preceding commencement. Edward Everett then delivered the oration. In the midst of the oration he uttered one sentence which called forth bursts of applause.

"I will read that sentence: 'Before the admiring student of nature has realized all the wonders of the world, let him sit down and know the universe in which he lives, by examining the races of animals disporting themselves in their representative ocean—a drop of water.'

After that sentence, it appeared as if all Amherst College would not cease to clap their hands and stamp their feet, and yet you seem to be unmoved by recital. Now the question comes, what is the reason? The reason is found in the studied artlessness of Edward Everett.

While he was on the point of speaking the words, a "drop of water," he turned carelessly and set a glass of water on the table. He put his finger in the glass, and a drop of water was suspended therefrom. I have it on the best authority that six or seven weeks before that oration was delivered, Everett wrote a letter to a friend in Boston, asking him whether so bold a gesture would be proper."

A Perennial Stream of Gold.

[From the New York Post.]

There is no country under the sun which is so enormously enriched by its absent sons as Great Britain. A perfect stream of gold is forever flowing in upon that small island from all parts of the world. Not only are the thousands heaped up in India, China, America, (North and South) and Australia brought back by those who have been fortunate in their career abroad to spend and bequeath in the country where alone they imagine they can enjoy all the good things of this world, but the humbler class, who are in their degree successful abroad, are continually remitting amounts which make a splendid aggregate. The returns of the Emigration Commissioners show that in the twenty-three years from 1848 to 1870 inclusive there has been sent home from North America, through banks and commercial houses, a sum upwards of £16,334,000. Of what has been sent home through private channels there is no account.

Good for the Parson!

The Carson Register has the following:

At the fire on Tuesday, one of our Reverend citizens, always first on hand on such occasions, rushed to the brakes; beside him worked the Principal of the public school. A "soiled dove" seeing the two handsome young men working with all their might, perched herself on the brake between them, and by every means in her power, incited them to greater exertions. Did they quit? No. The Reverend gave a good, square, Samaritan glance at her, and worked with increased energy. He did not feel like casting a stone at the dove; he pitied her, and looked on her exertions in the same light that his Master looked on the mite of the widow.

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table.

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium.

Throw Out Your Chest!

Deposit your Money.

With the Land Mortgage Union, interest allowed from day of deposit. No entrance fee or charge for passbooks. Office 123 Post street open on Saturday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock.

The Newest Publications.

All readers like to receive their books, magazines and newspapers as soon as possible after publication. Loomis, at the southeast corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the post-office, is agent for all the chief American and English magazines and newspapers and delivers them to subscribers immediately on the arrival of the mail.

Precisely

For the same reason that the ladies have determined to calceate for the Fair, the opposite sex, to be in juxtaposition, have determined to purchase their Patent Leather Oxford Ties and Dancing Pumps at Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles, finest quality, and at the lowest prices.

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER

THE GREAT SPECIALIST,

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY INFORM those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in one of the most celebrated Hospitals in England, The Lock. He has now re-opened his old Medical Institute, at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was so successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention or explain on paper.

I am aware that some of the empirics of San Francisco make a practice of stating what they cure: but to most persons my name will be quite SUFFICIENT to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

The Discovery of America.

We acknowledge the receipt of tickets of invitation to a grand military and civic ball to be held at Platt's Hall on Thursday next, in commemoration of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus, October 12th, 1492. The ball will be under the management of the Garibaldi Company. There should be a large cosmopolitan gathering on this occasion, as all alike enjoy the fruits of Columbus's discovery.

Walter Montgomery's Wife.

The facts concerning the suicide of Walter Montgomery have arrived, and turned out to be as everyone suspected: his wife was the cause of his death. She was a married woman of not immaculate character, and the disgrace was too much for the sensitive Montgomery. It is a pity he did not stay in this country, where divorce is so easy, and but little disgrace would have attached to his mistake.

LETTER FROM VIRGINIA CITY.

CORRESPONDENCE OF FIGARO.

Amusements in Virginia City—Fight Between Bulldogs and Wildcats, and the Result.

VIRGINIA CITY, Sept. 29, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO.—The legitimate languishes in Virginia City. The popular demand here is even more peremptory than in 'Frisco for "something new," "something sensational" in the amusement line. Our local manager, bluff, honest John Piper, is not the man to be influenced by any false qualms of sentiment in witholding from the people what they earnestly ask for when an opportunity presents itself, as will be seen by the following screed:

Sometime ago a Mr. Lee. made a bet of $500 against ten head of bullocks that his pet bulldog, Hero, could whip any two wildcats, one at a time, that could be "scared up." The bet was taken by a man whose faith in wildcat stock remained unshaken. The cats were produced and the Opera House rented from Manager Piper for the eventful night of the contest. Our local papers duly chronicled how a cage had been erected on the stage twelve feet long by ten high, the front, and five feet high all around, constructed of small iron bars, and how its interior would be lighted by gas jets placed near the top.

As may be imagined all Virginia was in a blaze of excitement. We compile from the dailies the result of the contests for the benefit of the members of the "Academy of Sciences" of your city, and the readers of FIGARO:

THE FIRST FIGHT.

Everything being ready the smallest of the two wildcats was put into the cage and shortly afterwards McGee's Hero, a large white bulldog, was let in. He went for his animal immediately, which made a faint resistance to his first charge, and then weakened, jumping around the cage with its tail erect and trying to force its way out between the bars. After a few wild plunges, Hero got a square hold of the back of his catship's neck and killed it, very much the same manner and in the same time that a black-and-tan terrier would kill a rat. This short and decisive fight sent

WILDCAT DOWN.

Hero was the hero of the moment. He was sponged off, had a rest, and was finally in trim for another bout. The second cat, a female and much larger than the male which had been killed, was let into the den. The dog being let in (and he was wild for the fray, trying to get in thropgh the bars), we had

FIGHT NUMBER TWO.

The dog went for the second cat as he had gone for the first, with a rush, but this one was a fighter, and made the fur fly from the word go. They had it very lively for a time, when the dog began to show by his actions that he "hadn't lost any wildcat." He preferred standing at a distance and barking, though occasionally he would make a rush, when the cat would pitch into him like an expert boxer and make the hair fly at a great rate. The dog was removed, rested and sponged off. Being returned he went for the cat a few times, but her claws were too sharp and he moved for the entrance, and with tail down "asked" to be let out. He was encouraged to try again, but would not charge again on the spiteful and wary old cat. He was taken out, and his owner at last came forward to the footlights and said he would not try him again, and that he gave up the bet; so the happy owner of the bulllocks pocketed his $500. The result of this fight sent

WILDCAT UP.

Before the second cat was let into the den no one in the house would have bet a dime on any cat in the world; now all was changed. After a long talk about another match and a delay of an hour, $20 was raised, the cat purchased of its owner, and then came the last round. The Enterprise gives the result of FIGHT NO. THREE AND DEATH OF THE CAT.

A wiry and very game little bulldog (much smaller than the first), belonging to James Kelly, was now let into the den. He at once made for the cat, and kept right on making for her, in spite of her sharp claws. The two animals had a really terrific batttle, and the wildcat, now for the first time in the evening, found it necessary to use her teeth as well as her claws. Over they rolled, fighting so rapidly that it reminded one of a big bunch of fire-crackers, exploding and whirling about. The cat at last began to try and get away, but the spunky little dog kept after her, and she had to get down to her work again. The fight lasted over twenty minutes and finally the dog was victorious, not only whipping but killing the cat. The little bulldog was cheered by the crowd and all dispersed, declaring the new Opera House troupe a success, but all the actors did not scramble to their feet when the curtain went down. It was a real tragedy with the two debutants of the cat family and no nonsense for the canine stars. SAGE BRUSH.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

Pre-eminently bright among the great tragedienes of the day, shines Mrs. D. P. Bowers now performing at the California Theatre. Bright shines the Red Light which marks the famous Figaro Saloon, opposite the stage entrance of the theatre. To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat now laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone. *

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

The San Francisco public must remember that they cannot always have Charley Howard, Vivian, and Sheridan and Mack, as all must go ere very long to delight the denizens of other parts: therefore our public must make the most of them while they have them here. They all appear to-night in their best specialties, and Billy Emerson in first part, interlude and afterpiece.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Johnny Allen and "Schneider" form the sensation of the day, and "Aff you blese go court" is already a byword on the street. Miss Alice Harrison is such a merry, vivacious little performer that the public of San Francisco will not feel inclined to let her leave for some time. "Schneider" with its bridge sensation, well sensation, trip hammer sensation, and very amusing barroom scene, will be played to-night and at the matinee on Saturday.

California Theatre.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers as Amy Robsart does some very fine acting, and in the scene in the last act where she urges the Earl of Leicester to acknowledge her before the Queen and court as his wife, is really great. Mrs. Sophie Edwin by her admirable acting as Queen Elizabeth, fairly divides the honors with the star. "Amy Robsart" will be played this evening, and at the matinee on Saturday. To-morrow night will be the last representation of "Amy Robsart. On Saturday night, Mrs. D. P. Bowers will appear in the play of "Jane Shore."

Bella Union.

The great attractions at this most popular of variety theatres at present; are Mlle Gaugain the accomplished danseuse, the original and clever Aline Le Favre, the talented Reynolds Brothers, and the wonderful amusing play of "Women's Rights," in which the whole company appear.

Theatre Comique.

Every scene of the drama of "Ten Nights in a Barroom," now being excellently well performed by R. G. Marsh, Maggie Knight and the Theatre Comique Troupe, is received with a round of applause. The first part and interlude which precede the play are varied and attractive, and the consequence is the Theatre Comique is crowded.

Oxford Theatre.

"Jack Sheppard" with the attractive Amelia Bean as the hero, Charley Vincent as Blueskin, E. Parke as Wild, H. Morton as Sir Roland, J. Cotton as Darrell, and C. Courtney as Mendez the Jew, is a great attraction at this house. Miss Ida St. Clair appears in her feats on the running globes and also in pleasing ballads.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chailulu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Handsome Men.

An exchange says: "One of the greatest nuisances of a hotel is a handsome man. He is an intolerable bore to all the ladies of good sense in the house. If we might be allowed a suggestion, we would advise every father who is threatened with a handsome son in the family, just to take a clothes pounder and batter his nose to a pumice. For some cause or other, nine out of ten of the handsome men you meet are conceited jackdaws. They cultivate their hair and complexion so much that they have no time to think of their brains. By the time they reach thirty, their heads and hands are equally soft."

A Compromise.

Frank Pixley stole a fragment of the Column Vendome while he was in Paris. His friends tell him as the column is to be rebuilt he ought to return it, or the spirit of Napoleon will haunt him. Frank says he'll stick to his relic and make it up to Napoleon by giving him a whole obituary column in some California paper on the next anniversary of his death.

A Good Bag.

A gentleman of Marysville out shooting near the city bagged a rattlesnake and a wild cat.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

813 Stockton street, between Clay and Sacramento, receives new goods daily from New York auctions very cheap. Remember the number.

First Premium

At the late Mechanics' Fair for military suits and boys' clothing, awarded to S. Figel, No. 3 Montgomery street, manufacturer of all kinds of men and boy's clothing at the lowest rate.

Justly Punished.

Among the audience at every theatre are a few ill-bred people who immediately they perceive indications that the play is drawing to a close, begin to make preparations to leave and start for the door while the actors are on the stage. Our regular theatre-goers readily recognize the men as grown up hoodlums and the females as coarsely-bred countrywomen in town for a holiday, by their dowdy, ill-fashioned apparel. A number of these people have been deservedly punished during the run of "Schneider, or, Dot House on der Rhine," at the Metropolitan Theatre. The great sensation of the piece is the trip hammer scene. In the scene immediately preceding this, the play appears to be brought to a close, all the characters are assembled on the stage, the villain dies and the hero and heroine recover their property. This is a signal for the clods of whom we speak to bustle out of the theatre. The next day when they are talking about having been to see Johnny Allen and "Schneider," they are asked what they think of the trip hammer scene. They say they "sat the play out," but saw no scene of that description. They are told they missed "the best thing in they play" by their ill-manners, and it cost them another dollar to see what they might have seen on their first visit to the Metropolitan Theatre. It would be a good plan if the number of these ill-mannered idiots increases to write every play with a sensational anti-climax, in order to cure them of this bad habit.

Terrible!

Charles Bradlaugh, a leader of the Republican movement in England, has been interviewed by the correspondent of a New York paper. He declared that he was even now able to pull down the Monarchy, though not quite able to build up the Republic; that Victoria is the last monarch who shall sit on the English throne; that he deprecates a revolution before 1876, when he will be prepared for it, but that whenever the Government throws down the gage he will be ready to take it up.

It is very kind of Mr. Charles Bradlaugh not to pull down Monarchy at once. He is probably drawing his little salary of £20 a week from "the hard-fisted sons of toil," by whom he is looked up to as a leader, and does not wish that income to stop before 1876. The leaders of the Fenian movement in America and of the Republican movement in England, live on the sweat of the workingman more thoroughly than the most bloated aristocrat in the world.

Those "Materfamilias"

who really feel interested in their children's gait should call at KAST'S Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, to see the sense displayed in his peculiar make of children's Balmorals and Button Gaiters, the adoption of which will certainly guarantee comfort, ease and grace.

The Best Cigars and Tobacco

Silver Medal.

First premium Silver Medal, awarded to Will & Finck, Cutlers, Locksmiths and Bell Hangers, 821 Kearny and 140 Montgomery street, for the best California Cutlery. For the very best pocket knives, call and see us. o

The Newest Publications.

All readers like to receive their books, magazines and newspapers as soon as possible after publication. Loomis, at the southeast corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the post-office, is agent for all the chief American and English magazines and newspapers and delivers them to subscribers immediately on the arrival of the mail. x

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table.

Ladies And Gentlemen.

Guerin & Son, prize boot and shoe makers are rapidly clearing out their immense stock of stylish boots and shoes, at low prices. Call to day and save your money, 327 and 329 Bush street. x

Human and Imitation Hair.

Cheap and fine jewelry and fancy goods, at one-half the price charged elsewhere, at A. B. SAMPSON & Co's. New York Store, 102 Second street. x

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium.

Throw Out Your Chest!

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has no longer any connection with the old store on Bush street, but has resumed business on his own account at at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush street, where ladies and gentlemen can rely upon getting perfect-fitting boots and shoes, as all his former Cutters and workmen of the Ladies and Gent's Departments, have removed with him to the new store. Also the largest stock of ladies and gentlemen's first-class Boots and Shoes in the city. P. KELLY, PRIZE BOOTMAKER, 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush.

The Carpet and Furniture

Emporium of JOHN C. BELL is on Market street, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel. Mistakes are made every day.

Deposit your Money.

With the Land Mortgage Union, interest allowed from day of deposit. No entrance fee or charge for passbooks. Office 123 Post street open on Saturday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Precisely

For the same reason that the ladies have determined to calceate for the Fair, the opposite sex, to be in juxtaposition, have determined to purchase their Patent Leather Oxford Ties and Dancing Pumps at KAST'S Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre. x

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles, finest quality, and at the lowest prices. x

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER

THE GREAT SPECIALIST,

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY INFORM those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in one of the most celebrated Hospitals in England, The Lock.

He has now re-opened his old Medical Institute, at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was so successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention or explain in papers.

I am aware that some of the empirics of San Francisco make a practice of stating what they cure; but to most persons my name will be quite SUFFICIENT to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

Let us Have Peace.

Brigham Young only wants to be let alone. The cunning old boy says :

I think the time has arrived for the capitalists residing here and in Eastern cities, engaged in developing the mines, to rise up in their strength and enter their united protest to the President against the course of officials who are keeping out foreign capital from the East and England.

He virtually says to the capitalists, "Why don't you put a stop to all this nonsense? What do you care about religion or morality? You want money, and if there is any trouble, as there assuredly will be if an attempt is made to interfere with our institutions, your pockets will suffer. Combine to preserve the peace and you shall find it to your advantage." Brigham has a profound knowledge of human nature.

Answers to Correspondents.

HISTORICUS—The real answer made to Queen Elizabeth by Sir Walter Raleigh when she asked why he preferred to retain the old cloak on which she had trodden to having a new one, will be found in the first dramatization of "Kenilworth," which is better than Halliday's, and had a great success at the Strand Theatre, London. It ran as follows:

Because, your Majesty, when I go to pawn it, I can tell my uncle I've had a sovereign on it.

RIDDLEMARIE—Your conundrum, "Why is a night-cap like a squaw?" is not good. Anyone could guess the answer: "Because it keeps the wigwa(r)m."

BASHFUL—Certainly. If an actress on the stage winks, you have the right to take the wink to yourself. So has anyone else in the audience.

CHRISTIAN—This correspondent asks what is the meaning of the following paragraph in the Chronicle :

An item is going the rounds of the press that the original warrant for the execution of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ was burned at the archiepiscopal palace of Nancy in the French-German war. Bosh.

"Why," he asks, "does the Chronicle say 'bosh?'"—Doesn't our correspondent know that the proprietor of the Chronicle doesn't believe in a Saviour? Sad, isn't it? Pray for him.

INQUIRER—Yes. Professor Wilbur, who fell from a balloon a distance of a mile, was killed.

CURIO—We have not heard of a child with six legs born at Wallapus Flat, Oregon, but if, as you say, you saw a statement to that effect in the Alta, it is probably untrue.

LITTERATEUR—The author of "A Waif of the Pogonip" has not had any of his productions in the Overland since the publication of that one. It takes time to write such an article as that.

MARRIED WOMAN—No, we don't think you could get a divorce from your husband simply because he is a fool, and it would be, to say the least, ungenerous to bring up the fact of his having married you as proof.

WILLIAM—Writes to say that he took his girl to see "Schneider," and the only thing that seemed to make any impression on her was the trip hammer. He might try her with a flatiron, as he is not likely to have a trip-hammer handy.

PUNSTER—That joke about mare and mayor has been worn threadbare, but we suppose, as the Chronicle says, "The Augean stables must be all cleaned out," it is allowable to say that the Mayor must be turned out to grass before the cleaning commences.

Perquisites.

The examination into the causes and management of the late fire on Market street developed the fact that the firemen have their profits as well as their perils. While some were attending to the hose, others were "making looking glasses" in the crowd. One of the engine houses is adorned with mirrors, which are objected to by some of the straight-laced members as "casting reflections" on the honesty of the department.

A Good Bag.

A gentleman of Marysville out shooting near the city bagged a rattlesnake and a wild cat.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone. •

A Sensation in Hats.

The new Fall and Winter styles are fast arriving at "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. One in particular has already been adopted as the fashion; it is a fine low-crowned felt hat, with a curved brim, and is called "The Grand Duke." Those who wish to be in the fashion must go to "THE" Hat Store, long famed for having the latest styles and for its moderate prices. x

He calls it "The Parlor," and he and his partner, D. B. Manning, will do their best to make their patients comfortable. Billiards, clam chowder and lunch, day and night, are among the attractions. Harry hopes to see all his friends at the grand opening to-morrow night. The Parlor will be open day and night.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The Metroplitan Theatre is thronged every night and Johnny Allen and Miss Alice Harrison are "the idols of the hour." Every night the attendance has increased until now, even standing room is scarce, Mr. Allen may well congratulate himself on the steady progress he has made in the favor of public; he is now firmly established and nothing can displace him. J. H. Vinson deserves great credit for the admirable manner in which the piece is put on the stage, which does much to secure its popularity. This evening Johnny Allen, who has afforded the public so much pleasure during the week, will take his benefit and will doubtless have a bumper. "Schneider" will be played at the matinee to-morrow.

Alhambra Theatre.

The wonderfully versatile Billy Emerson appears in first part, interlude and afterpiece, and his song of "The Dram Major" is immensely popular: Charley Howard is a great favorite, and his "Uncle Jeff" is acknowledged to be one of the finest bits of character acting ever seen; Vivian's new songs are very popular, and "I'm Colonel Fitz Tubbs of the Governor's Staff" has caused a sensation; Sheridan and Mack are great in lightning changes and song and dance; and there never was such an entertainment as that given at the Alhambra Theatre. There will be a matinee performance to-morrow.

California Theatre.

To-night is the last of the historical play of "Amy Robsart," in which Mrs. D. P. Bowers has appeared to such advantage. The beautiful scenes of Kenilworth Castle and Mervyn's Tower, with a fine effect of cloud and moonlight, do credit to Mr. Porter and Messrs. Torrence and Stackhouse. To-morrow night "Jane Shore." Amy Robsart matinee to-morrow.

Bella Union.

The graceful and talented M'lle Gaugain in pas seuls; the ever-charming Aline La Favre in the very amusing play of "Woman's Rights;" the Reynolds Brothers in double song and dance; Ethel Stanley and Edgar Stanley in ballads and duets; J. H. Larkin in Teutonic comicalities, and many others in a variety of entertainments, will appear to-night.

Theatre Comique.

The favorite banjoist, Harry Howard, received a hearty welcome back on making his appearance here in original banjo solos. "Ten Nights in a Barroom," with R. G. Marsh as Joe Morgan, the clever little Maggie Knight as Mary, the favorite Johnny Tuers as Dennis O'Grady and Lizzie Harmon as the Mother is as popular as ever, and the whole performance is good. New talent will appear to-morrow night.

Oxford Theatre.

The Oxford has been very lucky in its pieces, all having proved successful and run well. "Jack Sheppard" is the latest sensation, and a capital first part and interlude are given, introducing Miss Ida St. Clair on the running globes, and Edwin Montague on the trapeze and in swinging club exercises.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillin Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Generous Offer.

The following advertisement, which appears in the Call, affords such a good idea of the ease with which money is made in California, that we transfer it to our columns for the benefit of recently arrived immigrants:

A PARTNER WANTED—TO JOIN THE ADvertisers in a speculation in which an intelligent and active man, with a few thousand dollars at his command, can realize from fifteen to eighteen thousand dollars per annum. Business legitimate, and in this city. No agents or middlemen need apply; only principals, with capital, dealt with. Apply, with real name and address, to "W. & C."

Now eighteen thousand dollars a year is a tidy income. Only "a few" thousands are required to go into the speculation; after a time, though, a few more thousands may be wanted. What is this speculation? It can't be a fare game, because it is said to be legitimate; it isn't a gigantic peanut bakery; that would'nt require thousands. Gift enterprises are put a stop to. "W. & C." long to make some one's fortune, that is evident. Perhaps it's a newspaper, or a double-headed calf, or a circus, or a new theatre. We burn with curiosity to know what W. & C. have in view, which will give a third party an income of eighteen thousand dollars a year, but perhaps it is better to burn that way than to be burnt in another more serious one.

Who Don't Know

That to achieve the greatest desideratum in business "patronage" a person must be liberal in his outlay, by purchasing the best material, employing the best workmen, and seeing that his patrons are attentively and courteously waited on, and in a style compatible with the dignity of the establishment he pretends to manage. Such is the golden rule practiced at Hast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, as is verified by the bon ton seen there daily who are likewise to be seen at the Opera and all distinguished resorts of the city. x

The Phrenological Expounder and His Lectures.

Professor O. S. Fowler, the great phrenologist, who has been acknowledged at the head of the science, both in this country and in Europe, for many years, and who has written many standard works on the subject that have attracted the attention of learned men in every section of the globe, is about to visit us and give a series of lectures at Pacific Hall. Professor Fowler has made the sciences of Phrenology and Physiology the study of his life, and comes to us ripe in years to give us the benefit of his experience and research. His lectures have been attended by the most intelligent classes of every city in the Union, and we consider them subjects of enough public importance to subjoin their headings:

Wednesday Evening, Oct. 11th—"Life, Health and Self Culture."

Thursday Evening, Oct. 12th—"Phrenology: Its Proofs and What it Teaches."

Friday Evening, Oct. 13th—"Love, Courtship and Marriage."

Saturday Afternoon, Oct. 14th—Special Lecture to Ladies only:—Female Health and Beauty Restored."

Saturday Evening, Oct. 14th—Special Lecture to Gentlemen only: "Manhood; Its Decline and Re-improvements;" illustrated with the finest French models and drawings.

Sunday Evening, Oct. 15th—"Man's Moral Nature, as proving God and His Attributes."

Monday Evening, Oct. 16th—"Education of Children, and Success in Life."

The prices of admission are: Single Tickets, 50 cents; Course tickets, admitting to all but the special lectures, $1 75, to be had at the Music Stores and at the Hall. Each lecture will be followed by a public examination of such heads as may be selected by the audience.

Private Phrenological exhibitions and full written delineations of character at the Occidental Hotel, on and after October 12th.

The Elixir of Youth,

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table. •

ANACREONTIC.

BY MRS. EUREBIA A. O'STRANDER MEZGER.

Venus avert that ever I
Should cease to love before I die.
What! nevermore to feel the flame
Of love's fierce fires consume each vein,
Never again to feel the bliss,
Of love's delicious, passionate kiss;
And nevermore to feel my heart
Throb with a wild convulsive start,
When first I meet some soft dark eye
And hear from ripe lips love's sweet sigh!
When love no more my being warms
Nor lends to life life's only charms,
And I am growing gray and old,
And all my blood is turning cold,
And can to love make no pretense,
Come, welcome death, and take me hence.

Best Lever Suspenders,

At $1 per pair—25 per cent. cheaper than elsewhere—at the What Cheer Laundry. x

The Immortal Squarza,

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium. •

The Newest Publications.

All readers like to receive their books, magazines and newspapers as soon as possible after publication. Loomis, at the southeast corner of Washington and Sansome streets, on the way to the post-office, is agent for all the chief American and English magazines and newspapers and delivers them to subscribers immediately on the arrival of the mail. x

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has no longer any connection with the old store on Bush street, but has resumed business on his own account at at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush street, where ladies and gentlemen can rely upon getting perfect-fitting boots and shoes, as all his former Cutters and workmen of the Ladies and Gent's Departments, have removed with him to the new store. Also the largest stock of ladies and gentlemen's first-class Boots and Shoes in the city. P. KELLY, PRIZE BOOTMAKER, 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush.

For the same reason that the ladies have determined to calceate for the Fair, the opposite sex, to be in juxtaposition, have determined to purchase their Patent Leather Oxford Ties and Dancing Pumps at Kast's Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre. x

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them. •

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles, finest quality, and at the lowest prices. x

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER

THE GREAT SPECIALIST,

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY INFORM those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in one of the most celebrated Hospitals in England, The Lock. He has now re-opened his old Medical Institute, at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was so successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention or explain on paper.

I am aware that some of the empirics of San Francisco make a practice of stating what they cure: but to most persons my name will be quite SUFFICIENT to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

SATURDAY.....OCTOBER 7, 1871

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which save San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium.

The Elixir of Youth.

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate: and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table.

Watches.

The finest assortment of Gold and Silver Watches ever offered for sale in this city is offered by J. W. TUCKER & Co. Also, a large assortment of Watch Chains, Jewelry, Cameos, Diamonds, Topaz, Amethyst, Coral, Turquoise, Onyx, Pearl and Etruscan Sets, etc., all of which will be sold at the very lowest prices.

Willie Edouin and W. A. Beckett.

The New York Season of a late date has the following concerning Willie Edouin, which will, we are sure, be pleasing to his many friends here:

"The Medea of Robson, the Prospero of John Nickinson in the "Enchanted Isle," and the Powhatan of Ben De Bar, illustrated fully the school of true enjoyable burlesque—a burlesque which filled on the stage the office of the pencil of Cruikshank, Leech or Bellew in pictorial art. To this school of burlesque acting Mr. Edouin really belongs, while Mr. Beckett, always funny as Mr. Beckett, seems wholly unable to catch its meaning, or to be ever anything but Mr. Beckett.

"For instance, Mr. Beckett as Bluebeard differed only in clothes from Mr. Beckett in 'Forty Thieves;' his manner of making mirth precisely the same in both, betrayed that inability to seize the lurking touches of satire and character which made Robson and Nickinson so effective. On the other hand Mr. Edouin, even in the same piece, 'Bluebeard,' gave a performance of two distinct burlesque parts well defined, exaggerated to the uttermost, yet wholly differing and each stamped with character. As a caricature of the Chinaman he was very funny, because so Chinese. The face was an exaggerated make-up of Chinese peculiarities, the voice in its modulation was Chinese, and the gestures, redolent of the burlesque, redolent of the grotesque, were still characteristically Chinese. This is burlesque as we used to enjoy it twenty years ago.

"By the application of the art of the caricaturist to the inane words given him, Mr. Edouin has securely walked over Mr. Beckett's head and made himself the male attraction of the combination.

"Nor is Mr. Beckett likely to diminish the distance between himself and Mr. Edouin by his late manner of anticipating the peculiarities of Mr. Edouin, and trying to "steal his thunder." This unprofessional action never yet helped any actor in the race against an original artist."

Everbody Buys Them.

What? The hundred various compounds prepared only from Steuart's refined sugar, by Canty & Wagner, 107 Montgomery street. Their candies have been famed for heir delicious flavors for years, and the firm does an immense trade, both in the jobbing and retail line.

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has no longer any connection with the old store on Bush street, but has resumed business on his own account at at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush street, where ladies and gentlemen can rely upon getting perfect-fitting boots and shoes, as all his former Cutters and workmen of the Ladies and Gent's Departments, have removed with him to the new store. Also the largest stock of ladies and gentlemen's first-class Boots and Shoes in the city. P. KELLY, PRIZE BOOTMAKER, 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Hascke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

A Sensation in Hats.

The new Fall and Winter styles are fast arriving at "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. One in particular has already been adopted as the fashion; it is a fine low-crowned felt hat, with a curved brim, and is called "The Grand Duke." Those who wish to be in the fashion must go to "THE" Hat Store, long famed for having the latest styles and for its moderate prices.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Our Sacramento Letter came to hand too late for to-day's issue. It will appear on Monday.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—There never was a more popular company brought together than the Alhambra Troupe, which, under the title of Emerson's Minstrels, has delighted thousands at the Alhambra during the present week. Emerson is a whole team in himself; the public can't weary of Vivian in his wonderfully neat character impersonations: Charley Howard is acknowledged the best delineator of negro eccentricities in the world and is a great favorite with the San Francisco public; Sheridan and Mack are unapproachable in their lightning changes; the fine voices of Gustave Bidaux, M. Ainsley Scott and Geo. Aston, are heard to advantage in the first part; Fostelle is the most graceful of dancers: Geo. R. Foster is good in everything he undertakes, and altogether the programme could not be improved There will be a matinee this afternoon.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—The management of this theatre have commenced their campaign most successfully. The house is thronged nightly and Johnny Allen and Miss Alice Harrison are immense favorites. "Schneider" is full of fun and sensational scenes and suits the public perfectly. The company is well organized and the piece is admirably put on the stage. James M. Hardie, John Woodard, Harry Colton, G. Hinckley, Frank Rea, John Maguire, Henry Walters, Master Lamb and Miss Sallie Hinckly, (good in everything), the talented little Lulu Wilson, play their respective parts excellently well, "Schneider" will be played at the matinee to-day, this evening and to-morrow evening. All should see it before it gives place to another sensation in active preparation.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—"Amy Robsart" was performed last night to a fair house. This play, which held the stage of Drury Lane Theatre, London, for a year, failed to excite much interest here where Queens are at a discount, and the public have lately had as much historical drama as they care about. To-night, the thrilling drama of "Jane Shore," in which the woes of a plebeian victim to monarchical deceit are depicted, will be presented with Mrs. D. P. Bowers as the heroine. "Amy Robsart" with its beautiful scenery and impassioned dialogue, will be played at the matinee to-day for the last time.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—A great Saturday night's bill will be presented. The highly successful local sensation of "Woman's Rights" will be played with Alice Le Favre in the character of Mrs. Demijohn also as the Wild Boy, and a new scene will be added expressly to introduce the Reynolds Brothers in one of their inimitable songs and and dances. These clever artists will also appear in "The Drum Major;" the fascinating M'lle Gaugain will perform a pas seul; Ethel Stanley and Fanny Garretson will sing a duet; the farce of "Dr. Cursall" will be presented; Johnny Mannine will appear on the flying trapeze and a variety of entertainments which will be found enumerated on our first page, will be given.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—First part, interlude and piece are all excellent, and the Theatre Comique gives an immense entertainment for the small price of admission. Little Maggie Knight appears in songs and dances, Harry Howard in original banjo solos, Ida Fisk, Harmon, Nellie Leonard and many more in ballads; and R. G. Marsh, Maggie Knight, Johnny Tuers and the company, perform the touching and instructive drama of "Ten Nights in a Barroom" in capital style. Next Saturday night, the popular Reynolds Brothers will commence an engagement of two weeks at this house previous to leaving for the East.

THE OXFORD.—To-night the great Oxford company will appear in a rich diversified programme of songs, dances, acts and gymnastic exhibitions. Ida St. Clair; will perform on the running globes: Edwin Montague on the trapeze, and Leon Samwells the great acrobat and vaulter, will appear in his beautiful feat of the aerial globes. The entertainment will conclude with the very popular play of "Jack Sheppard," with Amelia Dean as Jack, Charles Vincent as Blueskin, Geo. Lowden as Wild, and the other characters by the company.

CITY GARDENS.—Great attractions will be presented at these beautiful gardens to-morrow. The troupe of Fiji Cannibals who created such a sensation on their first arrival here, and have since been astonishing the people of the interior will give their farewell entertainment, and appear in their dances, marches and war songs. A fine instrumental concert will be given by Schmidt and Shlotte's celebrated band. The programme in full appears on our first page.

A SHOWER OF STARS.—About this time look out for stars. The policy the management of the Metropolitan Theatre have adopted, is to engage a constant succession of stars, each to play for two weeks only. We are sure this policy will be heartily endorsed by the novelty-loving public of San Francisco.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Everyone with means to hire a team drives out to the Cliff House on these beautiful moonlight nights. Those who wish to visit this beautiful seaside resort economically to-morrow can do so by railroad and omnibus. Captain Foster has a hearty welcome for all.

COGILL AND COOPER.—These talented song and dance men leave this morning for Portland, taking with them a minstrel company for the purpose of giving entertainments in the towns in all parts of Oregon.

LECTURE.—Prentice Mulford will lecture on Wednesday next at Dashaway Hall, on the subject "The Coming Woman." Mulford's lectures are always amusing and this one should attract a large audience.

JOHNNY ALLEN IN BURNT CORK.—Johnny Allen achieved his popularity in burnt cork, and after his two weeks' engagement in Dutch characters, it is probable that he may be induced to give a week of minstrelsy at the Metropolitan Theatre.

SUNDAY EXCURSION.—There is not within miles of this city a more delightful spot than the groves of San Rafael. The steamer Contra Costa will leave the wharf on Davis street, near Vallejo, to-morrow at 10½ A. M., on an excursion.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

ROBERT MC WADE.—The next star to follow Johnny Allen at the Metropolitan Theatre will be Robert McWade with his new and original version of "Rip Van Winkle," in which he has achieved much success in many of the cities of the East.

RETURNED.—Frank Wilton and wife, who gave many pleasing entertainments with the Wilton Troupe in the interior, have returned from a visit to the East.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

MARYSVILLE.—The New York Circus exhibited on Monday last. Proctor's Dramatic Company will open at the theatre on Monday in "Guy Mannering," and play during the week.

OMAHA, NEB.—A concert was given at Simpkin's Hall on the 29th ult. for the benefit of the Unitarian church.

VIRGINIA CITY, NEV.—The Royal Yeddo Troupe of Japanese opened at Piper's Opera House on Monday and have performed every night since.

ELKO, NEV.—The Pioneer Blind Troupe were here last week.

SAN JOSE.—Miss Carrie A. Moore has been giving exhibitions at the Skating Rink during the week. The New York Circus is billed for to-night.

PORTLAND, O.—Professor E. B. Plummer gave an entertainment of humorous readings at Oro Fino Theatre on the 28th ult. The Theatre Comique is open with a variety company.

GRASS VALLEY.—Thomas & Co's Steroptican Panorama of the Franco-German War and Scenes in Europe was exhibited at Hamilton Hall on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

VALLEJO.—Callie Curtis, the champion skater, is announced to give an exhibition at the Capitol street Rink this evening.

SALT LAKE, U. T.—Mrs. F. W. Lander commenced an engagement at the Salt Lake Theatre on the 25th ult., opening in "Elizabeth." This was followed by "Marie Antoniette," each of the first two dramas being played two nights, and the last three. Mrs. Lander's engagement was a successful one; it closed on the 30th. "Time and Tide, a Tale of the Thames," was produced with new scenery and mechanical effects on the 2d inst.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

The Lydia Thompson Troupe commenced an engagement at the Boston Theatre on the 25th ult. opening in "Blue Beard"....At the Museum the "Two Roses" was revived on the 28th. "The School for Scandal" was played with Mr. Warren as Sir Peter Teazle....Mr. Owens is still at the Globe. "Dot" has been produced... Helene Smith, Jennie Benson, La Petite Benson, Delehanty and Dengler, and others are at the St. James Theatre. The last novelty is the burlesque of "Jack Sheppard"....At the Howard Atheneum the "Tableaux of Erin," Professor Campbell in a novel entertainment called "Theatorem" the boy Blondin and many more attractions are offerred. The burlesque of "Blue Beard" concludes the entertainment....Billy Sheppard is to take his benefit at the Boston Theatre on the afternoon of the 12th....Parepa-Rosa's concerts, partly from the high price of admission charged and partly because people expected too much, fell flat and may be called failures.

At the Grand Opera House, New York, on the 16th, Augustus Phillippe, after a career of several years as a humorous writer in sporting papers, appeared on the stage in a new specialty written for him by E. H. De Nyse, entitled "Oofty Gooft." The piece is not likely to live long. The hero is a young German, who, after acting as coachman to a family named Vandam, in the Fifth avenue, goes to Germany during the late war and makes a fortune by the invention of a patent army sausage. He returns, runs a brewery, buys a house of the impoverished Vandams, and tries to marry the daughter of the family. He is at first spurned but finally accomplises his end, owing to the dearth of other admirers. The dialogue of the piece is unnecessarily prolix and exceedingly wearisome. To an appreciative audience the fun is forlornly threadbare. There is a pell-mell fight of rowdies and boys by way of closing one of the scenes, and somebody presents a pistol at the nose of somebody else, during another. There is a man with a discontented eye, who tells a sinister looking woman that she has been slowly poisoning him, and there is a young woman with money boarding with the Vandams who does not know her own father, and winds up by marrying young Vandam. The novelties of the piece are a dog-pit, where three meek-eyed curs are dragged upon the stage and led off again without a fight, and there is an arbor through the top of which Oofty Gooft and somebody else fall, while mutually struggling upon a house-roof. Mr. Phillipps has a rich, audible voice and attractive features. His Teutonic dialect is tauthful, but being a novice he is nervous In time he will become easier, and, if attractive specialties are written for him, may become successful. He performs on several instruments. The play exhibits several scenes of low life, but nothing interesting. "Oofty Gooft" was succeeded by "Eileen O'Gee" on the 2d, with the Florences in the cast.

Lester Wallack will soon reappear at his theatre in two new plays, written expressly for him, and which it is said will create quite a furore. Charles Mathews leads the list of talented names comprising the company, among which are also those of John Brougham, John Gilbert, Charles Fisher, Clara Jennings, Effie Germon, Emily Mestayer and others. Mr. Tom Baker leads the music and Mr. Sherwood is in charge of the scenic department.

The New York Era says:

Monsieur Julian, the talented musician, seems to be very well acquainted with the attaches of the Sheriff's office.

If he is he only takes after his father, who in his spirited efforts to cater for the amusement of the public, was frequently in pecuniary difficulties.

The long-talked of German tenor, Wachtel made his debut in this country at the Stadt Theatre on the 18th ult., under the management of Carl Rosa and Adam Nuendorf. The piece of the evening was "The Postillon de Lonemea," sung a German. Mr. Watchtel showed himself to be a good actor, throwing all necessary life into the part of Capoulou, the postillion, but his voice was somewhat of a disappointment. Its compass was great, but it lacked the expected melody and resonance. His arias were unnecessarily florid. He often introduced a falsetto above the ordinary range of his voice, but managed it with great strength and accuracy. From this to the natural range his transitions were well veiled. He is tall and robustly formed, and has a good stage presence.

At Wood's Museum, Lucille Western appeared on the 25th ult. in "La Mendiante: or, Stricken Blind." Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hall are at the Museum playing in domestic drama and farce.

Miss Edith Wynne, Madame Patey, Mr. William Cummings, Mr. Patey, Mr. Sloper and Mr. Stanley, the artists of the Dolby Concert Company, arrived on the 26th in the steamer Russia. They are at the Grand Central Hotel.

"Henry VIII." was produced at Booth's Theatre on the 25th with Miss Charlotte Cushman as Queen Katharine. The New York Tribune says:

Her performance of "Queen Katharine" is full of refinement and beauty, and also of unexpected power. Time and suffering have, indeed, impaired Miss Cushman's physical strength; but they have imparted to her acting a sympathetic tinge of pathos and a fire of soul which, in our estimation, amply atone for all that they have taken away. Her personation of the Queen, therefore, stands in no need of apology on the score of her personal feebleness. And this we think to be a very happy fact—since it simplifies the critical duty of the hour. No conscientious writer feels at liberty to award unmerited praise; and, on the other hand, no writer having the spirit of a gentleman could possibly, at this time, weave one thorn into the laurel crown of Charlotte Cushman. It is especially pleasant, then, to consider that her performance merits every word that even partial friendship would wish to say in its praise. We, for our part, commend it in a perfectly earnest spirit.

Mr. Leon, at the Minstrel Hall of Messrs. Kelly & Leon (late Lina Edwin's Theatre—the sign still remains up) edifies his hearers with "Chinny Laflin's Speech." Leon and Kelly have, if the phrase be allowable, shed the cork. They no longer wear black.

At Newcomb & Arlington's Opera House, Walter Bray is singing "Carry the News to Mary."

The Boston Folio comes to us enlarged and improved. It contains a capital likeness of Theodore Thomas, and nine pages of music, in addition to musical and theatrical news from all parts of the world. It costs ten cents.

At Niblo's "The Streets of New York was revived on the 2d with Frank Mayo as Badger.

Lydia Thompson, on the evening of her visit to Wallack's, was presented with a pair of diamond ear-rings, breast-pin, and a pair of bracelets studded with diamonds.

Mr. Frederick Robinson and Miss Jane Coombs lately acted in Syracuse. The Courier, of that place finds Mr. Robinson to be "one of the most natural, finished, and effective actors on the stage."

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Andrew Halliday has written a play on the basis of Scott's "Ivanhoe," and entitled "Rebecca," and with this new piece B. F. Chatterton reopened Drury-lane Theatre on the 23d of September.

Sothern's last appearance in England prior to his American trip was set down for the 5th October. He was to be succeeded at the London Haymarket by Miss Amy Sedgwick.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which leave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

Chicago in Flames.

This morning's dispatches announced the raging of a second great fire in Chicago, which broke out at 9:45 last night, in the West Division, about 2 miles and a half from the Court House. As we go to press the telegrams still come laden with the disasters of the conflagration. The Court House, Custom House, Post Office, Chamber of Commerce, Pacific Hotel, most of the theatres and a greater part of the business heart of the city has been burned. A raging gale was sweeping. The water pipe connections were destroyed.

A district two miles and a half long, by a half mile in width had been burned over, and the fire had complete mastery when the telegraph connection was severed. The Fire Departments of St. Louis, Milwaukie, Cincinnati and other cities had sent delegations to Chicago, and hopes are entertained that the conflagration may be subdued. Chicago has water on all sides, and fresh men and machines may do much to conquer the fire.

Wouldn't Work.

A colored man in Alexandria, Va., has been trying to play Elijah and be fed by ravens, but it doesn't work. Two weeks ago he left his employer, dressed in his Sunday clothes saying he would work for man no more, as the Lord had promised to provide for him. He was found nearly starved to death and so weak that he could not crawl, having eaten only two peaches and a pear in twelve days. Not a single raven came to feed him.

A sharper in Connecticut is advertising to give $5,000 to any person who will adopt an infant two weeks old—adding that ten cents must be enclosed for answering letters.

Deery's Billiard Academy.

It is as necessary for a gentleman to be able to play billiards as it is for a lady to know how to dance. Those whose education is deficient in the first respect will be glad to learn that John Deery, the ex-champion of the United States, has taken rooms at 683 Market street, between Montgomery and Kearny streets, and is prepared to give lessons in the noble game to amateurs between the hours of 12 M. and 10 P.M. Billiards and pool every day and evening may be enjoyed here. The choicest brands of wines, liquors and cigars are kept at the bar. A few lessons from John Deery will teach a man more about billiards than he could find out for himself in years by "scratching" round a billiard table. •

Watches.

The finest assortment of Gold and Silver Watches ever offered for sale in this city is offered by J. W. Tucker & Co. Also, a large assortment of Watch Chains, Jewelry, Cameos, Diamonds, Topaz, Amethyst, Coral, Turquoise, Onyx, Pearl and Etruscan Sets, etc., all of which will be sold at the very lowest prices.

These "Materfamilias"

who really feel interested in their children's gait should call at KAST'S Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, to see the sense displayed in his peculiar make of children's Balmorals and Button Gaiters, the adoption of which will certainly guarantee comfort, ease and grace. •

S. P. R. R. News Agency.

James Miller supplies the reading wants of the passengers on the Southern Pacific Railroad with the latest San Francisco papers, and Eastern Illustrated ones, and magazines, at

Well! Well!

The Oakland News quotes the following paragraph from the Golden City :

A Chinaman in Oakland was fined $10, on Wednesday, for being drunk and disorderly. We don't wonder at it. A week's residence in Oakland is enough to drive any one—even a temperate Chinaman to drink.

The outraged editor then says :

We quote the above Bohemianisms in order to make occasion for the inquiry whether San Francisco publishers consider it good economy to be thus slurring at a neighboring city where they desire to have popularity and circulation? It seems to us in view of her rapid expansion and prosperity, Oakland hardly deserves to be made the subject of ridicule by San Francisco journalists, and her spirited people will undoubtedly begin to resent the indignity before long.

Well, Mac, all we have to say is "You know how it is yourself!"

Another Good Dog.

A faithful dog who had run with a Louisville fire company for years, and always made it a part of his duty to keep people from standing on the hose during fires, fell a victim the other day to misplaced confidence in a policemen and a piece of poisoned liver. The engine company turned out and gave the old fellow a fitting funeral.

We are willing to bet a gift concert ticket that that is more than they will do for that policeman when he dies.

Freedom of the Press.

The last issue of a weekly pictorial paper in New York contained a large cut representing Hall, Tweed, Sweeny and Connolly in convict dress, heavily manacled. The police, by direction of Mayor Hall, seized the whole edition. This was too bad of Mayor Hall. He published a funny paper himself once, and ought to be able to appreciate a joke.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone. •

A Sensation in Hats.

The new Fall and Winter styles are fast arriving at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. One in particular has already been adopted as the fashion; it is a fine low-crowned felt hat, with a curved brim, and is called "The Grand Duke." Those who wish to be in the fashion must go to "The" Hat Store, long famed for having the latest styles and for its moderate prices. x

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

This week is announced as positively the last of the appearance of Johnny Allen the popular Dutch character actor and the fascinating Miss Alice Harrison, in the amusing play of "Scenesider." On Friday evening Miss Alice Harrison, who has become an immense favorite with the San Francisco public, will take a benefit and the house will of course be full. Robert McWade is underlined to appear shortly in his original version of "Rip Van Winkle."

Alhambra Theatre.

Last night in consequence of the sudden illness of M. Ainsley Scott, G. H. Foster, a most reliable performer, who can do anything creditably, took his place as interlocutor and acquitted himself most satisfactorily, though Mr. Scott's fine bass was missed in the choruses. A capital bill will be presented this evening. Emerson will sing "If Ever I Cease to Love" and "The Drum Major," and also appear in the popular act entitled "The Arrival of Nilsson;" Fostelle will execute a fancy dance; Sheridan and Mack will appear in some of their most popular acts including their double clog dance, and the very amusing act of "Dr. Colton's Laughing Gas" will be presented with Charley Howard in the character of the countryman, Levi Prunell.

California Theatre.

The drama of "Jane Shore" was produced on Saturday and so excellent was the acting of Mrs. D. P. Bowers, that the audience actually appeared to enjoy the play. Yard after yard of stilted blank verse was spun off with commendable correctness by the unhappy actors engaged in the representation of this most lugubrious of plays, and, as we observed before the public liked it. To-night the drama of "Camille" will be presented with Mrs. D. P. Bowers as the heroine, and John McCullough as Armaund. The programme for the following nights will be: Tuesday evening, "Lady of Lyons;" Wednesday evening, "The Gamester", Thursday evening, "The Hunchback;" Friday evening, (benefit of Mrs. Bowers), "The Jealous Wife" and "Guy Mannering."

Bella Union.

Last night there was a veritable sensation not down in the bills at this theatre. Johnny Manning, whose graceful performances on the swinging rings and trapeze excite so much admiration, was performing on the rings last night, when missing his hold he fell with considerable force into the parquette. Gymnasts are tough and Mr. Manning escaped with a cut head and some bruises. A capital bill, in which M'lle Gaugain, Aline Le Favre, the Reynolds Brothers, J. H. Larkin and others will appear, will be presented to-night. The play of "Woman's Rights" continues its successful run. "Adam and Eve" is underlined as in preparation.

Theatre Comique.

An immense entertainment, which for variety and pleasing features is hard to beat, is given at this place of amusement every evening. New songs, new dances and amusing acts follow one another in rapid succession. The company are all great favorites and do their best to please. The natural consequence is that the Theatre Comique is nightly crowded. Sterling novelties are in preparation.

Oxford Theatre.

Among the prominent features in the attractive bill prepared for the delectation of the patrons of this house to-night may be mentioned double songs and dances by Mathews and Price; the wonderful Samwells in his best feats; Miss Ida St. Clair in song and dance; Ed. Montague in club exercises; Amelia Dean as Jack Sheppard and as the Dumb Girl of Genoa, and a number of new acts, songs and dances.

Lecture.

F. Dillon Eagan will by very general request repeat his lecture on "Reasons for renouncing Protestantism," on Thursday evening at Dashaway Hall. Members of both churches will doubtless derive much instruction and food for thought from this lecture.

To Arrive To-night.

Professor Fowler, the renowned phrenologist, and F. S. Chanfrau, who is to make his appearance at the California Theatre on Monday evening next, are among the passengers to arrive from the East by train to-night.

Benefit of Sheridan and Mack.

As may be seen by referring to an advertisement in another column, these neat, versatile, and talented performers, who have contributed so much to the amusement of the public will take a benefit on Friday evening, when they will present an entertainment comprising many new features among which may be mentioned "The Intelligence Office," in which the beneficiaries will appear in two of their best characterizations; the reappearance of Charles Vivian for this night only in new songs; the first appearance of Miss Fanny Gibson in a song and dance, "The Sweetest of the Sweet;" and the inimitable Charley Howard in the screaming act of "Laughing Gas;" Sheridan and Mack have done their best to earn a bumper benefit and will certainly have one.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever. •

LETTER FROM SACRAMENTO.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 6, 1871.

The fine old comedy of "Sweethearts and Wives" together with the burlesque "Ernani," were well performed by Manager Proctor's company at the Metropolitan Theatre last Friday night. I have seldom witnessed a better performance of the comedy. Miss Isabel Smythe, Jennie Mandeville, Miss Lipsis, Mrs. E. T. Stewart, Leman, Crosbie, Coggswell and Edmunds, seeming to vie one with another in their respective impersonations, Crosbie's Billy Lackaday was a fine piece of acting. The entertainment on Saturday night, consisted of the drama of "After Dark" and the farce of "Turn Him Out."

On Monday the 2d inst., the charming artiste, Mrs. F. M. Bates, made her first appearance in this city in the dual characters of Lady Isabel and Madame Vine in "East Lynne" a good audience was in attendance, and the lady made a most favorable impression. Her rendition of the dual role was praiseworthy in the highest degree, especially in the two last acts of the play. Miss Jennie Mandeville also acheived great success as Barbara Hare, while the impersonations of Waldron and Leman as Carlyle, and the Earl, and Mrs. Edmonds as Miss Corney, were excellent. Tuesday, Mrs. Bates appeared as Fisbe, in "The Actress of Padua," which was well rendered, and on Wednesday, the lady presented "Adrienne; or the Duel in the Mist." This last drama was gotten up in splendid did style by manager Proctor, new scenery having been painted expressly for it, and every attention having been paid for the representation of the same. Mrs. Bates as the heroine gained new laurels and encomiums from the press and public. Waldron as De Grassac was effective and good: Leman as Bertrand very successful; and so too were Miss Isabel Smythe, Coggswell and Crosbie in their several enactments. The drama was repeated last night, (Thursday.)

To-night (Friday) Mrs. Bates will be the recipient of a benefit, on which occasion she will appear as Pigeon the Torment. The lady's engagement closes to-morrow night.

A Panorama entitled the "Iron Circle," purporting to give views of the several points of interest on the Pacific Railroad and of prominent cities in this country and in Europe, was exhibited at Turn Verein Hall last night and will also be unrolled again to-night.

On the return of Proctor's dramatic company from Marysville, on the 14th, Walter Leman will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit, tendered him by the prominent citizens of this city, in recognition of his valuable services during the late political canvass. ***

We have seen a rope walk, a note run, a watch spring, a horse fly and a Saratoga hop, and next Summer we shall go over the Rockeys to see the big trees leave and the Pacific slope.—Chicago Post.

CALIFORNIA.

Afar the bright Sierras lie,
A swaying line of snowy white,
A fringe of heaven hung in sight
Against the blue base of the sky.

I look along each gaping gorge,
I hear a thousand sounding strokes
Like giants rending giant oaks,
Or brawny Vulcan at his forge;
I see pick-axes flash and shine,
And great wheels whirling in a mine!
Here winds a thick, a yellow thread,
A moss'd and silver stream instead;
And trout that leap'd its rippled tide
Have turn'd upon their side and died.

Lo! when the last pick in the mine
Is rusting red with idleness,
And rot yon cabins in the mold,
And wheels no more croak in distress,
And tall pines reassert command,
Sweet bards along this sunset shore
Their mellow melodies will pour;
Will charm as charmers very wise,
Will strike the harp with master hand,
Will sound unto the vaulted skies
The valor of those men of old—
The mighty men of Forty-nine;
Will sweetly sing and proudly say
Long, long ago there was a day
When there were giants in the land.

Shakspeare's Slang.

The New York Tribune says:

A correspondent directs attention to the fact that the phrase "too thin"—which has been denominated "City Hall slang"—has a very high authority, and refers to "Henry VIII," Act 5th, scene 2d, in which the monarch retorts, as follows, upon the fulsome adulation of the Bishop of Winchester:

"You were ever good at sudden commendation,
Bishop of Winchester. But know I come not
To hear such flattery now, and in my presence
They are too thin and base to hide offenses."

Somewhat of a Musician.

Pref. J. Jay Watson recently received a letter from a newly-arrived German artist who says: "I perform several hundred thousand pieces of music of all kinds masterly by heart upon the piano." This puts Mr. C. Jerome Hopkins in the shade. What a memory must the man have!

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium. •

FIGARO ON THE C. P. RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

300 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

300 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which save San Jose for this city at 3:20 P. M.

What's the Matter with Hannah!

There is a station on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad called Hanna, in honor of a deceased citizen of Fort Wayne. A train stopped there the other day, and the brakeman, after the manner of his class, thrust his head inside the door and called out, "Hanna," loud and long. A young lady, probably endowed with the poetic appellation of Hannah, supposing he was addressing her, and shocked at his familiarity on so short an acquaintance, frowned like a thunder-cloud and retorted "shut your mouth," he shut it.

In a Fix.

A little story is told about a prominent citizen of Janesville, who, on a recent trip to St. Louis, took a sleeping car berth on a through express train. In the night he got up and, clad only in his sleeping garments; he went out on the platform of the car to look at the moon. The door closed with a spring lock and the porter of the car was asleep. He says he never enjoyed a fifty mile ride as he did that one, and that the effect of the moonlight on a landscape, when seen from a railway car, must be experienced in a similar manner to be fully appreciated.

Also, a large assortment of Watch Chains, Jewelry, Cameos, Diamonds, Topaz, Amethyst, Coral, Turquoise, Onyx, Pearl and Etruscan Sets, etc., all of which will be sold at the very lowest prices.

Those "Materfamilias"

who really feel interested in their children's gait should call at KAST'S Fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre, to see the sense displayed in his peculiar make of children's Balmorals and Button Gaiters, the adoption of which will certainly guarantee comfort, ease and grace.

Nearly all Great Men

Use tobacco in some form, and fine cut is most sought for because of its exquisite flavor. Veteran chewers say that the tobacco which contains the most happy combination of flavors is the "Sunny Side" brand, it being cut from pure Kentucky leaf.

New Furnishing Goods.

S. P. R. R. News Agency.

James Miller supplies the reading wants of the passengers on the Southern Pacific Railroad with the latest San Francisco papers, and Eastern Illustrated ones, and magazines, at

Used to It.

A Mr. Smith, who is described, evidently not without reason, as a fast "talker," gave the following description of the blowing up of a steamboat on the Mississippi. "I had landed at Helena for a minute to drop some letters into the post-office, when all of a sudden I heard a tremendous explosion, and, looking up, saw that the sky was for a moment darkened with arms, legs and other small bits and scraps of my fellow travelers. Among an uncommon ugly medly, I spied the second clerk about one hundred and fifty feet above my level. I recognized him at once, for ten minutes before I had been sucking a sherry cobbler with him out of the same rummer. Well, I watched him. He came down through the roof of a shoemaker's shop, and landed on the floor close by the shoemaker, who was at work. The clerk being in a hurry, jumped up to go to the assistance of the other sufferers, when the man of wax demanded $500 for the damage done to his roof. "Too high," replied the clerk; "never paid more than $250 in my life, and I have done the same thing often!"

An Indignant Teuton.

A St. Louis man, who believes in St. Louis and its beer, visited Dubuque recently and being thirsty called for a glass of beer. After drinking, he remarked with an indescribable gusto, "A-h-h! that's splendid! St. Louis beer, is it not?" "St. Louis?" reiterated the Teuton, "no-sir-ee! dot is Topook peer." "What, have you a brewery here?" queried surprised St. Louisan. "A prewery! seffen tousant Chermans, unt one prewery! where you was leef when you was home?" and the dispenser of fluids, impressed by the absurdity of the idea as he placed the glasses on the bar continued to exclaim, soito voce, "seffen tousant Chermans unt one prewery!"

Fashion Is Folly.

The latest fashionable folly in England is for ladies perfectly sound in their limbs to imitate the lameness of the Princess Alexandra. To render the imitation more easy of performance, the heel of one shoe is made considerably lower than that of the other. The gait thus produced is known as the Alexandra limp.

Slight Reason.

A lady in London got the idea in her head that the devil was in her, and hung herself. If women go to hanging themselves for little things like that, they're going to be scarce, that's all.

Ladies' parasols with watches in the handles are cited as singular freaks of fashion. We have lately seen several belles with clocks in their stockings.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

A Sensation in Hats.

The new Fall and Winter styles are fast arriving at "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. One in particular has already been adopted as the fashion; it is a fine low-crowned felt hat, with a curved brim, and is called "The Grand Duke." Those who wish to be in the fashion must go to "THE" Hat Store, long famed for having the latest styles and for its moderate prices.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The terrible disaster which has left so many tens of thousands of people helpless and homeless in Chicago, has awakened the sympathy of the whole community, and the management and attaches of the Metropolitan Theatre have come promptly forward and offered the entire receipts of this evening's performance for the benefit of the sufferers Now let the public throng the house to-night and do their duty. The attraction will be "Schneider," with Johnny Allen and Miss Alice Harrison, (who have also volunteered their services) in the leading roles. Never will Johnny Allen "bounce" people more heartily, the pretty Miss Harrison dance on lighter feet, or the company act with more zest for the amusement of the public, than to-night. The entire gross receipts of the box-office will be handed over to Mayor Selby to forward to Chicago.

Alhambra Theatre.

The new bill at the Alhambra is a success; the house was crowded last night. Billy Emerson and Charley Howard are great features in the first part; Sheridan and Mack appear in the interlude n the "Merry Old Couple," "Playing Hookey," and "Little Fraud," and also in their double clog dance; Charley Howard makes great fun in the act of "Dr. Colton's Laughing Gas," and Billy Emerson is as ever, irresistably amusing in "The Arrival of Nilsson" and his other acts.

California Theatre.

"Camille" was beautifully performed last night. Mrs. D. P. Bowers as the heroine, and McCullough as Armand Duval, were excellent. To-night the entertainment will consist of "The Lady of Lyons," in which Mrs. D. P. Bowers will appear supported by John McCullough and the full strength of the California Theatre company. Wednesday evening's performance will be for the benefit of the sufferers by the Chicago fire. The whole gross receipts will be forwarded, the entire company volunteering their services for the occasion — actors, attaches, and everybody. "The Gamester" will be played, and as the house will be thronged it would be a commendable foresight to go to the box-office and secure seats at once.

Bella Union.

M'lle Gangain, the graceful dansense; the ever popular Aline Le Favre, the accomplished balladists, Edgar and Ethel Stanley; the talented Reynolds Brothers, A. D. Thompson and Mat Kelly, eccentric Ethiopian comedians, Marie Zoel the pretty little clog dancer, J. H. Larkin the clever character actor, Fanny Garretson and Maggie Brewer, always pleasing in ballads, and many more appear to-night at the Bella Union Theatre.

Theatre Comique.

Miss Maggie Knight in her lightning changes, songs and dances is charming; Johnny Tuers is the most original of darkies; Lizzie Harmon's ballads are much applauded. Harry Howard, the banjoist, is very popular, and a bevy of beauties appear nightly in ballads and songs. A burlesque of "Schneider" is in active preparation.

Oxford Theatre.

Among the prominent features in the attractive bill prepared for the delectation of the patrons of this house to-night may be mentioned double songs and dances by Mathews and Price; the wonderful Samwells in his best feats; Miss Ida St. Clair in song and dance; Ed. Montague in club exercises; Amelia Dean as Jack Sheppard and as the Dumb Girl of Genoa, and a number of new acts, songs and dances.

The Whale.

The skeleton of the great whale which came ashore recently near Fort Point, is now on exhibition at the foot of Fourth street, and is attracting crowds of visitors. Forty men can seat themselves in the monster's mouth.

Lecture.

F. Dillon Eagan will by very general request repeat his lecture on "Reasons for renouncing Protestantism," on Thursday evening at Dashaway Hall. Members of both churches will doubtless derive much instruction and food for thought from this lecture.

Benefit of Sheridan and Mack.

As may be seen by referring to an advertisement in another column, these neat, versatile, and talented performers, who have contributed so much to the amusement of the public will take a benefit on Friday evening, when they will present an entertainment comprising many new features, among which may be mentioned "The Intelligence Office," in which the beneficiaries will appear in two of their best characterizations; the reappearance of Charles Vivian for this night only in new songs; the first appearance of Miss Fanny Gibson in a song and dance, "The Sweetest of the Sweet;" and the inimitable Charley Howard in the screaming act of "Laughing Gas;" Sheridan and Mack have done their best to earn a bumper benefit and will certainly have one.

Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium.

LETTER FROM INDIA.

The "California Minstrels" Summering in the Himalaya Mountains—How they Live—The Troupe and its Prospects.

[FROM AN OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENT.]

SIMLA (India), July 31st, 1867.

DEAR FIGARO:—First I must tell you where Simla is. It is a place located about twelve hundred miles from Calcutta, and about ten thousand feet up in the Himalaya mountains, and is the summer residence of Lord Mayo, Governor-General of India, Lord Napier, Commander in-Chief, and of all the nobility and rich people in India. It is a blessing that there are such places to go to, as it is terribly hot in the plain, and India is nearly all plains. Here it is pleasant; in fact, a fire is very comfortable in the evening. It has been raining very hard since I have been here, and landslides are numerous. Just as I commenced this letter I heard a noise; it was only a building falling down hill. A few weeks ago four brother professionals got buried in a landslide; they were Italians, and carried their instruments with them. I had seen them in Mussoorie, another place in the mountains where I remained about two months The house I live in is considered perfectly safe, so I sleep as sound as a brick. From Calcutta I patronized the railroad for about eleven hundred miles first-class, but by special agreement paid second-class fare, as we were a company. Here in the mountains we have had an army of about one hundred palanquin bearers; then our servants and ourselves make quite a minstrel party. This is the country of tigers and elephants, but I am happy to say I have not seen any running around loose. We call our company "The California Minstrels and Little Minnie." My daughter Minnie is the star, and I must say she sings beautifully for a child of her age, and with such taste time and pronunciation as to astonish everybody. She sings sentimental ballads, comic songs, "Captain Jinks" and "Par Excellence" in costume, and Scotch and Irish songs. I purchased a beautiful wardrobe for her, and everything she does is a great success: the papers praise her to the skies—call her the beautiful little prima donna, ann all such things. When the weather is fine she takes exercise on horseback. She is quite a fearless little rider, associates with the best of families and is loved by everybody. I hope you will pardon me for saying so much about my own daughter. Next is Mr. E. H. Harvey, who once was partner with Frank Hussey in the National Theatre. He is our manager; he has been here for about four years and knows the country well. He is end man and general performer and I find him to be an excellent gentleman who is esteemed by everybody. John Edwards you know, he is the other end man, and song and dance man. He is getting fat; he has not been to the dining table since we arrived here, but has his servants to bring his meals to his room, it is too much trouble to leave an easy chair I suppose. I really think he will never be able to get along without servants any more, after being used to have them to wash his feet, put his clothes on him, fan him in the hot weather, etc., in fact he has become a real Irish Lord. Mr. John Batson is our tenor and middleman; he is a English actor, sings well, and is a nice gentleman. We have a Portuguese violincello player; an agent and an American darkey for property man. We are three partners: Mr. Harvey, Mr. Edwards and myself. I get one-half for Minnie and I, Mr. H. and E. the other half, the balance of the Company are on salary. We only play about twice a week at present, but on the first of October it will be time to go down in the plains, then we shall play every night, as there are plenty of places to play in. I expect to do first-rate as we get a good name and Minnie is sure to draw full houses wherever we go. You must know it is not for the natives we play (they are a wretched people), but for the English population, and then there are are about 80,000 soldiers in different stations all over India. There will be an encampment of about 30,000 next December. We intend to go there and play about six weeks I shall leave India for London next March, and from thence to New York and so back home to 'Frisco.

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER

THE GREAT SPECIALIST

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY inform those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in the most celebrated Hospitals in England, Ireland and France.

He has now re-opened his old Medical Office at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention here on paper.

I am aware that some of the empirics in San Francisco make a practice of stating they cure; but to most persons my name will be SUFFICIENT to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

Testimonial to Wm. Saurin Lyster.

The people of Melbourne having tendered a complimentary testimonial concert to William Saurin Lyster, "In recognition of his services for the last ten years in the advancement of music in the Colony," the Melbourne Argus says:

During the time we speak of a great number of people—a much greater number than is generally supposed—have been kept in respectable employment, from the prima donna down to the two little children in "Norma"—from the erudite conductor, such as Loder or Siebe, down to the man who turns the theatrical rain-box and works the thunder. Tailors, dressmakers, carpenters, scenic artists, gas men, boxkeepers, billstickers—all have drawn their supplies from our impressario, and it is greatly to his credit that amongst such a host of employes his reputation for commercial probity is unimpeachable. What the influence upon the musical taste of Melbourne is from this assiduous cultivation of the lyrico-dramatic art may be seen at any time by those who take the trouble to study the stamp of an audience at an opera, and it is simply a fact that the one man in this country who has done more than all others for the supply of good music for its people is Mr. Lyster.

Occupying such a position as this, it is not to be wondered at that on the conclusion of an unusually long season, and at a time when benefits are being given to all and sundry, Mr. Lyster should be selected as the recipient of a mark of special favor. The whole of the musical profession of Melbourne may be said to have volunteered its services. All the artists of the present Italian opera company have promised their assistance; so also have the members of the Lyster English Opera Troupe.

Bennet won't sell.

The Herald is doubtless the most valuable newspaper property in the United States, if not in the world—and has proved a mine of wealth to its owner. Several attempts have been made to buy it, but all offers have been steadily refused. Murat Halstead has tried several times to purchase the journal but in vain. In 1866 a company of eleven gentlemen raised the vast sum of $2,125,0 0. which was offered to Mr. Bennett for the Herald, but firmly rejected, and the latter will doubtless be retained always in his family.

Levy at the Races.

Probably the greatest success Levy has had with the human race, was at the recent Horse Race in this city, where he could be seen on the band stand, in one corner solus, playing solos most of the afternoon, interspersed with various gyrations of person, fascinating smiles, arrangment of monstache and eye-glass, while a crowd of "Horsey Gents," country louts, and others, gathered near the stand, gaped and cried "bully" and encored him in "Put Me In My Little bed," "I'm not myself at all," "The Last Rose of Summer," "The Irish Washerwoman," "Bory O'Moore," and other gems.—Buffalo Commercial Advertiser.

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them.

It is Not

Because you wear cheap boots and shoes that you become crippled—it is because they do not fit properly; neither does a bad-fitting boot or shoe last so long by half the time as one made by a first-class cutter, such as is found at Kast's fashionable Shoe Store, Nos. 322 and 324 Bush street, opposite the Alhambra Theatre.

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone.

A Sensation in Hats.

The new Fall and Winter styles are fast arriving at "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. One in particular has already been adopted as the fashion; it is a fine low-crowned felt hat, with a curved brim, and is called "The Grand Duke." Those who wish to be in the fashion must go to "THE" Hat Store, long famed for having the latest styles and for its moderate prices.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

"The Lady of Lyons" was performed last night in excellent style, Mrs. D. P. Bowers giving a powerful impersonation of the heroine, and being ably supported by John McCullough and the company. To-night the performance will consist of the comedy of "Much Ado About Nothing," and the entire receipts will be devoted to the relief of the sufferers by the fire in Chicago. Mrs. D. P. Bowers, who is herself a sufferer to the amount of fifty thousands dollars, and every member of the company volunteers his and her services on this occasion, and the public will do their part, and make the benefit a substantial one.

Metropolitan Theatre.

This theatre was crowded last night when "Schneider" was played for the benefit of the sufferers by the Chicago fire, the management, Johnny Allen, Miss Alice Harrison and all connected with the theatre giving their services gratuitiously. In consequence of the account of tickets disposed of not being yet received, we are unable to state the amount of the gross proceeds. "Schneider" will be played to-night, and to-morrow night Miss Alice Harrison will take her benefit.

Alhambra Theatre.

The new bill at the Alhambra is a success; the house was crowded last night. Billy Emerson appears in first part, interlude and afterpiece; Sheridan and Mack appear in the interlude in the "Merry Old Couple," "Playing Hookey," and "Little Fraud;" these talented artists will take a benefit on Friday evening. Charley Howard makes great fun in the act of "Dr. Colton's Lau hing Gas;" Fostelle's graceful dances are much applauded Fanny Gibson's ballads are very popular, and everything goes well. The entire proceeds of the entertainment to morrow evening will be devoted to the relief of the Chicago sufferers.

Bella Union.

Among the many attractions at this ne plus u'tra of variety theatres, are the fancy dances by M'lle Gaugain, the character dances and acts by the Reynolds; J. H. Larkin's Teutonic comicalities; ballads by Ethel and Edgar Stanley; Marie Zoel's clog dance; Fanny Garretson's sweet singing; Maggie Brewer's popular songs, and to crown all the irresistibly comical piece entitled "Woman's Rights," in which the brilliant Aline Le Favre appears in all her glory as Mrs. Wm. Horace Browojohn and the Demon Wild Boy. On Friday evening the gross receipts will be given to the Chicago sufferers.

Theatre Comique.

Little Maggie Knight delights all with her songs and dances; her Chinese song is received nightly with much applause; Johnny Thers keeps everything lively while he is on the stage; Charley Howard's original banjo solos are a feature in the entertainment, and Lizzie Harmon, Ida Fisk, Nellie Leonard, Maggie Murphy, Fanny Webster, B'anch, Rosa Vincent, Eva Silva, and a host of others appear in song, dances and acts. A new and original piece entitled "Schnoozer; or, the Oakland Grocer Store," a burlesque on "Schneider; or dot House von der Rhine," is in rehearsal and will be produced this week. The gross receipts of the Theatre Comique on Friday evening will be devoted to the relief of the sufferers by the fire in Chicago.

Oxford Theatre.

Great attractions are offered nightly at this cosy little place of amusement. Miss Amelia Dean appears as Jack Sheppard and also in the beautiful pantomime of "The Dumb Girl of Genoa," admirably put on the stage by Samwells, the accomplished pantomimest; Matthews and Price have made a great hit in their specialties of "Bell and Sweet," "Rival Darkies" and "Statue Clog;" Miss Ida St. Clair's songs and dances are very popular and all who visit the Oxford enjoy themselves. A new local sensation is underlined for production on Friday evening.

The Whale.

The skeleton of the great whale which came ashore recently near Fort Point, is now on exhibition at the foot of Fourth street, and is attracting crowds of visitors. Forty men can seat themselves in the monster's mouth.

Lecture.

F. Dillon Eagan will by very general request repeat his lecture on "Reasons for renouncing Protestantism," on Thursday evening at Dashaway Hall. Members of both churches will doubtless derive much instruction and food for thought from this lecture.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zonave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Omahlin Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Kelly and Leon.

The New York Clipper which came to hand yesterday has the following:

Kelly and Leon's minstrels season at Lina Edwin's Theatre was closed on Saturday evening, Sept. 30th. Kelly, Leon and S. S. Purdy have been engaged to play at San Francisco, Cal., for six weeks, and a majority of the balance of the the company go to Lima, Peru.

Kelly and Leon come, as a matter of course, under engagement to Maguire & Emerson, and will appear at the Alhambra Theatre. Those who have seen these famous performers, prophecy that they will create a sensation never before equalled in the annals of minstrelsy in California. The public will welcome back S. S. Purdy, who had become quite a favorite here.

The Lancashire Bell Ringers.

This company which arrived during the week from Australia, performed to crowded houses at the Royal Haymarket Theatre, Melbourne, to audiences comprising all the fashion of the city. They made their first appearance in public in 1841, and were engaged by Professor Anderson, the Wizard of the North, to visit London, and there created quite a sensation. Mr. Holdsworth, the great Australian tenor, is with the troupe.

Pacific Hall.

Professor Fowler, the phrenologist, will deliver his first lecture to-night at Pacific Hall, and will make examinations of the heads of persons selected from the audience.

Lecture by Prentice Mulford.

Prentice Mulford will lecture to-night at Dashaway Hall on the subject of "The Coming Woman." This will be his last appearance in public previous to his departure for England.

Letter from the Sandwich Islands.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

HONOLULU (S. I.), Sept 19th, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—We, a jolly minstrel company, left Market-street wharf at 7 A.M. on the 31st of August, amidst the tender adieus of our many friends on shore, singing "Ten Thousand Miles Away," It was

"A gay and gallant barque,
And a gay and gallant crew,
A gay and a gallant captain,
And a bully first mate too,"

bound for Honolulu in a brig. We were happy in having a fine set of officers and a comfortable ship for the voyage. The first day out the boys seemed to think that we might perhaps run on a rock or some thing, and would leave the breakfast or lunch table very suddenly, rush on deck and gaze earnestly over the side, and—"Well, you know how it is yourself." In a few days they got over that sort of thing, and then the fun commenced. I never in the course of my life had such a pleasant trip; from 9 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock at night was one continued round of amusements. Programme—Part First: Breakfast jokes and funny sayings by the California Minstrels; everyone laughing. Olio—Forenoon practice by the brass band. Luncheon; more jokes and funny sayings by the C. M.'s. Afternoon rehearsal of first part and interlude. Dinner; more jokes by the C. M.'s. Then the evenings—how shall I describe them? Picture to yourself a ship at sea under a cloud of canvas a beautiful moonlight night, fair wind, awnings spread, nice and warm. First—Banjo quartet by Wallace, Jones, McLaughlin and Medina; Second—Ballad, "Her bright eyes haunt me still," by Barnwell, and "Ten thousand miles away," by Fane; the whole concluding with practical jokes by the company, such as taking the middle lath of the upper bunks out, causing the sudden descent of the occupant as he gets in on the calmly sleeping one below. Tableau—"The Fall of Man."

Our trip was more like a pleasure one than an ordinary sea voyage. We arrived at Honolulu after a splendid run of 14 days and 9 hours. We dropped anchor outside the reef, it being too late to get out the tug-boat; however, next morning we went up the harbor with colors flying, band playing, etc., causing great excitement among the native population, who crowded the wharves in thousands. Then the trouble commenced to find rooms and board. All the hotels are kept by Chinamen, and our democratic souls were shocked by the discovery that there are "big bugs" here. The next thing was to go to the theatre (of which more anon). We found the stage and fixtures in an unprepared state, and must say that our manager, Mr. C. Brooke, has displayed the greatest liberality and foresight. He found the place very nice, but things from want of use hard to work, and both himself and Mr. Derby are making great alterations for the comfort of the audience and the performers.

The Theatre Royal is one of the quaintest spots in the world and is situated in a rural lane in the midst of the grounds of M. C. Derby, the botanist of His Majesty Kamehameha V., King of the Sandwich Islands, not Hoky Poky Wonky Wung, as often reported. You look in vain for the the theatre if a stranger, for it is entirely surrounded with palm, cocoa, and tamarind trees, bannas, banyans, gorgeous tropical flowers and rare plants from Australia. A really elegant looking audience greeted our first appearance, uniforms of every cut and country, ladies of every shade and dresses of every color, flowers and jewels in profusion, fans going, doors and windows all open, trees waving their branches in the windows. A staircase leading from the garden into the dress circle. Kanaka women in the garden below selling bananas, lemonade' etc., by the flare of torches. A sultry moonlight night; the whole thing outside was nothing but a midsummer night's dream. Inside a pit full of Kanakas, black brown and dirty brown, showing their white teeth and grinning at "Champagne Charlie;" much as they would a few years ago have enjoyed roasting a missionary or the baking of a baby. The Theatre Royal is capable of holding about 4 0 people, but the weather is so warm that after it fills to a certain degree the people will go away and come the next night. Board very good at $5 a week. Rooms bad, $2 50 for the best. Whisky 300 degrees worse than in 'Frisco, perfectly awful. As the license for saloons is $1,000 per year and the duty $3 per gallon, on all spirits, they only charge 25 cents a drink. Things are very rough in that respect, and some Front street missionaries are needed here very badly to humanize the government. In the next letter I will give you some account of a trip we intend to take next week. Please send me some FIGAROS; the boys miss them and the natives take to them kindly and think they are missionary papers because they are given away. Send us two or three thousand old ones and trust to the "future reward" for your pay—that is the doctrine here. G. F.

Premium Photographer.

GEO. D. MOSSE was awarded the First Premium—a silver medal—by the Mechanics' Institute Fair for the best photographic work, over all competitors. Rooms, 417 Montgomery street, above California. x

Russ House Carriages.

Sam Moore, proprietor. Any style of team, with all the latest improvements at reduced rates. Careful and gentlemanly drivers in all cases. Leave orders at the Russ House. x

Everbody Buys Them.

What? The hundred various compounds prepared only from Steuart's refined sugar, by Canty & Wagner, 107 Montgomery street. Their candies have been famed for heir delicious flavors for years, and the firm does an immense trade, both in the jobbing and retail line.

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Specific Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

P. Kelly, Prize Bootmaker,

Wishes to inform his customers and the public that he has no longer any connection with the old store on Bush street, but has resumed business on his own account at at 239 Kearny street, corner of Bush street, where ladies and gentlemen can rely upon getting perfect-fitting boots and shoes, as all his former Cutters and workmen of the Ladies and Gent's Departments, have removed with him to the new store. Also the largest stock of ladies

Guerin & Son, prize boot and shoe makers, 317 and 329 Bush street. Must sell $35,000 worth of boots and shoes within 60 days. Call and examine our stock. x

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium.

The Silver Medal

For the best California Plated Wares was awarded to HAYNES & LAWTON by the Mechanics Fair of 1871.

The Elixir of Youth,

For which the sages and philosophers of old searched in vain, has been discovered at last, and brought within the reach of all. Nature has provided it in one of the choicest luxuries, and Emerson Corville & Co. are the dispensers of it at the noted Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street. So hurry up before it is too late, and every day take a plate of their delicious oysters, either on the half shell, raw, stewed, fried, roast in the shell, fancy roast, steamed, curried, scalloped, or in any style your fancy may dictate; and your youth and beauty will never fade, but remain glorious forever.

SUPERINTENDENT of PUBLIC INSTRUCTION

O. P. FITZGERALD,

[Present Incumbent.]

DR. CHAS. H. THOMAS,

THE GREAT SPECIALIST,

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY INFORM those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after a residence of three years, one of which he spent in the most celebrated Hospitals in England and France. He has now re-opened his old Medical Institute at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he has been successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to here enumerate on paper.

I am aware that some of the quacks in San Francisco make a practice of stating that they cure; but to most persons my name is sufficient to explain what DR. THOMAS TOZER attends to.

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

300 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

FIGARO ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

"Figaro" is circulated every day on the cars of the Southern Pacific R. R. which cave San Jose for this city at 3:20 P.M.

One who did'nt Know How it Was Himself.

A certain eminent temperance lecturer was setting forth the most awful portraiture of old King Alcohol, when a muzzy-looking brother arose in a corner of the hall and observed: "I like t' aah the gent'l'm'n a quesh'n." "Certainly, my friend," said the urbane speaker "by all means." "I wish' inquire of the gent'l'm'n 'f he's ever been tight?" "Thank God, No!" was the fervent response. This brain has never been muddlep with the accursed thing." Once more the muzzy one spoke: "Then don't the gent'l'm'n seem to use great familiarity, 'bout an entire stranger, s' long's he hain't been introdooced?" The speaker had to struggle for some moments before he could circumvent the unseemly interruption, and get back to the thread of his disrespect. You see he did not know whereof he affirmed.

Tempting.

A San Francisco dentist invites people to come and have their teeth pulled this week for the benefit of the Chicago sufferers. There are many who say "their hearts ache" for these unfortunate people; it will do them much more good if their teeth ache for them,

California Ahead!

The census returns inform us that there are more newspapers published in this State for the number of inhabitants than in any other State in the Union; but neglected to state they were also the worst ones.

A poetic American describes ladies' lips as "the glowing gateway of pork and potatoes."

An Eloquent Description.

The Call's ideas of eloquence are peculiar. It had yesterday what it called "an eloquent description of the conflagration and its horrors," sent by someone who had a reckless disregard how much it cost for telegraphing. We make a few elegant extracts:

None but an eye-witness can form an idea of the fury and power of the Fire Fiend as he revelled among the palatial buildings and warehouses on

THE SOUTH SIDE.

With the wind blowing a hurricane, it seemed but the work of a moment for the fire to enter the south ends of buildings fronting on Randolph, Lake and Water streets, and reappear at the north doors and windows, belching forth in fierce flames which often licked the opposite buildings; and then the flames belched from buildings on both sides of the street would unite and present a solid mass of fire.

Then he says:

The exultation of the fire fiend was given vent to in a roar, and he invites the reader to picture the fire "as it surged hither and thither before the fury of the fiend." Here is more of the same sort:

A scene of more powerless effort to fight an enemy was never presented than that of this—the people trying to combat the fire Fiend—and the combat was not of long duration, for the people bowed their heads in anguish of spirit and suffered the Fiend to have untrammelled run.

Then he tells us how—

One poor man had crawled for refuge into a water main, lying in the streets near the water works, but the Fire fiend found him even there before he could get his body wholly in safety and robbed him of his life.

Altogether this is the most fiendish piece of work we ever saw, but if the Call really received it in that shape and was content to pay double for having the fire called the Fire Fiend, and all that string of penny-a-lining bosh, it is not for us to object.

A Good Example.

A Texas paper says: A formidable expedition, under Col. Grierson, is getting ready to make a movement against Kicking Bird, and other Kiowa chiefs, who now offer to restore all the mules they have stolen, and not make any more raids into Texas.

Government contractors might imitate Kicking Bird in his present mule policy and they would probably feel happier when they die.

How Nice!

A country girl wrote to her lover: "Come over and see me, we have a new lamp at our house that we can turn down, down, down until there is scarcely any light in the room." —He went!

The Place.

The Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, a few doors above Montgomery, is the place supplied with every luxury and comfort with best of attendants, and with the largest and fattest oysters. It is not strange it should do the largest oyster business in the city. Emerson Corville's oysters are gathered fresh every day—Eastern and California transplanted ones, from his own oyster beds at San Bruno; the first oyster beds in the State. Try them. •

To Bons Vivants.

There are a good many epicures in San Francisco, and a man of sufficient taste and ability to cater to their appetite is pretty sure to succeed. This fact accounts for the large business done by Winant & Co., the famous oyster men, at the Pacific Oyster Saloon, 337 Bush street, two doors below Kearny, between the California and Alhambra Theatres. There the oysters seem fatter than anywhere else—we think Winant fattens them somehow or other—and are more artistically served up. Everyone goes there to eat new laid eggs from Winant's ranch; ladies go there to lunch in the beautifully fitted up little parlors, and Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster saloons, attends to the comfort of everyone. •

A Sensation in Hats.

The new Fall and Winter styles are fast arriving at "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street, the second hat store below Kearny. One in particular has already been adopted as the fashion; it is a fine low-crowned felt hat, with a curved brim, and is called "The Grand Duke." Those who wish to be in the fashion must go to "THE" Hat Store, long famed for having the latest styles and for its moderate prices. x

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE PEOPLES

Insurance Company.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC

WHILE IN COMMON WITH THE GREAT insurance interests of the United States we have met a severe loss in Chicago, reported per telegram this morning from our agent there at $200,000, we deem it proper to say to the public that our Directors and Stockholders, with one accord, have concluded to make good any deficiency arising from same, and continue the business of the Company, conducting it in the same honorable and liberal manner heretofore practiced by us. All our losses will be promptly met, and no means left untried to assist those who have reposed their confidence in the stability and integrity of the PEOPLES INSURANCE COMPANY.
